A. S. U. M. President's Welcome

On this memorable occasion, combining Thanksgiving with Homecoming, ASUM extends to alumni and former students of the University, a cordial welcome. Every year Homecoming gives us an opportunity to meet and rub shoulders with those who started what we are trying to carry on, and we wish you to observe that in our humble way we have tried to add to the traditions that reverence that you instilled in all of us.

Homecoming is a time when the alumnus returns to his alma mater, lays aside his cares, and in the friends of his period in the school renews that spirit that held him close to Montana. It should be a time of pleasant memories—Singing on the Steps, and great victories and events.

And yet, we would not have you live too much in the past. We want you to remember that Montana is an ever-growing institution, held together with ties of friendship, and that love for the alma mater which is distinctive of Montanans. We want you to realize that we, to whatever degree we are able, are trying to build upon the foundation that you laid, a greater Montana spirit—a greater University. Alone, we cannot do it. We need your guidance, your help, your spirit, combined with ours.

Those of us who are carrying on the Montana spirit, welcome you back to your own home. We want you to re-live your college days, and to carry away with you more memories of the glory that is Montana's. We want you to believe that traditions are in the keeping of reverent hands, and that our love for the University is as great as yours.

To State College students and alumni, we extend our heartiest hospitality. We welcome you not as traditional enemies, but as friends. We sympathize with your traditions in the honoring of our own, and we extend to you the respect of one Montanan for another, for after all, we are all working for the same end—a greater Montana spirit, and a greater Montana tradition.

OSCAR DAHLBERG,
President, ASUM.

The First Bobcat-Grizzly Game 1897

Twenty-eight years ago today the whistle that began the Bobcat-Grizzly feud echoed across a snow-mantled grid-iron.

The Bobcat had come from its lair in the Gallatin valley to battle the Grizzly in the first intercollegiate football game ever played in the state of Montana.

Sayles, Patterson, Flaherty and Boyles were the leaders of that 1897 invasion.

The Grizzly defense was built around Goodfellow, 200-pound center; Kennedy, 120-pound quarterback, directed the attack; Heyfron and Schroeder were other stars of the Missoula eleven.

Ankle deep in the snow of that Thanksgiving afternoon the crowd, colorful with ribbon and banner, yelled hoarse encouragement to the courageous warriors.

Dr. Wilcox of the College and Professor Smith of the University took their places as referee and umpire and the struggle was begun.

Two hours later the Copper, Silver and Gold had gloried in its first triumph over the Blue and Gold.

The History of Homecoming

Years ago, when the University of Montana was very young, there was no "Homecoming." And yet the graduates and the old students came back, some to see the football games, some to spend the holidays, and still others to attend the Interscholastic Track Meet held each spring. These old students found it good to renew the memories and fellowships of their college days, and longed to come again. Out of this longing there grew the tradition we now call "Homecoming."

Back in 1914, when Dr. Craighead was president of the University, November 6 was named as a special day for the return of the alumni. The biggest game of the year was played that day—Bobcats vs. Grizzlies. And the men who were the outstanding stars of their respective teams in that first Homecoming game are the coaches of the contending teams in the game today, "Click" Clark of the Varsity, and Ott Romney of the State College.

On Thanksgiving day in 1915, the alumni and students watched the Grizzlies hold Syracuse to a 6-6 tie in the biggest game the Varsity ever played. Unofficially this game was a Homecoming.

The Mexican mixup in 1916, followed by the World War, drew many of Montana's athletes and alumni into the service of their country. Consequently Homecoming programs were not held for three years, 1916, 1917, and 1918.

After these years of turmoil and change the old students greatly desired a big "Homecoming," and down in the office of the Forbis-Toole company, the first plans were made for the Homecoming of 1919. The date was set for Thanksgiving, November 27, the day of the Washington State-Montana game. Alva Baird, '17, was made executive secretary. Letters were sent to all former students, and nearly 600 graduates and old-timers returned to the campus at the appointed time. Wednesday evening, firesides were held at all the houses and halls. Thursday morning 800 students took part in a "Pep Parade," and the members of the old classes gathered in reunion. After the game and the cross country run, there were dinners and dancing. Many former service men renewed the friendship of past years, and at the old "Y" hut there was a great reunion of the "M" men.

