Dedication

The 1984 Champion Holiday Classic program is dedicated to one of Montana's No. 1 fans and No. 1 people, Erik "Rick" Ogren, who was tragically killed in an automobile accident July 14, 1984. His friend and colleague Bill Bouchee has written a few words about Rick.

Rick, as many of us called him, was a staunch supporter of the University of Montana and Grizzly Athletics. This was evidenced by his annual membership purchases and the use of company cars for the athletic department. Aside from financial support, he was always committed to supporting the coaches and players.

Over the years, Rick became very successful in the automobile business. He was a pilot and came into the business through the efforts and encouragement of Joe Taylor. Rick worked extremely hard and surrounded himself with very capable people. He gained a reputation for being a fair and honest dealer. His word was his bond and his integrity became impeccable.

Rick loved people. His kindness and consideration gained him many friends and admirers. He talked incessantly about his family and their plans. We are saddened to lose such a wonderfully honest and admired man, but glad that we were his friends and know that we all benefitted from his acquaintance.

Our New Location
The University of Montana in Missoula is located in a mountain forest setting in beautiful Western Montana. It is halfway between Glacier and Yellowstone national parks.

Four wilderness areas are located near Missoula. The natural surroundings offer excellent opportunities for hunting, fishing, backpacking, river floating, camping and other outdoor recreational pursuits. Two excellent winter ski areas are located within minutes of the University. Several other ski areas are only a couple of hours away by car. UM owns and operates its own golf course adjacent to campus.

The University of Montana is one of the West's pioneers in education and was chartered February 17, 1893. The school opened in September, 1895, with 50 students enrolling the first day. Located on 201 acres at the base of Mount Sentinel, UM has grown from 50 students and seven faculty members to a present enrollment of 9,400 and approximately 450 fulltime faculty positions.

Through its history, the University of Montana has sustained a high standard of academic excellence in teaching, research and service.

UM offers associate of arts degrees in two areas and bachelor's degrees in 58 fields. It offers master's degrees in 54 programs and doctoral degrees in 13.

The College of Arts and Sciences, which is the core of the University, includes a full range of programs and courses in the life sciences, physical sciences, social sciences and humanities. The College also offers curricula in interdisciplinary fields ranging from ethnic studies to interdepartmental studies.

Seven professional schools complete the academic program – Business Administration, Fine Arts, Journalism, Education, Forestry, Law, Pharmacy and Allied Health Sciences.

The aim of the University is to provide its students with a relaxing and meaningful learning experience with the best facilities possible. The administration, faculty and staff strive for this goal.

About Champion

Champion International Corporation is a major forest products company and a pioneer in the building products, papers and paper packaging businesses. Headquartered in Stamford, Connecticut, the company's major domestic divisions include:

- Building Products
- Paper
- Packaging
- Timberlands

The company was formed in 1967 with the merger of Champion Papers Inc. and U.S. Plywood Corporation. The name Champion International Corporation was adopted in 1972.

Champion in Montana

Champion's investment in Montana is a substantial one. It includes 683,000 acres of timberlands; the largest softwood plywood plant in North America; several sawmills that produce a wide variety of lumber products; and the largest pulp and paper mill of Champion's packaging division. All together, there are some 2,400 Montana Champions employed by these operations located primarily in western Montana and also northern Idaho.

Champion's desire to sponsor a tournament for the University came as an outgrowth of an existing community interest in college basketball, and a need for additional academic scholarship programs at the University of Montana.

It is intended that any income from the tournament which is not required to pay the expenses of the tournament will be used for academic and scholarship programs at the University of Montana.

This community event enables individuals from divergent backgrounds and interests to have a common interest, that being the University of Montana.

This event is an example of industry and community participation, hosting an athletic event to provide assistance to academic and scholarship programs at the University of Montana.

The art of lost wax casting is almost as old as art itself. Probably the most complex of all casting techniques, it has been used throughout history to capture detail and intricately designed in various metals.

