Inexperienced squad stages comeback after first game to maintain winning pace in next four tilts

THERE is no division of opinion on the Montana campus this winter in regard to the 1933 Grizzly basketball team. It is not only the consensus but the unanimous belief that the "Grizzlies are playing a fine brand of basketball under Coach A. J. Lewandowski."

Montana has no 1933 wonder team. There are no players who stand head and shoulders above their teammates, either literally or figuratively speaking. Rather, the State University is represented on the basketball court this year by a dozen athletes, many of them sophomores, who are showing a lot of good basketball and getting real joy out of doing it.

The season had an inauspicious beginning. After several weeks of hard work during which the players studied and practiced the fast-breaking system installed by Coach Lewandowski, the Grizzly team took a rather severe beating from the Idaho Vandals in the opening game of the season. The chief difficulty seemed to lie in the fact that the Montanans were inexperienced and inconsistent. They broke slowly, their guarding was erratic, their shooting wild.

How, in a period of 24 hours, a team can overcome all these handicaps, has still to be explained to a small group of fans who witnessed the second between-quarters game. There was no question about the supremacy of Idaho on the first night; there was little expectation of a better showing on the part of Montana in the second game.

But from somewhere came an urge to win—an urge which crystallized into a sweeping offense which the Vandals couldn't stem. In the first half it was temporarily checked by the effective guarding of Idaho's rangy veterans.

In the last half even that couldn't stop it. Overnight the Grizzlies had improved 35 points. The first night's game was a 45 to 20 walk-away for the Vandals. The second night saw them routed, 52 to 38.

Students who arrived early for the winter quarter had their first opportunity to see the Grizzly team in action when the far-famed Golden Bobcats came to town. To alumni present that night, it recalled old times and the spectators had antiquated expectation. But the Grizzly offense was smoother, the defense tighter. The Bobcat veterans had to play the hardest basketball of their careers to nose out the Grizzly youngsters by two points. It was a see-saw game and the Bobcats happened to be on the long end of the score when time was up. To Montana fans the last 10 seconds were agonizing. With the score, 39 to 37, four Montana attempts rolled around the rim of the basket and dropped the wrong way.

The Grizzlies' second win of the year came at the expense of the Polson Independent team. Scheduled as a practice game, the battle developed into a nip and tuck affair that was finally won by the Montanans, 52 to 44. Several former college and high school stars appeared in the Polson lineup and their successful long-distance heaves added variety to the short-passing attack displayed by the Grizzlies.

All of the 12 men who make up the Grizzly squad are seeing plenty of action this year. Coach Lewandowski has several combinations that have proved effective and he is using them all. Captain Andrews of Big Timber, James Brown of Butte, Bill Erickson of Butte, and Dave Fitzgerald of Livingston, are doing most of the work at

COUNCIL REVIEW

By CHARLES E. AVERY, '00

Members of group called to Missoula November 12th and 13th to consider University problems

PURSUANT to call by Pres. John F. Patterson of Missoula, the first meeting of the Alumni Council was held in the Forestry library, State University at Missoula, on November 12 and 13, 1932. The Council is composed of the presidents and past president of the Alumni association, the members of the Alumni Challenge Field corporation, presidents of the local clubs, and the Executive Board of the Alumni association. Mr. Patterson presided.

There are a few high points touched in the Alumni Council that I would like to mention and thus call them to the attention of the whole body of alumni and the people of the state in general.

President Clapp presented a summary showing financial conditions in Montana and the State University as compared with the other eleven northwest and Rocky Mountain states. On expenditures for higher education, Montana is low. In comparing the budgets for the last ten years, President Clapp pointed out that although the plant and student body had increased, particularly the number of graduate students, the budget for 1932-33 was decreased so that it is nearly $20,000 less than in 1922-23, and $44,000 less than in 1930-31.

Although the taxpayers had authorized a levy of 3 mills, a levy of only 2½ mills was actually made by the legislature in 1931. But the appropriations made at that same session could not be taken care of by the 2½ mill levy. To meet the situation as far as possible, the State Board of Education reduced the appropriation for 1932-33 by 10 per cent. But even the reduced appropriation is slightly in excess of the income from the 2½ mill levy, and this has brought about an unbalanced budget.

Mr. Howard Toole, a member of the State Board of Education, pointed out the great necessity of a balanced budget. He said there had been a shortage in the fund this year and warrants had been discounted because of this unbalanced budget. If the deficiency continues, he said, the time will come when the warrants cannot be cashed. He felt that we must insist upon a balanced budget this next biennium, and, instead of trimming budgets still further to meet the lowered income, he saw no reason why the entire 3 mill levy should not be secured. Since it had been voted by the people, it was in one sense taken out of the hands of the legislature, although the legislature is, of course, empowered to reduce the levy.

Mr. Toole stated that the State of Montana is rather economically operated. The state is not badly in debt, and the total levy for all state purposes for the past few years has been 4½ mills. However, it makes no difference how economical a state may be, the budget cannot be balanced if the legislature appropriates more than they levy in taxes.

Mr. Toole continued that the institution had made progress under President Clapp, but that every one must remember that the amount of money available from the general fund for the State University for the past ten years has been virtually stationary. The same appropriation as was made ten years ago was made for this year and then reduced 10 per cent, although in the meantime the student load had increased 50 per cent. Notwithstanding these facts, the efficiency of the institution has not been impaired. However, he believes that the present situation of the State University is critical. The fact that the University could continue to operate on $36,000 less than the appropriation, with 50 per cent increase in the student body, particularly an increase in the upper classes and graduate students, is evidence that it can be done, but, of course, the institution cannot go on indefinitely reducing and reducing. The physical plant will depreciate and deteriorate, and eventually the institution will go backward. Therefore, it is of the utmost importance that we get the 3 mill levy during the coming biennium. We are certainly justified in asking for it because it was voted by the people. It is important not that we reduce the institutional budgets to meet the 2½ mill levy but that we secure the full 3 mill levy.

An important subject discussed was that of State University alumni co-operating with the alumni of other state institutions. It was suggested that it might be possible for alumni groups of the different institutions to hold a joint meeting at least once a year in different sections of the state, and that Chancellor Brannon be invited to discuss the general situation of the Greater University before these various meetings. Considerable attention was also given to athletics at the State University. Another subject discussed was the curriculum revision that has taken place during the past year. This revision makes it possible for students of the Lower Division, the first two years, to acquire a broad background of general knowledge, and then, in the Upper Division, to specialize.

The Council adjourned with a feeling that a worthwhile movement had been started, and with the hope that similar meetings might be held from time to time in the future.

forward. Andrews and Brown are usually in the starting lineup with the others replacing them as the game progresses.

Bill Hileman of Whitefish and Dick

Fox of Billings have so far this year been the most dependable guards. However, Cal Emery of Billings, Donald Holloway of Townsend, Jack MacDonald of Corwin Springs and Naseby Rhinehart of Milwaukee are seeing a great deal of action.

Chalmer Lyman of Helena, who played center on the 1932 team, failed to return to school this quarter. His absence has not necessitated any drastic shift in the Grizzly lineup as both Alfred Dahlberg of Butte and Al Heller of Twin Bridges have proved effective at the pivot position. Rhinehart, guard, is also capable as a center.

Due to the drastic reductions in athletic appropriations at most of the Pacific Coast schools this year, Coach Lewandowski has encountered some difficulty in arranging a representative schedule. This fact has been disappointing to the coach, players and student body alike. Nevertheless, the Grizzlies have a schedule of 11 games ahead of them with the possibility that more will be added later. The Montanans will play within the state more than they have in the past. Helena, Butte, Bozeman and Missoula fans will have an opportunity to see them.

The schedule to date is as follows:

January 21—Carroll college at Helena.

January 27-28—Montana State College at Missoula.

February 1-2—Ellensburg college at Ellensburg, Wash.

February 3—Whitman college at Walla Walla, Wash.

February 4—University of Idaho at Moscow.

February 10-11—Montana State College at Bozeman.

February 13-14—Montana Mines at Butte.

February 20-21—University of Idaho, Southern Branch, at Missoula.

February 25 (tentative)—House of David at Missoula.

(Tentative and unset)—Montana Normal college at Missoula.

TRAVEL NOTES

By TED JACOBS, '25

From traveler to resident of the country --- Ted Jacobs gives information on evolution of a tourist

THE returned European traveler, often to his acute embarrassment, is expected to be able to discourse with authority upon any phase of Continental life, art or business. This is true whether he has been abroad three weeks or three years. His failure to observe with understanding admiration any of the thousand buildings, paintings, statues and gardens is taken as indicative of the lack of properly developed curiosity and power of observation. Thus, one who would travel in foreign lands with an eye on his duty to those at home, must delve deeply into the public and private affairs of many greatly different peoples, must spend his waking hours according to a guide book, must devote his evenings to reading to prepare a background for the things to be seen the following day. After a few days, one realizes that even this is not enough. One must find an hour in which to write in haste the impressions that have been crowded in and out of his mind, else the precious reactions of an over-worked mind will be lost forever to the host of trusting friends working away at home. One's ardor to see all and preserve all is strengthened by his fellow sight-seers around him, Baedeker in hand, each firmly determined that he at least shall miss nothing. If adventure beckons, one must sigh and pass on so that, in the fall, he cannot be said to have failed to see Umbrella Fountain.

If one, however, with my strength of character (or laziness of mind, if you will), refuses to devote his evenings to writing and planning and his days to organized gazing, his punishment is swift and sure. My friends ask me about Roman ruins and refuse to listen to my story of the evening spent in the village of Grossetta, unheard of, and therefore non-existent.

Language difficulties are not serious for the American sight-seer. Everywhere there are those who speak English because it is their business to do so. These are ready to show you what you ought to see and tell you what you should know as well as take care of your material wants. In the larger cities there are usually offices of several American and English agencies and local agencies which have learned that such business is profitable. It is a strong temptation to even the most independent traveler to place himself in such hands because of the ease and facility with which his comfort and security from possible unpleasantness can be assured. In addition, these agencies give one contact with fellow countrymen more or less in the same situation; and that comradeship which springs up between people of the same race and language when they meet on foreign soil binds together groups of "Little America," excluding to a great extent any glimpse of the people in the country visited.

The first six weeks of the trip Jim Garlington and I made last summer were spent in France, Spain and Italy. Our language equipment consisted of considerable high school and college Spanish and less than two months of home-study German improved upon by four evenings spent with generously-interested Professor Scheuch. There was not one word of French or Italian at our command.

France, especially Paris, was very interesting. We were there not yet accustomed to the realization that we were in a foreign land and the problem of determining how we would plan to "do" places didn't concern us so much as it came to later. We saw about everything possible to the tourist in so limited a time, in spite of the fact that we wandered around many hours leaving much to chance. We varied from the approved program only in failing to purchase a collection of pornographic pictures, for which we offer apology to numerous expectant friends.

