University of Montana

The University of Montana in Missoula is located in a mountain forest setting in beautiful Western Montana. It is halfway between Glacier and Yellowstone National Parks.

Four wilderness areas are located nearby Missoula. The natural surroundings offer excellent opportunities for hunting, fishing, backpacking, river floating, camping and other outdoor recreational pursuits. Two excellent winter ski areas are located within minutes of the University. Several other ski areas are only a couple of hours away by car. UM owns and operates its own golf course adjacent to campus.

The University of Montana is one of the West's pioneers in education and was chartered February 17, 1893. The school opened in September, 1895, with 50 students enrolling the first day. Located on 201 acres at the base of Mount Sentinel, UM has grown from 50 students and seven faculty members to a present enrollment of 9,101 and approximately 450 fulltime state supported faculty positions.

Throughout its history, the University of Montana has sustained a high standard of academic excellence in teaching, research and service.

UM offers associate of arts degrees in two areas and bachelor's degrees in 58 fields. It offers master's degrees in 54 programs and doctoral degrees in 13.

The College of Arts and Sciences, which is the core of the University, includes a full range of programs and courses in the life sciences, physical sciences, social sciences and humanities. The College also offers curricula in interdisciplinary fields ranging from ethnic studies to interdepartmental studies.

Seven professional schools complete the academic program—Business Administration, Fine Arts, Journalism, Education, Forestry, Law, Pharmacy and Allied Health Sciences.

The aim of the University is to provide its students with a relaxing and meaningful learning experience with the best facilities possible. The administration, faculty and staff strive for this goal.

ABOUT CHAMPION

Champion International Corporation is a major forest products company and a pioneer in the building products, papers and paper packaging businesses. Headquartered in Stamford, Connecticut, the company's major domestic divisions include:

- Building Products
- Paper
- Packaging
- Timberlands

The company was formed in 1967 with the merger of Champion Papers Inc. and U.S. Plywood Corporation. The name Champion International Corporation was adopted in 1972.

Champion in Montana

Champion's investment in Montana is a substantial one. It includes 683,000 acres of timberlands; the largest softwood plywood plant in North America; several sawmills that produce a wide variety of lumber products; and the largest pulp and paper mill of Champion's packaging division. All together, there are some 2,400 Montana Champions employed by these operations located primarily in western Montana and also northern Idaho.

Champion's desire to sponsor a tournament for the University came as an outgrowth of an existing community interest in college basketball, and a need for additional academic scholarship programs at the University of Montana.

It is intended that any income from the tournament which is not required to pay the expenses of the tournament will be used for academic and scholarship programs at the University of Montana.

This community event enables individuals from divergent backgrounds and interests to have a common interest, that being the University of Montana.

This is an example of industry and community participation, hosting an athletic event to provide assistance to academic and scholarship programs at the University of Montana.

THE MAKING OF HOLIDAY CLASSICS

Sculpturer Ron Herron working in wax.

Kathy Jovin making molds for the sculptures.

Sprueing being done by Norman Souza.

The art of lost wax casting is almost as old as art itself. Probably the most complex of all casting techniques, it has been used throughout history to capture detail and intricate design in various metals.

When Missoula residents Don Olson and Ron Herron first tried their hands at this ancient technique, they used an old tomato juice can and plaster of Paris. That was in 1970 and both would have to admit they've come a long way since then.

Herron, who has since moved to Helena, has become a nationally recognized artist, famous for both his painting and sculptures, and Olson have perfected the techniques of casting in bronze to the point that artists from around the nation send their work to his Alpine Bronze foundry, located in Missoula.

Watching the technicians work on the two bronze trophies for the Champion Holiday Classic offers a glimpse into the history of this ancient art, a complex and time consuming process which yields works in bronze that cannot be duplicated.

The process begins in wax. The two original trophies, which were sculpted by Herron in wax, were first photographed for reference and then brushed with several layers of latex to create a mold of the wax original. This latex mold is the permanent record of the artist's original.

Next, wax is poured into the latex mold, the wax cooled, the mold disassembled, and in theory what emerges is an exact duplicate of the artist's original. However, it is never that simple.

The wax replica must be transferred to the secondary wax room where technicians, who are artists in their own right, refine and perfect the wax, constantly comparing it to the original in the photographs.

