15th Annual Kyi-Yo Conference
1983
April 28-30
April 8, 1983

On behalf of the University of Montana community, welcome to the fifteenth Annual Indian Youth Conference sponsored by the Kyi-Yo Indian Club of the University of Montana.

The Kyi-Yo Club plays a very important role here at the University. Together with the Native American Studies Department, the Club makes contributions to the preservation of Indian heritage for Montana's Native American citizens and enhances an understanding of this rich legacy for all Montanans.

I wish you a most successful conference and enjoyable stay with us at the University of Montana.

Sincerely yours,

Neil S. Bucklew

Greetings:

Welcome to the 15th Annual Kyi-Yo Indian Conference. It is our pleasure to have you as our guests on the University of Montana campus. The Indian student members of the Kyi-Yo Indian Club have organized another outstanding event consisting of a legal education seminar, two nights of a pow-wow and the presentation of "Winter in the Blood", a play that has its setting in our native Montana. Furthermore, you may participate in or observe the five-mile run or browse through the arts and crafts exhibits. You have a variety of educational and cultural events from which to choose.

The students have selected as their conference theme, "Walking in Sacred Balance between Tradition and Progress." This expresses the bicultural orientation of us American Indians who are inextricably a part of the ancient, rich, spiritual traditions of the past but who must balance our ways of life with progress in 20th century America. Ours is a sacred way of life with a sacred mission which the young recognize and acknowledge. Your parents, grandparents, friends and relatives have taught them well, and you should justifiably be proud of their efforts. We, therefore, hope your experience here will not only be educationally rewarding but culturally meaningful and spiritually uplifting.

Thank you so much for coming here to make this year's conference one that truly reflects the ageless Indian tradition of excellence.

Respectfully,

Dr. Henrietta Whiteman, Director
Native American Studies

Welcome:

This year marks the 15th time that the Native American students, of the University of Montana, have hosted the Kyi-Yo youth conference. 15 years of ever-changing issues, discussions, students, faculty, and conference participants. I find myself privileged to be included amongst the many fine individuals that have been and will be part of those past and future Kyi-Yo celebrations.

The Kyi-Yo club represents a very unique group of individuals. We, the students, vary from tribe to tribe, state to state, country to country and culture to culture as does anyone's organization. Yet, there remains that true bond we all feel. We are Indian, and we are accepting the challenge of a higher education.

This year's theme, reflects that ever-changing, yet constant feeling amongst us, as students. Whether it be said this way, or that, the feeling remains the same, to always be in balance between traditions and progress.

On behalf of the Kyi-Yo club, I invite all participants to meet old friends, make new acquaintances, celebrate and dance and have a good time during the 15th annual Kyi-Yo youth conference.

The Project Designed With You In Mind

THE KICKING HORSE PROGRAM

The Confederated Salish & Kootenai Tribes of the Flathead Indian Reservation recognizing the high unemployment rate common to most Reservation and Urban Indians has entered into an agreement with the U.S. Department of Labor, Employment & Training Administration, which administers the Job Corps program to operate a center to accommodate 224 young Indian men and women, age 16 through 21.

The 224 residential enrollees will be disadvantaged Indian youth recruited for the center primarily by the State Employment Services from areas across the United States.

They will receive all the benefits of a Job Corps full residential program; labor market needs; basic and remedial education required for both the enrollee's job goal and the role of responsible citizenship; counseling and pre-employment training specifically related to the job training being offered; and ultimately, job placement.

The Kicking Horse Job Corps Center is located near the Northwestern Montana town of Ronan, about 50 miles North of Missoula.

A UNIQUE TRAINING CENTER —
Designed exclusively for a particular ethnic group — The American Indian.

The first all-American Indian Training Center in Job Corps history.
Administered and operated primarily by the American Indian.
