CHARLES H. CLAPP

PRESIDENT

B.S., PH.D.

Many, quoting a great leader, designate Higher Education as the developing arm of Government. The phrase is preserved even in the decisions of some of our leading courts. Too frequently, however, it has been interpreted to include only contributions to land utilization, surveys of mineral resources, research in pure and applied science, creative writing, plans for city zoning and recreation, and reforms in taxation. Important as those developments are, in such an institution as the State University of Montana they fade into relative insignificance compared to the development of students,—past, present, and future. It is not always appreciated that the members of the faculty of the State University of Montana are first and foremost teachers, and that the institution renders its greatest service to the state in the development of students and only incidentally in other ways. "The State University of Montana must prosper," but it prospers as its students,—past, present, and future—prosper.

FREDERICK C. SCHEUCH
VICE PRESIDENT
M.E., A.C.

“ * * * Consider what are the true ends of knowledge, and that they seek it not either for pleasure of the mind, or for contention, or for superiority to others, or for profit, or fame, or power, or any of these inferior things; but for the benefit and use of life; and that they perfect and govern it in charity. For it was from lust of power that the angels fell, from lust of knowledge that man fell; but of charity there can be no excess, neither did angel or man ever come in danger of it. * * * ”
(Instauratio Magna) Francis Bacon

RICHARD H. JESSE
DEAN OF THE FACULTY

Fosan et haec olim meminisse juvabit.
Translation: "Them were the days."

The old Latin phrase "Lux et Veritas", which appears on the seal of the State University, is a worthy ideal to keep before us. It is fortunate that we live in an age where devotion to truth, lead where it may, is becoming more and more the philosophy of larger groups of people. Our opportunities to learn the truth are increasing. But in this day of fleeting visions we need to stop every now and then and raise the question—Do my opinions represent the truth?

JAMES B. SPEER
REGISTRAR AND BUSINESS MANAGER
B.A., LL.B.

HARRIET RANKIN SEDMAN
DEAN OF WOMEN
B.A., M.A.

Let us hope that college students to-day realize the importance of keeping their minds free and open so that they may be able to recognize real values. May they have the power to withstand the wedge of discouragement, so persistent in times like these, and to look ahead with courage and confidence to the future which surely holds for them greater opportunity for happiness and true satisfactions than it held for those who preceded them.

With the hope that the students of the past maintain their interest in the University; that those of the present return to the campus and that the State University becomes the Alma Mater of thousands of Montanans of future college generations.

DEAN R. C. LINE

SCHOOL OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

Business courses have been taught in the State University since 1914, at which time a member of the business office taught the first classes. In 1917 these courses were organized into a department and in 1919 President E. O. Sisson sent for Shirley J. Coon, who came here to organize the School of Business Administration. In the fall of 1927 the present dean, Robert C. Line, succeeded Coon, and in response to many demands for more specialized lines now supervises special activity that is beneficial in practical experience to students in the school.

In the elementary courses training is given for expert clerical work and the advanced courses qualify their members for administrative positions in industrial and commercial organizations and other lines of public service.

One of the most successful features of the last two years has been the institution of a Forum at which faculty and business men meet to discuss current business problems. In addition, many local surveys are conducted with the students assuming the responsibility of organization and research.

The courses of the school are arranged to combine with those of other schools and departments for greater specialization of training. It is possible, by cooperation with the School of Law, for a student to obtain in six years both the degree of Bachelor of Arts in business administration and an LL.B. degree. Those students interested in advertising may combine courses from the School of Journalism and the Department of Psychology with their business courses. Those desiring to teach commercial subjects may obtain the University Certificate of Qualification to Teach.

Under the Bureau of Labor Statistics, Dean Line was appointed this year as Montana director of a survey conducted in 11 western states to determine employment conditions before and after the NRA took effect. He was assisted in the work by students and graduates of his department.

DEAN FREEMAN DAUGHTERS

SCHOOL OF EDUCATION

The two courses in education first offered in 1904 under the Department of Philosophy expanded until in 1914 the Department of Education was organized, and in 1930 the present School of Education, of which Dr. Freeman Daughters is dean. By a legislative act of 1911, the University issues certificates to teach to graduates who have satisfactorily completed the work of the course outlined. Nine graduates in 1914 received the first certificates offered.

The school aims to train supervisors for the public schools of Montana, to train teachers for junior and senior high schools as well as those of special subjects such as music, art, physical education and home economics, to provide assistance to the schools of the state in the form of testing programs, extension work and expert counsel, to encourage investigation and research in the schools of the state, and to unify and co-ordinate the agencies of the State University which contribute to the preparation of those who expect to enter school work.

Practical experience is offered by cadet work in the Missoula city schools and the Missoula County high school. In cooperation with the School of Education, Professor W. E. Maddock has charge of the Board of Recommendations which helps place members of the graduating class in teaching positions. It also gives service to all earlier graduates previously registered with the board, and places between three and four hundred people every year.

Through the School of Education, the Montana Conference on Educational Problems is held during the summer session each year. Distinguished members of other institutions are featured speakers on the program, as well as members of the regular staff.

ACTING DEAN I. W. COOK

SCHOOL OF FORESTRY

In a little room in the attic of Main hall the first classes in forestry met in 1912, under Professor Dorr Skeels and Dr. J. E. Kirkwood. It was called the Ranger school and was established at the State University by the government.

The state legislature created the School of Forestry in 1914. Professor Skeels secured $35,000 from the government, and a shack, the one which now houses the A. S. U. M. store, was built for the school.

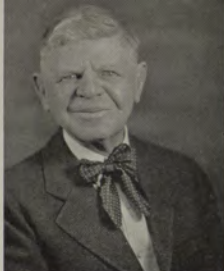

This structure was used for seven years, but a rapid increase in the department's enrollment demanded a larger and better building. In 1921 the present School of Forestry building was erected, and still receives acclaim as one of the finest in the west.

Situated in the heart of a richly-timbered section of the state where every inland forest type of the northwest is found, the school enjoys unusual opportunities for the practical work so important in forestry. As much as possible of the technical instruction is carried on in the field. Two years' summer field practice is required of students in the school. Within easy reach of extensive logging, lumbering and lumber-manufacturing operations, field trips of from one to several weeks' duration are required of juniors and seniors. These trips do not normally exceed $75 a year and offer unlimited practical advantages.

The School of Forestry maintains its own nursery with a potential capacity of 1,000,000 trees a year, under constant improvement and expansion. In addition, a valuable school forest of some fifteen hundred acres, loaned by the United States Forest Service for experimentation purposes, is immediately adjacent to the campus. Within 100 miles are 16 national forests, two other government timber reserves, several state forests, a national park and several private forest protective associations. RFC labor sample plots have been established for experimentation in Douglas fir and Western Yellow pine.

A loan fund which at present approximates twenty-three hundred dollars has been established by the school's Forestry club and is available to juniors and seniors who have been active members of the club for at least one year. Proceeds from Foresters' ball, the annual Paul Bunyan frolic which has the distinction of being the only university dance of its kind in the world, are also turned into this student loan fund.

DEAN A. L. STONE

SCHOOL OF JOURNALISM

Ranking class "A" among journalism institutions of the United States today and celebrating the twentieth anniversary of its founding, we have the School of Journalism which began its colorful career in a group of tents set up overnight by Dean A. L. Stone in 1914. The nature of these canvas classrooms caused them to achieve immediate fame. Their photographs appeared in newspapers all over the country. About fifteen students enrolled in that first school.

When it became necessary to take a stand against Montana blizzards, the sides of a bicycle stand were boarded up and a few windows cut out. After the World War the school moved into the Marcus Cook building, then a military barracks and now best known as the "Shack", scene of campus journalistic activity and famed for the camaraderie known as "Shack Spirit".

Today the school features practical training in all fields of newspaper work. A comprehensive background in all phases of the College of Arts and Sciences is required of graduates in addition to their professional training in newspaper work. Employing the principles of a metropolitan office, students in the School of Journalism gather, handle and present news for the semi-weekly Montana Kaimin, even to the printing. The print shop, added in recent years, has rounded out the school's efficiency and completeness and offers valuable training in its laboratory courses.

Through outside contacts and news services established, more than twelve thousand inches of State University news are sent out by journalism students and printed in Montana papers every year. The school maintains an extensive "morgue", or dead news room, used for back references. The study of current events is an outstanding feature of the curriculum. The school library includes the leading newspapers, professional publications and public relations material from organizations over the entire country, in addition to copies of daily "flimsy" donated by the Associated Press, the United Press and the International News Service. These materials are used as a basis of instruction throughout the entire course.

Registrants in the school automatically become members of the Press club. Its programs are designed to bring closer contacts between members of the school itself and with men and women in the active field.

DEAN C. W. LEAPHART

SCHOOL OF LAW

One of the oldest on the campus, the School of Law is also one of the leaders and ranks among the class "A" institutions. It was established in 1911 and was located on one of the floors of the present law building, at that time the State University's library. When the Library moved into its present location in the summer of 1923, the School of Law took over the entire building left vacant.

The school is known for its excellent working library of 23,000 volumes, one of the finest and most complete in the northwest. It includes the reports of the Supreme Court of the United States, the complete Reporter System, all state reports up to the Reporter System, English Reports, English Statutes, Canadian Reports, the revision and current statute laws of all the states in the Union, citators, encyclopedias, digests and all leading collections of cases. It has been built around the William Wirt Dixon Memorial Library, a gift of Mrs. W. W. Dixon, and includes the gifts of Judge John J. McHatton and the seven thousand volume library of the late Senator W. A. Clark.

As an outstanding member of the Association of American Law Schools, this is one of the institutions approved by the American Bar Association. Graduates may, in the discretion of the Supreme Court of Montana, be admitted to practice in the courts of Montana without further examination.

Two years of regular university courses are prerequisite to entrance in the school. Three years of pre-legal preparation are recommended; included in this work is the curriculum of the Division of Social Sciences. Pre-legal work is followed by a course of study which normally takes three years in the School of Law itself. The case system of instruction is employed. Special attention is given to practice court work, in which the students are required not only to argue legal questions, but to try cases, prepare appeals and go through all the steps incident to the trial of a law suit. A thorough course is given in the use of law books.

The School of Law has had, since its founding, the distinction of being the only department on the campus which employs the honor system in examinations. Honesty and integrity are required of every student receiving the LL.B. degree.

