KGVO Radio Editorial

by

Don Weston

EDITOR—Ed Chinske, UM golf coach and former head football coach, died while playing golf on June 27, 1967. To Ed Chinske, this 1967 University of Montana football brochure is dedicated as a small token of appreciation for the many things he did for the University. The following editorial was aired on KGVO Radio and Television July 1 and 2, 1967.

This comes under the heading of something that should have been said to a friend before it was too late. To Ed Chinske, thank you, and well done.

Ed's unexpected and untimely death stunned all of Montana. We all have a special place in our memories for Ed Chinske, whether we knew him as a close friend, or as a colorful sports figure. He added something to Missoula and Montana that made them more fun and better places in which to live.

We remember those years in the late 30's when he led the Spartans of Missoula County High School to a winning tradition. We remember his flamboyant direction of the Spartan teams that won four straight championships from 1942-45. We remember his wide grin on the golf course, and his return to HIS University—Montana, the school that was indeed his.

And Missoula was his town. He loved it here, and helped make it a better place for his having been here.

As a coach he is best remembered for his victories. But above all, he was a teacher of young men. In this he excelled. He taught them the will to win and, at the same time, taught them how to lose. And he also imparted that zest for life that makes his passing so difficult for those of us who were fortunate enough to know him.

School and President

Since it was chartered by the Third Legislative Assembly of Montana, February 17, 1893, the University of Montana has grown from an institution with 50 students and 7 faculty members in 1895 to more than 6,000 students and 300 full-time instructional staff members in 1967. Fifty-nine percent of these faculty members hold doctoral degrees.

The University of Montana is fully accredited by the Northwest Association of Secondary and Higher Schools. The seven professional schools, including business administration, education, fine arts, forestry, journalism, law and pharmacy, are all accredited by appropriate national organizations.

More than 40 buildings are contained within the limits of the 116-acre main campus on the eastern edge of Missoula. The University owns an additional 624 acres on Mt. Sentinel. A short distance south of the main campus is a 154-acre area holding 394 married students housing units and a nine-hole golf course.

The University also owns 295 acres at Fort Missoula, plus 20,850 acres in the Lubrecht Experimental Forest, 35 miles northeast of Missoula and 167 acres on Flathead Lake, including a Biological Station at Yellow Bay, 90 miles north of Missoula.

ROBERT T. PANTZER

Robert T. Pantzer was appointed President of the University of Montana on December 16, 1966, by the State Board of Regents, after he served as acting president since August 15, 1966.

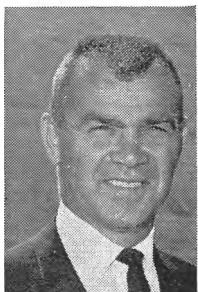

A familiar figure on the Missoula campus, Pantzer has been associated with the University since 1957, serving as a professor of business administration and as financial vice-president.

He received his B.A. degree in business administration from UM in 1940 before serving 42 months overseas during World War II. He was discharged from the Army with the rank of major and a bronze star for meritorious service in the East Indies.

Following the war, Pantzer returned to graduate from the University of Montana law school in 1947 before serving as county attorney at Chester, Montana from 1947-1950 and practicing law in Livingston, Montana until 1957.

Pantzer and his wife, the former Ann Prendergast, have three children.

Athletic Director, Head Coach

JACK SWARTHOUT

Since assuming the duties of both head football coach and athletic director at the University of Montana, Jack Swarthout has shown all of Montana that he has the desire, personality and over-all ability to recruit and work with players and other coaches.

Swarthout came to the University, where he played football (1940-42), from a high school position in Olympia, Washington, where his football teams compiled a 50-14-2 record in seven seasons. Before that he had coached at Hoquiam, Wash. High School following two years at the University of Texas under Darrell Royal and one year at the University of Washington, also under Royal.

Born in Prosser, Washington, February 23, 1920, Swarthout lettered in football, basketball and baseball in high school. He graduated from the University of Montana in 1942 with a bachelor's degree in political science. He then served four years in the armed services as a lieutenant in the parachute infantry.

He and his wife, Beverly, were married in 1946. They have four children: Sandi, 20; Jacki, 18; Harold Jack II, 16; and Michele, 11. Swarthout's brother Bill is a high school administrator in Great Falls.

1967 Outlook

ENDS: The loss of Terry Bergren and Roger Clemens could have been damaging at offensive end. Defensively, last year's ends were not too strong. The Grizzlies will have the talented Gib Brumback returning offensively at tight end, and he will be aided by transfer Jim Kelly. Split end should be strong with Ron Baines, Jim Enos and Al Luis all coming in as transfers with good experience. Defensively, transfers Bruce Nordstrom and Ken Jernberg will add particular strength. Compared to Last Year—The end position, defensively and offensively, should be stronger.

TACKLES: Biggest losses here were Packy Miller, Dave Enger and Wayne Becker, with the latter giving it a try with the Chicago Bears after missing most of last season with a knee injury. Returning is the much improved Wes Appelt, with promising help coming from sophomores Larry Stranahan and Bill Waters and transfers Lon Howard, Mike McCann, John Stedham, Fred Tubbs, Mike Nicosia and Ell Dudley. Compared to Last Year—Better size, depth and speed indicate that the tackle position should be improved both offensively and defensively.