Spain gave us sudden delight in the opportunity to employ our ability to speak with anyone we saw. If the actual conversations were halting and marked with frequent repetition, it detracted not a bit from our pleasing sense of power. So few tourists have any knowledge of Spanish that one who does is assured of a friendly reception. A short trip in and through the pueblos of northern Spain on the way to Barcelona, a route taken by so few that an American is a curiosity, was one of the pleasantest and most interesting experiences of our trip, marred only by sickening disillusion as to the glory of bull-fighting.

In Barcelona, Arnold Tschudy, whom we knew at the University in 1920 and 1921, found us a Catalonian pension whose only American patronage had been a General Motors' employee now and then. Visits in the homes of enterprising and well-educated Catalans showed us the value of our Spanish. Trips in the city and nearby country with a young native doctor contrasted with our lone wanderings in France.

Then Italy found us as we had been in France, except that we encountered two Americans, a mother and daughter, and an Italian bus driver who spoke understandable English. The driver, his friendship secured by our genuine interest in his bambina (his twelfth, I believe), took us to wine cellars which were gathering places for young Romans. However, these were merely incidental. Rome was for us after all mostly ruins and churches.

While in Rome we visited the Pope, and to my surprise every one at home seems to consider this the major accomplishment of the summer. It is probably not realized that the Pope is the most accessible man of power in Europe. If one fails to see him it is, I believe, because the tourist agencies seem to discourage it. The only reason for this that has come to my mind is that the Vatican does not allow invitations to be issued by such agencies, nor does it admit organized parties with guides, which leaves no way to commercialize such visits.

After much inquiry we were told to call at the American college, a group of American priests, hidden away in a narrow street. Big, strapping Father Kiley from Chicago wrote the necessary note to the officers of the Vatican without the slightest hesitation or inquiry. Our permission to be present at a daily reception of the Pope was a matter of course and routine.

On the way from Italy to Germany we went through Switzerland, stopping a few days in Geneva to see sights and pay a visit to Clarence Streit and his family. Clouds obscured many of the scenic wonders of this land, but there were still enough to hold us longer, except for the growing desire to settle down for a taste of German life—and, I must admit, Munich beer.

In Germany we dropped definitely out of the tourist class and spent our time living with families for a couple of months. German parties, trips into the Bavarian Alps, and quiet, healthful life always filled with interesting events, gave me the one thing above all others in Europe that I would return to if there should be the opportunity.

DR. UREY ATTENDS CONFERENCE

As representative of the State University of Montana, Dr. Harold C. Urey, '17, professor of chemistry at Columbia university, attended the conference on the Obligation of Universities to the Social Order called by New York university at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, November 15, 16 and 17. Nearly five hundred men and women representing as many colleges, universities, and learned societies in thirty-two different countries attended the meetings.

UNIVERSITY NOTES

THE Alumni Council meetings held in Missoula November 12th and 13th are reviewed in another part of this issue. Guy E. Sheridan, '02, of Butte, who has been one of the most faithful of graduates over a period of years, made a significant comment. He said, "It is as much an alumni obligation to support the institution and do everything possible to cooperate in building up a stronger University as it is an institutional obligation to keep in touch with alumni and aid in building up a strong alumni organization. My only criticism of the State University is that our institution has been too good to its alumni."

Andrew Cogswell, '27, explained to the Council the difference between football publicity and University news. He finds it regrettable that the necessity of a certain amount of ballyhoo in connection with football publicity, not possible or desired in straight news stories, gives many alumni the impression that the success or failure of the institution depends upon the outcome of the football season. The real work of the institution goes on, regardless of the winning or losing of athletic teams, and the worth and importance of the work done in classrooms and by faculty members in research and creative work cannot be judged by a scoreboard.

The Billings Alumni Club is undoubtedly the most active in the state. Their officers for the coming year have been announced. Ralph E. Fields, '25, succeeds Harry Stuber as president of the organization. His address is Care Forest Service, Hedden Building. The vice president is Blanche Coppo, ex-'30, and the secretary-treasurer is Catherine Calder, '28.

Bill Cogswell has been an elusive personality who has haunted Kaimin and Alumnus editors for several years now.

His "Dear Annabelle" is a tradition at "The Shack"; his news from Hawaii for Helen Newman Baird's ALUMNUS columns made us envious when we took over the magazine that we could no longer get news from him, going about among volcanoes and earthquakes and celebrities. Well, he was in Missoula during the Christmas holidays visiting "Brother Andy," and the ALUMNUS editor tried to get an interview for his past-reading-public. It wasn't much of a success; he gives out very little information about himself except the kind that carries the postscript, "You can't print that." He is now contact man covering the Eastern territory for the Grace Steamship Lines. He soothes celebrities and escorts visiting ladies through the pitfalls of New York, he handles a certain amount of publicity work and works like a dog between times; he lost fifty dollars for the first time in his life this past fall in a con game—and got fifty-one dollars back from the man who had taken it from him.

And while we are on the subject of columnists, do you know that "Uncle Hud" is now recording the disasters of the Class of 1932 in the Class Notes section?

Depression Notes: Aber Day, annual spring campus clean-up event, will not be observed this year, as the money which would be expended on that day, approximately three hundred dollars, will be used to employ needy students in doing the same work.—The average student at the State University this year will spend $150 less than did the student of three years ago, according to a recent Business Administration survey. The average amount spent by a student three years ago was $818.78 per year; this year, it is $667.91. Men students expect to make the greatest saving. The average reduction they anticipate is $207.56, while women will spend only $58.35 less.

For the third time in four years, a Missoula County high school graduate has been appointed Rhodes Scholar. Eugene Sunderlin, a senior in the State

Gene Sunderlin, Rhodes Scholar

University chemistry department and a prospective March graduate, was one of the four young men chosen from an even dozen candidates to represent the Northwestern states of Idaho, North Dakota, Oregon, Montana, Washington, Wyoming, at Oxford next autumn. He is assured a stipend of 400 pounds annually for three years of advanced study.

Sunderlin, who has been an honor student scholastically, has also been prominent in activities at the University throughout his college career. He is a member of Silent Sentinel and Pi Mu Epsilon, president of Kappa Tau, past president of Sigma Alpha Epsilon. He is a member of the state championship tennis doubles team, and was a member of Bear Paw and the Wrangler staff. This was his second competition for the Rhodes scholarship. Two years ago he passed the state examination and was one of the Montana representatives at the district examination.

Eugene Sunderlin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Sunderlin, formerly of Missoula. Glen Sunderlin received his degree from the State University in 1926, and Mrs. Sunderlin is an ex-member of the Class of 1930.

Hi-Jinx attendance this year was doubled by the device of combining votes for the contestants in the "Miss University of Montana" contest with the ticket sale. Adelaide Olinger of Great Falls, Tri-Delt, senior, and physical education major, was the winner. Her picture will appear in College Humor's "Collegiate Hall of Fame." Announcement of the winner was made at the show.

For two years Victor Stepantsoff, '30, has not been heard from. His brother, Alex Stepantsoff, 548 Riverside Drive, New York City, and his parents would like to get in communication with him or get news of any sort about him, and would appreciate hearing from any graduate or ex-student who has any information concerning him.

Dr. Lewis M. Simes, professor of law at the State University from 1919 to 1922, has left the staff of Ohio State university to accept a professorship in the Law school of the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor. After leaving Montana, he received a doctorate in 1927 from Yale university.

Dr. N. J. Lennes, chairman of mathematics, will spend most of the winter quarter in Chicago, where he will spend two months working on material for his book which is to be issued by Laidlaw Brothers, Publishers. His Chicago address will be the Quadrangle Club.

HISTORY

In the Making

MARRIAGES

'00—Cronkrite, daughter of. Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Laura Grubbs, daughter of Mrs. Caroline Cronkrite Grubbs, '00, to Juan de Catloulch on November 16 in Puerto de Pollenfa, Isle de Mallorca. Laura Grubbs was born in Missoula while her father, Major DeWitt T. C. Grubbs, was stationed at Fort Missoula. Her mother, who was reared in Missoula, is a member of the institution's third graduating class. Mrs. Grubbs and her children have made their home in Puerto de Pollenfa for a number of years.

'20—Leach, Edwards. Word has been received of the marriage of Marion Leach, '20, to Dr. Fred Edwards in San Jose, Cal., November 9. Mrs. Edwards is a member of Alpha Phi. Dr. and Mrs. Edwards will make their home in Oakland, Cal., where she has been engaged as a university instructor for the past few years.

'23—Maclay, Curtis. Emily Maclay, '23, was married in Chicago on December 29 to N. B. Curtis, instructor of commercial subjects in Westinghouse high school, Pittsburgh, Pa. Mr. Curtis is a graduate of the University of Iowa. During the summers he is a special lecturer for the Gregg company, and was at the State University two summers ago in this capacity. Mrs. Curtis has taught shorthand, typewriting, and accounting to State University classes in business administration for the past two years. She is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta. She and Mr. Curtis will make their home at 2101 Hampton Street, Swissvale Station, Pittsburgh, Pa.

'24—Pfaender, Ostrander. Word has just been received of the marriage of Therese Pfander, '24, to Ray Ostrander, although the marriage occurred some time in August. Mr. and Mrs. Ostrander will live in Albert Lea, Minn.

'25—Ferguson, Watson. Another delayed announcement in our columns is that of the marriage of Chester O. Watson, '25, to Elizabeth Ferguson. The marriage took place on September 4 at Tuxedo, N. Y. Mrs. Watson is a graduate of the Art School of Pratt, Brooklyn. Mr. and Mrs. Watson are making their home in Brooklyn for the present, and Mr. Watson is continuing his study of voice in New York City.

Ex-'25—Dauterman, Donlan. On October 24 in Butte, Marjorie Dauterman of Lyon, Mont., was united in marriage with Arthur Donlan, ex-'25, of Missoula. The bride was graduated from a convent school in Ogden, Utah, and from the State Normal college at Dillon. She has been teaching for several years in the Montana public schools. Mr. Donlan is a graduate of Gonzaga university at Spokane, but previous to his graduation, attended the State University for some time. He is a member of Sigma Chi. Mr. and Mrs. Donlan will make their home at the Donlan ranch near Frenchtown.

'26—Halverson, Berg. The wedding of Lulu Irene Halverson of Lisbon, N. D., and Albert Berg, '26, took place in Helena on the evening of December 30. After a wedding trip to Spokane, the bride and groom are at home at the Berg apartments on Grand and Jackson Streets, Helena. Mr. Berg played on the varsity basketball team while at the University, and is a member of Sigma Chi.

'26—Perry, Waldo. Rogetta Catherine Perry, a sophomore in the State University language department, was married on November 29 to Cullen Waldo, '26, of Billings. Mrs. Waldo is a pledge of Kappa Kappa Gamma. Mr. Waldo received his degree in geology at the State University in 1926, and for the past three years has been employed by the Sinclair Oil company in Caracas, Venezuela. He is studying for his master's degree in Spanish and French this year. At the completion of Mr. Waldo's studies here, he and his bride expect to leave for South America where they will make their home.

