MISSOULA--

Full time members for the first season of the Montana Repertory Theater have been announced by Firman Brown, director of the company and University of Montana drama chairman.

Allen Cook, associate director of the company, will direct the second play of the season, "The Devil's Disciple" by Bernard Shaw. Cook, who came to UM from Weber State College, Ogden, Utah, is an assistant professor of drama and has published seven plays. He received his master of fine arts from the University of Utah.

Eileen Gallagher and Patricia Maxson have been hired as actresses in residence for the company. Roger DeBourg will be actor in residence.

Miss Gallagher, a 1961 graduate of UM in drama, is the first salaried actress with the company. She has taught drama at Polson High School and acted with the Brewery Theater in Helena and the Bigfork Summer Playhouse.

Miss Maxson, a 1967 UM graduate, will also serve as assistant to the director. She is a veteran of Masquer productions and has worked with the Virginia City Players and the Bigfork Summer Playhouse.

DeBourg, who holds a masters degree from UM, will serve as visiting lecturer in drama. He will teach courses in acting movement and diction. He appeared in Bigfork Summer Playhouse and Masquer Summer Theater productions.

Robert Cocetti, a graduate student in the drama department, will serve as company technician. He is from Denver, Colorado.