GUARDS: Most important losses here are the small, but hustling Dennis Meyer and the powerful Jim Neilson. Back this year are All-Big Sky selection Herb White, a speedy junior, and Mike Grunow, another second-year man. Sophomore help may come from Ole Hedstrom and Steve Henderson, both of whom may need another year to develop. Transfers Gary Freshour, Tom Lavery and Butch Ortiz make the outlook here a little brighter. Compared to Last Year—As much depth as last year, plus added strength and speed, may mean improvement this year.

CENTERS: Gone is the steady Ron Aukamp, and back are big Bob Graham and Rick Sparks. Transfer help comes from junior Ed Dawson, but Graham looks like a good bet to start after he impressed coaches with his desire during spring drills. Compared to Last Year—An important part of the new Grizzly offense, the center post should be better than last year.

BACKFIELD: With nearly everybody back from the 1966 squad plus a host of transfers coming in to help, the 1967 Grizzly backfield will have speed, size and experience, both offensively and defensively. Quarterbacks Ed Steiner and Jim Searles are chasing their third letters, and will be aided by big, strong Mark Mochel from Yakima, Wash. JC. Blazing speed will be seen at the halfback slots, with Willie Jones (9.4), Roy Robinson (9.9), Gartha Morgan (9.7) and Doug Bain (10 flat) sure to see plenty of action offensively. Defensively, Gary Smith and Larry Huggins return with experience, with help sure to come from transfers Mace Gray, Larue Nelson and Mick O'Neil. Fullbacks Bryan Magnuson (6-0, 220) and Rod Lung (leading rusher on 1966 team) both return after excellent spring showings. Compared to Last Year—Tremendous over-all depth, better size and more speed may make the backfield the most improved area over last year.

LINEBACKERS: The loss of Mike Smith, a tough hitter and steady performer, will hurt, but coaches went out and looked for men to fill the gap. Transfers Bob Beers, a JC first team All-American last season, Greg Paresa and Rich Unruh should work well together inside, with possible backup help available from sophs Craig Wilson, Mike Glennon, Dan Stimac and Ron McGuckin. Compared to Last Year—Should be stronger.

Player Briefs ENDS

12. BAINES, Ron (6-0, 180, Junior)—A highly versatile athlete who transferred to UM in the spring from Grays Harbor Junior College in Washington, Baines competed in track while participating in spring grid drills. Although likely to be used as an end, Ron can also play quarterback or defensive safety. He broke the school high jump record his first week on campus (6-8½) and also ran the hundred in 9.6 seconds. He is majoring in physical education.

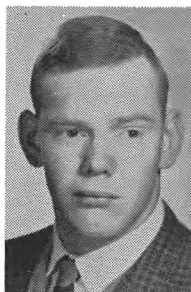

80. BRUMBACK, Gib (6-3, 205, Senior)—Heading into his final year as a Grizzly, Gib completed spring drills as a starter at tight end. After transferring to UM from Columbia Basin JC last year, he caught 5 passes for 45 yards for the 1966 Grizzlies, and coaches expect him to improve on that this year. Gib is a physical therapy major with the size, speed and good moves to be an outstanding end.

82. ENOS, Jim (6-0, 185, Junior)—Enos, who was injured during spring drills, is expected by the coaching staff to do great things in the fall at split end. Jim came to the University from Everett, Washington JC, where he earned All-State JC honors last season. A former high school baseball player who has decided to stick with the grid sport, Jim is majoring in physical education.

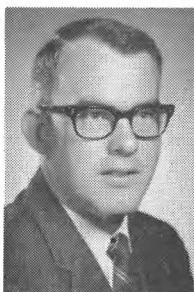

83. HUGGINS, Larry (6-2, 185, Senior)—A defensive standout for the Tips in 1966, the hard-hitting Huggins should be right in the thick of things again this year, although he will face tough competition for a spot in the defensive lineup this year. A player to keep your eye on this fall, Larry is majoring in business administration.

84. JERNBERG, Ken (6-2, 215, Sophomore)—A big, strong kid who will see his action defensively for three years as a Grizzly, Ken transferred this fall from Columbia Basin Junior College. As a high school gridder, Ken was All-Conference first team and the most valuable player at Sunnyside, Wash. High School, and also captain of the team. He won the inspirational and rebounding awards as a basketball player there. He is majoring in physical education.

88. KELLY, Jim (6-0, 218, Junior)—Expected to fight for a starting tight end position this fall, Jim sat out the major part of spring drills with a neck injury, but came back to catch two touchdown passes in the final spring intrasquad game. A transfer from Grays Harbor, Washington JC, Kelly could be called on to play a defensive interior line position. The All-Washington JC selection is majoring in physical education.

WILSON

APPELT
Senior - Tackle

GRUNOW
Junior - Tackle

81. LUIS, Al (5-9, 185, Junior)—Luis, who can go at either end or defensive halfback, transferred in the spring from Shasta, California JC. He makes up for his lack of height with great hands and solid hitting power. An All-Conference JC player in California who played basketball, baseball and track in high school, Al is majoring in physical education.

62. UNRUH, Rich (6-0, 190, Junior)—One of the later additions to UM football ranks, Rich is coming to Missoula following two years of flying helicopters in Viet Nam. Although listed offensively as an end, Rich is expected to see more action on defense as a linebacker. He was an All-Washington JC selection at Everett JC before entering the service. Rich will major in education and history.

