Awards to be presented during Dean Stone Night banquet

University of Montana–Missoula. Office of University Relations

Follow this and additional works at: https://scholarworks.umt.edu/newsreleases
Let us know how access to this document benefits you.

Recommended Citation
Annual awards totaling $575 will be presented to students of the School of Journalism at Montana State University at the seventh annual Dean Stone Night banquet in the Territorial Rooms of the Lodge at 6 p.m. tonight.

Featured speaker will be John B. Oakes, editor of the editorial page of the New York Times, who also will serve as the 1963 professional lecturer in journalism. He will meet with journalism students in Monday classes.

Duane W. Bowler, managing editor of the Billings Gazette and a 1939 graduate of the MSU journalism school, will be toastmaster at the annual banquet for students, alumni and friends of the school.

Presented for the first time will be a $100 award established this year by the Great Falls Press Club for a student entering the junior year in journalism. Gene Marianetti, president of the Great Falls Press Club, will announce the name of the student selected on the basis of professional achievement, scholarship and need.

The Olaf J. Bue Memorial Award, honoring the memory of the longtime MSU professor of journalism who died last year, will provide $25 to a student for outstanding reporting. It will be presented by Prof. William J. Mullendore.

The Robert Struckman Memorial Award of $100, to be presented by E. L. Peterson, is given by the Great Falls Newspaper Guild for outstanding feature writing. The award is made annually by the Guild in memory of the late MSU journalism professor.

The Mosby award of $150, established and presented by A. J. Mosby of Missoula, will be given to a journalism or radio-television major evidencing ability, initiative and special interest in radio-television.

The O. S. Warden award of $100, established by the late publisher of the Great Falls Tribune and the Great Falls Leader, will be given on the basis of scholarship and achievement to a student entering the sophomore year. Prof. Edward B. Dugan will make the presentation.
The Montana State Press Association will make its annual Dean Stone award of $100 to a journalism student entering the senior year, on the basis of outstanding scholarship and achievement. It will be presented by Duane Bowler.

The undergraduate chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic society, will award a citation to the outstanding male graduate and a plaque for special service to the Montana Kaimin, student daily newspaper. Printer Bowler of Scobey, senior in journalism and outgoing chapter president, will make the presentation.

Barbara Mittal, senior from Belt and outgoing president of the undergraduate chapter of Theta Sigma Phi, will introduce the newly tapped pledges of the national fraternity of women in journalism. Recent initiates of Kappa Tau Alpha, national society honoring scholarship in journalism, will be introduced by Prof. Warren J. Brier.

###

The workshop on nutrition, scheduled June 24 through 28, will be taught by Jane E. Stivison of the M.U. home economics staff. The course will deal with problems research and trends in nutrition for all age groups and should be of value to elementary teachers, health and physical education teachers and personal workers with adults as well as home economics teachers, Mrs. Stivison said.

Dr. Robert J. Dyer, associate professor of chemistry at M.S.U., will address the workshop on family life, which is scheduled July 1 through 5. Topics will be aimed at economic, social, psychological and social responsibilities in family life. Details about registration and fees must be obtained from the M.S.U. Home Economics Department, Mrs. Stivison said.