FORESTRY VISITORS PLAN UM MEETING IN MISSOULA

Ideas for improvement of one of the top-rated forestry schools in the nation will be one topic during the annual meeting Thursday and Friday (May 18, 19), of the University of Montana Forestry Board of Visitors in Missoula.

The 19-man board, an advisory group to the School of Forestry, will learn of new programs in wood chemistry and hydrology and will discuss a proposed series in environmental biology during meetings beginning at 1:30 p.m. Thursday in Main Hall.

Other activities to be discussed include a review of activities, the foreign student program in forestry, future plans, the proposed science-complex and developments in forestry education. The sessions will conclude at 2:30 p.m. Friday as the participants convene for the dedication by Senator Lee Metcalf of the new Forest Sciences Laboratory on the UM campus.

The Board of Visitors comprises Donald Aldrich, Art Brackebusch, H.R. Dix, Fred Garrison, William F. Hodge, Dr. H.H. Koessler, Gareth Moon, George Neff, Neal Rahm, all of Missoula; Robert F. Cooney and H.S. Hibbard, Helena; Dick Farbrick, Choteau, Ave Linford, Bozeman; Burt Hurwitz, White Sulphur Springs; Mark Schoknecht, Libby; Don Tavenner, Deer Lodge; Harold Tysk, Billings; John McLaughlin, Yellowstone National Park; and Winton Weydemeyer, Fortine.