TACKLES

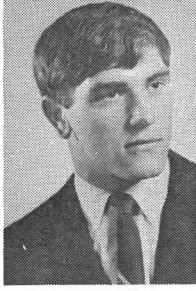

71. APPELT, Wes (6-2, 214, Senior)—A former high school All-American at Sentinel High of Missoula, Wes heads into his senior year as a definite prospect for a starting position in the 1967 offensive line. Wes has the speed and quick hitting power to do a good job in the tackle slot where he started during spring drills and as a junior. He is majoring in business administration.

87. DUDLEY, Eli (6-1, 225, Junior)—A summer addition to the Grizzly roster, Dudley, who transferred from Trinidad State, Colorado JC, could add size, speed and power at either offensive guard or tackle. From Detroit, Mich., Eli was an All-City selection for three years and All-State as a senior. He will be majoring in education.

76. GRUNOW, Mike (5-11, 210, Junior)—Mike picked up valuable experience as a sophomore, and is expected to make good use of that experience in 1967. All-League and All-State in Michigan as a prepster, Mike was selected as a Monroe, Mich. member of the Detroit All-Star team as a senior. He can go either offensively or defensively for Coach Swarhout this fall. Mike is a business administration major.

STRANAHAN

WATERS

Junior - Tackle

70. HOWARD, Lon (5-11, 225, Junior)—Lon proved himself to be a hard worker during spring drills after transferring from Grays Harbor JC. Coaches plan to use him as an offensive tackle, but he can fill a linebacker spot if necessary. Lon was an All-Washington selection from Grays Harbor, and will major in education at Montana.

77. McCANN, Mike (6-2, 212, Sophomore)—A transfer from Columbia Basin JC, Mike will start his first of three years of eligibility as a Grizzly this fall. The former All-Washington JC selection nailed down a starting defensive tackle slot during spring drills, and should be in strong contention for the same spot this fall. Although not as big as other Grizzly tackles, Mike has great desire and strength. He is a physical education major.

58. NICOSIA, Mike (6-2, 235, Sophomore)—Another newcomer to Grizzly football during the summer, Mike is a transfer from Bakersfield, California JC and is expected to see lots of action on either offense or defense. Reputed to have good speed and mobility for his size, Mike is expected by coaches to add great strength to the interior line. Mike is a physical education major.

73. NORDSTROM, Bruce (6-3, 230, Junior)—Bruce also made his first appearance on the Missoula campus this fall as a transfer from Columbia Basin JC. Possessing good strength, Bruce will be used primarily as a defensive end, but may see some action as an offensive player. A psychology major, Bruce started on the Brigham Young frosh squad before going to junior college.

79. STEDHAM, John (6-5, 240, Sophomore)—Another transfer arriving this fall, John played JC ball at Grays Harbor under Grizzly assistant Jack Elway. He started at Grays Harbor as a freshman and will be a three-year man at Montana. Coaches say he has as much potential as anyone on the squad. He is undecided about a major.

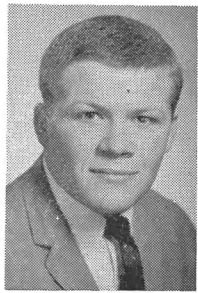

75. STRANAHAN, Larry (6-0, 212, Sophomore)—Up from last year's frosh squad, Larry was a pleasant surprise to coaches during spring drills, blocking one punt and making numerous tackles during the spring intrasquad clash. He may need another year to develop further, but his potential became evident during the spring. Larry is majoring in physical education.

HEDSTROM

HENDERSON
Sophomore - Guard

LAVERY
Junior - Guard

78. TUBBS, Fred (6-2, 235, Junior)—A native of Honolulu, Hawaii, Fred transferred from Columbia Basin JC in Washington in the fall. A jovial guy off the field, Fred can be dynamite when he puts on the pads. A former All-City and All-State selection in Hawaii, Tubbs is expected to be a strong contender for a starting defensive spot. Fred is majoring in psychology.

74. WATERS, Bill (6-1, 218, Sophomore)—Another surprising gridder up from the frosh contingent of 1966, Bill may be a year away. But added size and strength which came during the past year, coupled with good speed and moves, make him a sophomore to be reckoned with even this year. Bill is a secondary education major.

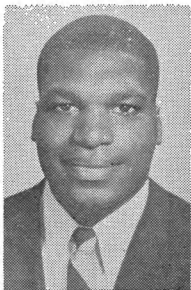

72. YOUNG, Frank (6-1, 210, Junior)—Out with mono-nucleosis during spring ball, Frank is expected to make a strong bid for starting honors in the fall. A transfer last spring from Yakima, Washington JC, Frank can make up for his lack of size with quick hitting and speed. Frank is a physical education major.

GUARDS

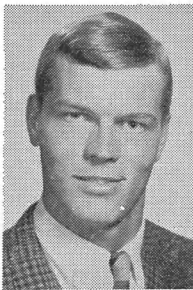

67. BEERS, Bob (5-10, 200, Junior)—Listed offensively as a guard, Bob, who transferred during the summer from Columbia Basin JC, will see action as a defensive linebacker. Bob earned All-America JC first team honors last year on every major poll. Possessing good speed, he was known as one of the most savage-hitting JC linebackers in the nation last year. Coaches are expecting more of the same from Bob this year. He will be majoring in physical education.

