Grizzly Outlook

The return of seven letterwinners and the addition of two talented recruits have University of Montana volleyball coach Dick Scott optimistic about the 1981 season.

"I'm very optimistic about this season," says Scott. "We only lost one starter from last season and I think the year of playing together will really help us. The players understand each other better now and that should help our mental attitude."

Leading the group of returnees are senior Jean Cavanaugh, junior Pat Benson and sophomore Mary Klueber. All three are coming off outstanding seasons. Cavanaugh was the team's top server and Benson was the outstanding blocker. Klueber came on strong at the end of the year and was selected as an alternate on the U.S. junior national team.

The other returning letterwinners are seniors Diana Bandel and Moira Fagan and sophomores Brenda Gilbertson and Wendy Hoyt. Libby Shockley, a sophomore, returns to the squad following a year off because of an injury.

The two freshmen on the squad have also impressed Scott. They are Kara Price from Richland, Wash. and Mary Beth Dungan from Kent, Wash. "I'm very high on these players," Scott says. "They can add a lot to our program."

Scott says UM's goal this season is to make it to nationals and he feels the squad has a good chance of achieving this. "I think we have an excellent chance of making it to nationals," he says. "We will definitely be fighting it out for the league crown."

Scott lists Portland State, Montana State and the Grizzlies as the conference favorites. Last year, UM was fifth in the regionals and finished the season with a 22-22 mark.

Head Coach Dick Scott

This is Dick Scott's fourth year as head coach of the University of Montana women's volleyball team.

Before taking the UM position, Scott was head volleyball coach at Santa Monica Junior College from 1972 to 1978. His record was 52-1 in conference play and 111-20 overall. During that time, he was also the head scout for UCLA's varsity volleyball team.

Scott, from Denton, Mont., was also head coach for Maccabi Volleyball Club for two years and taught physical education and general science at a junior high school in Santa Monica.

Last summer, Scott served as assistant coach for the men's national team which participated in the World University Games in Rumania. Previously, he had served as the head coach of the USA Junior National Volleyball Team for three years.

Scott, 38, attended Montana State University on a basketball and track scholarship. He graduated in 1965 with a B.S. in physical education. After serving in the Air Force from 1965-69, he earned his master's degree in physical education at UCLA in 1971.

Volleyball Definitions

Ace: A serve that directly hits the floor of the opponents court or is passed to an area that cannot be played by a teammate.

Attack: The act of jumping in the air and hitting a set ball from above the level of the net into the opponent's court.

Block: A defensive play by one or more frontcourt players who attempt to intercept the attacked ball near or over the net.

Dig: Recovery of an opponent's attack made by playing the ball with one or two hands or forearms.

Middle Hitter: Also called a "quick hitter," this player holds down the middle of the court and handles sets and blocks. Height and mobility are important.

Outside Hitter: This player, sometimes called a "release hitter," usually hits at the left front of the court and also blocks on the outside.

Pass: The controlled movement of the ball from one player to another on the same team. This may be accomplished either underhand or overhand.

Serve: The method in which the ball is put into play by hitting it with any part of the hand, first or forearms over the net and into the opponent's court.

Set: A pass made for the purpose of placing the ball above the net in position for the attack.

Setter: This player usually handles the second pass and sets the ball to the hitters.

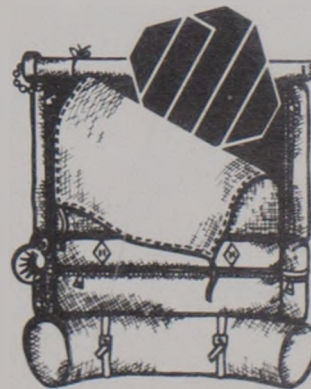

Spike: A hard-driven attack.