Once the technicians are satisfied that the secondary wax is indeed identical to the artists original, it is fitted with a system of tubes, or sprue gates, which serve as ducts for the molten metal and escaping air. This insures that when the bronze is eventually poured into the mold, it will flow evenly through the piece and into any extremities.

From the secondary wax to a secondary mold. From this wax replica of the artist's original a silica and sand shell is created by dipping the replica first in a liquid silica and then into several layers of sand. Once the shell is thick enough, the entire piece, which now looks like something that has just been washed ashore, is placed in an oven. The wax, which is sealed inside the shell, is heated and runs out. Thus, the lost wax.

This empty sand shell is then reheated, molten bronze poured into it, the shell broken, and the bronze and metal allowed to cool, then the trophy is revealed.

At last! But not finally.

For now it must go back to the technicians for refining and finishing.

The sprues, which are now made of bronze, must be removed along with any imperfections, such as air bubbles or cracks. Once again, the technician works from the photographs to insure the accuracy of even the smallest detail.

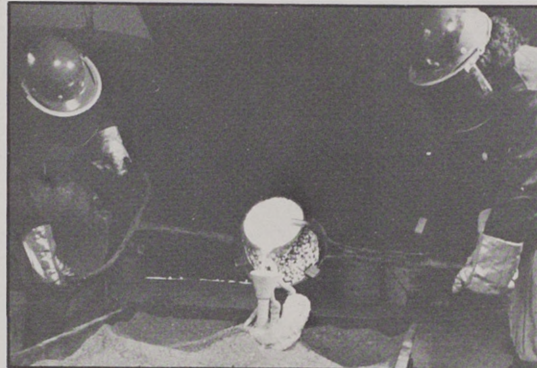

The entire piece is then heated with a torch until it is so hot it actually glows, and a chemical compound is sprayed onto the surface to achieve the finish, or patina.

Finally the piece is baked with a wax coating and then mounted, which brings to an end an estimated 150 man hours in the casting of one bronze trophy.

The winning team and most valuable player at this year's Champion Holiday Classic will not only be taking home a trophy for their team and school, they will be earning a unique and valuable work of art, the likes of which will not be seen until the process begins again next year, when the fourth in the series of trophies is cast.

Montana, W. Texas, A&M, Portland, Battle for Classic III Title

by DAVE GUFFEY

Montana Sports Information Director

Sports fans always like to talk about streaks. The University of Montana Grizzlies would like to end one of those streaks during the Champion Holiday Classic III in 1982—but the team would also like to continue one.

The streak the Grizzlies would like to end is the results in the last two Classic championship games. UM has lost both contests by two points, 59-57 to Gonzaga in 1980 and 46-44 to Cal-Irvine in last year's title game.

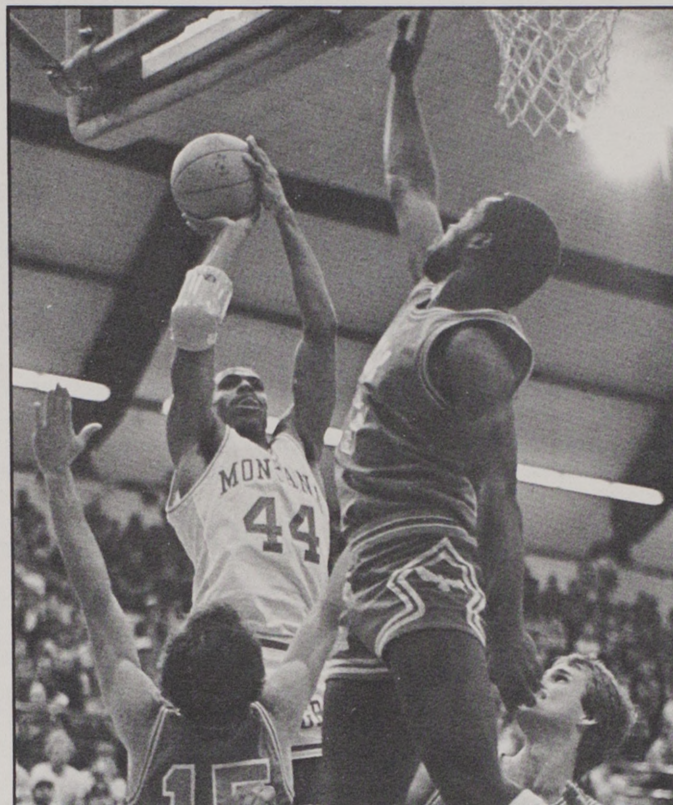

And the one coach Mike Montgomery and his team would like to continue is their current winning skein of seven straight victories, which gives them a perfect 7-0 record. The school record for the best start is eight wins in the 1949-50 season. The coach that season was Jiggs Dahlberg.