Ex-'26—Burke, Moore. Ruth Burke, who attended the State University in 1922-23, became the bride of Richard Moore, branch manager of the Thompson Produce company of Chicago, with headquarters at Kansas City. Mrs. Moore was graduated from Sullins college in Virginia after leaving the State University. During the past year she has been employed by a law firm at Santa Monica, Cal.

Ex-'26—Klose, Putney. Ruth Klose and Lawrence Bates Putney, ex-'26, both of Missoula, were united in marriage at the home of the bride's mother in Missoula on October 8. Mrs. Putney attended the University of Nebraska, at Lincoln, her former home. She is a member of Gamma Phi Delta sorority. Both Mr. and Mrs. Putney are graduates of Missoula County high school. They will make their home at 807 Beckwith avenue, Missoula. Mr. Putney is employed by the Missoula Mercantile company.

Ex-'26—McCann, Davis. Mary Cecilia McCann of Great Falls, who attended the State University during 1922-23, was married to E. Albert Davis of Seattle, November 17. Mr. Davis is assistant district manager of the Shell Oil company at Seattle, for two years held that position at Tacoma, and prior to that time lived in Missoula where he served as assistant district manager for the company.

'27—Sellers, Acher. On November 13 in Helena, Arthur P. Acher, law graduate, was married to Rosemary Sellers of Helena. Mr. Acher is a member of Phi Delta Phi, legal fraternity, and of Alpha Tau Omega. He is now assistant district attorney. Mrs. Acher was graduated from St. Vincent's academy in Helena. Following a wedding trip to California and Mexico, Mr. and Mrs. Acher will be at home at 730 North Warren street, in Helena.

Ex-'27—Holliday, Weise. The marriage of Laurel A. Weise of Butte, ex-'27, and Hope Holliday of Billings, took place at the home of the bride's parents in Billings on September 23. Following a wedding trip to the Pacific coast, Mr. and Mrs. Weise will make their home in Billings, where the groom is connected with the Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph company.

Ex-'27—Ludwig, Ceballos. Lillian Ludwig of Cascade, Mont., who attended the State University during the year of 1923-24, was married to Juan Ceballos ("Jack Hutchinson") of Hollywood on Christmas Eve. The marriage took place at the Biltmore Hotel in Santa Barbara. After one year at the State University, Mrs. Ceballos transferred to the University of Southern California where she was judged "the most beautiful girl." During the last few years she has gained some repute as a designer of gowns. Mr. Ceballos is a graduate of Yale where he is a member of Alpha Delta Phi. He is associated with John D. Schulze, art designer and pioneer screen director.

'28—Cushman, Merrill. Mr. and Mrs. Elton Gray Cushman announce the marriage of their daughter, Margaret Frances, to Lee Potter Merrill. Saturday, October 15, at Wellesley Hills, Mass. Mr. Merrill was a 1928 graduate in forestry and is a member of Phi Sigma Kappa.

'28—Fodness, Blakeslee. Word has been received of the marriage of Donald Blakeslee of Livingston, '28, to Edith Fodness of Chico. The marriage took place at Livingston on November 4. Mr. and Mrs. Blakeslee are both graduates of Park County high school. They will make their home on the Blakeslee sheep ranch near Emigrant. Mr. Blakeslee is a member of Phi Delta Theta.

'28, ex-'29—Snow, Chichester. Elizabeth Snow, ex-'29, was married at the Little Church of the Flowers in Glendale, Cal., November 19, to Frank Chichester, 1928 law graduate. After leaving the State University, Mrs. Chichester studied a year at the Sorbonne at Paris, France. She is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta. Mr. Chichester, a member of Sigma Chi, is assistant United States district attorney at Los Angeles.

'28—Wellington, Smith. A marriage of the holiday season was the wedding of Belle Lucile Wellington, '28, of Missoula, to Wayne Boyd Smith of Longview, Wash. The marriage service was read at the home of the bride's parents on December 23. Mrs. Smith has been employed in the Bonner school. After a honeymoon spent at Portland and Longview, Mr. and Mrs. Smith returned to Missoula, where they will make their home at 402 South Second street.

'29, ex-'27—Barker, Rippel. Another Christmas week wedding was that of Florence Barker, ex-'27, of Great Falls and Neihart, and Carl Rippel, '29, of Butte. Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Rippel left for Butte where they will make their home. Mrs. Rippel attended the State University for three years and is a member of Alpha Chi Omega. Mr. Rippel attended the University of Detroit and was graduated in 1929 from the State University. He is a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon. He now is associated with Rowland-Thomas, certified public accountants at Butte, and has been with that concern for the past three years.

'29, '32—Brown, Snyder. Lucile Brown, '29, of Red Lodge, and Carl J. Snyder, '32, of Great Falls, were united in marriage during the Christmas holidays in Great Falls. Mrs. Snyder has been head dietician at Deaconess hospital in Great Falls for the past two years. She is a member of Alpha Xi Delta. Mr. Snyder secured his degree in pharmacy and is associated with his father in the North Side Drug store in Great Falls, owned and operated by the elder Mr. Snyder. Following a trip to the western coast, Mr. and Mrs. Snyder will make their home at the Chelsea apartments, Great Falls.

Ex-'29—Keith, Seelye. Mr. and Mrs. Adelphus Bartlett Keith announce the marriage of their daughter, Vernadel Eugenia, to Winthrop Seelye on December 28, at the Little Church Around the Corner, New York City. Mrs. Seelye was a member of the Class of 1929. She and Mr. Seelye will be at home at 3447 Ninetieth Street, Jackson Heights, Long Island, N. Y.

'30—Wingate, Gaughan. Two members of the Class of 1930 were united in marriage on October 16 when Florence Wingate of Sidney became the bride of Lawrence E. Gaughan. Mr. Gaughan received his degree from the law school and is now practicing in Billings, where he and Mrs. Gaughan will make their home. He is a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon and of Phi Delta Phi, legal fraternity. Mrs. Gaughan is a member of Alpha Chi Omega.

'31, ex-'32—Gordon, Kamps. John Kamps, '31, of Sweet Grass, and Mary Gordon, ex-'32, of Great Falls, were married in Great Falls on December 5. They will make their home in Sweet Grass. Mr. Kamps is a graduate of the School of Journalism.

'31—Robertson, Murray. The marriage of Vivian Robertson of Missoula, '31, to William D. Murray of Butte, was solemnized in Salt Lake City on November 22. After a honeymoon spent in San Francisco and Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. Murray will make their home in Salt Lake, where the groom is connected with the Texas company. Mrs. Murray is a member of Delta Gamma. Following her graduation, she attended a secretarial training school in Washington, D. C. Mr. Murray took some summer work at the State University. He received his degree from the foreign service school of Georgetown university in Washington, D. C., where he is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

ex-'31—Johnson, Birck. Mildred Johnson of Corvallis and Raymond Birck, ex-'31, were united in marriage on December 15 in Helena. Mr. Birck is associated with his father on the Birck ranch a mile north of Corvallis, where he and Mrs. Birck will make their home. Mrs. Birck is a graduate of the State Normal college. For the past two years she has been employed as a teacher in the Victor schools.

'32—Anderson, Voight. Harold Voight of Manhattan, who last spring won the Kappa Psi scholarship prize shortly before his graduation from the School of Pharmacy, was married on November 14 to Annalee Anderson of Kalispell, a former student at the University of Chicago. They will make their home in Manhattan, where Mr. Voight is employed as pharmacist for the Talbot Drug company.

'32—Klittke, Francis. Cornelia Klittke, '32, who since her graduation from the English department last June has been visiting her mother in Govenlock, Saskatchewan, Canada, was married in Havre on November 5 to Howard H. Francis of Arlee. They will make their home on the Francis ranch near Arlee. Mrs. Francis won first place in the 1931 Joyce Memorial short story contest at the State University, and last spring she won second place in the 1932 contest. She also received the 1932 C. A. Duniway prize for scholarship in English.

ex-'32—Jones, Stroud. The marriage of Ruth J. Jones of Dodson, ex-'32, and Rex Stroud of Butte, has been announced. The ceremony was performed in Havre on September 5. Mrs. Stroud is a member of Kappa Delta and Delta Psi Kappa, physical education fraternity.

ex-'33—Pryer, Lockridge. Charles Lockridge of Stevensville, ex-'33, was married on November 28 in Salt Lake City to Georgia Pryer of Yellowstone Park and Los Angeles, a graduate of the University of Ohio and a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma. Mr. Lockridge is now attending the University of Utah.

Eloise Knowles, a member of the first graduating class, will be remembered by her friends in a memorial to be chosen later in the year. Former Penetraltia members are sponsoring the plan, but the project is not limited to them. It will be remembered that Miss Knowles was founder of Penetraltia, senior women's honorary organization. Mrs. Paul C. Phillips (Alice Martin) is chairman of the committee in charge of the proposed memorial.

Class secretary, Charles E. Avery, Durston Bldg., Anaconda, Mont.

I want to take this opportunity of extending to all of the alumni of the University New Year's greetings, and to wish you one and all health and happiness during 1933.

As a member of one of the oldest graduating classes, and having a daughter at the State University, I am beginning to take a fatherly interest in the younger students and graduates. During all of these years, I have taken a passive interest in the U, but since I had the pleasure and privilege of attending the first Alumni Council held in Missoula on November 12 and 13, my interest has taken on a deeper meaning. I am more willing to shoulder some of the responsibility for the continued success of my Alma Mater. The administration has always kept in touch with the alumni, but I think it just as much the duty of the alumni to keep in touch with the U. I believe that the Alumni Council movement is a good one, and that meetings of this kind should be held once a year. I do not think that the State University authorities will lose anything by taking the officers of the Alumni Association and officers of the local clubs throughout the state into their confidence. I do not think that the alumni members of the Council will violate the confidence reposed in them. And while the alumni members of the Council may not be able for some time to be of much assistance to the administration, still their interest will increase as the years go by, and at some of these meetings suggestions made by the alumni may be of material assistance to the State University authorities.

I had never before had the privilege and pleasure of being entertained at South Hall. I enjoyed my short stay there immensely while I was in attendance at the Alumni Council. There was perfect order and decorum. In the dining room all of the young men were real gentlemen. There was no visible evidence of discipline, and yet there must have been something back of the ideal order so in evidence at all times. One thing that impressed me at South Hall dining room was the fine meals and the excellent service. In my opinion anyone who would complain of the board there must be exceptionally hard to please.

Since the last issue of the ALUMNUS I received a letter from my old classmate and friend, Eben H. Murray. I had not heard from him in years. He is still as modest and retiring as ever. He says he is glad to answer my letter as a personal note, but would prefer not to write anything for publication. However, I am going to take a chance and violate his request to the extent of saying that he has had a good position for about 20 years teaching in the public schools of St. Louis, Mo. In the event of my visiting St. Louis, he cordially invited me to look him up at any time, except during vacation, and he promised to treat me right.