66. FRESHOUR, Gary (6-0, 190, Junior)—An All-Washington honorable mention guard who transferred in the spring from Grays Harbor JC, Gary makes up for lack of size with good speed and quick, hard hitting. Known mainly as an offensive player, Freshour can also be used defensively as a linebacker. An All-State and All-Conference gridder at McMinnville, Ore., Gary will major in physical education at Montana.

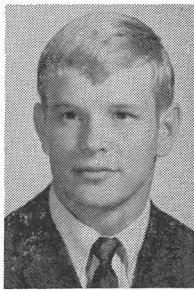

64. HEDSTROM, Ole (6-0, 210, Sophomore)—A fierce competitor for last season's freshmen, Ole showed during spring drills that he has what it takes to play college football. An early starter at defensive end during spring drills, Ole could stay there, or play offensive or defensive guard. Coaches think he will be a real asset to future Grizzly grid fortunes. Ole is majoring in physical therapy.

WHITE

DAWSON
Junior - Center

Sophomore - Center

63. HENDERSON, Steve (5-7, 180, Sophomore)—Another strong prospect up from the 1966 frosh squad, Steve has enough speed, strength and desire to make up for lack of good size. A weightman for Harley Lewis' thinclads in the spring, Steve has the physical qualities to develop into a good guard. Steve is majoring in biological sciences.

61. LAVERY, Tom (5-11, 205, Junior)—One of the top men among offensive guards on the 1967 Grizzly squad, Tom transferred from Columbia Basin JC last spring. Small and compact, but quick, Tom started at offensive strong guard in the spring. A physical education major, Tom hails from Chicago, Ill.

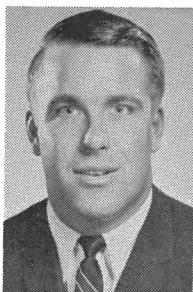

68. ORTIZ, Rich (Butch) (5-8, 185, Junior)—Noted for being an outstanding pulling guard, Butch came to UM from Taft, California JC. The little redhead hits with good power for his size, and his speed especially suits him for the type of offense the Silvertips will be using this fall. Butch is majoring in zoology.

60. WHITE, Herb (5-10, 183, Junior)—One of the fastest men on the team, Herb will be fighting to retain a starting position he nailed down last season. Coaches were especially pleased with his sharp defensive pursuit and offensive blocking during the spring, and they could use him at either offensive guard or linebacker. The Ecorse, Mich. native, who rated All-Big Sky honorable mention last year, is majoring in health and physical education.

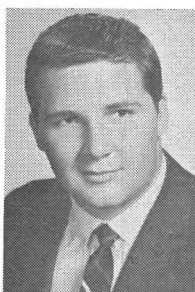

CENTERS

56. DAWSON, Ed (6-3, 210, Junior)—A spring quarter transfer from Grays Harbor JC, Dawson showed signs of promise as an offensive center. Coaches think he will be a top contender for a starting position in the fall even though he was hampered by injuries in the spring. Ed is majoring in physical education.

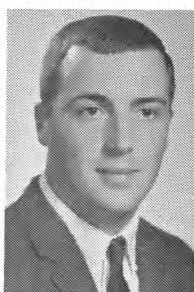

53. GLENNON, Mike (6-0, 180, Sophomore)—Listed as an offensive center, Mike is expected to see action as a defensive end. The former All-State high school grinder from Billings Central High was a backfield standout for last year's freshmen. An average student, Mike is still undecided about a major field.

GRAHAM
Senior - Center

SPARKS
Junior - Center

STEINER
Senior - Quarterback

55. GRAHAM, Bob (6-1, 215, Senior)—Expected to open big holes in the center of the offensive line for the 1967 Grizzlies, Bob is an all-around athlete who transferred a year ago from San Mateo, California JC. In his high school league as a senior, Bob was second in wrestling and third in diving on the swim team at Aragon High. He earned All-Big Sky honorable mention last season. Bob is a health and physical education major.

52. SPARKS, Rick (5-9, 230, Junior)—An All-Montana high school gridder at Butte Public, Sparky showed vast improvement at center last season and during this year's spring drills. With plenty of size and adequate speed, Rick is expected to do his share at center in 1967. Rick is majoring in secondary education.

QUARTERBACKS

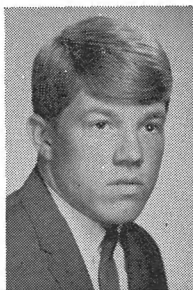

15. MOCHEL, Mark (6-2, 215, Junior)—A summer transfer from Yakima JC, Mark brings an impressive athletic background to UM. As a quarterback at Roosevelt High in Seattle, Mark was given All-American honorable mention as well as All-State and All-City honors. He was also All-Conference in basketball and All-State in track in Seattle. At Yakima, he was an All-Conference signal caller. Big and strong with good passing ability, Mark is majoring in physical education.

11. SEARLES, Jim (6-1, 180, Senior)—A former All-Montana high school quarterback from Missoula Sentinel, Jim is noted for his cool play behind center and his passing ability, especially at short range. Also a deceptive runner, Jim was a starter at times during his sophomore and junior seasons. A 3.3 student, Jim is majoring in business administration.

