President’s Report

a. Marilyn Marler came to explain the relevancy and need for an updated UM natural areas management plan. There has never been a comprehensive management plan for the UM natural areas. Marler explained that the University needs one due to the fact that UM is known for their programs around biology and other natural studies, and that Mt. Sentinel not only supports many flora species, but also many fauna. The goals of this program include education, research, conservation, recreation, and identity. The natural areas of the university covers over 600 acres of land, including grasslands, forests, and trails. The Missoula Valley grasslands, like on Mt. Sentinel, are known as intermountain prairie lands, and only 5% of these lands remain. Big conservation issues in grasslands include noxious weeds and erosion. This plan has specific items to cover these issues. The forest land of Mt. Sentinel has suffered decades of fire suppression and need to be thinned, as addressed in the plan. Trails are not managed by the university either, but erosion and trail degradation effect the grasslands in a major way. The plan that will be presented asks to develop a master plan for the M trail. Fort Missoula is also included in the plan, due to its history, riparian forests, and grasslands. Both the grasslands and the forests of Fort Missoula are in need of noxious weed management, which is addressed in the plan. Mrs. Marler also explained their extensive weed management plan.
b. Matthew Olson came to speak of the Asia MT Energy Summit. There will be two days of AIMS to attend, one on April 29 and one on April 30.