Class secretary, Mrs. Lynn Ambrose (Daisy Kellogg), 433 McLeod Ave., Missoula, Mont.

To the alumni of the Class of '07 I send New Year's greetings! May many of the problems, so disturbing this old world, and thus affecting each of us, be solved; and through all the chaos may we be able to sense true values; may we have the vision to separate the gold from the dross, see the sun through the clouds, and in the end find happiness and contentment.

Christmas has come and gone, and messages have been received from but two class members—Sue Garlington Cole and Jennie McGregor.

Sue writes that her part of the country is pretty much depressed, but that she has much to be thankful for as she has more than the mere necessities. Her husband is in his second year as pastor of a Methodist church in Pineville, N. C.

Jennie is not only teaching, but is keeping house with a fellow teacher and taking two courses at U.S.C.—most too much for one person to do, it seems to me.

King Garlington's three little people indulged in chicken pox just before Christmas. All are better now.

Charles Dimmick has been working in the sugar factory here in Missoula this fall.

My own Christmas was a very happy one with my six youngsters, now most grown up, about me. My oldest boy, Lewis, is finishing an electrical engineering course at Bozeman. My mother and sister were also with us for Christmas dinner.

Now I should be delighted if any others of you would communicate with me. Here's hoping!

Class secretary, Mrs. Ralph Bush (Ida Cunningham), Route 1, Zillah, Wash.

One of the former presidents of the Alumni Association of the State University, Alice Wright, has a new address. It is 7583 Amboy Road, Tottenville, Staten Island, N. Y. Miss Wright teaches school in New York.

1915

Class secretary, Mrs. R. A. Ruenauer (Merle Kettlewell), Plains, Mont.

Dr. Ralph Gilchrist is the author of a treatise on the atomic weight of osmium, to be found in the current issue of the Journal of Research. Osmium is an element of the platinum group, used extensively in the manufacture of electric light bulb filaments. Dr. Gilchrist received his Ph.D. from Johns Hopkin university in 1922, and since then has been employed by the U. S. Bureau of Standards, Washington, D. C.

Ruth Cronk, who is an instructor in English at the North Central High school, Spokane, has been ill for several weeks in the Rockwood Clinic there. She is reported to be improving and hopes to be able to leave the hospital soon.

Class secretary, Mrs. V. R. Williams (Ann Rector), 2901 Adeline Dr., Burlingame, Calif. Dear Class of '16:

Oh for Sol Andresen's gift of being able to concoct a letter out of nothing! Lacking a better subject I will have to talk about myself. We spent the summer in Palo Alto, and in September bought a home in Burlingame, Calif. Nothing elaborate, but we are up high and have a lovely view of the bay and the lights of San Francisco, Oakland and Berkeley. And, believe it or not, we have meadow larks to wake us each morning.

The weather man was very accommodating to a Montanan, and just when I was thinking of Montana's snow-covered hills we had two days of real snow here. Very unusual, of course, the "natives" say, but I loved it.

The Tom Davis folks (Ethel Hughes, '11) live rather close and we have a bridge game with them occasionally. Tom saw Phil Daniels, '18, recently in San Francisco, but I didn't get to see him as he made a flying trip from Denver.

Lurena Black Banghart, '25, with her husband and daughter, Lurena Gayle, had dinner with us one day last week, and we had Christmas with them. They were in the same camp in South America (Ecuador) as we were.

Had hoped for a few Christmas cards with news of some of the '16-ers, but not any to date. Hope you all had a glorious Christmas and that 1933 will be depression-less.

All '16-ers or other U. of M. folks please remember my address, as we should be glad to see you at any time.

Sincerely yours,

Ann Rector Williams

Payne Templeton was granted a Master's degree from the University of Chicago at the end of the summer session, 1932. The title of his thesis was "A Study of the Comparative Costs in Thirteen Montana High Schools."

1917

Class secretary, Hazel Swearingen, 333 Brooks St., Missoula, Mont.

Dear Class of '17:

Happy New Year to you! May you all recover from the flu and live to write in to tell us about it for our next issue. What have you been doing for the last fifteen years? Well, even if you are still at the same job, why don't you write us about the cut you have received, or those that you expect to receive?

Here's the little news that I have gathered. The first item was sent to me. It is true that it took the writer two and one-half years to answer my letter, but answer she did. Thank you, Lelia Logan Smith of 27 Ziegler Tract, Penn's Grove, N. J.! Lelia sends us a picture of her fine 6-year-old girl and assures that she finds time for solo singing, missionary and ladies' aid work, parent-teachers society, to say nothing of a variety of social diversions. Lelia writes: "I never hear from any of our class. The next time I go home, I intend to go to Missoula and stay long enough to see all of the folks I know there and to find out about all of the changes in the University since I left." We regret that Lelia has had the misfortune to lose both of her parents during the last two years.

The following items are the result of telephoning. If they don't suit (and I hope they don't), persuade those whom you are interested in either to write or to move to Missoula, where I can reach them by telephone.

Grace Reely is still the librarian at the Herbert Hoover high school in San Diego. She was here in October, shortly after her father met with a serious accident, from which he has fortunately recovered.

Beth Hershey Fry is still living at Willits, Calif. She says that keeping up with her 3-year-old girl is plenty of diversion. What a Montana booster she will make some day!

Lenore Hemmick Taylor's mother is visiting here in Missoula this winter. She tells me that Lenore is still living in Bexley, near Columbus, Ohio, where her husband is an income tax lawyer. Lenore has two children, a boy of six and a girl of four.

Today I saw Helen Shull, who is at home for the holidays from her school at Charlo. She enjoys her work with the native Americans very much.

And now, folks, that's "thirty" for tonight!

Hopefully yours,

Hazel Swearingen

Margery Maxwell, an ex-member of the class, now an opera star, was one of the leaders in the rehearsals of a group of children belonging to the "Off the Street" club, scheduled to sing Christmas carols for the Advertising club of Chicago. The occasion was the annual Christmas benefit, the proceeds of which will help finance the activities of the "Off the Street" club members—boys and girls between the ages of four and 18 years, who spend their leisure time in supervised play at the club.

Walter E. Woehner was recently made Montana news reporter for the "Northwestern Druggist" of Minneapolis, Minn. Mr. Woehner is manager of the Rainbow Pharmacy of Great Falls. He has been recommended for appointment to the Montana State Board of Pharmacy.

According to the Sigma Nu News, published in Los Angeles, Fred Schlegel, long-time resident of Southern California, recently returned from an eight-months' trip to the Orient. He visited Hawaii, Japan, Philippine Islands, China, Malay, Ceylon and India. He traveled on 10 different vessels and as many different railroads, not to say anything of those Chinese man-power carriages; Fred even had to pay an extra fare on account of the linear dimension of his pedal extremities. As to aquatic sports, Schlegel says Hawaii's Oak, Japan's Saki, China's Samshoo, Hong Kong's Gimlets, Manila's San Miguel Beer, Singapore's Gin Shingo and India's Whiskey and Soda are all superior in taste, proof and after-effects to Boyle Heights' Bourbon or Hollywood's Instant Gin.

Eleanor Little, Parsons Hotel, Spokane, teaches in the elementary schools of that city.

Class secretary, Mrs. Charles Abbott (Inez Morehouse), 334 E. 10th St. N., Portland, Oregon.

Dear Alums:

Happy New Year to you all! Prosperity, happiness, and all the good things this old world affords for 1933!

Yes, I have joined the trek to the Pacific states and have been living in Portland since September. So far I have met but one alum, Ruth McFarlane, '25. Ruth is an instructor at the North Pacific College of Oregon. She is also treasurer of the Portland Alpha Chi Omega alumni chapter. We live in the same apartment house and frequently find time to visit and talk of the State University.

I must admit that I am a bit homesick for Montana and the campus. In fact our whole family prefers Montana to Oregon. Perhaps we shall learn to like rain!

Mr. Abbott is still with the North Pacific College. Margaret Ann, our small girl, is now seven years old and in the second grade. She is finding the platoon system in the public school here very interesting.

We have been fortunate to meet many interesting and charming people. I have heard Portland's wonderful symphony orchestra, and have had several interesting trips around and near the city before the rains set in.

The old freighter boats, the "heights" with the glorious view of a rambling small-town city have a fascination for me. I am looking forward to a spring of fun and exploration.

That's enough about my family. Time for news of you comes oftener, perhaps, than you think. But do try to write me and send along some news of yourself and of your family. If you know of any alumni living in Portland please send the address along now. I am homesick for sight and news of Montana graduates. Who isn't?

Best regards and best wishes to you all.

Inez Morehouse Abbott

Philip X. Daniels is still with the Pacific Goodrich Rubber company as district manager for the region including Colorado, Wyoming, New Mexico, Utah, South Dakota, and Nebraska. He and his wife, Doris Prescott Daniels, make their home in Denver.

Alice Boles Monteith (Mrs. C. D.) is living at 105 Highview Terrace, Cherrydale, Va. She visited in Missoula a year ago with her two children. Her husband is in the National Parks Service, and so the family frequently changes residence.

From 151 E. 225th St., Euclid, Ohio, Charlotte Bockes writes that she is teaching dramatics in the high school there. During the past summer she was abroad, making a study of the native drama in Paris, Berlin, and London.

Class secretary, Ann Reely, 415 W. 7th, Spokane, Wash.

Dear Classmates:

1933 begins auspiciously for your class secretary. My sincere thanks for your generous replies to the call for news.

Marion Hebert, 1720 Bath St., Santa Barbara, Calif., is teaching art and doing creative work in etching and watercolor painting. One of her etchings was chosen for the 17th annual exhibition of the Society of American Etchers in New York from November 30 to December 27. Marion says that she sees Verne Linderman often. Verne writes for the Santa Barbara Morning Press.

Our greetings and best wishes to Marion

A. Leach, now Mrs. F. L. Edwards. Marion was married on November 9 to Dr. F. L. Edwards of Oakland, Calif., and is at home at 315 E. 19th St. in that city.

Carrie Maclay Grether keeps the home fires burning for her husband and two small daughters at 824 San Diego Road, Berkeley, Calif., where she also teaches economics at Williams Junior college. We hope she can carry out her plans for visiting Missoula during commencement next June.

Ruth Kleinoeder Edwards with her husband and baby have recently returned to their home, 6303 Wayne Ave., Merchantville, N. J., from an auto trip to Miami, Fla.

William G. Kohner is teaching landscaping and forestry at Pasadena Junior college. His address is 111 Hamlet St., Los Angeles, Calif.

J. H. Lamb, 4219 N. E. 38th Ave., Portland, Oregon, is treasurer for Packard Service and Sales Incorporated.

Cleve O. Westby is principal of Granite County high school in Philipsburg. Teaching with him are Mae Campbell, '29, and Dee Cooper, '31.