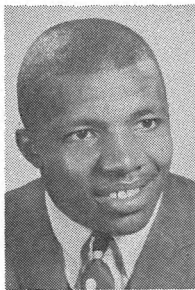

16. STEINER, Ed (6-1, 200, Senior)—A superb passer who also runs the option play extremely well, Ed is a probable starter at quarterback this fall after missing last season with an injury. Steiner's good size makes him hard to bring down if trapped in the backfield. Ed is majoring in health and physical education.

HALFBACKS

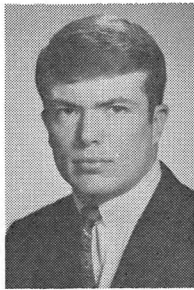

23. ALLEN, Dewey (5-7, 160, Senior)—Handling the Grizzly punting chores for the past two seasons, Dewey, who also holds down the second base spot on the Grizzly baseball squad, will be coming back for his final try at collegiate punting this fall. Last season, Dewey punted 65 times for a 38-yard average. The little guy majors in history and political science.

BAIN

GRAY
Junior - Halfback

MOLLOY
Senior - Halfback

36. BAIN, Doug (5-10, 180, Sophomore)—Mentioned by some as the outstanding man up from last year's frosh squad, Doug spent most of spring drills as a starting offensive halfback. Powerful and fast, Doug churned up plenty of yardage for the Cubs last year and coaches look for the same type of running from Bain this year. The former Kalispell high school standout is majoring in economics.

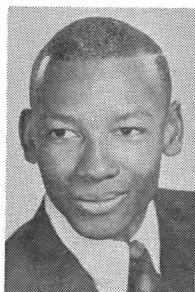

30. FISKE, Karl (5-11, 175, Junior)—Starting his second year as a Grizzly, Karl follows in the footsteps of his father, a Montana grid great from 1940-42. Expected to see most of his action as a defensive safety, Karl has good speed and hits well for his size. The outstanding athlete at Laurel High School in Montana as a senior, Karl chose physical therapy as his major field at Montana.

25. GRAY, Mace (5-10, 190, Junior)—A good solid hitter who could go either way, Mace is expected to perform best as a defensive safety. Coaches look forward to working with Mace, who had an outstanding spring grid season after transferring from Trinidad JC earlier this year. As a prep gridder, Mace earned first team All-Maryland and All-Conference honors while playing for Baltimore City College High School. He is majoring in education.

20. JONES, Willie (5-7, 160, Senior)—The fastest sprinter in the Big Sky Conference this spring (9.4-100 and 21.1-220), Willie uses his speed and quickness to overcome his lack of size. Selected for All-Big Sky honors in 1965, Willie failed to make the grade last year while fighting injuries all season. An All-Michigan high school gridder from Monroe, Willie is majoring in physical education.

40. McBURROWS, John (6-2, 198, Sophomore)—A transfer from Yakima JC who earned All-Washington second team honors last year, John will have three years of eligibility as a Grizzly. Coaches say he has good speed and power, and could be used as a fullback, if necessary. He has not decided on a major field.

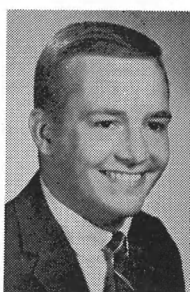

35. MOLLOY, Don (6-0, 195, Senior)—An All-Big Sky honorable mention selection from 1966, Don could do great things for the Grizzlies in his final season. Good size and speed make him a threatening runner at all times. Don has just below a B average in political science.

MORGAN

ROBINSON

SMITH
Senior - Halfback

24. MORGAN, Gartha (6-0, 175, Junior)—Not too hefty but extremely fast, Gartha has recorded a time of 9.6 seconds in the 100-yard dash as a transfer from Columbia Basin JC. An All-American honorable mention selection in junior college last year, Gartha can play either offensively or defensively, although coaches have indicated that offense will be his specialty. Gartha is majoring in physical education.

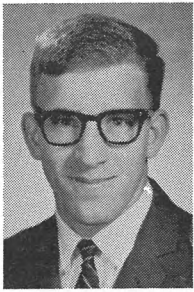

28. NELSON, Larue (5-10, 175, Junior)—A defensive backfield specialist, Larue is one of three Grizzly transfers from Trinidad State JC. With a 9.5-second 100-yard dash already under his belt, Larue shouldn't let runners or receivers get away from him this year. A secondary education major with an emphasis on sociology, Larue comes to Montana from New Orleans.

32. O'NEIL, Mick (5-11, 190, Junior)—With good size and speed, Mick is expected to be a tough addition to the University's defensive backfield this fall. Coming to the Grizzlies from Columbia Basin JC, Mick was selected as a junior college All-American last season. An all-around athlete who also performs well in baseball, Mick will major in physical education.

33. ROBINSON, Roy (5-10, 180, Sophomore)—Ineligible to compete as a freshman, Roy promises to be an outstanding player for the 1967 Grizzlies. A speedster who specializes in the hurdles, Robinson combines his speed with tremendous strength and balance. A standout in the 1966 Montana high school All-Star clash, Roy is majoring in art at Montana.

29. SKINNER, Dennis (6-0, 193, Junior)—Plagued by a knee injury which hampered his play last year, Skinner should be in top form again this fall. Outstanding as a freshman, with good speed and power, Dennis will be welcomed back into the Grizzly fold this fall after one year as a redshirt. He is majoring in forestry.