DELOSS SMITH

SCHOOL OF MUSIC

Since 1913, when Dean DeLoss Smith taught voice, sight-singing and ear-training, was director of glee clubs and orchestra and instructor of public school music courses all at the same time, the School of Music has become renowned throughout the state. During the 21 years of the school's existence Mrs. Smith has assisted as official accompanist and instructor of pipe organ and piano.

The degree of Bachelor of Arts in music now offered covers courses in applied music, voice, violin, piano and organ, ensemble music, harmony, history of music and music education. During the last two years courses have been added in wood winds and brass under the direction of Stanley Teel, also director of the Grizzly band, John Crowder, associate professor and well-recognized artist of the northwest, gives specialized instruction in piano.

Student recitals provide an opportunity to apply ability and proficiency in public in both individual and group appearances. A special course covering a period of four years is maintained for supervisors and teachers of music in public schools. Observation work in this course is carried on in the city schools.

The State University Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Professor A. H. Weisberg, gives annual performances of near-professional finish. These presentations give, as a critic of this year's performance described it, "listeners who come to hear sound and great music a chance to hear at first hand compositions of the great masters".

For the first time in many years the men's and women's glee clubs appeared winter quarter in joint recital, with Bernice Berry Ramskill, associate professor, as accompanist for the program. The Women's Glee club includes 26 members, and the Men's, 50.

DEAN C. E. MOLLETT

SCHOOL OF PHARMACY

With a modest enrollment of nine, the School of Pharmacy had its beginning under C. E. Mollett, the present dean, in 1907 at Montana State College. In 1913 it was moved to the State University to share its present location with all the science departments and has grown until today it occupies Science hall with only the Department of Chemistry.

At the recommendations of the National Association of Colleges of Pharmacy and the United States Pharmaceutical Revision Corporation in which the school has membership, and of the National Association of Boards of Pharmacy, it is now operating upon a four-year minimum course basis employed by all the recognized schools of pharmacy in the United States. The academic year 1934 and '35 will afford the last opportunity for those students registered in the now discontinued three-year course to complete the required work under the old regulations.

The School of Pharmacy offers a thorough technical education in pharmacy. By properly selecting courses in chemistry and bacteriology, graduates are prepared for positions as laboratory technicians. As an important addition to the equipment, a small plot is devoted to the raising of medicinal plants to provide material for laboratory use of students in the course's pharmacognosy, manufacturing pharmacy and drug analysis. The enterprise has received assistance from the Bureau of Plant Industry of the United States and from a number of schools of pharmacy of other states which have well-established gardens.

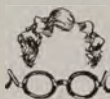

The government has now recognized pharmacy in hygienic health service and the Veterans' Bureau on the same basis as medicine, dentistry and other professions. About three hundred twenty-five alumni of this department are practicing pharmacy at the present time and over fifty graduates and former students own their own stores. Several are in government service and some are representatives of large pharmaceutical manufacturing houses. The University of Montana gave its first Master of Science degree in pharmacy in June, 1932.

Associated Women Students is an organized group comprising all of the women students regularly enrolled at the State University. The legislation and enforcement of all rules governing women students is the purpose of the organization.

Among the social functions which A. W. S. sponsors throughout the scholastic year is Co-ed Formal, the annual dance at which the women play the role of hosts for the evening. Dorothy Dee Miller of Idaho Falls, Idaho, was in charge of the 1934 Co-ed Formal, which was given at the Mount Sentinel Community Club on January 19.

Each spring A. W. S. sponsors the outdoor festival, "May Fete", presented during Commencement Week. The 1933 production was "In Many Lands" featuring the costumes and dances of various countries.

A senior dinner is sponsored every spring by A. W. S. women who resided in either North or Corbin halls during their freshman year, where they are again guests at the residence halls on this occasion.

Two hundred Missoula children were entertained on Saturday, December 9, at the annual Christmas party given by the Associated Women Students. Helen Huxley, chairman of social service work for A. W. S., was in charge of the affair. Gifts of stockings, tams and candy were given to the children. Entertainment included a program of games and songs and the serving of oranges and apples at the close of the afternoon.

During the past year A. W. S. organized a series of tradition talks which were given at all regular meetings. The purpose of these talks was to bring back to the State University the origin and custom of old traditions which were carried out in former years.

The governing body of the organization is an executive board composed of the officers, chairmen of the standing committees, and representatives from each sorority, women's dormitories, Mortar Board, Tanan-of-Spur, Women's Athletic association and Central Board.

In 1914 the Women's League was formed which later developed into the Women's Self Governing Association. The present A. W. S. was organized in 1924, evolving from the former two groups.

Central Board, composed of the officers of the Associated Students of the State University, is the organization governing all students in attendance at the State University.

With the exception of the Kaimin editor and the yell king, all of these officials are student-elected annually at the spring elections.

Harvey Thirloway, elected president of the students last spring, resigned at the end of the fall quarter to accept a position in Washington, D. C. He was replaced by Grace Johnson, who had been elected a joint vice-president at the spring elections. Miss Johnson is the first woman to hold the office of president of the Associated Students.

An A. S. U. M. carnival, sponsored by Central Board, was introduced last fall, and was one of the outstanding social events of the fall quarter. All-University mixers, also sponsored by Central Board, were held at the beginning of each quarter.

Central Board manages all activities which are under the jurisdiction of the Associated Students and controls the expenditures of all student funds.

Central Board, during the past year, has sponsored a "Keep Off the Grass" movement, a contest for a new Montana song and an investigation of student funds and student employment.

Realization of a $300,000 Student Union building on the State University campus will become a reality during the fall of 1934, when a student building, constructed by funds loaned by the Federal government, will be formally opened. Payments on the building will be made from the Student Union fund established in 1929, when the students voted to assess themselves $1 per quarter for the forming of a fund.

With the construction of the new building a goal sought for the past five years will have been attained. It was in 1928 that a large committee of students, faculty and alumni first considered the idea of a Student Union building. With the formation of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in the summer of 1931, definite plans were made. Sketches of the project were submitted to Washington, but the amount of money needed for interest and amortization brought about the temporary discarding of the plans.

Later a local committee appointed by the State Board of Education, consisting of Howard Toole, S. J. Coffee, L. A. Bunge and Dr. Clapp, ex-officio chairman of the State University executive committee, submitted an application for the loan to the state NRA committee. This committee approved the application in July, 1933. On November 10, 1933, President Clapp received approval of the project from the Public Works Board in Washington, D. C.

The building will be erected in the triangle west of the Law building. An auditorium adjoining the Student Union portion of the building will run parallel to the building. The theater will have a separate entrance and an adequate foyer. The set of plans includes a game room, storage room, kitchen and offices on the basement floor. The book store, store room, committee rooms and offices will occupy the first floor. A large central lounge will separate the men's and women's lounges on the second floor. A large ballroom, and two smaller dance floors with adjoining cloakrooms will be placed on the third floor.

Early in the spring quarter of 1931 un-affiliated students of the State University organized into the Associated Non-Fraternity and Non-Sorority students. Membership in the organization now numbers approximately six hundred. Progress of the group during its three years of existence has been noteworthy.

Each quarter the Independents give at least three social functions. Mixers, carnival dances and formal dances are the major social affairs throughout the year. The spring picnic is the special feature of the spring quarter. Last fall the group contributed to the Parents' Day activities with the sponsoring of a "Turkey Hop", visiting parents being admitted free. Independent students attend these dances on activity tickets purchased at the beginning of each quarter.

The governing body of the Independent group consists of twelve delegates selected from its members, two representatives from each class, and four from the school at large.

The Independent group has taken an active interest in intramural sports at the State University and has entered teams in interfraternity competition in basketball, touch football, swimming and track. Members of the Independent group won first place in the interfraternity swimming meet last fall. Both Independent men and Independent women entered acts in the 1934 Varsity Vodvil production.

Corbin Hall was opened in January 1927 with accommodations for about eighty-three girls. The building was named in honor of Miss Frances Corbin, a former teacher in the English department. Although at first the dormitory was open to any students, it has been limited recently to upperclass students.

Officers are elected each fall for the following year. In the spring outstanding students are selected as hall leaders to help in all possible ways during the coming year. One girl is also elected to represent the members of the club in the Associated Women Students' Organization.

All residents of the hall are members of the club which meets each week. Informal talks of interest are frequently given by local women.

During the year social entertainment is provided by a dance given each quarter, two of them being formal and one informal. Birthday dinners are given in November and April. Fireside dances, teas and a Christmas party add to the social program. All the girls are under the supervision of Mrs. F. K. Turner, social director, the dean of women students, Harriet Rankin Sedman, and are subject to rules made by the Associated Women Students.

The Forestry Club was first organized in 1913 to increase the interest in forestry and to enable students to become better acquainted with other members and with the faculty.

All students registered in the School of Forestry are members of the organization. There is an executive board consisting of the president, secretary, four class delegates and one delegate representing the graduate students enrolled in the school. Meetings are held on the first and third Wednesdays of each month at which talks of interest to forestry students are given. Refreshments are served under the supervision of an annually elected student cook.

Many activities are carried on by the Forestry Club. The university skating rink was constructed by the club and is maintained by them. Outstanding among the social events is the famous Foresters' Ball. Each year guests come dressed in costumes typical of the old West. Paul Bunyan and his Blue Ox are always in evidence. Appropriate decorations and specialties planned lend atmosphere to make the dance a memorable occasion.

During the fall quarter the Forestry Club sponsors a hike and in the spring the well-known Foresters' Picnic is held.

After the School of Journalism was founded in 1914 the first Press Club was organized. The fifteen students in the Journalism department were members at that time. From a small beginning the organization has grown until now eighty-five members are enrolled.

The club serves both an educational and social function by increasing the interest in journalism and in providing contact for other members of the same profession. Meetings are held every two weeks at which "The Shack Splinter" is published.

Social activities held during the year include Dean Stone Night, held in honor of the school's dean, a field trip to some historical point of interest near Missoula and an annual Press Club Banquet held at Bonner to which prominent journalists are invited.

The Pharmacy Club is an organization of all students in the School of Pharmacy. It is also an auxiliary of the Montana State Pharmaceutical Association. When members of this group pass the examinations given by the state pharmacy board, they become members of the state association. Interest in pharmacy is increased by talks given at the monthly meetings at which pharmaceutical topics are discussed.

Social activities held during the year provide a means of better acquaintance between members of the group and the faculty. During the fall quarter a mixer is given. In the winter quarter a dance is held and in the spring a picnic is given. Often the members of the club visit nearby industries of interest.

Newman Club, the national organization of Catholic students, was founded October, 1915. It was formerly called the Catholic Students' Association. In 1929 the club became an associated member of the Rocky Mountain Federation of Newman Clubs.