It won't be that easy if West Texas State coach Ken Edwards and his squad have the last say on that win streak.

Edwards, a Butte native, brings his WTS Buffaloes into Montana's Dahlberg Arena (9,329) with a 3-3 record. The Buffaloes have three returning starters from last year's team.

Two of those starters are forwards Bob Steppes and Goliath Yeggins. Steppes averaged 12.8 points and 5.3 rebounds a game last year, while Yeggins averaged 7.1 ppg and 7.6 rpg. The other starter last season is guard Shawn Smith who has the role of sixth man this season.

game. He was 12th in scoring in the Missouri Valley Conference last season. The senior was a two-time all conference player at Pasadena CC in California.

The second leading scorer is freshman guard James Jackson, a 5-11 speedster who is averaging 15.2 points a game. He is an all-state player from Alabama. Yeggins leads the team in rebounds with 10 per game. Smith is scoring seven-plus points a game as the sixth man.

"West Texas is a very good shooting team that is fast break oriented," Montgomery said. "They are a very explosive team and are capable of scoring a lot as evidenced by the 55 points they scored in the second half against Oklahoma. They are comparable to Reno in their style of play."

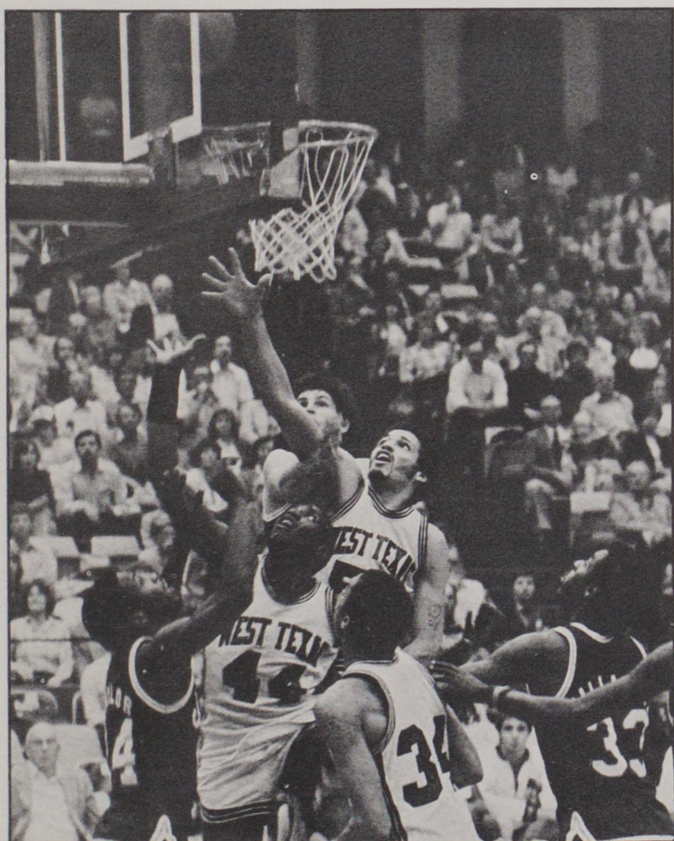

The other two starters are guard Kendall Walling (14.8 ppg) and center Mark Ellerman (2.0 ppg). WTS will employ a three-forward team with newcomer Ismail Jenkins, a 6-5 freshman, coming in for Ellerman. Walling, a 6-2 sophomore, has excellent range and averaged 8.3 assists a game last season in junior college.

Junior guard Doug Selvig is probably looking forward to getting a chance to put up some of his "Outlook layups" in the tourney. After all, the three-point play will be in effect during the tournament.

But, as Montgomery was quoted saying in a recent issue of Sports Illustrated, players who try the 22-footer, "will soon have a seat right next to me on the bench."

Selvig, who is deadly from the 20-foot range, is averaging 11.6 points a game, 4.7 rebounds, 4.3 assists and 2.3 steals. He was a member of the all-tournament team of the Classic II.