When Missoula residents Don Olson and Ron Herron first tried their hands at this ancient technique, they used an old tomato juice can and plaster of Paris. That was in 1970 and both would have to admit they've come a long way since then.

Herron, who has since moved to Helena, has become a nationally recognized artist, famous for both his painting and sculptures, and Olson have perfected the techniques of casting in bronze to the point that artists from around the nation send their work to his Alpine Bronze foundry, located in Missoula.

Watching the technicians work on the two bronze trophies for the Champion Holiday Classic offers a glimpse into the history of this ancient art, a complex and time-consuming process which yields works in bronze that cannot be duplicated.

The process begins in wax. The two original trophies, which were sculpted by Herron in wax, were first photographed for reference and then brushed with several layers of latex to create a mold of the wax original. This latex mold is the permanent record of the artist's original.

Next, wax is poured into the latex mold, the wax cooled, the mold disassembled, and in theory what emerges is an exact duplicate of the artist's original. However, it is never that simple.

The wax replica must be transferred to the secondary wax room where technicians, who are artists in their own right, refine and perfect the wax, constantly comparing it to the original in the photographs.

Once the technicians are satisfied that the secondary wax is indeed identical to the artist's original, it is fitted with a system of tubes, or sprue.
gates, which serve as ducts for the molten metal and escaping air. This insures that when the bronze is eventually poured into the mold, it will flow evenly through the piece and into any extremities.

From the secondary wax to a secondary mold. From this wax replica of the artist’s original a silica and sand shell is created by dipping the replica first in a liquid silica and then into several layers of sand. Once the shell is thick enough, the entire piece, which now looks like something that has just been washed ashore, is placed in an oven. The wax, which is sealed inside the shell, is heated and runs out. Thus, the lost wax.

This empty sand shell is then reheated, molten bronze poured into it, the shell broken, and the bronze and metal allowed to cool, then the trophy is revealed.

At last! But not finally. For now it must go back to the technicians for refining and finishing.

The sprues, which are now made of bronze, must be removed along with any imperfections, such as air bubbles or cracks. Once again, the technician works from the photographs to insure the accuracy of even the smallest detail.

The entire piece is then heated with a torch until it is so hot it actually glows, and a chemical compound is sprayed onto the surface to achieve the finish, or patina.

Finally the piece is baked with a wax coating and then mounted, which brings to an end an estimated 150 man hours in the casting of one bronze trophy.

The winning team and most valuable player at this year’s Champion Holiday Classic will not only be taking home a trophy for their team and school, they will be earning a unique and valuable work of art, the likes of which will not be seen until the process begins again next year, when the fourth in the series of trophies is cast.
Montana Universities and Colleges have developed the talent that has made our investment firm the largest in the entire Pacific Northwest.

OK, stop shaking those presents. That’s right, Northeastern, Arkansas-Little Rock and Georgia State, don’t expect Santa to help you out.

This is Dahlberg Arena, home of the University of Montana Grizzlies, and there aren’t any gifts given here. As a matter of fact, since the 1972 season exactly 22 teams have won in the Grizzlies’ lair in 178 games.

But, then again, two of those teams, Gonzaga in 1980 and Cal-Irvine in 1981, grabbed their “presents” and ran, winning championships in the annual Champion Holiday Classic Tournament.

That fact points out the quality of teams which yearly play in the “Classic,” which is in its fifth year. And because of that quality you can bet seventh-year UM coach Mike Montgomery knows full well when it comes to the tourney there is no St. Nick giving away any freebies to his Grizzlies.

“There’s no doubt that year in and year out we’ve had had some of the quality teams from around the country,” Montgomery said.

“Irvine had a top 20 team when they played here and an All-American (Kevin Magee). And last year we had a preseason top 20 team (Cal-Fullerton) and two preseason All-Americans.

Defending their title will be no easy task for the Grizzlies. First Montana will play Georgia State and if they win, the winner of Arkansas-Little Rock vs. Northeastern of Boston game.

Georgia State is coming off a not-so-glamorous 6-22 record of a year ago, but one of those six victories was a biggie—a 52-50 road win over the Tennessee Volunteers.