Meetings are held on the second Sunday of each month. Mass is attended first, after which a breakfast is served to the members. Both faculty members and students belong to this organization, one faculty member being chosen as sponsor. The purpose of the club is to provide better acquaintance among persons of Catholic faith and to also establish a closer relationship between the Catholic and non-Catholic men and women on the campus.

Miss Astrid Arnoldson has sponsored the club during the year in the absence of the usual sponsor, Mrs. Arnoldson. Active membership in the club is composed of:

George Boileau, Doris Kniffen, Antoinette LaCasse, Eva Lesell, Eleanor MacDonald, Helen Schroeder, Olga Wik.

The Home Economics Club was first organized in 1919 to encourage an interest in home economics and subjects related to it. From the small group which started the organization has grown rapidly and now has a large membership. Students must be either majors or minors in the field of home economics to be eligible as members. Meetings are held monthly at which topics of common interest are discussed. Joint social meetings are also held during the year with the Forestry Club. Many phases connected with home economic work are studied and carried out during the year. Practical experience is gained by the teas which the club members give and also in the management of the Aber Day lunch. Miss Helen Gleason, head of the Department of Home Economics, is the sponsor of the club. Active membership in the club includes:

Alpha Kappa Psi is the oldest national professional commerce fraternity and one of the largest college fraternities, having 57 college chapters and 14 alumni chapters with a total membership of approximately ten thousand.

Since the establishment of Omicron chapter at the State University of Montana on May 11, 1917, 165 members have been initiated. Five members of the faculty—Dean R. C. Line, Professor E. R. Sanford, Professor E. A. Atkinson, Dean A. L. Stone, and Harry Adams—are members of Alpha Kappa Psi. J. H. T. Ryan, former vice-president of the Western Montana National bank, who endowed the University with $10,000 with which to purchase books for the Department of Economics and School of Business Administration, Doctor Underwood, former head of the Department of Economics and Sociology, and Edward O. Sisson, former president of the University, are honorary members.

Membership for this group is drawn solely from students enrolled in the School of Business Administration or Department of Economics. The applicant for membership must also be of good character and have more than a "C" average in scholastic work.

The objects of the fraternity are to further the individual welfare of its members, to foster scientific research in the fields of commerce, accounts, and finance; to educate the public to appreciate and demand higher ideals therein; and to promote and advance in institutions of collegiate rank, courses leading to degrees in Business Administration. Banquets are held twice a quarter. The annual spring stock exchange contest is another of Alpha Kappa Psi's activities.

Like Tanan-of-Spur, Bear Paw is an honorary service organization devoted to the upholding of the State University laws and traditions. Bear Paw was first organized in 1921 and has continued under that name as an honorary society since that time.

Outstanding men who have rendered the most distinguished service to the school during their freshmen year are selected for membership at the beginning of their sophomore year by Silent Sentinel. The selections are based on service, leadership and scholarship.

The duties of Bear Paw are practically identical with those of Tanan-of-Spur. Their most valuable service is rendered during the Interscholastic Track Meet when they meet all incoming trains and assist the contestants and guests to the fullest extent of their ability. Bear Paws are also active at rallies and all athletic games, aiming towards a greater and more unified school spirit.

Several dances are sponsored by Bear Paw during the year, the most notable of which is the annual Bear Paw-Spur dance given during the fall quarter.

White sweaters, trimmed in the State University colors and bearing the emblem of the organization on the front, are the distinguishing garb of the Bear Paws.

The Montana Druids, a semi-professional and honorary forestry organization, was founded in 1923 to promote closer unity between the School of Forestry and its alumni; to furnish a common meeting ground for upper classmen and faculty members; and to work for the betterment of the School of Forestry and the State University. The two founders of this fraternity, Ralph Fields and Professor F. G. Clark, are also responsible for the origination of the society's code of ethics, its constitution and its ritual based on the rites of the Druids.

During the year the fraternity published the Druid News Letter which was sent to all graduates of the School of Forestry. It contained news of the School of Forestry in addition to information concerning the alumni. Jack Hinman served as editor and was assisted by the members of the organization.

Lincoln Landall and Professor J. H. Ramskill were in charge of the arrangements for the recent dinner dance which replaced the regular formal on the society's social calendar.

The organization endeavors to keep in close contact with the Federal Forestry Service in matters of research. The fraternity also works with the Forestry Club in all its activities.

Meetings are held regularly. Initiations are held in the fall and spring at the "sacred grounds of the Druids" in Pattee Canyon where new members are pledged to perpetuate the profession of forestry and to tighten the bond between members. To become a member of the Druids a candidate must have at least a "C" average, a minimum of as many grade points as credits and possess junior standing.

The "M" Club is the organization of University lettermen. Any man winning his letter in a major sport automatically becomes a member of the club.

The outstanding event sponsored by the "M" Club during the year is the "M" Club tournament, an annual sports carnival which is awaited with considerable interest and which always has a large following.

In October the club sponsored a dance, the proceeds of which went to an athletic scholarship fund for the purpose of offering exceptional Montana high school athletes opportunities to attend the State University. The "M" Club scholarship has not been awarded for the past two years because of a shortage of finances in the treasury and the purpose of this dance was to start a new foundation for that fund. It was the only dance during the fall season which football men were allowed to attend.

In 1904 the first State University dramatic group, known as "Quill and Dagger", was organized by Daniel Bandman, eminent German-American actor, who settled two miles east of Missoula after his retirement from the stage.

Until 1921 dramatics was regarded strictly as an extra-curricular activity, but in that year the first courses in drama were offered for credit.

The Masquers produce one major production each quarter and also one or two bills of one-acts. The major production for the fall quarter of this year was "Front Page". "The Wild Duck" was the winter quarter production, and "The Tavern" was the production for the spring quarter.

Membership in the Masquers is based on a selection system of points which may be earned for acting and production work. Fifteen points are required for membership.

Alexander Dean, now an instructor in play production at Yale university, was the first dramatic instructor at the State University. Roger Williams succeeded him and served for two years before George Cronyn received the position. After Cronyn came Carl Glick and then William Angus. The latter remained here for five years.

Barnard Hewitt is now completing his second year as dramatics instructor and director of State University productions.

Mortar Board, senior women's national honorary organization, represents the highest honor that can be bestowed upon any woman student in the State University.

Scholarship, leadership, service, and loyalty are the ideals of this society and the selection of new members is made on this basis.

Junior women who have qualified for membership are introduced to the student body at the Singing on the Steps during Interscholastic week. There are approximately twelve new members tapped each spring.

Pentralia, the local chapter of Mortar Board, is the oldest honorary society for women in the State University. It was established on the Montana campus in April of 1904 by Eloise Knowles, a member of the first graduating class from the University in 1898 and an instructor in the Department of Fine Arts until her death in 1916. In 1927 the local group affiliated with the national organization which had been founded in February, 1918 at Syracuse, N. Y., by representatives from the existing senior honorary societies at Cornell University, University of Michigan, Ohio State University, and Swarthmore College. At the present time there are more than fifty chapters in leading universities and colleges throughout the nation.

In November Mrs. Kathryn Coleman of Lincoln, Nebr., national president of Mortar Board, visited the Montana chapter accompanied by Miss Esther Bowman of Helena, sectional director of the sixth regional district of the national group.

Mortar Board is similar to Silent Sentinel, senior men's honorary organization, in its purpose and standards.

Chartered in January, 1915 and established here on February 8, 1915, Sigma Delta Chi enjoys the distinction of being the first professional fraternity on the Montana campus. International in scope, Sigma Delta Chi is devoted to furtherance of journalism. The national organization recently added a personnel bureau to its machinery in order to facilitate members in their search for positions.

The fraternity was founded at DePauw University in 1910 and now comprises a total of 36 chapters with a membership of approximately ten thousand. A candidate for membership in this group must have a scholastic standing above average, show ability in some phase of the work, be a major in the School of Journalism and signify his intention of continuing in the field of journalism after graduation.

The membership of the Montana chapter now totals nearly two hundred and a recent survey shows that there are 98 newspapers and publication services who have in their employ members of this chapter. These 98 represent 5 countries (not including foreign correspondents on American newspapers), 15 states and 62 cities and towns.

The group is one of the sponsors of the Press Club and, in cooperation with Theta Sigma Phi, sends out University and interscholastic publicity to approximately eighty weekly newspapers throughout the state. Each year the fraternity awards a cup to the winner of the Class C newspapers in the annual High School Editorial Association contest. Outstanding in the social events sponsored by this group is the joint banquet given with Theta Sigma Phi each spring in honor of the School of Journalism graduating seniors.

Tanan-of-Spur, similar to Bear Paw, sophomore men's honorary, is the State University chapter of the national organization of Spur. Tanan was established here in 1924 and continued under that name until 1931 when it affiliated with the national group which was founded at Montana State College in 1922. At the present time there are thirteen chapters in universities and colleges throughout the Northwest and Pacific coast regions.

Outstanding members of the freshman class are pledged to the organization during the Interscholastic Track Meet and are initiated at the close of the fall quarter, starting active service in the winter quarter. It is customary to pledge two from each sorority and four non-sorority members. Each woman is scored and graded upon the basis of scholarship, activities, leadership, and personality. Those ranking the highest are chosen for membership in the organization.

The group co-operates with Bear Paw in promoting school spirit, upholding the laws and traditions of the State University, ushering at athletic contests, and in meeting and aiding campus guests during Interscholastic week. In the fall they also meet the trains, acquaint the women with the University and assist the newcomers in any way possible.

During the past year the local Spurs sponsored a style show which was presented at the Wilma theatre.

Esther Strauss represented the Montana University chapter at the last national convention held in Corvallis, Oregon in the spring of 1933.

Kappa chapter of Theta Sigma Phi was chartered at the State University in 1916. Established at the University of Washington in 1909 it is the only national honorary professional fraternity devoted to the interest and advancement of women in journalism. The object of the organization is to investigate the opportunity for women in journalism and confer honor upon those who distinguish themselves in the field of letters.

Selection to membership in Theta Sigma Phi is based on a high scholastic standard and exceptional work in journalism. Members are chosen either in their junior or senior year but women students, whose work has been of exceptional merit, may be selected during the spring quarter of their sophomore year.

The outstanding event sponsored by this group is the Matrix Honor Table which is held each spring, honoring some prominent woman. On April 10 Mrs. Fanny Cory Cooney, nationally prominent newspaper cartoonist was the guest of honor at the third annual Matrix Table.

