COURSE DESCRIPTION AND OBJECTIVES

Using a diverse readings representing more than two thousand years of human experience and numerous cultures, we will explore alternative ways of knowing: scientifically, experientially, spiritually, rationally and mythologically. In the process we will become acquainted with some of the deepest reflections on the divine, the natural world, the self and society. We will be alert for cracks in our apparent certainties and consolations in the midst of our doubts. As we critically examine these texts, we will also consider their ethical implications for how we should act. Informed by class readings, plenary lectures, and discussions, we will work toward a deeper understanding of our own ways of knowing.

REQUIRED TEXTS

Tao Te Ching by Lao Tzu, Trans. Stephen Mitchell, Harper Perennial
Three Plays of Euripides, by Euripides, Trans. Paul Roche. WW Norton
The Last Days of Socrates, by Plato. Penguin Silent Spring by Rachel Carson. Houghton Mifflin
The Tempest by William Shakespeare. Pelican

ASSIGNMENTS & GRADES

Attendance & Active Participation: Regular attendance and active participation is expected. The quality of your class participation will affect your grade. Please come to class on time; your peers and instructors appreciate courtesy. Your attendance is vital to the other students and the educational process. If you must miss class, notify the Instructor in advance. Unexcused absences will affect your grade (4 or more unexcused absences result in course failure).

Assignments: During the semester we will require three typed essays, each of which addresses course themes. The essay assignments will be given at least two weeks in advance of their due dates. Essays should be at least six (6) pages in length, not counting a Works Cited page. Students are also expected to submit a plenary lecture response the following Tuesday after each of our three plenary lectures. The latter should be typed and at least one page in length. The exam during the Final Exam period will cover our readings from November 20th through December 4th.

Grading Criteria: Assignment grades will reflect the following criteria of judgment:
F: Failure to meet minimum requirements
D: Unsatisfactory, but some effort to meet minimum requirements
C: Satisfactory; meets minimum requirements of assignment but not much more
B: Good to Very Good; thoughtful reflection, good analysis, clear writing style
A: Excellent depth of critical analysis, thoughtfulness of reflection, and writing style; demonstrates creativity and mature analytical skills in going beyond the primary requirements of the assignment

Re-Writes: As Ways of Knowing fulfills a General Education writing requirement, you may elect to re-write and re-submit any of your first three essays in the effort to earn a higher grade. Rewrites must be submitted no more than 10 days after a graded essay has been returned.

Late Work: Assignments are due in class on or before the date listed in the syllabus. Unless you have made a prior agreement with me I will take off one grade level (A becomes A-) for each class day an assignment is late.

Overall Grades: In assigning the final grade, I give particular attention to your preparedness for and participation in class. The following from the University Catalog’s description of the Davidson Honors College describes some of the key characteristics of this course:

Honors courses...are conducted in a seminar format, “emphasizing critical thinking, the development of written and oral communications skills, direct contact with the faculty, and the use of original texts...”

• Each of the three essays will count for 20% of your grade (60% of total).
• Each Plenary Response Paper will count for 5% of your grade (15% of total).
• The quality of your participation during class will count for 15% of your grade.
• The Final in-class exam on the readings from 11/20-12/4 will count for 10% of your grade.

Incomplete Grade: Please see the criteria that must be met for an Incomplete (I) in the University catalog. No exceptions will be made for these criteria.

Plagiarism: Plagiarism is representing another’s work as one’s own, a serious violation of academic integrity. Please review the University’s plagiarism definition and policy in the catalog; “Students who plagiarize may fail the course and may be remanded to Academic Court for possible suspension or expulsion.” If you have any doubts about plagiarism and attribution of others’ work, please consult your Instructor.

Student Conduct: All students need to be familiar with the Student Conduct Code. You can read this online at http://life.umt.edu/vpsa/student_conduct.php.

Students with Disabilities: The University of Montana assures equal access to instruction through collaboration between students with disabilities, instructors, and Disability Services for Students [DSS]. If you think you may have a disability adversely affecting your academic performance, and you have not already registered with DSS, please contact DSS in Lommasson 154. (406) 243-2243
