JUBILEERS JOIN JAZZ WORKSHOP IN CONCERT

A concert combining the talents of the brand-new Jazz Workshop and the well-established Jubileers will be presented by the Program Council of the Associated Students of the University of Montana Monday, April 15, at 8:15 p.m. in the University Theater.

The 20-member concert jazz band was organized and is directed by Frank Diliberto, former member of the Houston Symphony and other professional orchestras, who joined the UM faculty this year. The workshop, begun on an experimental basis, will carry academic credit next year.

"The Jazz Workshop is an ensemble which presents an opportunity for instrumentalists to develop their talents in the idiom of contemporary American sounds through composition, arranging and performance," Diliberto said. "Our main objective is to broaden the musicianship of the instrumentalist and not to narrow him into any one aspect of music."

Band selections include "Airegin," "What the World Needs Now," "L'Homme Arme" and other arrangements and compositions by James DiPasquale, who was a classmate of Diliberto at Manhattan School of Music. DiPasquale composes and arranges for television and motion pictures. The band will also play an arrangement of "Peter Gunn" by one of its members, Gary Herbig, Missoula, and Diliberto's arrangement of "Goin' Out of My Head."

The Jubileers, directed by Dr. Joseph Mussulman, will present fresh arrangements of Broadway ballads, pop tunes and folk songs.

"The new Jubilee sound features a rhythm section with Dennis Ward, Moccasin, on drums and Ron Quist, Cut Bank, on bass," Dr. Mussulman said.

"The concert includes a favorite with Jubilee audiences, a routine by 'the Uglies,' Nancy Senechal and Doug Dunnell, both of Missoula."

Tickets for the concert are on sale at the UM Lodge and Music Office and at the Cart Wheel. Admission is $1.50 for adults and $1 for students.