The local group is the originator of the "Thirty Service" which was inaugurated two years ago for the purpose of furnishing papers or source material for papers to women's clubs and high school teachers throughout the state. In addition to these activities Theta Sigma Phi also has a part in the publishing of "Dirty Sox" and "Campus Rakings." Each spring Theta Sigma Phi and Sigma Delta Chi are hosts at a banquet, honoring the seniors graduating from the School of Journalism. In the fall the fraternity gives a party for all women enrolled in the School of Journalism. Honorary members of Kappa chapter are: Mrs. Grace Stone Coates, Mrs. French T. Ferguson, and Miss Margaret Ronan.

During the past year Phi Delta Phi sponsored a homecoming mixer in honor of the graduates of the School of Law, and the second annual Barristers Ball, one of the year's outstanding social events. Smokers were held each quarter.

From time to time during the past year this group brought to Missoula prominent Montana attorneys. Thomas J. Walker, state senator and attorney for the Anaconda Copper company, spoke on "The Legal Phases of the NRA", J. J. McCaffery, Sr., well known Butte lawyer, spoke on "Proceedings in a Criminal Case", Leon Bulen of Missoula gave a talk on "Bankruptcy Laws", L. L. Callaway, chief justice of the supreme court, spoke on "The History of the Montana Bar", and Attorney General Raymond T. Nagle spoke on "The Attorney General's Office".

On January 17 the organization held honorary initiation for three Montana citizens who are prominent in legislative and legal circles. Those initiated were Senator Walker of Butte, Mr. McCaffery, also of Butte, and Judge J. H. McHugh of Anaconda.

Hi-Jinx of 1933 departed from the usual line of a razz fest of campus figures as in former years and took the form of a musical revue consisting of 12 student-written skits. It was presented at the Wilma theatre on December 8 under the direction of Barnard W. Hewitt. The show boasted of a cast of more than 150 people. Original songs by Martha Kimball were featured in the production.

In addition to the usual women's popularity contest to elect "Miss University of Montana", a men's contest was held this year in connection with the show. Grace Johnson won the women's contest and Jack Cougill was elected "University King". Other contestants in the women's division were: Lina Greene, Faye Nimbar, Margaret Lord, and Ruth Perham. In addition to Cougill the men competing were: Bill Hawke, Cal Emery, and Noral Whittinghill.

Awards were presented at the show to the winners in the Beard Growing and Non-Cosmetics campaign held on the campus last fall. Archie Kimpel received a silver loving cup for raising the best beard and Beth Hammett received a similar award for abstaining from the use of cosmetics. J. Stanley Hill was awarded a straight edge razor for the best growth of "fuzz".

Harold Shaw managed this year's show replacing Tom Coleman who did not return to school. His assistants were: Publicity, Mary Sulgrove; Tickets, Louise Harden; Electrician, Richard Shaw; Stage Manager, Phil Miller; Properties, Vivian Bower; Costumes, Shirley Knight; General Arrangements, Harold Hall.

Student directors of the various skits were: Nat Allen, Dave Duncan, Gene Manis, Phil Pollard, Harold Shaw, Orville Skones, Ossia Taylor, and Noral Whittinghill.

Sparkling and polished Varsity Vodvil of 1934 won considerable acclaim and well deserved praise from those who saw the production. The seven acts competing in the finals at the Wilma theatre were unusually entertaining and skillfully produced, many of them being much finer than first place winners in former years.

First places were awarded to Kappa Kappa Gamma presenting "Good Heavens" and Phi Delta Theta presenting "Tony Pastor's Varieties".

Other acts in the finals were "And So—", Alpha Chi Omega; "Land of the Shining Mountains", Independent Women; "Story Book Land", Sigma Kappa; "A Bum Steer or Where's Our Nell", Independent Men; and "The Faerie Ape or the Sweetest Story Ever Told", Phi Sigma Kappa.

This year specialty numbers were given between acts. These included the Sigma Nu trio; Tom White and his accordion; the Alpha Phi trio; vocal solos by John Gravelle; a Hi-Lo chorus, and a tap dance by Phyllis Oaas.

Each act entered in the finals received $25 to help in defraying the expenses. The two winning skits received an additional $25 and silver loving cups. Flowers were presented to the women's acts and the men's, received cigars.

The show was under the direction of Manager Richard Shaw. Nate Provinse served as general assistant to the manager; Stanley Koch was publicity manager and Annie Evans handled the ticket sales. David Duncan was stage manager and George Boileau served in the capacity of electrician.

The purpose of the Traditions Committee is to perpetuate and better all Montana traditions. During the past year the committee functioned smoothly in the dispatch of its many duties. The committee was particularly beneficial in organizing and putting across the many successful football rallies held last fall.

The committee recently sponsored a song-writing contest for the purpose of bringing to light more school songs. A first prize of ten dollars was offered in the contest.

NORAL
WHITTINGHILL

Traditions coming under the jurisdiction of this group are: Singing on the Steps, May Fete, Hi-Jinx, Varsity Vodvil, Keep off the Grass, Rallies, Organized Cheering Sections, Say Hello, and the Senior Bench. This year two events which promise to become traditions were added to the University calendar. They were the A.S.U.M. Carnival and Parents' Day.

Upon the resignation of Lina Greene as chairman of the committee on January 16, Margaret Breen succeeded to that position and Mary Kohn and Dorothy D. Miller were appointed to the committee.

TRADITIONS

S. O. S.

S. O. S. or Singing on the Steps, is one of the oldest and one of the most cherished of the School's traditions. Usually, S. O. S. is held the Thursday night preceding a game. At that time the students congregate at the steps of Main hall at 7:30 in the evening for a half hour of songs, yells, and short talks. As the clock in Main hall tower tolls the first stroke of eight all heads are bowed until the last note dies away. Then quietly, the college song, "College Chums", is sung and silently the students leave the steps. It is at S. O. S. that the members of Mortar Board and Silent Sentinel are tapped.

PAINTING THE "M"

It is the duty of the Freshman class, twice a year, once in the fall, and again the spring, to clamber up the side of old Mount Sentinel to give the "M" a new coat of whitewash. Formerly it was the duty of the Freshmen women to provide the lunch for their class mates when the work of painting was completed.

RINGING THE BELL

Each time that the "Grizzly" scores a victory, it is the duty of some member of the Freshman class to ring the bell in Main hall tower that everyone may know of the school's latest triumph.

BON FIRE RALLIES

Several times during the year, particularly in the fall before a football game, and usually after an S. O. S. bon-fire pep rallies are held. Leaving the campus preceded by the band, winding their way town-ward in a snake-dance formation, increasing in number all along the way, the group finally comes to a halt in a square where a huge bon-fire has been built. Here songs, yells and pep talks are taken part in by the students.

FOOTBALL SEASON

Starting the season with a large squad built around several lettermen and veterans from the 1932 season, the Grizzly football team began slowly but finished the 1934 season in a blaze of glory after one of the most successful schedules in several years. During the season, Coach B. F. Oakes' men played seven games, winning three and losing four. The State University gridders lost the season's opener to Oregon State's powerful eleven, but came back to hold the mighty Washington State squad until a freak mishap caused a Cougar victory. In the big game of the year, the Grizzlies trounced their arch-rivals, the Bobcats of the State College, to win the state intercollegiate football title for 1934. Then, after losing a heart-breaking game to Idaho, the team went to Spokane to knock over the highly-touted Gonzaga Bulldogs. Stanford, co-holders of the Pacific Coast conference title, won from the Grizzlies easily, but the final game of the year was one of the most gratifying of the season, the Grizzlies trouncing Utah State in the Thanksgiving Day contest here.

Coach Oakes had several outstanding players from the previous year around which he built his 1933 aggregation, and he moulded a fine combination from his veterans and 1932 freshmen. Oakes' team, although it won only three of its games, received mention all over the West as one of the hardest-fighting teams as well as one of the best coached clubs in this section. The Grizzlies developed a scoring play on the kickoff return, under the tutelage of Coach Oakes, and used it to an advantage. They were held scoreless only once, that being in the first game of the season against Oregon State; and they used their scoring play to an advantage, running the ball all the way through the powerfully defensive Stanford team for a touchdown. The 1933 Grizzly team will go down in the State University history as the hardest-fighting, most courageous aggregation ever assembled at the Montana University.

Coach Oakes had some very valuable assistance in the coaching department from A. J. Lewandowski, who also coached the Cubs; Harry Adams and Augie Vidro, who acted as trainer for the team.

At the end of the season, twenty-six men were awarded letters for their services on the Grizzly team. They were Leif Anderson, Frank Benson, Henry Blastic, Herbert Brandenburg, Kenneth Carpenter, Cale Crowley, Alfred Dahlberg, Cal Emery, Louis Hartsell, William Hawke, Al Heller, William Hileman, Edison Kent, George Kuka, Leonard Kuka, Rodney McCall, Morris Newgard, Monte Reynolds, Naseby Rhinehart, James Roberts, George Sayatovich, Robert Stansberry, Leland Story, John Sullivan and Hubert Zemke. Tom Roe was awarded a manager's letter. Of these men, eight were seniors, and these men are lost to next year's squad.

WASHINGTON STATE

In addition to winning the state intercollegiate title, several of the Grizzly players received honorable mentions for their work on the gridiron during the 1933 season. Bob Stansberry, who ended his college football career in such fine style that he has been likened to one of Montana's finest gridiron heroes, Bill Kelly, was chosen by many on the second all-Pacific Coast conference team, and he received honorable mention as a halfback on the official all-American selections. Stansberry's performance rated as good as almost any of the other Coast stars, and it was due only to an error that he was not invited to play on the West's team in the annual East-West Shrine benefit game at San Francisco. Others who won honors for the Grizzlies are Henry Blastie, who was chosen for honorable mention on the all-American team; and the men who were chosen on the all-state football team. The all-state club contained the names of Naseby Rhinehart, Leonard Kuka, Monte Reynolds, William Hawke, George Sayatovich, Henry Blastie, Bob Stansberry and William Hileman, while the second team was manned by Al Heller, Herb Brandenburg, Ken Carpenter, John Sullivan, Cal Emery and Leland Story.

The summaries of the Grizzly games show that the Grizzlies scored 91 points in the seven games, against 85 for their opponents, or the Grizzlies outscored their opponents 13 points to 12.1 points per game.

