FOUR UM FACULTY MEMBERS TO BE INITIATED INTO SOCIAL SCIENCE HONORARY WEDNESDAY

Four University of Montana faculty members will be initiated as members of Delta Tau Kappa, the international social science honorary, during ceremonies Wednesday (April 19) at the University Lodge.

To be honored are Dr. John J. Hunt, associate professor of education; Dr. George H. Millis', professor of education; Dr. Harold Tascher, professor of social welfare, and Dr. Toshimi Tatsuyama, an associate professor of religion.

Dr. Joseph H. Roucek, chairman of the Department of Sociology at the University of Bridgeport (Conn.) and international president of the honorary, will conduct the initiation ceremonies. He will be assisted by Dr. Kenneth V. Lottich, professor of education at UM and first vice president of DTK.

Dr. Lottich said the organization was founded in 1961 to promote the highest levels of scholastic achievement; to further and promote the aims of social sciences, and to foster interfaith, international, interracial and intercultural good will on the campus and in the world.

Dr. Lottich said any members of Delta Tau Kappa may attend the no-host banquet and initiation from 5:30 to 7 p.m. Following the dinner, Dr. Roucek will discuss "Alienated Youth vs. an Alienated Society" in a public lecture at 8 p.m. in the Journalism Auditorium.