"Leah's Corner Cupboard" in Boise, Idaho, is a gift shop owned and operated by Leah Black Flack. Last summer Leah was on a buying tour to Birmingham, Ala., Washington, D. C., New York, and Chicago, purchasing gifts and antique furniture.

Henry G. Ruppel, 610 S. 18th St., Corvallis, Oregon, is an instructor in the chemistry department of Oregon State college.

Claude Stimson, who had been at the University of Illinois, is now head of the department of economics, Municipal University of Omaha (Nebraska).

Ruth G. Dana is teaching home economics at Pocatello. Her address is Box 1208, Pocatello, Idaho.

Flora McLaughlin, who until recently lived in Colorado Springs, is now making her home in Dixon, Mont.

From the City Hall, Nampa, Idaho, Charles F. D. Baptist writes that he is Scout Executive of the Oregon-Idaho Council of Boy Scouts of America.

Homer M. Parsons, 543 Highland Ave., San Bernardino, Calif., says that he is still doing feature writing, editorializing, and wolf-from-the-door-chasing. In this last mentioned activity he has plenty of company, and most of us are finding said wolf hard to chase.

Russell A. Ireland is assistant fire and game warden in Los Angeles County. His address is 528 N. San Dimas Ave., San Dimas, Calif.

F. J. Murray, 2219 W. State St., Rockford, Ill., is teaching in the senior high school in that city. He received a M. S. degree from the University of Kansas in 1931.

After spending two years in Indianapolis, New Orleans, and Florida, Elmer B. Howe has moved to 623 Story building, Los Angeles, Calif., where he is district manager of the International Accountants Society. He writes of a meeting with Captain Claude McQuarrie, '19, in Atlanta, Ga., early last spring. Captain McQuarrie is an instructor at the Georgia Military Academy there.

Florence Faust Hansen is living at 2312 Knapp, Ames, Iowa. Mr. Hansen is on the faculty of the college there. Florence writes briefly of several items: her experience as a teacher in the University of Tennessee last spring; her sister Hilda's visit and trip by aeroplane from Oakland last summer, and her visit recently with Mrs. Paxton, former head of the home economics department at the State University. We extend sincere sympathy to Florence, who in the past year has lost both her mother and her baby.

Many of the members of the class will remember Alice McLeod Mills, who for a number of years was instructor of public speaking and dramatics at Montana. She is now in charge of the speech work at Mount Holyoke college in Massachusetts, and writes that she loves it there.

Edward Donlan, Jr., 75 Pierrepont St., Brooklyn, N. Y., is with the trust investment department of the Guaranty Trust company of New York City. He visited his family in Missoula for three weeks last autumn, and made a trip to Glacier park and over Lolo pass.

May the New Year bring you health, happiness, and whatever prosperity may be had in these trying times.

Cordially and sincerely yours,

Ann Reely

Class secretary, Hans Hansen, Worden, Mont.

Ida M. Sylvester has been employed as a technician by the Bellevue hospital in New York City, according to word received by Dean Mollett of the School of Pharmacy. Previous to this appointment she had been working in St. Mary's hospital in Rochester, New York.

J. Paul Freeman was appointed chief deputy county attorney of Cascade county recently.

Class secretary, Mrs. Elmer R. Guy (Elsie A. Thompson), 548 S. Walnut St., Brea, Calif. Phone, Brea 42.

Dear Classmates:

By the time this issue of the ALUMNUS reaches us, we will have rung out the old and brought in the new. May 1933 truly be a happy, prosperous New Year, not only in our nation, but throughout the entire world.

Many, many thanks to my classmates who responded on the cards sent out for news for the ALUMNUS. May I hear from the remainder of the class at your earliest convenience?

J. H. Allison, The Drug Shop, Tenino, Wash., says: "I own a clear title to the Shop. Manage to get three squares a day and am getting fat and gray (Also town clerk). When our bank failed last December the Chamber of Commerce backed a system of script based on assignments of promised dividends issuing 'wooden money.' Only town in the world where wooden money is good."

Walter E. Clark, Clark's Pharmacy, Havre, Mont., writes: "On October 6 I purchased the Withycombe drug store of this city, and am now operating it. Previous to my coming to Havre I was manager of the Edelman Drug company at Sheridan, Wyo. Had been there two years."

Another druggist, Orville W. Peek, 1530 Hilda Ave., Missoula, sends the following news: "I am proprietor of Peek's Drug Stores—have opened a new store in Missoula, up-to-date and ultra-modern, with a complete fountain lunch and drug store. Enjoying a very nice business."

Elias Patrick Mortimer Keeley, Deer Lodge, Mont., reports: "Practicing law, yelling, beating the drums, and settling down. I was just elected county attorney of Powell county. Being a Republican, I think I must be lucky. Mrs. Keeley is an Aggie, so I have to keep quiet this year."

From 635 W. Walnut St., Milwaukee, Wis., James Dorsey writes that he is busy practicing law. Jim attended the Minnesota-Wisconsin football game November 12, where he saw Bernie Bierman for the first time in ten years. They had quite a chat about old times at Montana. Jim often sees Jack Jones, '15, who is also practicing law in Milwaukee.

Raymond T. Nagel of Helena was elected Attorney General of the State of Montana on the Democratic ticket in November.

Another law grad, Paul W. Smith, 546 State St., Helena, is engaged in general practice there.

Ida Benjamin Burroughs, Kirksville, Mo., writes: "I am kept busing tending two husky boys of seven and two years of age—also being architect, landscape artist, and assistant at all trades in remodeling a seventy-year old colonial type house."

Mrs. R. W. Spencer (Inez Tiedt), 1312 9th St., Douglas, Ariz., says: "We are right in the midst of a flu epidemic. My husband, Ray Spencer, '21, teaches chemistry here. Last summer we visited his home in Kansas, and then went on up to my home at Missoula. This is our fifth year here, and we have been back to Missoula twice."

Dr. Raymond Garver, now with the department of mathematics at the University of California at Los Angeles, has an article, "The Approximate Solution of Certain Equations," in the November issue of the American Mathematical Monthly.

Mr. Guy and I attended the football banquet given in Los Angeles at the Hotel Alexandria November 18, the eve of the Montana-U. C. L. A. game. Among those present were: Artie Dawes, Marion Prescott, Viola Hamilton Vezetti, Eugene Harpole, Ruth Spencer Harpole, LeBrun Beckwith, Helen Lukens, Stuart McHaffie, Evelyn Thomas McHaffie, Alva Baird, Sylvia Lane Nelson, Pauline Wright, George Lester, Jr., Clyde Murphy, Dorothy Donohue Murphy, Mac Gault, Margaret Rutherford Gault, Norvald Ulvestadt, Hilda Marsh, Vera Pride Horst, Elsie Pride Priddy, E. B. Howe, Petey Peterson, Carl Cameron, and Steiner Larsen. There were about 75 alumni present. Coach Bunny Oakes and the Grizzly team were presented—they did not eat with the group—and speeches followed, Homer Parsons presiding as toastmaster.

From Alaska, Elizabeth Wickes Gwin writes: "This is our fourth year in Cordova. We like it pretty well here, although sometimes we wish we weren't so far away. The only Montana University student I have seen for a long time is Carlos Van Wald. I keep very busy with women's club work, P. T. A., church and housework just as women anywhere else do. This fall I managed the Father-Son banquet at which there were 250 people. I hope the class rallies and gives more news, for we like to hear about them, and look forward to receiving the ALUMNUS."

Very truly yours,

Elsie Thompson Guy

Late in October word was received of the appointment of Phoebe H. Walker as instructor on the faculty of the Marquette University Medical School, Milwaukee, Wis.

1924

Class secretary, Mrs. Walter Needham (Anne Cromwell), 28 Smelter Hill, Great Falls, Mont.

The Editors of the ALUMNUS asked me to pinch hit for Sol Andresen, who is extremely busy with her job at the broadcasting station in Missoula. I was greatly pleased with the responses to my first letter, and hope for as much and more for next time.

Forrest Rockwood writes, "Practicing law in Kalispell, firm of Grubb and Rockwood. Dr. Marvin Porter, '27, is associated with Dr. Vosburg in dentistry practice in Kalispell. Dr. Tom B. Moore, '21, is practicing medicine here as a member of the firm of Houston, Conway, Cockrell and Moore."

Joseph A. Sweeney, 721 21st St. N., Seattle is practicing law in that village, as is Herbert L. Onstad, Alaska building.

Senior member of the law firm, Smith, Mahon and Smith in the National Bank of Montana building, Helena, is John W. Mahon.

Another '24 lawyer is Roy F. Allan, with the firm of Brown, Wiggernhorn and Davis, Montana National Bank building, Billings. Red gives 10 Ave. B as his home address.

Anaconda claims another of our legal grads—Roy A. Michaud, who has offices in the Durston building.

Robert H. Kirkwood's new address is 1806 Kearny St., N. E., Washington, D. C. He is assistant engineer for the Interstate Commerce Commission in the Bureau of Valuation. "My particular work is evaluating pole line properties and forecasting unit values. I am also attending George Washington Law School after work. I recently met former governor, Joseph M. Dixon, who is now assistant secretary of the Department of the Interior. Allan Zamansky lives here and has been over to see us a couple of times. He has a little daughter. We recently adopted a little baby girl, Joyce. She has red hair and bright blue eyes. She was born March 1, 1931. I have had a short article accepted by ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING for publication in an early issue of that magazine, the journal of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers."

Helen Newman Baird, Route 7, Box 327, Seattle, Wash., has promised me some Seattle news. I am holding her to her promise, though I know she will be plenty busy with her new son. Not long ago a woman acknowledged an introduction to me by saying, "I know who you are because Helen Newman told me you were one of the 'Dirty Dozen.'" Another one, Vivian Bruneau Ellis, lives here in Great Falls, and I understand that a third, Alice Hankinson Maxwell, has become famous as an authoress. I'll bet the Kaimin hasn't been taken for a ride since we were in school!

I suggest that Claudia Woodward Hooper (Mrs. F. W.), 1034 Caledonia St., Butte, move over next door to me as she says she isn't doing too much. I can certainly turn over one or two of my galloping geese to her.

Leslie L. Colville, U. S. F. S., Lakeview, Oregon, is fire assistant in the Fremont National Forest. He was formerly stationed at Bend, Oregon.

Another forester is Felix C. Koziol, Weiser, Idaho. He is assistant supervisor of the Weiser National Forest. Says he is married and has two little girls.

Effie Eminger (Mrs. Harry) Dahlberg, 628 S. Jackson, Butte, is a house wife busy taking care of her young son. Attending football games is included in her duties.

"I very seldom see any Montana alumni," writes Gordon Hulett, 950 S. Broadway, Los Angeles, "but am going to the U. C. L. A. Grizzly game tomorrow with hopes that Montana can come through with an upset and win." (Better luck next time.) Gordon is employed by the Southern California Gas company.