The Grizzlies journeyed to Corvallis, Oregon on September 20 to meet the Oregon State team in the season's opener, and lost a hard-fought game, 20-0, on bad breaks and lack of experience. The Oregon State club had played two games, and the Grizzlies were playing their first contest of the season, and were unexperienced in the type of play used by the Orangemen.

The alert Grizzlies played hard, and kept the Oregon team on edge all the time, but intercepted passes and the star backfield of the Oregon Staters were too much for the smaller team. The Grizzlies threatened several times, but they were forced back on downs or by bad breaks.

Passes from Franklin to Curtin and Pangle paved the way for the first Orange touchdown, and Bowman intercepted a Grizzly pass and ran 90 yards for the second score. The last score was the result of a last-quarter drive ending with a long run by Pangle, making the score 20-0.

The Grizzlies threatened three times, but lost the ball near the Oregon State goal line all three times. In the first period, a long pass from Emery to Heller placed the ball on the Orangemen's 21-yard line, but the Grizzlies lost the ball on downs there. The biggest threat of the game came in the second quarter when Hawke intercepted a pass and ran it back to the eight-yard line, but on the next play, an Oregon State player intercepted a Grizzly pass and ran for a touchdown. Late in the game, the Grizzlies had the ball on the 18-yard line, but the gun ended that rally and stopped the game.

This game was the only one of the season, in which the Grizzlies were held scoreless, and, in spite of the heavy score, the Oakes men did well against the team that held the Trojans to a scoreless tie and defeated Fordham's great team.

MONTANA
STATE

The Grizzlies came back in the second game of the season against the Washington State Cougars and played one of the best games of the season, losing a heart-breaking contest, 13-7, on a blocked punt. The Cougars came to Missoula touted as one of the leaders on the Coast, but the Grizzlies put up such a stout fight that the Cougars were badly frightened until the gun ended the game.

The Cougars put over the first touchdown, but they had only lined up for the next kickoff when the Grizzlies retaliated with their famous scoring play. Blastic took the Cougar kick near his own goal line, and ran the ball back for a 96-yard return behind a near-perfect screen of interference, putting the ball in position for a team mate to score on the next play. This kickoff return was one of Coach Oakes' pet plays, and the timing and precision with which the Grizzly blockers formed their interference and the neat side-line open field running of Blastic amazed both fans and Cougar players.

After these two scores, the teams battled up and down the field without threatening, and the Grizzlies staged one of the finest defensive games seen on Dornblaser field for some time. Bendle, Sorboe and the rest of the Cougar star backs were unable to penetrate the Grizzly line, and they couldn't make consistent gains around the secondary defense.

The margin of victory for the Cougars was a discouraging one, the Washington Staters winning by a blocked punt. Montana had the ball near its own goal line, and a Grizzly back was sent back to kick out of danger. The ball was kicked and a Cougar end rushed in to block it, the ball rolling backwards over the Grizzly goal line. There, another Cougar end raced toward it and fell on it for the touchdown that won the game for the visitors.

Crowley, Stansberry, Blastic and Emery were the outstanding Grizzly backfield men on the field against the Cougars, reeling off long runs that kept the Cougars on the defensive. The game ended with the ball in Montana's possession, and the Grizzlies were cut short on the three-yard line by the gun.

The Grizzlies, after a short layoff, traveled to Butte on October 21 for the annual championship contest with the Bobcats, and came out of that game with their rival's pelt after a humiliating defeat for the State College. The Grizzlies entered this game on a fighting edge, and opened their attack in the last half to score an overwhelming 32-0 victory, winning the state intercollegiate football crown for 1933.

The Grizzlies opened up in the first nine minutes of play, scoring a touchdown and kicking the extra point to lead, 7-0. From then on, the two teams battled stubbornly back and forth for three periods without a score, and the fans began to see another close game between the traditional rivals. Then, in the last quarter, the Grizzly offensive opened up with a start, and the University eleven put over four quick touchdowns to beat the Bobcats by one of the largest scores ever run up between the two teams.

UTAH

The scoring in the last quarter wilted the Bobcats, and they were unable to stop the Grizzly onslaught from that time on. The Grizzlies blocked a Cat punt on their 17-yard line, and after a few short gains, Blastic carried the ball over for the second score of the game, following Kent's earlier attempt. The Grizzlies kicked off, got the ball again and Hartsell caught a pass and galloped 20 yards for the third score. After a long kick return by Blastic, Bergeson tossed a pass to the goal line where Brandenburg leaped high in the air to score the fourth score, and the Grizzlies led by a 26-0 score. After an exchange of runs and a Bobcat punt, the Grizzlies carried the ball back down the field and Bergeson carried it over for the final touchdown of the game, the gun sounding a few minutes later.

Bill Hileman played one of the best games of the season against the Bobcats, blocking and playing defensively with power and ability that kept the Bobcats from threatening. Kent and Emery and Story played nicely, while Blastic and Stansberry did most of the yardage gaining on long runs. In the line, George Kuka and Bill Hawke were outstanding, breaking up many Bobcat plays and holding against the Cat line.

The Grizzlies went to Moscow to play another conference game against the Idaho Vandals with the conference cellar at stake, and came away after losing one of the closest and most disheartening games of the season. The teams battled without a score for three periods through the mud and rain that was on the field, and three quick touchdowns in the last quarter ended the game with the Vandals winning by a 12-6 margin.

The field at Moscow was a veritable lake of water and mud, and Idaho's heavy line had the advantage over the crippled Grizzlies. The teams battled listlessly in the mud for three quarters, with neither team threatening very seriously until the last quarter. The Idaho line broke through the Grizzlies time after time, and both teams had to punt out of danger frequently. At one time during the game, a Grizzly guard was badly needed, but no available alternates were to be had for they all nursed injuries.

After three quarters of cautious football, both teams came to active life, with little Willis Smith of Idaho playing the leading role. Smith made the first score possible by tossing a long pass to Honsowetz who ran across the goal line for the first touchdown. The fans had scarcely quit their applause when the Grizzlies retaliated with a drive that tied the score. A long kickoff return and two passes netted the Grizzly score, but Willis Smith came back to the game to squirm through the Montana line to put the ball in scoring position. A penalty by Referee Bobby Morris put the ball close to the goal line, and Smith dived through for the winning score.

Montana's crippled team did as well as could be expected, with Hileman, Stansberry and Emery leading the backfield men and Reynolds and Anderson playing the best games for the Grizzly line.

A band of determined Grizzlies left for Spokane to tackle the highly-rated Gonzaga defensive machine in their next game, eager to wipe out the overwhelming defeat suffered at the hands of the Bulldogs the year before, and eager to win the game and put an end to the State University "whisker campaign". The Montana students had refused to shave until Montana won a game, and the Grizzlies, playing for these stakes, upset the powerful Gonzaga eleven for an unexpected 13-7 win.

Gonzaga started its threat in the opening minutes, taking the ball down the field by long runs to the Montana six-yard line, but Montana obtained the ball and kicked out of danger. From then on, the two teams battled strenuously, with Gonzaga holding the upper hand. In the second quarter, Peterson tossed a lateral pass to Justice out near the side-lines, and Justice galloped across the goal line untouched for the first score of the game, giving the Bulldogs the lead.

After that score, the Bulldogs threatened several times but were unable to put the ball over. The third quarter brought the Grizzlies out on the field fighting mad, and their vicious attack wilted the strong Bulldogs before them. Blastic returned a Gonzaga punt 23 yards, and then caught a long pass from Emery to score. Emery kicked the point, and the score was tied at seven all. The winning score came late in the last period when Story leaped high in the air to intercept a Bulldog pass and dash to the Gonzaga 18-yard line. Fumbles lost the ball, but Gonzaga kicked and Montana came back with a strong offensive that carried the ball straight down the field. Then, Emery flipped a pass to Heller who stepped across the goal to score, his touchdown winning the game.

In this game, the Grizzly club did some of its best work, all the men blocking and tackling in fine style to upset the powerful Bulldogs, who had entered the game as heavy favorites. The line functioned well, and outplayed the heavy Gonzaga forward wall at its own defensive game. Emery's passing was the best performance of the game, and Blastic and Stansberry led the backs with several long gains. Story was another consistent ground-gainer, while Hileman and Crowley shone in the defensive phase of the game. The entire Grizzly line functioned as one man.

The Montana Grizzlies wound up their Coast conference schedule by playing the Stanford Cardinals, later conference titleholders, at Palo Alto, and although they lost the game by a 33-7 score, the boys on the Grizzly squad put up one of the finest exhibitions of fight and spirit that was ever seen down there. The Grizzlies started out strongly, and played the Cardinals on even terms throughout the first period, and put up a stubborn defense for three quarters that the Stanford backs were unable to break down, only to wilt in the last quarter and go down to an overwhelming defeat. It was the old story of reserve power as the Cards, showing three or four full teams, substituted freely to stop the tired Grizzlies who lacked extra players.

Despite the one-sided score, the Grizzlies put up a defensive battle that kept the Stanford men guessing, and one Grizzly man—Bob Stansberry—was rated as the best individual player on either team during the entire game. His running, blocking and all-around play marked him as one of the best backs in the Pacific Coast circuit, and his 96-yard kickoff return gathered the only score for the Grizzlies.

The Stanford scores all came from long runs, most of which were the result of a reverse play which completely fooled the Grizzlies throughout the game. In the final period, dazzling reverses and power plays tore big holes in the tired Grizzly lineup, and sent the Stanford backs through for two scores. Stanford made one touchdown a quarter, piling up two in the last period, while Montana's score came in the first quarter.

The Grizzlies played strong defensive football throughout most of the game, failing to cooperate only when they were tired and battered from the ceaseless hammering of the heavy Stanford line. Bob Stansberry did a fine piece of running in returning the kickoff 96 yards for a touchdown, but his run was helped along by some of the best blocking of the afternoon. Emery, Hileman and Blastic helped Stansberry, all three turning in fine performances, and the best line work was done by Hawke, Sullivan and Rhinehart.

The Grizzlies wound up their 1933 season in grand style on Thanksgiving Day here by trouncing the powerful Utah Aggies by a 26-0 margin, in one of the biggest and best games in Missoula history. The Aggies came from the Rocky Mountain conference with a good record, and were expected to make things tough for the Grizzlies if not beat them, but the Grizzly blocking, tackling and running were all too much for the invaders, and they never made a serious scoring threat.

