George Cross named University of Montana Assistant to the Dean of Students

Follow this and additional works at: http://scholarworks.umt.edu/newsreleases

Recommended Citation
http://scholarworks.umt.edu/newsreleases/2156
George W. Cross, assistant professor of health and physical education at the University of Montana has been named Assistant to the Dean of Students at the University, according to Robert T. Pantzer, Acting President.

Cross, a B.S. recipient at Indiana University, came to the University of Montana in 1951. He is 41.

He will replace Anthony Valach who resigned August 12 to accept a position on the staff of Hamilton High School.

Dean of Men Andrew Cogswell said Cross' chief responsibilities will be with residence halls and fraternities. His duties will begin on September 1. He is also expected to continue a limited amount of teaching in the health and physical education department.

"We hated to see Tony go," said Cogswell, "but I am certain he will go a long way in secondary education. At the same time I am happy to get a man of George Cross's ability in this office."