CUTLINE
#1/7/85-4-3

University of Montana physical therapy student Melanie Rosa uses an electromyography (EMG) unit to measure the electrical impulses emitted by the stomach muscles of fellow student Mike Hamblock. The EMG was donated to the UM physical therapy department by the Western Montana Clinic of Missoula. During the past year, the department has also received a whirlpool and other equipment from Missoula General Hospital and the "Archives of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation" from St. Patrick Hospital. Rosa, a senior, is the daughter of Mel Mooney of Butte. Mike Hamblock, also a senior, is the son of Henry and Rosemary Hamblock of Havre.