A son twenty-seven months old keeps Florence Bourret Cunningham (Mrs. J. E.) busy at 1826 Adams St., Butte. She reports that Frances Holly Pour lives in Butte, 708 S. Main, and has been teaching there.

Josephine Converse, 1124 Lewisohn St., Butte, is assistant professor of languages at the Montana School of Mines. Milton Brown, '28, is registrar there, and Charles McAuliffe is also on the faculty.

San Francisco has a high school teacher from Montana in the person of Alfreda Kirsch, whose new address is 1215 Laguna street.

Lulu Jefferson Maurer has been teaching in the Highwood (Montana) high school for several years, but this fall was elected county superintendent of Chouteau county. Her new address is Fort Benton.

Minnesota gets a Montana teacher, too. Paul L. Anderson, 818 22nd Ave. S., Minneapolis, is assistant in the College of Education at the University of Minnesota.

Lenore Thompson (Mrs. J. A.) McCollum has been teaching in Dillon for several years. She was in Missoula the last of October to attend the Montana Educational Association meetings.

Forrest L. Foor is in the economics and history department at the State Normal college, Dillon. He was in Helena high for seven years. He reports that Claude Meredith is in Helena.

Also in the State Normal at Dillon is O. K. Moe, director of industrial arts. O. K. says he finished his work for a Master's degree at the University of Washington last summer. I wonder how many others of the Class of '24 have M. A.'s.

Guy T. Stegner, 430 Plymouth, Missoula, has his M. A. in Business Administration from the U. of M., summer, 1932. He is teaching in Missoula county high school.

One of '24's physical education majors, Helen Carson, has followed her line and is teaching in New Jersey. She was previously in Townsend. Her address is 165 Stewart Ave., Arlington, N. J.

Nat A. McKown, Honolulu Star Bulletin, Honolulu, Hawaii, writes: "Am advertising manager on above paper. Keeping my nose to the grindstone and hoping for no change in the sugar tariff."

Ralph W. Christie is on the edge of the Pacific at 4410 N. 44th St., Tacoma, Wash., where he is commercial teacher and track coach in Stadium high school.

James D. O'Connor, M. D., 3427 Washington Ave., St. Louis, Mo., is resident surgeon at the Barnard Free Skin and Cancer hospital.

"Keeping house is easier on the nervous system than library work," asserts Edythe Benbrooks (Mrs. H. G.) Iverson, 801 N. 6th St., Grand Forks, N. Dak. All I want to know is, have you any children, Edythe?

What they can do to the nervous system—especially at three a. m. Christmas morning! Edythe says that Florence Shull Haxo, '15, is also in Grand Forks.

Howard M. Nickolaus, 701-6th Ave., Bethlehem, Pa., is with the Pennsylvania State Highway department.

In Spokane, Wash., Bernice Thompson (Mrs. Donald) Moore is bookkeeper for the Nash agency. Her address is 1308 W. First.

Mrs. Helen F. Egleston is teaching English in State Teachers College, Indiana, Pa.

From Fort Benton, Rowena Chestnut Lewis (Mrs. R. O.) writes that she is busy modernizing their home, keeping house, and taking a reading course. Mr. Lewis is an operator for the Great Northern railroad. Before her marriage, Mrs. Lewis built two bungalows at Apgar, Lake McDonald; now she plans to build two tourist camps, one on the Lake and one on Roosevelt Highway at Pinnacle. In addition to her other activities she is a wheat ranch operator!

As for me, I am merely struggling along trying first to be the proper wife for one Walter Needham, ex-'20, Montana State college, and second, mother to Larry, five, and Beverly, six years of age. Walt has charge of the First Aid and Safety departments for the A. C. M. reduction works here in Great Falls.

Ann Cromwell Needham

Rita Jahreiss is teaching physical education in the North Central high school in Spokane. Last summer she went on a trip to Europe. She spent the Christmas holidays at her home in Butte. Rita's Spokane address is the Pennington Hotel.

Monda Velikanje is now Mrs. A. L. Parker, and lives at 401-21st St. in Spokane. Mr. Parker is vice-principal of the Lewis and Clark high school.

Mabel Jacobson Foster is taking over Dr. Lennes' work in the math department while Dr. Lennes is in Chicago during the winter quarter.

Class secretary, Henrietta Wilhelm, care State University, Missoula, Mont.

Since I have already wished you that Happy New Year by previous letter, I shall proceed at once to relate the items which have come my way.

Alumni of our vintage were not so numerous in Missoula during the holidays. However, Maybelle Leslie was here from Anaconda. Winifred Baptist visited with relatives here before returning to Nampa, Idaho, where she teaches in the high school and does community relief work on the side. She says that she likes southern Idaho very much since she's gotten used to sage brush and jack rabbits. Helen Jones also spent a week with her parents here from San Francisco, where she is employed by the Russell-

Miller company, stockbrokers. She returned to Frisco on New Year's day.

Mrs. Stanley Emmerton (Fern Marie Johnson) writes that she is "more or less keeping house" in the George Apts., Idaho Falls, Idaho, and is doing substitute teaching in the high school there. She says that Helen Owen Wilson and her husband are spending part of the winter in Los Angeles, and that Mr. and Mrs. Banghart (Lurena Black) will be at 3842 Forest Hill, Oakland, Calif., for a short time.

Bernard Lee, 113 S. Blaine St., Pendleton, Oregon, is with the U. S. Forest Service on the supervisor's staff of the Umatilla forest. Bernard occasionally hears of Les Colville, '24, who is at Lakeview, Wash., and some time ago had a visit with F. E. (Scotty) Williamson, ex-'25, now on the Mount Hood forest at Portland, Oregon.

Also out in the far West is Jay Lovless, who was recently promoted to the rank of first lieutenant in the U. S. infantry. Jay and Margaret Orr Lovless, '26, and their two children live at Vancouver Barracks, Wash.

From Billings, Ralph E. Fields reports that he is assistant supervisor of the Custer National Forest. His only plan for the future is to keep the wolf at the end of the block; he refused to divulge what he did during the Christmas holidays on two accounts—in the first instance he had no Christmas vacation, and second, because "it is not always best to confess." He adds, "Hulda Miller Fields and I are still married; we have two 'punks': John aged 5, Nancy aged 3."

Emery M. Gibson writes: "After spending five years eating Wenatchee apples I felt the urge of the 'west' again, and took over this present job—back into the saddle of the Greater University of Montana, as Registrar of the State Normal college, Dillon. I have been here since April 1—and that's no joke.

"Our Christmas vacation in the office this year comes on Sunday, so we get the whole day off . . . anyway, it should be known that it's not all play that makes Jack a dull boy. More power to all of the Class of '25. I haven't been near any bread lines lately, so that may be why I've not seen more of us."

The "Magic Carpet" moves on eastward, and we find that Earl and Opal Adams Lenigan are both in Madison, Wis., doing graduate work at the University there. Earl has been working for Western Electric. During the past summer the two spent a considerable amount of time traveling in the New England states.

Still in Macomb, Ill., Ted Halvorson writes that he has changed jobs. Last summer he went to Jefferson Barracks officers' camp for two weeks, and plans to make Camp Brady next June. Ted adds, "I am still working hard, but see no immediate wealth within reach. If I keep on a couple of hundred years more I may be able to pay off the mortgage on the homestead." And he sends regards to all "youse guys and gals" of '25.

Wallace Windus is a research chemist in the leather division of Rohm and Haas Co., Inc., and lives at Route 1, Bristol, Pa. Wallace received his Ph.D. in organic chemistry from the University of Illinois in June, 1931; since that time he has been in his present position. He spent his last summer's vacation in Montreal (tsk, tsk), and hopes to make a visit to his old home in Ronan for a time next summer.

And still farther east is Mrs. A. E. H. Burn (Helen Griffin), formerly of Missoula, doing research work at the Imperial university medical school in Tokio, Japan. Mr. Burn is agent for the American Express company at Yokohama.

Much joy to you in breaking your New Year's resolutions! Let us hear about it.

Henrietta Wilhelm

Class secretary, Ann Nilson, Box 1147, Great Falls, Mont.

A grand, long letter from Marcia Patterson Saben gives us news about a great many people—some not members of the Class of '26, but we will quote her anyway.

"The day before Christmas—and with the deadline in view, I'll scribble the data right here and now. At the rate of influx since summer, I can stay right here and Montana will gradually migrate to Boston and Cambridge.

"Mary Kirkwood was here for a few weeks last summer enjoying a Carnegie scholarship in art at Harvard summer school. She visited her brother, Robert, and his wife at Washington, D. C., enroute. She's back at the University of Idaho this fall.

"Fall brought Blanche Johnson Kvalnes, ex-'29, and Donovan Kvalnes to Cambridge for at least a year—Don was one of the recognized chemists this year, winning a national research fellowship in organic chemistry under the Rockefeller Foundation and is at Harvard. They live directly around the corner from me at 372 Broadway, Cambridge. Hamline Kvalnes, '25, spent Thanksgiving here, and arrived today for the Christmas holidays. He is with the DuPont company at Wilmington, Del., doing industrial research.

"One morning Marge Sparr Ferguson called. She is married to Robert Ferguson, and is living at 97 Floral Ave., Newton Highlands, Mass. They may spend next year in China, where Bob's father is curator of the Chinese Art Museum at Peking.

"Frances McKinnon, '24, and I met abruptly one morning—we had missed each other as casually a couple of years ago.

She looked splendid—as interested and interesting as ever. She was vacationing for a few weeks, and I did enjoy seeing her several times. She's back at the U. of Michigan, directing her diet kitchen clinic at the hospital there. Her address is 118 Forest Ave., Ann Arbor, Mich.

"Carolyn Kemp, ex-'32, (formerly of Missoula), who was graduated from the U. of Georgia last spring, has an appointment at the Massachusetts General hospital, where she's taking a course in dietetics. It will be concluded in March, after which she plans to return to Atlanta.

"Of course Dr. Leonard Brewer is still here—started interning at Boston City hospital last spring. We're still talking about a Montana club.

"Russell and Effie Stabern are living at 15 Calliston Road, Brookline, Mass. We've had some dandy times together. Russ is married to a Lancaster, Pa., girl—they are spending the holidays there now. Russ is with the Armstrong Cork Co.

"Just heard from Helen (Rothwell) and Ted Haig at New Haven, Conn., and Rocky wrote Jean Smith was at Radcliffe. I hope to see her soon. Ted is getting another degree in forestry at Yale.

"Practically bumped into Alva Larson Law in Harvard Square yesterday. Hadn't seen her in a year and a half. She's living at 6 Marvin Road, Wellesley, Mass. She told me her new nephew arrived November 3 at Lexington, Ky.—all of which makes Burt and Harriet Larson Guthrie parents of a son. Alva and Scoop were visiting in Montana last summer.

"Mary Gayle Johnson is working on the Minneapolis Journal; Louise Eckley Smith has moved to Fargo, N. Dak."

(Thank you very much, Pat, for all of this welcome news.)