The passage of initiative measures Nos. 18 and 19 gave a new touch of celebration to the Homecoming of 1920, held November 11, 12, and 13. Governor Sam Stewart, and Governor-elect J. M. Dixon spoke at the special Armistice Day program, each giving greater insight into the financial arrangements of the University, and revealing a new field wherein the alumni might be of service to their alma mater. Letters had been sent to 2200 graduates and former students, but there were fewer in attendance than in 1919. The Bear Paws, then a new organization, welcomed all Homecomers at the trains. There was "open house" everywhere, and a big ROTC band dance in the gym.

The North Dakota Aggies met the Grizzlies on Dornblaser Field on November 18, the Homecoming of 1921. The snow had drifted high, and the freshmen shoveled off the field while the upper classmen marked it out with red kalsomine. Wrapped in blankets the students and one hundred alumni watched the game, and went into the old gym between halves to "snake dance" and get warm. The cross country run was postponed because of the storm. And yet that night five spirited freshmen climbed Mount Sentinel and, digging through the drifts, marked the outlines of the "M." Then through the storm for too short a space of time it glowed in fiery colors across the campus, a Homecoming victory.

On Armistice Day, 1922, the first joint Homecoming was held, when the Gold and Blue of the State College alumni joined with the Copper, Silver, and Gold of the University in unified effort to find ways and means of keeping Montana's door open to Montana students. Alumni came from everywhere, more than 900 of them. The railroads, for the first time, granted a special rate for Homecoming. A special train carrying more than 300 rooters came from Bozeman. Homecoming began with "Singing on the Steps" before Main Hall, followed by fraternity and sorority firesides. The next morning the freshman-sophomore contests were held on the oval and athletic field, followed by a big parade. Prizes amounting to $40 were awarded for the best floats. Between halves of the game, the Bear Paws and Fangs put on stunts. An alumni banquet was served in the old gym. The new gymnasium was formally dedicated, and the opening dance was held in the evening. It was at this Homecoming that the alumni took up the challenge that resulted in the new athletic field.

In 1923 Homecoming was held at the State College at the time of the Grizzly-Bobcat game. More than 200 graduates and former students attended along with 500 Grizzly rooters, many going on the special train from Missoula. Friday evening a big rally and bonfire was held, and Saturday morning all the new buildings on the State College campus were open for inspection. Before the game, both schools participated in a big "Montana" parade, while between halves the Fangs and Bear Paws put on their stunts. Homecoming ended with a dance in the evening.

In 1924, the Montana-Idaho game was the principal feature of Homecoming. On the evening of October 10, after the band concert, Montana students, former, old, and new, gathered in front of Main hall for "S. O. S." This was followed by a reception for alumni and former students at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Clapp. Later in the evening a bonfire and rally, followed by reunions and open houses at the clubs, halls, fraternities, and sororities, brought back to all old-timers the thrill of their varsity days. Saturday morning the freshman-sophomore contests were held on Dornblaser Field. The flag race to the "M" was called just before the game. At 6:00 p.m. 125 graduates gathered at dinner, and all the student bodies joined in the dance in the men's gym that evening.

"The spirit of Homecoming is the spirit of university citizenship," said Dean A. L. Stone at Homecoming "S. O. S." four years ago, "the services we render one another and the University are the manifestations. The services we give the University in keeping the traditions and standards of the institution are the greatest. Those services which have made the 'M' glorious, memories of those who have gone before, typify the real spirit of Homecoming."

And "Prof." Scheuch says, "When it comes right down to it, the biggest thing we get out of this short existence of ours is the friendships we make, and I am certain that your strongest ones are those formed while you were in the old University." So—to the renewal of old friendships and to the tightening of those bonds that measure the success of the University of Montana—the reverence, ripe traditions, loyalty, and those indefinable things making up the soul of the school—this Homecoming is dedicated.

DO YOU REMEMBER—

The Flaherty brothers? They were the original Bobcats; three to five of them on every team for a generation. And they were enough regularly to trim the varsity.

When Ott Romney (then studying agriculture) came over to the hill to "get a ride on Bentz"? He got it.

