MISSOULA--

The Montana Bar Association and the University of Montana School of Law will co-sponsor an institute on the new Corporation Code April 19-20 in the Yellowstone Room of the UM Lodge.

The institute will be one of the major events of Law Weekend, which will also include a lecture sponsored by Sperry and Hutchinson Foundation, various speeches and panel discussions, a number of five-year class reunions, and the annual Barristers Banquet and Ball.

A Montana Law Alumni Association Meeting is also scheduled for Saturday, April 20, at 2 p.m. in room 204 of the law school.

The new Corporation Code, a series of laws passed by the 1967 Montana Legislature, is effective December 31, 1968. The laws will effect several changes in existing and future corporations in Montana.

Lawyers from throughout the state will attend the institute. Secretary of State Frank Murray and his staff will explain various changes in procedure which will be made in that office under the new Corporation Code.

UM law students will attend the institute as special guests of the Montana Bar Association and the UM law school.
