MANSFIELD ART EXHIBIT ON DISPLAY

MISSOULA--

Art objects by contributing Montana artists are on display and for sale this week at the First National Bank in Missoula.

The 20 exhibits were contributed to the Mansfield Endowment of the University of Montana Foundation and were displayed at the Washington D.C. Mansfield dinner in August.

Charles W. Bolen, dean of the UM School of Fine Arts, said "So many artists from all parts of Montana are interested in Mike Mansfield as a senator and in the Mansfield project and what it will bring to the University. The artists we contacted submitted their work enthusiastically."

Money raised from the art sale will aid in financing a series of lectures in international relations at the UM campus in Sen. Mansfield's honor.

The objects include ceramic pieces, oil paintings, prints, acrylics, collegraphs, lithographs and sculptures. The artists who contributed are:

Billings: Terry Melton, lithograph; Robert Morrison, portfolio of prints; Leo Olson, sculpture; Ben Steele, Jr., watercolor.

Great Falls: Roma Bogard, oil; Mary Cordingly, oil; James Logan, acrylic; Les Peters, oil;

Hamilton: Helen Strange, oil.

Hungry Horse: Gary Schultz, sculpture, donated by Dr. Van Kirke Nelson.

Bigfork: Fred Fellows, sculpture donated by Paul Masa, Kalispell area.

The exhibit will move to the Western Montana National Bank next week.