The Grizzlies opened up in the first quarter, taking the opening kickoff right down the field to score, and from that time, were never endangered. Long gains by Stansberry, Blastic and Story accounted for the margin of victory, and several other Grizzlies cooperated to sew up the game. Stansberry, playing his last game in a Grizzly uniform, turned in the best performance of the day, reeling off several long gains and always adding yardage when it was needed. Blastic made several nice gains, and scored once on a 65-yard run after a statue of liberty play and a lateral pass that completely fooled the Utah team. Story proved himself a driving fullback, and Hileman, who is used mainly for his strong defensive game, stepped out of character long enough to make a few long gains.

Utah State's highly-touted defensive line did not function against the Grizzlies, and the Montana forward men kept their opponents bottled up all the time. The first score came in a hurry with repeated gains, and the second one followed a pass interception by Story and an 81-yard run that put the ball in position for the touchdown. Stansberry passed to Emery for the third score, and Blastic's long run ended the game safely in the hands of the Grizzlies. Leonard Kuka, Hawke and Reynolds ended their careers at Montana with good line games, and were ably supported in stopping the Utah State forward wall by Sullivan, Carpenter and Brandenburg.

BASKETBALL SEASON

Climaxing their efforts by winning the state intercollegiate basketball title for the first time in twelve years, the 1934 Grizzly basketball squad played one of the most successful seasons ever recorded, winning 16 games and losing 10. After defeating their arch-rivals, the State College Bobcats, in four straight games and winning other contests against such great teams as the House of David, Ellensburg Normal, the Pacific Coast conference champion Washington team, School of Mines and several other lesser opponents, ten men were awarded letters for service on Coach A. J. Lewandowski's hoop club. The men who were awarded letters were Jimmy Brown, William Erickson, Henry Blastic and Charles Flanagan, forwards; Al Heller and Al Dahlberg, centers; William Hileman, Monte Reynolds, Naseby Rhinehart and Don Hollaway, guards. Lehman Fox received a letter as manager of the team.

The Grizzlies tallied a remarkable record, scoring 929 points against 954 registered by their opponents, or an average of 35.7 points a game against 36.7 points for the opponent teams. Jimmy Brown led the scorers of the team with 207 points during the season, and was followed closely by three of his teammates, Erickson gathering 164, Heller gathering 151, and Dahlberg scoring 108. These men were responsible for most of the Grizzly scoring, while Reynolds, Hileman, Rhinehart and Hollaway turned in fine support on the defensive phase of the game.

The Grizzlies opened their season by drubbing the Polson Independents, composed mostly of ex-collegians from Carroll College, the State College and Intermountain Union, by a 34-29 score. Jimmy Brown and Bill Erickson led the Grizzly scorers with 10 points apiece, as the State University squad triumphed easily in the first game of the season.

Leaving Missoula for a Christmas holiday trip, the Grizzlies journeyed to Helena where they trounced the Helena Independents, 38-29.

The Grizzlies traveled to Great Falls and there lack of experience cost them the first loss of the season as they dropped a 57-32 contest to the great Golden Bobcat aggregation. The Golden Bobcats had such players as Frank Ward, "Cat" Thompson and Max Worthington who were chosen as all-American candidates during their college careers; and that team had lost only to the Ogden Boosters, who boasted the lineup of an ex-national championship team.

The Grizzlies returned to Missoula and engaged the Idaho Vandals, losing a heart-breaking contest, 27-29, when the Vandals nosed into the lead in the final minutes of play and kept the ball away from the Grizzly club. Brown scored 13 points to lead the scoring, but the rest of the team could not cope with the height of Grenier and Klumb of the Idaho club, and were unable to help enough in gathering points.

The Grizzlies began another tour after the Idaho game, and went to Billings where they engaged both college teams of that city. In the first game, the Montana team got into its stride to swamp the Billings Polytechnic team, 52-38, with Brown again in the leading role scoring 18 points. In the second game of the Billings series, the State University tossers started slowly but gathered speed and trounced the Eastern Montana Normal School by a 59-35 margin. Al Heller starred for the Grizzly club, tossing 16 points for high scoring honors.

Returning here for a long stay, the Grizzlies opened their home campaign by trimming the Gonzaga Bulldogs, 29-19, in a fast rough game that was featured by much unnecessary roughness and many fouls. Poor passing lost many chances for both squads, but the Grizzlies proved to be accurate in the tight places to win the game without much trouble.

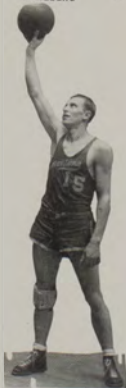

The Grizzlies opened their assault on the state hoop title one week later by defeating the highly-touted School of Mines Orediggers, by a 46-38 margin. Bill Erickson led the scorers with 18 points, while Reynolds and Hileman cooperated effectively to stop the high-powered threats of Ray Gallant and Erick Erickson, the two Miner stars.

The Grizzlies had a short rest, before they entertained the fast Ellensburg Normal team in a two-game series. The Ellensburg aggregation came to Missoula highly touted as the class of central Washington, but the determined Grizzlies surprised them to edge out a 34-33 victory in the first contest of the series. The Grizzlies led most of the game, but the visitors crept up until the final minutes saw them only two points behind. Holl, the giant Ellensburg center, was awarded two free throws, making the first one and failing to convert on the second try. Reynolds took the ball off the backboard and kept it from the visitors until the gun ended the game, giving the Grizzlies a well-earned victory. The next night the Ellensburg team came back with a powerful offensive to stop the Grizzly attack and win by a 26-24 margin. The visitors showed better than they had the first game, and kept the local varsity quint dazzled by their smooth ball-handling and passing. Ellensburg started strongly, and maintained a large lead until the final minutes of the second half when they stopped a determined Grizzly rally.

The Grizzlies journeyed to Butte for their next game, and strengthened their claim on the state hoop crown by beating the Miners again by a 47-37 margin. The game was one of the roughest of the season, 34 fouls being called on both teams. The Grizzlies were slowed by 19 personal fouls, losing two men by that rule.

The road-weary State University quint stopped off at Dillon and was stopped by a determined State Normal School team that tossed too many free throws to win by a 44-35 score. The Normalites proved to be very accurate at the foul line, tossing 14 shots of the 18 attempts they had. Heller shot 17 points to lead the scorers, but his tired teammates could not support him enough to win the game.

The Grizzlies ended the tour by nosing out the basketball team of the University of Idaho, Southern Branch by a 38-37 score in a hard-fought contest at Pocatello. The teams were even on the number of field goals made, but the Grizzlies tossed one more free throw which proved to be the margin of victory.

The Grizzlies began an extended Pacific Coast trip by dropping another game to the Ellensburg Normal team on the Normalites' home court. The Grizzlies showed traces of weariness from the long trip, and could not cope with the Normal's flashy attack and stout defense led by Case, one of the fleetest forwards in the Northwest conference. Blastic was the only Grizzly who could consistently hit the hoop, and he contributed eight points as the Grizzlies went down to a 24-46 loss.

The Grizzlies journeyed to Tacoma for the next series, winning the first game from the College of Puget Sound by a 40-34 margin. Both teams started slowly, and the first half was almost even. A furious second-period rally, led by Heller who scored 12 points, netted the Grizzlies their winning tallies and put them ahead as the game ended.

The College of Puget Sound Loggers came back in the second game of the series, and nosed the Grizzlies, 42-39, in the final minutes of play. Blastic led the Montana tossers with 11 points, while the scoring of Captain Stan Bates of the Loggers proved too much for the Grizzly sharpshooters.

An alert Grizzly team took the Washington Huskies by surprise the next night, and nosed out a hard-fought 32-29 victory over the team that later became the champions of the Pacific Coast conference. The Grizzlies hit the basket from all angles, and kept the Husky aces, Bob Gale and Hal Lee, throttled. The champion Huskies, who had ridden rough-shod in the northern division of the Coast conference, were taken off their feet by the smooth playing ability of the Grizzlies and could not solve their attack enough to win the game.

The Huskies, angry and puzzled by their defeat, came back the next night and ran up point after point to trounce the Grizzlies by a 60-24 margin and even the series. The entire Husky team was used against the battered Grizzlies, with Wyman and Lee, two hot-shot Huskies, leading the scoring column.

Although the Grizzlies could not penetrate the Husky defense, the players received much credit from Seattle fans who witnessed the game. Dahlberg led the Grizzlies with seven points, while Heller's backward shots and the rustling of Hileman and Reynolds received much comment.

The Grizzlies returned home after the Coast invasion and engaged the Bobcats in two home games. The first game was a thriller, with Montana leading up until the final minutes when the Bobcats cut a nine-point lead to one point. Then, their rally fell short and another Grizzly basket cinched the game, and allowed the local varsity to triumph by a 36-33 margin. Heller again tossed 11 points to lead the scorers, while the rest of the Grizzlies had some trouble with Doyra, the huge Bobcat guard who spoiled many plays.

The next night, the Grizzlies came out again to nose their traditional rivals by a 40-38 margin, with Jimmy Brown in the leading role with 14 points for the Grizzlies. The Bobcats started off to a big lead, but the Grizzlies rallied, cut the lead and edged into the winner's column as the gun ended the contest.

The Grizzlies surprised even their most loyal fans in their next home game by coming from behind in a thrilling contest to defeat the traveling House of David club by a 38-36 margin. The Grizzlies provided the thrills by matching the clowning efforts of the visitors, and went into the lead which they held until the game ended. Brown and Erickson gathered 10 points apiece, but none of the Grizzly tossers could match "Red" Johnston's 29 tallies.

The Grizzlies put up a stout defense in the second game of the series, but the Davids were too much for them in the final minutes of play, going into a lead and ending with a 36-31 triumph. The two teams were even most of the way through the game, but the bearded basketeers hit the ring with amazing regularity in a final spurt which netted them a victory.

The Grizzlies journeyed to Bozeman to play the title series against the Bobcats, with the winner of the series taking the championship. In the first game, the teams were even all the time until Jimmy Brown slipped through the Cat defense in the final 10 seconds of play and scored a basket, giving the Grizzlies a 37-36 win and the state hoop title for the first time since 1922.

The Bobcat threat was maintained by Vavich and Young, who accounted for almost all of the Bobcat scores, but Brown, Erickson, Dahlberg, Hileman and Reynolds cooperated in championship style to cinch the crown.

Playing in anti-climax atmosphere, the Grizzlies and Bobcats battled through a slow, uninteresting second game, with the State University tossers coming out ahead by a 31-23 margin.

Olsen's Terrible Swedes came here as the world champions of amateur basketball, and displayed their wares in a slow, uninteresting contest, winning by a 38-17 margin. The Grizzlies came back in the second game and wound up their 1934 season by giving the Swedes a bad scare before they went down before a heart-breaking 44-43 loss in a fast overtime game.