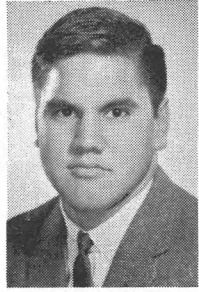

21. SMITH, Gary (5-9, 170, Senior)—Small, but tough, Gary earned All-Big Sky honorable mention recognition last season as a defensive safety. A powerful hitter with quick moves, Gary intercepted six passes last year to rank nationally. A former All-City gridder in Pittsburgh, Pa., Gary is majoring in pre-physical therapy.

STRAUSS
Junior - Halfback

MAGNUSON
Senior - Fullback

PARESA
Junior - Fullback

26. STIMAC, Dan (6-0, 190, Sophomore)—Another stand-out prospect from the 1966 frosh squad, Dan can play either defensive or offensive halfback, or linebacker for the Grizzlies. A high school fullback at Great Falls Central who played in the All-Star game as a senior after earning All-State recognition, Dan is a good straight-ahead runner. He is majoring in physical therapy.

34. STRAUSS, Rick (6-0, 190, Junior)—An off-and-on starter last season as a sophomore, Rick spent most of spring drills in the starting backfield. With good size and speed, and deceptive moves, Rick could very well stay there this fall. An education major at Montana, Rick picked up nearly four yards per carry last season.

FULLBACKS

48. LUNG, Rod (5-11, 200, Senior)—One of the hardest workers on the Grizzly team, Rod has enough desire for the entire squad. After picking up 4.4 yards per carry last year to rate fifth in the Big Sky Conference, Rod was selected for All-League honors. Also an outstanding wrestler during the winter, Rod is majoring in education, with emphasis on the social sciences.

44. MCGUCKIN, Ron (5-10, 192, Sophomore)—A Boulder, Colorado high school product up from last year's frosh squad, Ron could find a place at either fullback or linebacker. Good size and speed make him a threat at either position. Named the outstanding player at Boulder High School as a senior, Ron is currently a 2.8 student in pre-law.

45. MAGNUSON, Bryan (6-0, 220, Senior)—Formerly the outstanding high school prospect from the Minneapolis area, Bryan is expected to burst forth as one of the best college backs in the country this season. Along with his good size, Bryan can cover the century in 10 seconds. Looking forward to a tremendous season after a good spring, Bryan is majoring in education at Montana.

47. PARESA, Greg (6-0, 195, Junior)—A native of Kahului, Maui, Hawaii, Greg came to the University of Montana last spring from Sierra, California, JC. Known best as a linebacker, Greg can also do the job at fullback if necessary. The extremely quick-reacting Hawaiian is majoring in physical education.

1967 OUTLOOK

In three words—inexperienced, hitting and hustling. Offensively, Rick Ouradnik inherits the quarterback spot from departed great Corey Colehour. Veteran ace running back Jerry Quaderer will move over to fullback and soph Lud Fettig looked good at running back. In offensive line Broncho Bill Predovich is back at spread end, hugh John Conrad at tight end, one of the finest punters in the country. The tackle spots might go to Bidd Gresko and Steve Burr, and veterans Bobby LaVoie and Dennis Zelinski and rugged sophomore Coy Tatum are top men at guard, with sophomore Doug Busby manning the center position. Defensively, the Sioux might go with Brian Brewer and Wayne Rasmuson at ends, Chuck Bosch and Emery Hines are experienced tackles and Steve Nunnick and several others are battling for the middle guard slot. Mike Norton, a sophomore, will start at Inebacking post and the other is up for grabs between Chuck Johnson and newcomer Roger Mehus. The four defensive backs show all-conference Bob Toftey, starter Keith Boleen and veteran Rusty Olson with Pete Gilbert and Jim Werre best of the newcomers. Helling predicts the Sioux will be “exciting to watch.”

1967 OUTLOOK

The 1967 Coyote gridders should be a stronger, more talented football squad, but there are some serious holes to fill. The biggest questionmark is the offensive backfield where the only returning starter from last year's team is fullback John Biezuns. Both of the gridders figured for the starting halfback slots, Bobby Koch and Tim Mahan, have legs in casts, and Mahan definitely will not play this fall. The quarterback spot is up for grabs. None of the candidates appear to have adequate college experience. Loss of Mahan will certainly hamper the aerial attack. There is a definite lack of depth in the backfield, especially at fullback and running back. The line both offensively and defensively should be strong. Up front there is more experience, size, depth, and strength than in several years. Linebacking is another source of annoyance to the coaching staff. Replacing Abbott and Merkley, both all-NCC performers, appears a most difficult problem. There is still a problem in the defensive secondary, but all of last year's deep backs return, and there are some good frosh to fill in as they gain experience. The schedule is against the Coyotes, both as far as the North Central Conference and the season are concerned. USD is away from home for their last five contests.

1967 OUTLOOK

The loss of 23 seniors, 13 of them starters, leaves much work to be done by Weber Coach Sark Arslanian and his assistants. An almost complete remodeling job must be done in the line with only one offensive lineman returning, and two defensive linemen. All-Conference tackle Jim Schmedding, and All-Conference fullback Lee White, are the best of the returning players with both being boomed as All-America candidates. Schmedding is the starter returning off the offensive line. White (1,034 yds. rushing) was an honorable mention All-America last year and is rated one of the best fullbacks in the country. The Wildcats are especially weak at quarterback, guard and end. All-Conference quarterback Tim Jones, who threw for 1,737 yards last year, will be missed along with first team All-America defensive end Ron McCall. McCall was a defensive standout for the West in the annual Shrine East-West game and a second-round draft pick of the San Diego Chargers. Arslanian and his staff will have to count on many new JC transfers, and at this stage of the game, the outlook is not too optimistic. Little frosh help is expected.