When Paul Greenough grabbed a Bobcat by the belt and carried Bobcat and ball across the line?

When the Bozeman police force tried to run in Doctor Elrod—and didn't?

“CY” GATTON, Bobcat hero for whom the State College athletic field is named, typified the highest ideals of sportsmanship, sacrifice, courage. He was a member of the class of 1917, and in 1915 was the captain and star of the Bobcat team. “CY” was a versatile athlete, winning letters in football, basketball and track.

Gatton enlisted immediately after the United States joined the Allies in the World War. He enlisted May 18, 1917, in an officers’ training camp at Fort Sheridan, but in less than a month was transferred to the aviation ground school at the University of Illinois. Later he went to Champaign and was sent to France with the first two hundred American flying cadets. His active commission dates from April 6, 1918. A month later he was transferred to a French bombing escadrille in the Fifth Bombing Group, and he flew in active battle work until the First Day Bombing Group (American) was organized. He was assigned to the 11th Aero Squadron and was appointed flying officer of his group on September 19, 1918.

Early in September, while with the American squadron, Gatton’s superior officers were shot down, leaving “CY” as a leader of formations, a place he held with distinction until his death, just before the signing of the armistice. He was cited for bravery by his commanding officers and recommended for the American Distinguished Service Cross. He had previously received the French Croix de Guerre for “particularly distinguishing himself” in carrying out bombardments.

The athletic field at Bozeman will, when completed, be named after and marked with a gate in memory of “CY.”

were firing a battery of light guns which Austrian troops had abandoned, when a 16-inch shell burst within a few feet of them. They retired from their position, but a second shell caught them. “Dorn” was blown several feet by the force of the explosion, and severely injured about the head and chest by fragments.

Stretcher bearers carried him to the rear, but his wounds were too severe to permit of recovery. Two days later he died, sacrificing himself for his country just as he had played the game to the end for his University.

In 1920 the name, Montana Field, was changed to Dornblaser Field as a monument to the memory of a great Montana hero.

Tanans

Tanans, a local honorary group composed of Sophomore women, was founded on the University of Montana campus in February, 1924, by the executive board of the Associated Women Students. It is similar in purpose to the Bear Paws, Sophomore honorary group for men.

Each spring 18 girls are chosen by Tanans for their interest in campus activities and for their spirit of willingness.

Some of the duties of the Tanans, as outlined in the constitution, are to assist the Bear Paws in carrying out traditions and in meeting trains; to assist Freshman girls; and to entertain guests of the University. During the Interscholastic track meet each spring, the Tanans meet all trains and provide means of transportation for the guests. They assist in entertaining the contestants and visitors. The officers are: Lillian Shaw, president; Mary Emily Elliott, secretary; and Gladys Wilson, treasurer.

Active Tanans wear silver-gray coat sweaters with a copper, silver, and gold insignia. In the fall when the new Tanans are chosen, the insignia is removed, and a copper stripe is placed over the left forearm to show that the girl is an inactive Tanan of Junior standing. Seniors wear a gold stripe in addition to the silver.

Bear Paw

Bear Paw, local Sophomore men’s honorary organization, was founded on the recommendation of Silent Sentinel, November 5, 1920, in the belief that Montana should have a campus organization to receive and entertain visiting teams and their supporters, to act as a police force at all athletic contests, to assist the Yell King at rallies and to encourage the keeping of all Montana traditions.

Bear Paws are chosen from members of the Sophomore class at the beginning of each school year. Twenty men are picked on the basis of their past service to the school and their willingness to assist and to aid in the building up of Montana.

Bear Paws are the reception committee of the University. They meet Interscholastic track meet contestants and visitors; outside teams playing games in Missoula; assist in tag day sales, usher at all contests, police the campus and in other ways assist the administration of activities of the University.

The present officers of Bear Paw are: Jake Miller, Chief Grizzly; Lester Graham, Right Paw; Dwight Elderkin, Left Paw. All Sophomore men who make their letters in athletics automatically become Bear Paws.

History of S. O. S.

"The University—It Must Prosper," the slogan which has been with our institution since its beginning, is responsible for the origination of the most cherished Montana tradition—SOS.