Of course, Montana's "main man" is forward Derrick Pope who leads the team with 18.7 points and 8.0 rebounds a game. Also a member of last year's all-tourney squad, Pope has led UM in scoring in five of seven games. The All-American candidate was first team All-Big Sky Conference last season.

Rounding out the Grizzlies starting five is guard Marc Glass (9.0 ppg, 4.0 rpg), center Craig Larsen (8.2 ppg, 7.7 rpg) and forward Rob Hurley (7.4 ppg, 2.3 rpg). Swingman Brian Morris is averaging 6.1 ppg and 2.0 rpg.

Montgomery, who is 74-43 in five plus seasons at UM, says he feels as though his team is playing well at this point of the season, "but we need to maintain our intensity for an entire game. We showed good character coming back against Washington State (a 61-58 UM win), but made some mistakes in the first half to let them back into the game. But, we did make free throws down the stretch to win it, and that's a sign that we know how to win, which every good basketball team has to have."

The second game in the first round, the Texas A&M Aggies vs. the University of Portland Pilots pits an experienced front line against a very young team.

A&M returns four starters off a 20-11 team that advanced to the third round of the NIT.

Back to lead the Aggies is 6-10 forward Claude Riley, A&M's All-American candidate who led the team in scoring (16.3) and rebounding (10.2). The "Crockett (TX) Rocket" was named a preseason All-American by several magazines. Last season Riley had 38 points and 18 rebounds in a 95-77 win over final four team Houston.

Also back for his last go-around is senior guard Tyren Naulls, who was A&M second leading scorer last year with 12 points a game. Naulls, a transfer from UCLA, was a two-time high school All-American at Lynwood High in Los Angeles.

Teaming with Naulls in the backcourt is junior Reggie Roberts, the No. 3 scorer (11.7) last season. The small forward spot is manned by returning starter Roy Jones, a 6-7 senior. Jimmie Gilbert (3.7 ppg, 5.8 rpg) will start at center.

Despite the Aggies' 3-5 start Montgomery feels A&M is the team to beat in the Classic III.

"Texas A&M is a very talented team with four starters back off a 20-game winner, Montgomery said. "Their record isn't one of the best in the tournament but if you look at their schedule you'll see why. They have played some very good teams extremely tough."

Veteran coach Shelby Metcalf is 311-121 in 20-plus seasons and has taken A&M to the NCAA Tournament four times and the NIT twice.

Some of the teams' losses have been to Clemson (82-79), Illinois (72-70) and Marquette (73-58)—three talented teams.

Meanwhile, Portland coach Jack Avina has a very young team, and lost two starters when returning sophomore starting guard Dave Flint became ineligible because of grade problems (he is currently attending Portland, CC). And the other expected starter at guard, Fred Harris, injured his knee and is out for the season.

Because of those two losses sophomores Brian Fundingsland and Kevin Williams got the starting nod. They are averaging 7.2 and 8.2 points a game, respectively. The Pilots lost all-star guard Jose Slaughter to graduation and the NBA. Slaughter averaged 19.3 points a game and was an AP honorable mention All-American.

The leading returning UP player is center Bryan Beard, who was No. 4 in scoring last season and leading the team in 1982-83 with a 10.0 average.

UP's starters at forward are Dennis Black (7.0 ppg) and Darran Jenkins (9.4 ppg).

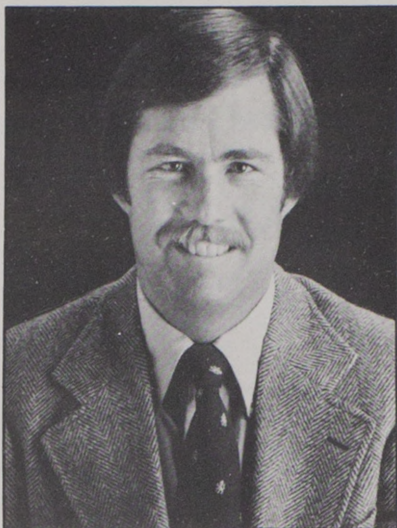

"The University of Portland is always a well-coached team, and are tough year-in and year-out," Montgomery said. "I'm sure Jack Avina will have them ready to play."

Forget the streaks—there are three teams here for the Classic III who want to stop one and keep the other one going.
