TO: MEMBERS OF THE UNIVERSITY COMMUNITY

Oct. 15 has been designated by a number of organizations all over America as a day of protest against the Vietnam conflict. Obviously no rational person desires a situation involving war.

Attendant to the protest movement mentioned, there is pertinent reason to examine and inquire about the many problems faced by today's society. The problems of war, foreign and domestic policy and the place of the University in all such issues are timely topics of inquiry and discussion. The answers are not easy ones.

It is my hope that this University can in a rational manner consider all of these problems. On Oct. 15 we shall have this opportunity. While at the same time meeting our obligation to provide educational instruction for students on class days of the academic calendar, I urge all members of the University Community, students, faculty members, administrators and staff members, to reflect on these problems and participate in Community and University functions which point toward a sensible resolution to these important basic issues facing America.

THE PRESIDENT'S OFFICE REPORTS: UM will suspend classes and close offices on Tuesday, Nov. 11, in observance of Veterans Day.

Classes will be suspended Wednesday, Nov. 26, through Friday, Nov. 28, to enable most students time to spend Thanksgiving, Nov. 27, at home.

The three-day vacation is permitted by a long-standing policy which provides extra travel time and recognizes a "gentleman's agreement" by students to attend classes on Monday and Tuesday preceding the vacation period.

Administrative offices will remain open Nov. 26 and Nov. 28 with skeleton staffs. Employees will be expected to work one of the two days.

ABOUT 400 SEATS HAVE been ordered to replace the Campbell Park grandstands which burned down last summer. The new seating, similar to that used at New Dornblaser Field, will be delivered and installed before the 1970 baseball season begins, according to J.A. Parker, physical plant director.

MELTING POT, 401 University Ave., wishes to be a coffee house. Please come down this weekend, not with the intention of being entertained, but to entertain. The MP needs the active support of all students.

DUE TO WEATHER CONDITIONS the brick walkways crossing the Oval will not be completed for another month. The original completion date set was Nov. 15. Extremely cold temperatures have made it difficult for the mortar to set and heavy traffic on the bricks has knocked some loose, which now must be re-mortared.

Sections of snow fence will be erected along the areas to be avoided. George Mitchell, administrative vice-president, said the fences will remain standing for one month after construction is completed. Planking will be laid in spots to enable students to cross the Oval without going all the way around.

DR. CARL L. LARSON, microbiology professor and director of the UM Stella Duncan Memorial Institute, will participate in a student-initiated forum on chemical and biological warfare at Stanford University this February. Dr. Larson is one of the nation's leading experts on CBW.

CONTEMPORARY PHOTO SILK SCREEN PRINTS and photographs by students and faculty will be displayed in the UC gallery until Nov. 15. The silk screen prints in the show incorporate the psychedelic effects of "color vibration" depending on special light sources and visual neutralizing of lines. The photos include nude studies relying on the abstract visual form rather than on the recognizable figure.

QUESTIONS, SOLUTIONS AND NEEDS concerning adequate day care in Montana communities will be explored in a free three-day child care workshop today through Friday in UC 361. Helga McHugh, a home economics instructor, said the workshop is a community effort to try to understand the problems faced by working mothers and to understand what good child care involves. Working mothers and others interested are invited to attend and asked to phone 243-4841 or 243-5213 so seating arrangements can be made.