In the year 1912, the first SOS was held under the direction of Robert Sibley, head of the engineering department, in front of the science hall for the purpose of "increasing school spirit." The small group of students, which was then Montana's entire enrollment, was enthusiastic in its purpose. Songs, yells and speeches were given to increase interest in University functions. The first meeting was such a success that others were held. Soon it was noticed that the enthusiasm was dying. It was finally decided to hold the SOS in front of Main hall, and the first time the student body gathered on the steps there, a new atmosphere seemed to be instilled into the gathering. When the clock struck eight, everyone bowed in silence. The sound of the last stroke was followed by the first strains of "College Chums." Then the groups dispersed quietly.

Today the tradition is carried out in the original manner. Nothing has been lost in its 13 years of age. The traditional spirit is there—the old time enthusiasm is present. The growth of our University has simply tended to increase reverence for our most cherished tradition.

New Dornblaser Field

Montana's new $20,000 Dornblaser field was formally dedicated Saturday, October 3, when George Shepard, president of the trustees of the Alumni-Challenge Athletic Field Corporation, presented the new field and stadium to the University.

The old field which has just been replaced has served Montana since 1898, when the first football game was played. At that time the gymnasium was located on the third floor of Main hall. In 1903 Craig hall and the old gymnasium, now the women's gymnasium, were built, the old quarter-mile track completed, and the baseball field laid out. The tennis courts were constructed on the place where the student store now stands. Professor F. D. Smith, who was then professor of Chemistry and Geology, and Dr. M. J. Elrod, at present head of the Biology department, selected the site for the track. It is interesting to note that they first selected the present track site for the first one, but the ground there had been "skinned," that is, all the dirt and clay had been removed to fill in around the new buildings. As there were no funds with which to finance resurfacing this area, the former track was laid out more to the east of the old gymnasium. The old grandstand was erected just back of this gym.

The athletic field was called Montana field until 1920 when the name was changed to Dornblaser field as a lasting monument to the memory of Paul Logan Dornblaser, a Grizzly football star and one of Montana's war heroes.

As the University grew, the old field became inadequate. When plans for a new field were originated, it was expected that expenses would be covered by the state. This help, however, was refused,

THE TRUE SPIRIT OF HOMECOMING—-

Again the joyous homecoming week approaches. This is reflected by the spirit of the hosts.

The true homecoming spirit is not a matter of decoration.

The real spirit comes from the heart of the town folk, on the campus, on the street, in the stores, everywhere.

This store is proud of its salesfolk, for them to serve helpfully and courteously will be their gift to homecoming week.

Homecoming week cheers them to serve with even greater than their usual helpfulness.

and a challenge was issued to the alumni by President Clapp. The alumni accepted and organized under the name of the Alumni Challenge Athletic Field Association, financed the construction of the new field. Work was begun last spring and the gridiron was ready for the first game of the year on October 3 when Montana played Washington State College.

The new stadium will seat 7000 people with the lowest seats raised five feet, so that the view of those sitting in the first two rows will not be obstructed by those entering or leaving. The bleachers are 85 feet from the field and are curved in order to provide a view of the entire length of the straightaway. The straightaways on each side of the quarter-mile running track are 350 feet long. The 220-yard straightaway is 35 feet wide.

The old bleachers had a seating capacity of 3000 and were 105 feet away from the field. The old straightaway was 110 feet long.

The baseball diamond will be constructed on the old gridiron site and the tennis courts are to be built north of the diamond.

"Ott" and "Click"

Today on the benches are two old stars—Ott Romney and "Click" Clark—coaches both, one of the Bobcats, and the other of the Grizzlies. The thrill of the combat is theirs as never before fell the lot of the coaches of these contending teams, for eleven years ago today, at the first Homecoming the Varsity ever held, Ott Romney was the pride and hope of the Gold and Blue, and "Click" Clark the hero of the Grizzly team.

Across the range they came, confident that bear meat was sweet and that the feasting would be theirs. But the score 9-26 made a famine in the Bobcat lair that night.

And today these two men, still on opposite sides of the field, hunger and pray for victory as of old, while the Grizzly growls and the Bobcat snarls defiance on the same old battleground in the shadow of Sentinel.