Winnifred Wilson is employed by the Security Storage company of Baltimore, Md., and is staying at the home of her sister, Gladys Wilson Colton, '28. Windy's employer is at the head of the Community Chest Drive in Baltimore, and the Security offices are used as headquarters for the drive. Windy writes: "So try and figure out the tight spot in which we employees find ourselves."

John C. Preston was a visitor on the campus in October. He is assistant director of Estes Park (Colorado).

This year Albert Blumenthal is teaching sociology at a girls' college in Greensburg, Pa.

Miriam Whitham has gone to Townsend to take a position as English teacher in the Broadwater county high school. During the autumn quarter Miriam attended the State University.

Julia Anderson and Lenore Thompson McCollum, '24, both teachers in the Beaver-head county high school at Dillon, were in Missoula for the M. E. A. convention in October.

"The Hut," collegiate restaurant in the University district, is now being run by Robert W. Harper, recently of the Public Drug, and Jack Watson, former W. S. C. student. The basketball training table for the winter quarter was conducted there. A number of changes have been made.

Raymond Cain has been transferred to the commercial department of the Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph company in Missoula. Until recently he was with the state plant department in Helena.

Class secretary, Mrs. Thomas Wickes, 734 Edith St., Missoula, Mont.

Dear Class of '27:

We admit the usual scantiness of mid-year news, but with newspaper clippings and hearsay we might manage half a column.

Helen Zeh visited with her parents in Missoula during the holidays, from Terry. Saw Edith Dawes on the street, but not in time to speak to her; also saw Margaret Sterling in a drug store. She had come in to Missoula from Ronan for medical attention for an infected ear.

Jack Crutchfield is taking work at the University this quarter, as well as working part time in the stenographic bureau.

During the holidays Andy and Pauline Cogswell had a visit from Bill Cogswell (see University Notes).

Not long ago Robert and Helen Leach Warden and small son, accompanied by Mrs. T. E. Hodges (Gertrude Maloney, '29) motored to Missoula from Great Falls. The Wardens visited with Mr. and Mrs. John Leach, and Gertrude with her parents.

We hear from Lesley Vinal, '28, and Mary Shupe Davis, '28, that they have gotten together several times this fall, and expected to be together to celebrate New Year's at Ann Harbor, Mich., where Kenneth Davis has a teaching scholarship at the University of Michigan. Leslie is teaching physical education classes at the Y in Detroit.

Dorothy Dall, '26, spent part of the holidays in Missoula with her cousin, Thelma Wolfe, '32, from Valier. Dot has been teaching there for the past three years.

Malcolm C. Morrow of Cascade was in Missoula in November. He has been employed by the Anaconda Copper Mining company in Chile since graduation, and just returned to the States last summer.

Emil Blumenthal, ex-'27, is now head night emergency surgeon at the Highland hospital, Oakland, Calif. He is married and has a little girl two years old.

Elsie Eminger talked at a joint "Greater University" luncheon, representing the State University faculty, in the Palm Room of the Rainbow Hotel in Great Falls on October 28. About 50 graduates were present, among them Marjorie Stewart, '31, Blanche Taylor, Cyrille Van Duser, Margaret Lease, '32, Elizabeth McCoy, '28, and Thelma Williams, '31.

We have had holiday greetings from Florence Montgomery, Helen M. Kennedy, and Claudine Christy in Seattle; Edna Foster Thackwell in Salt Lake City; Marcia Patterson Saben, Cambridge, Mass. Annabelle Desmond writes a note from Dillon, and we expect that she will make us a visit some of these days. Hulda Miller Fields sends greetings from Billings.

Happy New Year, and don't forget to ticket among your resolutions an answer to the ANNUAL PLEA for news when it arrives in your mail.

Heloise Vinal Wickes

Jack Wheatley is now a representative of the Eli Lilly & Co., drug manufacturers with headquarters in Butte. His district covers western Montana and part of Idaho. His street address there is 2025 State St.

Class secretary, Zelma M. Hay, 13 Seventh St. N., Great Falls, Mont.

Zura Gerdicia was in Missoula during the Christmas holidays on her vacation. During the past year she has been working in Washington, D. C., for the Veterans' Bureau. Shortly before Christmas she was transferred to Helena, where she began work on January 2. Zura has taken a very active interest in aviation, and reports that she expects to have her common pilot's license in the near future.

Another alumnus who was victorious in the election was Homer H. Hullinger, candidate for county attorney of Pondera county on the Republican ticket.

B. O. Wilson, formerly of Alberton, Mont., was appointed to the position of county superintendent of schools in Contra Costa county, Pittsburg, Calif. Until this recent appointment to fill the vacancy left by Dr. Hanlon, who was drowned, Mr. Wilson had been principal of the junior high school in that city.

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Martinson (Patti Duncan), both '28, were holiday visitors in Missoula. They make their home in Whitehall, where Karl is editor of the Jefferson Valley News.

This year Alice P. Hancock is taking work at the University of Wisconsin for a doctor's degree in English, according to word received from Lowndes Maury, '31. He had a long visit with her and her mother early in the fall when he took a trip to Madison from Chicago, where he is doing graduate work.

During home-coming at the University of Iowa late in October, Frank Elser's new play, "Low Bridge," was produced. Settings and costumes were designed by Arnold Gillette, now an instructor in dramatic art at Iowa University.

Henry Bailey, assistant district attorney at Santa Barbara, Calif., spent the holidays with his parents in Missoula.

Ruth Ackerly was recently made acting principal of the Broadwater county high school at Townsend to succeed John M. Kay, who died suddenly at school. For the past three years Ruth has been teaching Latin in the high school there.

In October Myrtle Hollingsworth and her family left Missoula for Long Beach, Calif. Their address is 65 Roswell Ave., Apt. 2.

Eddie Reeder is office manager of the Commercial Credit company, 62 Hirbourn building, Butte. In October he came to Missoula to attend the Grizzly-Idaho football game.

Otto Bessey has been granted a special fellowship at the University of Pittsburg to work on vitamin C, which was discovered last year by Dr. King of that school. Otto is working as special assistant to Dr. King.

Class secretary, Mary Brennan, Sidney, Mont.

Dear Classmates:

This note will be in time to wish you all a happier and more prosperous New Year. I do not mean to imply that your past year has been unhappy, but if you have been prosperous you are members of the species "rara avis." However, if we continue to sing the same old song "Good times are coming" maybe we can hypnotize ourselves into thinking they are here.

With the scarcity of funds there seems also to be a dearth of news. I have not heard from or of some of you for a long time, but I'm still hoping.

In October I had the fun of stopping a day with Eddie and Margaret Johnson Chinske. It was the day Clyde Carpenter's football team came over from Billings and beat Eddie's by one point. That evening we played the game over many times in the Chinske apartment. There were quite a few Montana people to dinner that night—all four of the coaches, Carpenter, Pearson, Chinske, and Griffin, as well as officials, such as referee Ted Hodges. Bill Hodges was also present to help his brother keep up the old running-fire conversation that is unforgettable in the twins. But this gathering was not entirely composed of Montana men. There were some of her "fair daughters" there also—Lillian Mains Hodges, Louise Lubrecht, and Martha Reichle Griffin, besides the hostess. And did we ever have fun?

On that same eventful trip to teachers' convention (a big moment in the lives of us school ma'ams) I also called on Florence Wingate Gaughan in her new home in Billings. Florence thinks housekeeping is great fun if only the many jobs didn't all happen at the same time—cooking or housecleaning—not both at once.

Cal Pearce has returned to Missoula after about two years with the Chile Exploration company in South America. He is taking advanced work in Spanish at the State University this year; later he plans to return to Chile. Late in October Cal underwent a major operation at St. Patrick hospital, but he recovered rapidly and was able to complete the autumn quarter's work.

Last year Nellie Merrick received her Master's degree in Education at the University of Washington. She is now taking work toward her Ph. D. degree at that institution. Recently she was honored by being elected to Pi Lambda Theta, honorary fraternity for women in education. Nellie has the position of research assistant in the education department while she continues her graduate study.

Ronald Miller has returned to Missoula from Billings. He is employed as advertising manager for Peek's Drug Stores.

George Larson is still at Worden; Alton Bloom is at Miles City. Catherine Calder teaches journalism in Billings high school, and Walter Sanford also is staying close to the old home town.

What we lack in information we make up in warm wishes for a successful, profitable, and erudite New Year.

Loyally,

Mary Brennan

An ex-member of the class, Tom Streit, 5711 Woodlawn Ave., Chicago, is working at the University of Chicago for a Master's degree in geology. After attending the State University two years Tom transferred to the University of Texas, where he received his B. A. degree.

In the Richfield Hi-Octane's annual "football book" appears a picture of Tom Davis, this year's captain of the Olympic club football team.

Edith Mahlstedt was elected county superintendent of McCone county in November. She had been teaching in the Circle high school.

Early this winter Sister M. Wilhelmina was transferred from the hospital at St. Ignatius to the Columbus hospital in Great Falls.

Class secretary, Mrs. Ben Hughes (Elsie Heicksen), Box 406, Missoula, Mont.

Herbert Eastlick was recently awarded a graduate assistant scholarship at Washington University, St. Louis, Mo. Last year he was awarded a prize by the Washington University chapter of Phi Sigma, national biological fraternity, which enabled him to spend the summer at the Marine Biological laboratory, Wood's Hole, Mass. While at the laboratory he won another scholarship permitting him to return next summer.

Also engaged in graduate study is Paul Lemmon, who is at the University of Wisconsin working under Dr. D. M. Duggar, professor of physiological and applied botany.

In October Eveline Blumenthal visited the ALUMNUS office before returning to the University of Chicago, where she is now doing investigations and social service work in the city while working for her Ph. D. degree. Eveline had been visiting at her home in Philipsburg.

Alex and Josephine Graf Stepantsoff are living at 548 Riverside Drive, New York City. Jo has had some interesting work this autumn taking down in shorthand the lectures of the psychologist, Dr. Alfred Adler of Vienna, who has been lecturing in New York and Philadelphia. The Stepantsoffs frequently see Ernest Erkkila, who is at the College of the City of New York, and Ethel Haugen, who is living at Upper Montclair, N. J.

Also in New York City is Peg Brown, whose address is Apt. 405, 333 E. 43rd St. Since her arrival there she has had two jobs. She left Macy's adjustment department recently to go to work with the Bankers Trust company at 16 Wall Street—right across from the Stock Exchange. Sammie Graham Boadway, whose husband has had to go to Alaska for a month or two, visited with Faith Shaw, Pat and Helen Fleming, and Peg for a short time. When Lydia Maury was in New York on her way back from England she saw the girls several times. Ivarose Geil Bovingdon also visited them on her way back to Missoula after a visit to her home in Virginia.

Marian Hobbs of Butte visited with Marjorie Crawford in Missoula over the New Year holiday before returning to her teaching position at Klein, Mont.

Allan Burke is teaching and coaching in the high school at Virginia City this year. At Thanksgiving time he visited his brother, Billy, a student at the State University, in Missoula.