TRACK SEASON

Grizzly track and field stars are working hard this year to build up a strong contender from the ten lettermen who are the nucleus of the 1934 Grizzly squad. Coach Harry Adams has many point possibilities among several of the track and field events, but is lacking in talented distance runners to balance his team.

The ten lettermen who will form the foundation for this year's squad are co-captains William Hawke and Arthur Caven, Al Dahlberg, Nasely Rhinehart, Lew McDaniels, Ken Duff, Roy Peden, Monte Robertson, Monte Reynolds and Billy Vickerman. In addition to these men are several freshmen numeral winners from last year who will make strong attempts for points, among them being Gene Davis, Henry Lowney, Tom Wigal, Jack Price, and others. Others who have entered in varsity and freshman competition and who may develop into strong point-winners are Ben White, Melvin Maury, William Wagner, Jack Lubrecht and many others.

Coach Adams has four men who are capable of less than ten seconds in the hundred yard dash, Robertson, Duff, Peden and Davis being the quartet who will offer the most points for the Grizzlies. These four men are all excellent sprinters, and efforts are being made to have them sent to one of the big relays or meets in the east as a 440-yard relay team. As a relay team, the quartet presents one of the best lineups that has been seen here at the State University and they ought to cooperate for many points this season.

Other certain point winners are Hawke in the javelin, Reynolds and Rhinehart in the weights, Vickerman, Davis and Caven in the hurdles, Holloway in the weights or javelin, Dahlberg and Heller in the jumps, Robertson and White in the broad jump, McDaniel and Wigal in the pole vault, Robertson, Duff and Peden in the 220-yard dash, Duff in the 440-yard dash, Maury in the half-mile, Taylor in the mile, and many other candidates who may show possibilities in any of the track or field events.

The Grizzly meets this year include the annual state intercollegiate meet here, a dual meet with Idaho and the annual Pacific Coast conference meet, in addition to some other invitational affairs to which all or part of the Grizzly squad will be sent.

Last year the Grizzlies won the annual state intercollegiate meet, gathering 102½ points for the largest total ever run up by a Montana team in this meet. The Grizzlies were the masters at almost every division, winning every event but two, these two being the distance races which were won by Gus Holst, the Bobcat star. Nearly every first place winner is back this year, and the State University is looking forward to another decisive triumph over such colleges as the State College, the School of Mines and Carroll College.

Idaho won last year's meet by two points, but the Grizzlies have a good chance to get even this year if things break right. The Montana squad is better balanced than it was last year, and may gather a few more points where they were missed at Moscow.

Last year's freshman team did well in several telegraphic meets, and Gene Davis wound up the season by beating Gene Garner, the highly-touted flash from the State College in two special races here. So Coach Adams may look to the frosh for a few needed points when those track men vie for places on this year's varsity.

It looks like a good season for the Grizzlies, and they will have plenty of opportunity to show what they can do under keen competition. An early spring is giving the Grizzlies a better chance to get in shape for the coming season, and they have plenty in their favor to get out and win points for the State University.

M CLUB TOURNEY

Five new boxing champions and two new wrestling champions were crowned this year following furious battles for the titles of the various divisions at the State University in the annual M Club tournament held under the auspices of the lettermen of the State University. In what proved to be one of the best tourneys of the past few years, only two champions defended boxing titles and won, while four mat titleholders retained their crowns.

An extra-round fight between Rex Henningsen, the defending welterweight champion, and George Niewoehner proved to be the most exciting of the evening. Henningsen finally showing more power and clever boxing in the extra round to win the decision. Two state amateur champs were on the card, Hubert Zemke retaining his state amateur middleweight and State University 160-pound championships, while Roy Babich, winning the State University heavyweight title, came into the ring as the Rocky Mountain heavyweight titleholder.

Hubert Zemke, in successfully defending his title, won the M Club trophy, awarded each year to the best individual boxer in the card. Zemke fought a newcomer to the ring, John McDonald.

Randall Jarvis showed a hard punch and good condition in the opening fight of the evening with Bill Erickson to win the State University lightweight crown.

In the first wrestling match of the card, little Leland Yates staged one of the biggest upsets of the evening to defeat the defending featherweight champion, Dick Karnes, by throwing him in one minute and 55 seconds. Virgil Stephens started the titleholders' parade by successfully defending his middleweight wrestling title in a ten-minute decision from Hugh Copenhaver.

Wilfred Gits won a thrilling overtime match from Joe Ferrara to win the featherweight boxing crown of the State University, Gits piling up his lead by landing more effective punches than his whirlwind punching opponent.

The second upset of the evening came in the wrestling division when Harold Lewis threw Champion Jack Congill to win the welterweight title. Orvo Kinonen, a little blonde flash, furnished the fireworks in the next bout by showing a clever defense and a powerful offense to win the bantamweight boxing title from Eddie Cook by the technical knockout route.

Ray Rimel again took the lightweight wrestling title after more than seven minutes of fighting with Bob Hoflard, after it had seemed that the fight would go the ten minutes. Rimel showed more experience but was unable to get the proper hold until he obtained a half-Nelson that spelled defeat for Hoflard.

In the next fight, Roy Babich, Rocky Mountain heavyweight champ, showed that he was everything critics said he was as he pounded out a quick technical knockout over Glenn Shultz to win the State University boxing crown in that class. It took only 45 seconds of fighting to show the fans who was master, and Shultz, who had been dazzled by the flying gloves, was stopped and the fight given to Babich.

Bob Myers used almost the identical route that he used last year to again defeat Roger Grattan after two minutes of fighting, successfully defending the light-heavy wrestling title. A half-Nelson and armbar showed the way to victory for Myers and he won quickly after getting Grattan in place to apply the pressure.

Larry Bowler brought a sleep-producing left out of nowhere in his fight with Bill Kreuger, and that left brought a clean kayo for Bowler over Kreuger after a few minutes mixing in the first round, Bowler winning the State University light-heavyweight crown with the kayo. As the fight started, it looked as though Kreuger would have the upper hand, but Bowler uncorked his powerful mit soon to settle the issue.

Leonard Kuka took the ring in the next fray and soon subdued Clifford Olsen to win the State University heavyweight wrestling title again. Experience and more weight spelled victory for Kuka, as he slammed Olsen around to win the fight.

The last fight of the evening proved to be one of the best, as Rex Henningsen and George Niewoehner fought three furious rounds to a draw and then Henningsen applied the power in the extra frame to win from his opponent and retain his welterweight boxing crown. Niewoehner had the edge in the first, but Henningsen solved the attack in the second and took the lead in the fighting. In that last round, both fought furiously and the bout was called a draw. Henningsen had more endurance and piled blows all over Niewoehner in the final set-to to take the decision by a wide margin.

UNIVERSITY SWIMMING TEAM

The State University swimming team, organized better than it has been in the past, had one of the most successful seasons in many years. During the training period, an Inter-fraternity swimming meet was held and won by the Independents over Sigma Alpha Epsilon in the finals. Then, during the winter quarter the Grizzly squad was organized and a meet was held between two divisions of the team, one team headed by James Hennings and one by Albert McArthur, the team headed by the former winning an exciting tourney. The team held its annual meet with the State College team during the Inter-collegiate Minor Sports Meet, and piled up enough points against them, so that in spite of losing that meet, helped the State University to win the annual minor sports carnival for the first time in many years.

Albert McArthur was elected by the team as captain, and his squad consisted of James Hennings, Steve Angland, Robert Bell, John McClernan, George Roskie, George Boileau, William Garvey and Ira Kopelman. Entries for the meets were: McArthur, Hennings, Angland and Garvey in the 40- and 100-yard free style events; Bell and Hennings in the backstroke and breast stroke; McClernan and Boileau in the 220-yard free style event; Roskie in the backstroke; and Kopelman in diving. The Grizzlies scored a big surprise on the favorite Bobcat swimmers in the minor sports carnival, and led 31-29 after all the individual events had been run off. But, in spite of the breath-taking races by Hennings and McArthur in the 160-yard relay race, the Bobcat team won that event in record time and nosed ahead to win the meet. The relay record set by the Bobcats was one minute, 24.5 seconds, lowering the old mark by .3 seconds. In this meet, Hennings led the scorers with 12 points, while McArthur was second with eight points. Early in the spring, Al McArthur was sent to Portland where he entered the free style events of the Pacific Northwest Intercollegiate swimming tournament. Although he was eliminated just before the final races, he staged a fine performance and showed good time in the races he entered.

INTER-FRATERNITY BASKETBALL

The Alpha Tau Omega quint won the annual Inter-fraternity basketball race for 1934, defeating the Phi Delta Theta team in a close battle in a play-off after both teams had tied for the league lead. The Phi Deltas started the season strong and continued their winning form by defeating the Alpha Tau Omega team in an earlier game and then losing one other contest to fall back into a tie for first place with the A. T. O's. The playoff game was one of the most thrilling of the season, with the A. T. O. club taking advantage of a few Phi Delt mistakes to nose out their rivals, 20-19, and win the championship.

The 1934 Inter-fraternity league was successfully run off, with the following fraternities entered in the competition: Alpha Tau Omega, Phi Delta Theta, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Sigma Chi, Phi Sigma Kappa, Sigma Nu, Delta Sigma Lambda and Sigma Phi Epsilon. Every team showed good playing, and, with a few exceptions, every game was either closely contested or fiercely fought. Differing from years before, most of the teams were composed largely of freshman students, and many varsity prospects were found in the Inter-fraternity race. Harry Adams, director of intramural athletics, and Marion McCarty, minor sports manager, directed this season's league.

At the first of the season, a team from the Independent group was entered in the Inter-fraternity competition, but after a few games, the Barbs withdrew from the league and organized a league of their own. The Independent league had several teams representing South Hall, West Wing; South Hall, East Wing; Student Co-Op, and the Missoula Independents. That league which played during the fraternity race was won by the South Hall, East Wing team by default from the West Wing Club. After a long, close season in which every team scored victories, the two South Hall teams were tied for the championship. West Wing failed to show up for the title playoff, however, and the East Wing Club won the championship of the league.

The Women's Athletic Association is the governing unit of all athletic activities and sports among the women on the University of Montana campus. This organization was officially established on the campus in the fall of 1922, and since that time its growth has been rapid. The aims of the association are to interest college women in athletic activities, to develop a higher degree of sportsmanship and to promote school and class spirit in women's athletic activities. Membership in W.A.A. is open to all women members of A.W.S. who have won their first numeral by being on a first team in a major sport.

