"Glendive Creek to Gate City," a pageant written and directed by Prof. Bert Hansen of Montana State University, will be presented July 2 - 4, at the Glendive Diamond Jubilee, celebrating the completion of the first division point of the Northern Pacific Railroad in Montana and the founding of the city of Glendive.

Professor Hansen said that he is working with a script and research committee made up of Glendive citizens in preparing the pageant that will bring the city's colorful past to life.

Sponsors of the Jubilee are the N. P. Railroad, the City of Glendive, the Glendive Business and Professional Women, and the Lewis and Clark Sesquicentennial Committee, of which Professor Hansen is chairman.

"The Net," a painting done in encaustic by James E. Dew, assistant professor of art at Montana State University, has been accepted for exhibit in the 21st annual Mid-Year Show at the Butler Institute of American Art, Youngstown, O. The exhibit of oils and water colors by artists of the United States and its territories will run from July 1 - September 3.

A member of the MSU fine arts faculty said that the acceptance of Dew's painting in the highly selective national show brings distinction to the University. He noted that less than fourteen per cent of the paintings submitted for last year's show were accepted.
