Flathead's Terry Pugh coming to University of Montana

University of Montana--Missoula. Office of University Relations

Follow this and additional works at: http://scholarworks.umt.edu/newsreleases

Recommended Citation
http://scholarworks.umt.edu/newsreleases/4694

This News Article is brought to you for free and open access by the University Relations at ScholarWorks at University of Montana. It has been accepted for inclusion in University of Montana News Releases by an authorized administrator of ScholarWorks at University of Montana. For more information, please contact scholarworks@mail.lib.umt.edu.
Terry Pugh of Kalispell, a 6-1, 180-pound All-State defensive end and linebacker, will attend the University of Montana this fall.

The announcement of Pugh's decision came from Grizzly assistant football coach Ron Nord.

The second team All-State selection, who has also been named as an alternate for the annual East-West Shrine Game, starred for Coach Huz Jensen's Braves last fall. Jensen once played center for the University.

In addition to playing football, Pugh competes as a hurdler for the Kalispell track squad.

Nord said Pugh was one of the hardest, toughest hitters in the state last season. "We were impressed with his ability and character," Nord said, "and also by his tremendous desire to come to the University of Montana.

"He has always wanted to be a Grizzly, and this makes us all the more certain he will do the job for us," Nord added.

Nord called Pugh "a fine prospect," and said the UM staff was extremely happy with his decision.