HUSBAND-WIFE AUTHOR, LECTURER TEAM
TO SPEAK AT UM FRIDAY EVENING

"The Extremist Mind" of every persuasion will be discussed by Doctors Harry and Bonaro Overstreet, authors of several books studying communism as a psychological problem, in a public lecture Friday evening at the University of Montana.

Their address, which will be open to the public, will be at 8 p.m. in the Journalism Auditorium.

The Overstreets, who have worked in adult education and mental health movements for many years, regard communism as an assault on the human personality and normal human relationships. Their interest in the problem, and the related problem of presenting the case for an open society, has taken them abroad to lecture, study U.S. aid programs and talk with refugees.

They have spoken in England, France, Germany, Italy, Tunisia, Greece, Thailand, India and Japan--working for groups as varied as student organizations, the USIA and the Congress for Industrial Freedom.

More recently, the Overstreets have made an intensive study of the methods and organizations of the Far Right.

Following graduation from the University of California, Dr. Harry Overstreet studied at Oxford and then returned to U.C. where he taught philosophy for 10 years. He then was appointed philosophy department chairman at the College of the City of New York, a post he held until his retirement.

Dr. Bonaro Overstreet, after graduate work at U.C. and Columbia, taught in the Kern County, Cal. high school and junior college until her marriage in 1932.

Each has written three books as individual efforts and they have collaborated on six others.

Their UM appearance is sponsored by the UM Public Exercises Committee.
