GLEN YARBROUGH PLANS UNIVERSITY CONCERT IN APRIL

Singer Glenn Yarbrough will appear at the University of Montana Theatre, March 14-15 between 8 and 10 p.m.

Yarbrough's hit albums for RCA include "Time to Move on," "One More Round," "Come Share My Life," and "Baby The Rain Must Fall." He is also famous for such single releases as "The Honey Wind Blows," "Baby the Rain Must Fall," and "Come Share My Life."

Appearing with Yarbrough will be the Stanyan Street Singers and Comedian Biff Rose.

The Stanyan Street Singers took their name from a song "Stanyan Street" which Yarbrough recorded.

Yarbrough got his start in music at the age of eight in Grace Church in New York. He was the lead singer with the Limeliters between 1959 and 1963. During this period Yarbrough sang mostly folk music. He now tries to broaden his scope to include many types of music.

Yarbrough attended St. John's College in Annapolis, the "Great Books" college of legendary intellectual repute, and later studied classical Greek and pre-Socratic philosophy at Mexico City College, intending to become a philosophy professor.

He and songwriter Rod McKuen own Stanyan Music, a publishing company.

Yarbrough is an avid sailor. He recently bought the schooner which was known as "The Tiki" on the television series "Adventures in Paradise." The boat is now being used for charter cruises from California to Jamaica where Yarbrough owns a small banana plantation. He hopes to use the profits from these cruises to finance a school on the plantation for underprivileged children from all over the world. Yarbrough has also recorded commercials for Coca-Cola, Folger's Coffee, Ken-L-Ration and Italian Swiss Colony Wine.