1967 OUTLOOK

The University of the Pacific football fortunes for the 1967 season appear to be quite good. The Tigers, who are led by last season's Northern California Coach of the Year, Doug Scovil, have the majority of last season's key personnel returning. Last season, the Tigers, on the first step of a rebuilding program, had a respectable 4-7 record, with the key victory of the year coming at the hands of San Jose State Spartans, 38-35. The Tigers in 1967 will be led by senior quarterback Bob Lee, who completed 102 of 222 passes for a total of 1,299 yards and 12 touchdowns last year. The major portion of the Tiger running game will be carried by senior fullback Jack Layland, who gained 830 yards in only 9 games last year. Halfbacks Tom Kilmer and Bill Mendosa appear to be one-two in the running back spot, but will be pushed hard by sophomore John Nahigan. The flanker spot looks good with returning senior Bob Ricioli. The interior line appears well packed with returnees, and the Tiger defense will be led by senior defensive tackle Larry Anderson.

1967 OUTLOOK

The youth movement will be in force this year in Vandal town as Coach Steve Musseau, after losing 21 top seniors from the 1966 club, will be seeing many sophomores and red-shirts on his 1967 Vandal team. After watching the fine spring drills, Musseau feels that Byron Stickland, senior defensive back and Steve Ulrich, senior offensive guard, will be the only two returning lettermen that could be sure of their positions. There will be some hustling juniors and red-shirts, who have been impressive in spring drills, battling for starting positions and this makes things interesting when the squad returns for fall practice. According to Musseau, all positions are open until the starting whistle against Pacific Sept. 16, but he promises a fine spectacular brand of football for Vandal fans this year.

1967 OUTLOOK

Second-year Idaho State Coach Leo McKillip has 22 lettermen and several talented newcomers on hand, but a rough schedule will make it difficult to improve on last season's 3-6 record. Leading the list of returning lettermen is record-setting quarterback Bill Ingram, who accounted for 1,188 yards with his passing arm last season. With such outstanding receivers on hand as senior Bob Odom and junior Jim Rackley at split end and sophomore Craig Coye at tight end, the Bengals should be a threat from anyplace on the field. McKillip has taken steps to improve the running game, which bogged down several times last season. Halfback Mike Acker, who led the team in rushing last season, is back for his senior year and will be joined in the backfield by last year's flankerback John Figueroa. Junior college transfer Joe Clark could solve the fullback problem and letterman Greg Esplin is also on hand. Senior tackles Alex Laigo and Buddy Hiram bring experience to the offensive line, and guards Bob Requejo and Bernie Silva were both starters last season. Sophomore Joe McGrath won the center position in spring drills. Senior tackle Bob Satterwhite will anchor the defensive line.

1967 OUTLOOK

Northern Arizona University's head football coach Andy MacDonald is somewhat optimistic concerning Lumberjack football fortunes this fall, but he comes up on a pessimistic note when asked about personnel. With 14 linemen among the 21 returnees expected back from the 1966 squad, the defensive and offensive line should be practically intact, with some strengthening needed. NAU's Little All-American middle guard Dick Ries will be back this fall and he is expected to again be a key to a potential stout defensive unit. Also back are defensive end-tackle Larry Small, tackle Mike Hannigan, and linebacker Ernie Redmond. Outlook for the Lumberjack's passing offense should be rosier if two spring transfers come through—quarterback Carl Williams from Arlington State and split end Rich O'Hara from the University of Iowa. MacDonald has hopes that the 10 spring JC transfers can come through to give the Lumberjacks the help needed to improve the offensive line, but the results won't be known until the fall campaign gets underway. Two Fullerton JC transfers, Gary Wedemeyer, tackle or guard, and Bob Chapman, end, are expected to provide much of the help that MacDonald wants on the line. He anticipates that a number of the newcomers can give needed depth in the backfield, especially at fullback and flanker, also noting that a couple of last year's redshirts, Chick Harris and Bob Wells, both defensive backs, should boost the Lumberjacks' defensive strength. There are only two returnees from the '66 squad. A number of promising players up from the freshman ranks should brighten the outlook for this fall.

1967 OUTLOOK

Despite the loss of 18 seniors, the Montana State football outlook is encouraging. Twenty-two lettermen return from last year's Big Sky Conference championship team which was ranked as the nation's number two small-college squad. Montana State will probably be strongest in the offensive backfield, where all four starters, including Little-All-America halfback Don Hass, return. Quarterback Dennis Erickson, flanker Ron Bain and fullback Ray Becky started as sophomores last season. Hass will be playing his final season for MSU this fall. Hass is, of course, a strong candidate for All-America honors again in 1967. The Bobcats lose two ends and an offensive tackle from the defensive line, but return four offensive line starters.

