Missouri faculty member named dean of U of Montana Business Administration School

Follow this and additional works at: http://scholarworks.umt.edu/newsreleases
MISSOULA, Mont.---

Dr. Rudyard B. Goode, program director for administration, Research Center, and professor of finance, School of Business and Public Administration at the University of Missouri, Columbia, has accepted appointment as dean of the University of Montana School of Business Administration effective July 1, University of Montana President Robert T. Pantzer has announced.

Dr. Donald J. Emblen, who has been acting business administration dean on the Missoula campus since August 1967, will resume the full-time teaching activities of his professorship after Dr. Goode arrives in Montana.

Along with his other professional duties, Dr. Goode will be professor of business administration at the University of Montana. He has been a finance professor at Missouri.

Dr. Goode, 43, a native of West Virginia, was graduated cum laude from Davis and Elkins College, Elkins, W.Va., in 1947. He received his master's degree in economics from the University of Virginia, Charlottesville, in 1952, and his doctorate there in 1953.

A year after Dr. Goode joined the Missouri faculty in 1966 as a research associate and associate professor of finance, he was promoted to program director for administration and professor of finance.

Prior to 1966 Dr. Goode was associate professor of business administration at the University of New Mexico, Albuquerque. From 1957 to 1959, he was a staff member of Sandia Corporation, a prime contractor to the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission in Albuquerque.
Dr. Goode was an assistant professor of business administration and a statistician in the Bureau of Business Research at the University of New Mexico from 1955-57. He served as a highway research economist at the University of Virginia, Charlottesville, from 1952-55, and he was an assistant professor of economics at Birmingham-Southern College, Birmingham, Ala., from 1948-50.

In 1963 Dr. Goode served as director of the New Mexico State Government Internship Program. During the summer of that year he planned, directed, coordinated and reported on a nine-week training program for Indian managers of small enterprises.

Dr. Goode was a panelist at the Local Government Officials Conference on Management Information Systems, sponsored by the University of Missouri Extension Division in December 1967. He also served as a consultant to several New Mexico banks and municipalities and has been author of professional articles in numerous publications.

Dr. Goode and his wife, the former Gera Guthrie Holland, formerly of Birmingham, are parents of four children--sons Brooks, 15, and Brant, 8, and daughters Page, 13, and Kelly, 9.

###