ENSEMBLES FEATURED
ON UM CONCERT BILL

University of Montana woodwind and brass ensembles will be heard in a concert of interesting variety Tuesday at 8:15 p.m. in the Recital Hall, Dean Charles W. Bolen of the School of Fine Arts announced.

The woodwind groups, directed by William Manning, assistant professor of music, include a clarinet quartet, a woodwind quintet, a flute quartet and a woodwind trio. Sixteen students will perform with these groups.

An 18-piece brass ensemble, directed by Roger Letson, graduate assistant in music, will perform as a unit and also in smaller combinations, as in "Morgen-Music" by Wurz, which will feature three trumpets and three trombones.

Composers represented in the program include Beethoven, Souris, Kuhlav and Hartmeyer.

The ensemble concert is open to the public without charge, Dean Bolen said.