At the first meeting of the organization fall quarter, Ada Wood appointed Laura Martin social director of the association. It was Miss Martin's duty to plan the annual Halloween and Christmas parties. She also planned the W.A.A. swimming party which was given February 6. Managers of the year's sports were: Louise Geyer, swimming; Donne Stevens and Sara Miles, assistant swimming managers; Peggy Wilcox, hockey; Eva Lesell, riflery; Edith Hankins, ping pong, and Virginia Bode, basketball.

During fall quarter swimming and riflery tournaments were held. Basketball tournaments were played during the winter quarter. And in the spring, ping pong, golf and tennis tournaments, are planned. Kappa Kappa Gamma won first place in riflery and swimming, Kappa Alpha Theta, first place in basketball and second place in swimming, Delta Delta Delta, second place in riflery, Alpha Xi Delta, second place in basketball, Delta Gamma and Sigma Kappa, third in swimming, and Alpha Phi, third in basketball.

RIFLERY

Montana fell in line with the foremost universities of the country this year by adding a course in riflery for women. This instruction was held under the direction of Captain A. E. Rothermich at the R.O.T.C. range. The main purpose of the course was to formulate a women's team for match competition with other universities and with the local unit of the R.O.T.C. and Missoula rifle clubs.

With the closing of the fall quarter, 15 women were selected to compose the women's rifle team for the State University out of the 56 women who completed the course in riflery for grades and credits. The members of the rifle team are Virginia Bode, Madeline Bonner, Virginia Backus, Beth O'Brien, Marion Dahlberg, Norma Hammer, Frances Jones, Caroline Kurth, Dorothy Kitt, Lucille Lindgren, Eleanor Potter, Nellie Spaulding, Carol Wells, Evelyn Weydt and Eva Lesell, team manager.

An Inter-sorority riflery tournament was held December 11 with Kappa Kappa Gamma scoring 266 points, winning the match, Delta Delta Delta second, with a score of 255 points, and Delta Gamma, third, with a score of 243 points out of a possible 300. Other sororities as they placed were: Alpha Chi Omega, fourth; Alpha Phi, fifth; Sigma Kappa, sixth; Kappa Delta, seventh; Alpha Delta Pi, eighth, and Kappa Alpha Theta, ninth.

The State University's team, which included the alternates, outpointed the University of Nevada women's rifle team 26 points, although the Nevada first team beat the Montana first team by three points. Ten members fired with the five high scores counting toward the team total. The totals of the two first teams were: University of Nevada 954, University of Montana, 951. The totals of the alternates were: University of Nevada, 886, and that of the University, 915.

Two more victories were scored by the team when it defeated the University of Nebraska's team by two points, 245 to 243. The match was fired from the prone position. The second victory was the defeat of the Pomona College, Claremont, California team by the University women. The score was 484 to 455.

The women's rifle team was high winner in the Garden City rifle match which was concluded January 25, at the R.O.T.C. range.

In answer to the challenge of the Amercian Legion Rifle team, the women's team staged a return match with them on March 6. The women had previously outscored them in the Garden City rifle match. The Legionnaires were defeated 1,563 to 1,465.

The final match of the season was the Bradley trophy match between the State University men's rifle team and the State University women's team, fired March 8. It resulted in the co-eds winning, scoring 1,567 to the men's 1,506. In the match the women had the advantage, firing from prone, sitting and kneeling positions, while the men fired from prone, sitting and standing stages.

The Bradley trophy was donated by Major G. L. Smith in commemoration of First Lieutenant James H. Bradley of the Seventh Infantry, who was the first white man to be killed in the Battle of the Big Hole on August 9, 1877.

At the conclusion of the match Captain Rothermich awarded the Bradley trophy to the women's team and a trophy to Madeline Bonner for the highest shooting average of the season. Her average was 92.

UP WITH MONTANA

Up with Montana, boys, down with the foe,
Old Montana's out for a victory;
She'll shoot her backs around the foemen's line,
A hot time is coming up now, brother mine;
Up with Montana, boys, down with the foe,
Good old Grizzly will triumph today,
And the squeal of the pig will float on the air
From the tummy of the Grizzly bear.

FIGHTING FOR MONTANA

Give a cheer for old Montana
Give a cheer for her warriors bold.
They are fighting today for the honor
Of the Copper, Silver, Gold.
Mighty are the foes they battle,
They have fought in the Grizzly's way;
And again for old Montana,
They are sure to win today.

RIFLERY

The Grizzly Battalion of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps was organized here in 1919 under the National Defense Act of 1916. The general object of the courses of instruction is to qualify students for positions of leadership in time of national emergency.

Since 1928 the Grizzly Battalion has had the distinction of being allowed to wear the blue star on the uniform sleeve designating "excellent rating."

A new indoor firing range has greatly aided the department in the instruction of riflery. In the basic courses drill has been minimized and military history, organization and current international situations added. In the advanced classes a wider range of studies than in previous years is allowed. Men who do not prefer to take more than the required two year course receive certificates of proficiency for non-commissioned officer grades. In the advanced unit 12 student officers are commissioned annually as second lieutenants in the Officers' Reserve Corps.

The department recently received new serge uniforms to replace those of melton cloth formerly used.

Besides its regular instruction the department provides policing for athletic contests, military parades and the promotion of riflery.

The term "Kaimin" is taken from the language of the Selish Indians and means "the written word."

The Kaimin made its first appearance 36 years ago as a literary magazine under the auspices of the old Press Club. It became a semi-weekly in 1908 and was purchased two years later by the A. S. U. M. Developing steadily with the growth of the school and always upholding high standards of journalistic service the Kaimin is rated with the best of college papers.

The Kaimin is entirely within the hands of students who prepare both advertising and news copy. Since February 20, 1931 it has been printed in its own shop on equipment donated by companies and newspapers throughout the state. It has the distinction of never having had a late issue. The circulation is about fifteen hundred.

J. Stanley Hill, Sand Coulee, has been editor and Robert Jones, Missoula, business manager for the 1933-1934 Kaimin.

FRONTIER AND MIDLAND

Started in 1919 as a student enterprise, The Frontier became in 1927 a regional magazine representing the whole Northwest country and with the absorption of the Midland in 1933, a definitely national magazine. Known now from coast to coast as the Frontier and Midland, this magazine, edited by H. G. Merriam has achieved high distinction for the excellence of its fiction and general content. It is today a powerful medium guiding and shaping the new and significant currents in American literature. Dealing constantly with the new, it does not forget the past. Each issue carries some authentic and hitherto unpublished historical document of the old West. Its stories have been consistently starred and re-printed by Edwin O'Brien, official American short story rater.

As The Frontier the magazine built its reputation as a medium for the colorful regional literature of this Northwest country. The deeds of trapper and rancher, Indian and pioneer, cowpuncher and lumber-jack lived again in its pages. More rational now in outlook, yet still feeling its roots in Rocky mountain soil, The Frontier and Midland now counts its contributors from every section of the United States, from Canada and from England; while its subscription list reaches many foreign countries. Associate editors are Grace Stone Coates of Martinsdale, Montana and Brassil Fitzgerald, professor of English at the State University.

THE FORESTRY KAIMIN

ROBBINS SPARROW HINMAN STEIN HAGUE HARRIS WAGNER

The annual Forestry Kaimin is a magazine contacting alumni and active men in the School of Forestry, men active in professional forestry and other forestry schools. It is edited and published by the Forestry Club and contains technical articles of interest to the profession. It carries news of the Forestry Club, Druids, rifle team, foresters' ball, and articles pertinent to the campus. Featured in the back of the book is a directory of students and alumni of the school.

Within the School of Forestry the Forestry Kaimin is recognized as their "yearbook." First edited in 1915 and containing only a few pages the book has grown from a small pamphlet to a book of a hundred pages.

This year the book is dedicated to Dr. C. W. Waters of the Department of Botany for his helpful cooperation with the School of Forestry.

LITTLE THEATRE

The Montana Masquers, University dramatic organization, and producing group for the Associated Students, with the completion of the season of 1933-34, rounds out three decades of active contribution to the entertainment needs of Montana students. Types of long plays to suit all tastes are produced under the direction of B. W. Hewitt and an attempt is made to present each quarter a varied bill of one-acts.

As major productions the fall quarter saw "The Front Page" by Hecht and McArthur, the winter quarter Ibsen's classic drama of comedy and tragedy, "The Wild Duck," and in the spring came "The Tavern," George M. Cohan's frothy comedy.

The winter quarter's bill of one-acts comprised "The Cocklepiefer Case," a burlesque murder mystery by J. W. Genung and B. W. Hewitt, "Release," prison drama by E. H. Smith, and "The Odd Streak," a play of domestic near-tragedy by Roland Pertwee.

"THE FRONT PAGE"

"The Front Page," riotous melodrama of newspaper-men and escaped murderers, played to full houses at the Little Theatre November 8, 9, 10, 1933. David Duncan, as the hardboiled editor, Allan Schwartz, the equally hard-boiled reporter, and Ruth Perham, as Mollie Malloy, the flamboyantly attractive friend of the escaped criminal, were outstanding.

DEBATE

Concluding his fourth year as a debate coach, Darrell Parker leaves the State University to establish himself in the law profession. Mr. Parker has made himself immensely popular with both his debators and his audiences and will be greatly missed.

Because of curtailed expenditures for debating there have been no visiting teams this year and it was necessary to schedule debates elsewhere for State University teams.

In the Aber Day contest last year Don Creveling took first place, Grant Kelleher, second and Clara Mabel Foot, third. Contestants this year included Grant Kelleher, Edward Alexander, Helen Spencer, Joan Morrison, Bill Browning and Harry Alley.

The longest tour of the year was taken by William Negherbon and Harry Hoffner whose subject was "Resolved that a second world war is imminent." Their itinerary included, Sacramento Junior College, San Jose State Teachers College, Stanford, the University of California, San Francisco State Teachers College.

George Van Noy and William Browning were the members of the debate team which had as its subject, "Resolved that this house deplores the rise of Hitler." They visited the University of Idaho, Whitman College and at Washington State College participated in a radio debate. All of the debates on the tours were of the non-decision type.

ADVERTISING

*I*T is to the following local, state and national concerns who have advertised in the 1934 Sentinel that every reader owes patronage; firstly, because of the very loyal support that they have given the publication and, secondly, because of the high quality and real value of the service they offer. It is for the reader's convenience that an index to these advertisers has been arranged on page 237.