1967 OUTLOOK

New Utah State University football coach Chuck Mills inherits a team possessing some veteran material, but one shy of depth since the recruiting process at USU was slowed by the coaching change. A nucleus of 28 returning lettermen will have to shoulder a large share of the load. Bill Staley will be a strong contender for All-American honors after pacing USU to 6th and 11th place national standings in rushing defense the past two seasons. Teaming with Staley are 13 other returning veterans who saw heavy action last year. Offensively, Mills would like to display a wide-open attack featuring a lot of passing, but the lack of a great quarterback and the presence of some strong ballcarriers might indicate the Utags will be emphasizing the ground game. MacArthur Lane, Altie Taylor, Gerald Watson and Frank Nunn were first, second and fourth and fifth in rushing in 1966. In the spring Lane and Taylor alternated at tailback and Watson and Nunn split the fullback chores, but Mills might come up with a plan to use both Lane and Taylor at the same time this fall. Jim Harrop, a sophomore red-shirt, appears to have the inside track at quarterback, although John Pappas, USU starter the latter half of 1966 has an edge in experience and could be number one again.

1967 OUTLOOK

The 1967 Vikings should be the best ever at Portland State College personnel-wise. However, lack of depth at some positions will pose a definite problem for the Vikes in their tough 10-game schedule that includes four Big Sky Conference opponents. Gene Davis, 230, could be one of the best small-college tackles on the Coast, but speed and experience beyond him makes the line going both ways a question mark. The offensive backfield, with nine lettermen returning, should be improved, with record-setting quarterback Ed Gorman back along with more speed at the running slots. Top returnees in the backfield include Tom Oberg, Rick Silva, Val Thompson and Dan Withers at halfbacks and Jim Heard at fullback. Mike McKeel linebacker, and Tom Oberg, safety, head a sound secondary despite the loss of Larry Adamson, linebacker, and Larry Henrickson, the other 1966 linebacker. Leading newcomers include transfer quarterback Bob Kelley; halfbacks John Johns, Chris Wood and Bill Heard, all sophomores; soph fullback Joe Talbot; transfer guard Rick Young; tackles Rick Everett and Bret Crouser, sophomores, and transfer Ron Goodpaster and Jim LaSelle, and sophomore ends Tom Dearborn and Tom Taylor.

1967 Cross Country

RAY VELEZ
Grizzly Sophomore

FRED FRIESZ
NCAA All-American

The cross country outlook for the 1967 season is extremely bright, and Coach Harley Lewis thinks he is blessed with a host of outstanding runners.

Leading the lot is senior Fred Friesz of Billings, a track star who came into his own by earning All-America honors in the six-mile run at the NCAA Track and Field Championships at Provo, Utah, last spring.

Fred, who has been running in the shadow of Doug Brown at the University of Montana since he was a freshman, will be number one in the distance events in both cross country and track this year.

Expected to provide solid support for Friesz are sophomore Ray Velez of Highland Falls, N.Y., who shone in the mile run as a frosh last spring; senior Bob Gibson of Missoula, who broke his own personal mark in the 880-yard run last spring, and soph Mickey Harrington of Missoula, another ace in the half mile.

Still more help is expected from two strong but less experienced thinclads, sophomore Clarence Greenwood of Glentana and Boulder sophomore Duane Spethman.

Lewis also thinks three freshmen, Wade Jacobsen of Simms, Ray Ballow of Sunburst, and Steve Linse of Snohomish, Wash., will be right in the thick of things when the cross country season opens for the Silvertips with a dual meet against Weber State in Ogden, Utah, Sept. 30. The season ends with the Big Sky Conference Meet in Missoula Nov. 11.

Tribute to Eddie Chinske

By

Bill Schwanke

UM Sports Information Director

It's hard to write about a man like Eddie Chinske.

In paying tribute to Eddie, you don't want to become too emotional, because he wouldn't have liked that. But you don't want to leave anything out, because that wouldn't be fair.

Eddie's outstanding record in the field of athletics is already known throughout the state and beyond, and repetition of wins and losses and state and conference championships in three different sports would mean nothing to those who knew, and admired Eddie Chinske.

It is what made Eddie such a success in athletics, both as a player and a coach, that is important.

Eddie had the personality, desire and drive that are needed so badly to stand out in athletics. As a coach, his interest in the young men he led was of utmost importance.

No one knows this better than those young men; men like Murdo Campbell, Doug Dasinger, Billy Gue, Dick Heath, Dick Imer, Huz Jensen, Dale Shupe and others who played football at the University of Montana when Eddie was coaching from 1952-54.

More recently, as a golf coach whose teams have won the Big Sky Conference championship all four times since the league was founded in 1963 and who was named Big Sky coach of the year each time, Eddie worked with other young men who came to know him not only as an outstanding coach, but also as a good friend.

Men like Don Waller, Gary Kopravica, Rick Carpenter, Jim Roberts, Harland Peschel, John Warren, and numerous others, have bettered themselves through their relationship with Eddie Chinske.

But Eddie's influence among young people at the University of Montana didn't stop with varsity athletics. Hundreds of young men were acquainted with Eddie through the men's intramural program, a program which Eddie directed in addition to his coaching and teaching duties.

Those young men will tell you that Eddie did a tremendous job with the intramural program, one that has grown so large that it could nearly warrant a full-time director.

Eddie wasn't the kind of man who coached and taught for financial rewards alone. He coached and taught because he loved young people, and because he knew the true value of education and athletics, both individually and combined.

Eddie did not like to give away his deep interest in people, especially young people. But those of us who were fortunate enough to know him and work with him can realize how much working with and helping young people meant to Eddie.

It was his life.
