The Associated Appraisers of Earning Capacity elected Dr. George B. Heliker, University of Montana professor of economics, president at its organizational meeting in San Francisco.

The new professional association has been established by economists and statisticians to provide a consulting service for persons or business who may incur future economic losses. Losses resulting from any cause including wrongful death or injury, violation of civil rights laws, violations of antitrust laws and condemnation of property for public use will be studied.

Besides Heliker, Prof. William Hopkins, University of Washington, was elected vice-president, Prof. Norman Leonard, Ohio Wesleyan University was chosen treasurer and Prof. Emeritus Fred Ryan, San Diego State College, was named secretary of the group.

The board of directors for the AAEC are Dr. David Farber, U.S. Dept. of Labor, Prof. Robert Miller, University of San Diego, Dr. John Maher, Joint Council on Economic Education, Mrs. Margerite Zapoleon, Consulting Economist from Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Philip Eden of Berkeley, Calif. was designated executive director for the association.