A twist of fate is involved in UM’s first round matchup with the Panthers. Just three days ago, Dec. 4, head coach Tom Pugliesse was fired and assistant Mark Slonaker was named interim head coach. GSU has a 1-2 record, and ironically Pugliesse was fired hours after the Panthers had defeated visiting Huntington (IN) College, 82-77. Slonaker was a basketball star at Georgia in the late 70’s.

We’ll be there (at the Champion tourney) and we’ll be representative,” said GSU Athletic Director Sherman Day. “We’ll give it a good shot.”

The tournament has been great for us, for Missoula, and for the University,” Montgomery continued. “We’ve been able to play some teams from conferences around the country, that we might otherwise not have been able to play.”

The Panthers top player is senior Chris Jackson who is averaging almost 20 points a game. He scored 25 points in a loss at the Citadel. Center Jevon Estes is the top rebounder with a 9.0 average.

Last year’s Champion MVP, junior Larry Krystkowiak of Montana, is off to an outstanding start this season. He is averaging 21 (points and 10 rebounds a game, shooting 60 percent from the field and 90-plus percent from the line.

Krystkowiak will be put in the national limelight Saturday, Dec. 8, when CBS does a halftime special on the "Five Most Underrated College Basketball Players in the U.S." The feature will be aired at intermission of the Georgetown-Nevada-Las Vegas national telecast.

Montgomery's Grizzlies are now 4-1, fresh off a 72-58 win over Eastern Montana. "Krysko" had 20 points and 10 rebounds in the game.

Guard Todd Powell is the next leading scorer, followed by guard Mike Wnek (8.8) and center Larry McBride (7.2). McBride is averaging 5.1 rebounds a game and has eight blocks. Guard Leroy Washington is averaging five-plus assists per game.

Despite UM's win-loss mark Montgomery said, "Our concentration is not what we need to be successful. You can't play basketball on and off like a faucet."

The Northeastern Huskies from Boston bring a top-notch heritage of basketball to the tournament. They have been in the NCAA's postseason tournament three of the last four years and have three starters back from a 27-5 team.

Northeastern went 17-0 in conference and postseason conference play—the only school in the nation to have that kind of success. The Huskies beat Long Island 90-87 in the preliminary round last year, then lost to Virginia Commonwealth, 70-69 at the buzzer. NE is 2-0 thus far this season.

Head coach Jim Calhoun lost his top player in forward Mark Halsel, but ECAC North Atlantic Conference Rookie of the Year Reggie Lewis has greatness written all over him. He is averaging 18 points a game and set a frosh record with 571 points last year. Lewis is from the well known Dunbar High in Baltimore.

Halsel made the final 32 of the Olympic Trials, along with UM's Krystkowiak. Halsel was drafted by the Chicago Bulls in the fourth round and now plays in the Continental Basketball Association.

An interesting note is that one of Calhoun's assistants is Kevin Stacom, a star player at Providence, which made it to the NCAA's Final Four his junior season. The college All-American (1974) was a second round draft pick of the Boston Celtics and the third guard of the Celt's 1976 championship team.

Arkansas-Little Rock is coached by former Oklahoma assistant Mike Newell, who also serves as the Trojan athletic director. ALR returns two starters off a 14-15 team.

Newell added eight recruits to his roster, five of whom are junior college transfers. Myron Jackson is the top returning player (9.1 ppg), while veteran center Ezelle Rivers is the only senior on the team.

ALR, which is 0-3, is led by Michael Clark, one of four transfers from Faulkner State JC. He is averaging 13.6 points and 10 rebounds a game. Fellow forward Pete Myers, also from Faulkner, is averaging 10 points and 5.7 rebounds a contest.

Yes, there'll be four teams shaking their presents under the Champion Tree—but they don't get to open them until that final buzzer sounds . . .

Santa, I have just one more present I want for Christmas . . .

Larry Krystkowiak receives his 1983 Champion Holiday Classic IV MVP award.