After receiving her M. A. degree in English from the University of Oregon, Isabel Orchard returned to Montana, and is teaching in the high school at St. Ignatius.

Dorothy Dodge and Mrs. Walter Thompson (Gladys Dodge, ex-'25) spent the Christmas holidays with their mother in Missoula. Dorothy is teaching at Fromberg; the Thompsons have been living in Portland.

Marion Butchart is teaching languages in the Teton county high school at Choteau. Her election was made to fill the vacancy left when Margaret Harris, '25, who was elected county superintendent, took over her duties at the first of the year.

Class secretary, Mary Wilson, State University, Missoula, Montana.

The holidays have come and gone, and we are beginning another year. As I sit down at my typewriter to write a few lines to the class of '31, I wonder if perhaps 1933 won't bring all of us a lot of luck—it is my wish anyway.

I think I will have to write to each of you individually soon, and find out if such an appeal for news of my classmates will bring more response than a request in this general letter to all of you. I really would like to have you drop me a letter about yourself, and what has happened to you since June, 1931. And if you are awfully busy in your present work, I'd like to receive a card, even though there's not much room for news on it.

It's rather taking advantage of you to put that paragraph in before giving you any news, so here goes on what news has trickled on to the campus since the last ALUMNUS.

Nine of our classmates are on the campus now taking graduate work, either for advanced credit or for credit towards their Master's degree. In all, there are forty-six graduates enrolled on the campus, twenty-seven of whom have applied for their Master's, so I think the class of '31 has a good representation. William Belangie, graduate work in biology; Andrew McNair, geology; Mamie Nicolet, psychology; Dorothy Rawn, home economics; Dick West, journalism; Edward Foley, geology; Robb Rice, chemistry; and Ruth Hazlitt, history. I am also taking some work each quarter, but it does not pile up the credits very fast. Marguerite Heinsch, '31, who has been graduate assistant to Dr. W. P. Clark, head of the Department of Latin and Greek, since her graduation, completed her thesis and examination for her Master's degree at the end of the fall quarter. Her thesis, "Studies in Lucan," an epic poet of high second rating, was so remarkable that Dr. Clark has found several chapters suitable for publication in classical journals. She plans on beginning work for her Ph. D. degree next year. Congratulations, Marguerite.

Hugh Redding, forestry, was in Missoula during December, visiting friends while on a furlough from his work in the Forest Service at Orofino, Idaho. Cap Calkins who had been working with Hugh during the past summer, returned to his home in Missoula at the same time. Tom Moore, former Grizzly sprinter and football player, returned during November from Orofino, where he had been stationed during the past summer with the Forest Service. Tom's home is in Missoula also.

Word comes from Urbana, Illinois, that Edwin Mertz has been pledged by Phi Lambda Upsilon, national honorary fraternity for chemists, at the University of Illinois. Members are selected on a basis of high grades and personality. Eddie is working for his Ph. D. at Illinois.

Walter Murphy visited at the D. S. L. house for a few days during the latter part of last quarter, and tells us that he was one of the lucky ones in the November election. Walter was elected county attorney of Mineral county at Superior. Good luck, Walter.

Mrs. John Ludlow (Melda Schwab) left the latter part of November for Casper, Wyoming, where she has a position with the Tribune-Herald. Frances Teason, now Mrs. Madison Turner, visited with her parents and friends in Missoula during the Christmas holidays, from her home in Laramie, Wyoming. She and Madison edit an advertising paper at Laramie.

Received a card from Louise Tendeland during the holidays. She is now teaching at Bridger, Mont., but is still as much interested in campus activities as ever.

Bill Boston is working at Columbus, Mont., in Dean Line's drug store. He has been there since July, when he took Rex Whitaker's place. Rex is now in Hoquiam, Wash.

In a recent meeting of the Western Montana Bar association officers were elected for the coming year. Jamesbert Garlington, '30, was chosen secretary. Donovan Worden, '23, treasurer; and as representatives from counties whose attorneys belong to the association were chosen George F. (Tommy) Higgins, '29; Harold Dean, '32, and Walter Murphy, '31.

Mrs. Franklin Bailey (Margaret Markham, ex-'31) and her two sons, Franklin, Jr., and Richard, aged respectively three and two years, spent the summer with her parents in Idaho. Late in the autumn she paid a short visit to Rhea Dobner, '32 in Missoula. Franklin Bailey, ex-'30, is chemist for the Beacon Oil company. Their address is 153 Elm St., Everett, Mass.

Albert Erickson stopped in Missoula on his way from Helena to Hamilton, where he spent the holidays at his home. Al informed us that Ed Becker, '30, who received his M.A. in Business Administration from Harvard last year is now working on a newspaper in New Haven, Conn.

And that seems to be the extent of the news of those who graduated with you, that I have. Don't forget the campus, but stop and remember—we wish you a Happy New Year, and all that goes with happiness.

Sincerely,

Mary Wilson

1932

Class secretary, Edwin P. Astle, Hardin, Mont.

Dear Class of '32:

I hope that you've all recovered from any hangover that may have accompanied the joyous Yule season. I am overjoyed to state that I have, except for a slight dizziness that I experience when I bend over a fountain for a drink of that greatest gift of the Gods to man—water.

Of course this isn't for publication (like the above paragraph) . . . but I'm one of the great army again. (On second thought, it might be well to tell my friends. It will save me the trouble of telling it all over in case I want to borrow money from any of them.) My boss decided that he didn't like our little gem of the Crow Indian reservation—that we affectionately call Hardin—and emulated the Arabian who folded his tent and went away . . . leaving Edwin P. Astle holding the bag.

I find that the Class of '32 is composed of a bunch of modest souls who hesitate to cry aloud their triumphs—at least that's what I gather. I had Christmas cards from Tom Mooney and Ruth Gillespie, but other than finding out that they were solicitous of my happiness and cheer as 1932 drew to a close, nothing else but a few newspaper clippings could be gleaned.

I have a reputation for shortness of body and length of wind which I do hate to spoil now—surely my colleagues feel the same about it. Will you not, then, consider this a touching plea for more news—personal news—from the sparks that flew from the educational fire at the U. during the season of 1932? Above, thus publicly, have I made a confession of the failure of my first journalistic undertaking. Won't you others who have also suffered reverses come to the front in my behalf? If most of our classmates are too modest to tell of their triumphs over Fate and Hoover prosperity, let us then disclose "how the other half lives."

The aforementioned clippings are hereby abbreviated, condensed, and expurgated for the avid readers of the ALUMNUS:

Alvin Jacobson passed the state board examination in pharmacy with honors, and is now a registered pharmacist, working at Peek's Drug Store in Missoula.

Naomi Sternheim, holder of a research fellowship in Sociology at Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio, was recently appointed editor-in-chief of a new magazine representing the Settlement Union of Cleveland. Naomi and Patsy Alsop, '31, also a student at Western Reserve, went to New York City during the Christmas holidays.

Alex Cunningham is associated with the Western Montana agency of the Montana Life Insurance company at Missoula. He was transferred from the home office to his present location in October.

Out in Seattle Toni D'Orazi is conducting evening classes in commercial art at the Broadway high school. He also conducts a class for the Seattle Times Trojans once a week, and on two afternoons a week and Saturday mornings he has charge of a cartooning class sponsored by the Northwest Association of Artists. Toni was in Missoula visiting his family during the holidays.

(Not to be included in the "Births" column.) The State Legislature has a new baby. Elected in November as a representative from Gallatin county, Joe FitzStephens is the youngest member of the body which convened the first of the year.

Roberta Carkeek was elected to teach English and biology in the high school at Lavina, Mont., beginning January 3.

Loisjane Stephenson and Dorothy Tupper are teaching at Saco, Mont. Dorothy teaches art in the grade school, and Loisjane is a member of the high school faculty. She went to Missoula for the holidays. Martha Sherman stopped for a short time there on her way to her home in Hamilton for a vacation from her teaching at Flaxville.

As a whole the women of the class seem to be having more and better luck than the men—and particularly those women who clung to the idea that their places were in the home. Of the 11 women who graduated in home economics, eight have positions, and one, Erva Love, is taking graduate work at the State University. Fran Schall is teaching in the high school at Ronan, Catherine Cesar at Corvallis, Rose Seewald near her home at Kevin. Rhea Dobner is working at the J. C. Penney store in Missoula. Four have gone in for dietician work in hospitals: Hazel Larsen at Indianapolis; Freda Larsen, San Francisco; Beth Manis, Seattle; Bettie Schroeder, Olympia, Wash.

At least one member of the class has received recognition already. Quoting the Daily Missoulian: "The Victor opera house narrowly escaped destruction by fire, . . . December 15 . . . by the heroism of the senior high school class and their teacher, Miss Miriam Barnhill, who were practicing a play . . . Nearby residents responded to the alarm and the fire was extinguished . . ." Miriam and the cast devoted their best efforts to emptying the building of the clothing and furniture borrowed as properties for the play.

Clifton Hemgren has returned to Palo Alto, Calif., where he is taking graduate work in business administration, after spending the Christmas holidays in Missoula with his family.

And now I'll have to quit in order to get this to the train which will carry it on its way to you, and you, and you, along with a trainload of my best wishes for a happy 1933. Don't forget to contribute something for our "hard luck" column for the next issue; be assured that you will have a most sympathetic and understanding audience.

Your loving Uncle,
Hud.

IN MEMORIAM

is in Stevensville.

Mr. St. John was born at Victor in 1904. He attended grade and high schools in the Bitter Root valley, and received the Ph.G. degree from the School of Pharmacy at the State University. While a student at the University, he was a member of Kappa Psi, national pharmaceutical honorary, and a charter member of the Pharmacy club.

Following his graduation, Mr. St. John entered the field of pharmacy in Deer Lodge and in other Montana cities. For two months prior to his death he had operated the Polson Drug store in Polson.

In addition to his father, Mr. St. John is survived by his widow, Mildred; one brother, Morris, of Thompson Falls, and three half-brothers, Rex, Max, and Leo, of Stevensville. His father and brother were at his bedside when he died.

Funeral services were held in Stevensville.

William Rheim. William Lee Rheim, who attended the State University during the year of 1929-30, died of a heart attack on November 4 while helping to decorate the First Baptist church in Butte for a Hal-lowe'en social.

Mr. Rheim was graduated three years ago from Butte high school, and entered the State University, where he remained for one year, after which he enrolled at the Montana School of Mines. He won the oratorical contest at the School of Mines last year and placed third in the state. He was also a member of the school debating team. While at the University he showed an interest and distinct ability in dramatics.

Mr. Rheim had always showed a deep interest in church work and was selected state president of the Baptist Young People's Union last summer.

A note in praise of "The Frontier" comes from W. M. West, advertisement manager of the "London Mercury," in connection with a request to exchange advertising. Says Mr. West: "I have been reading The Frontier and have reached the conclusion that it is the best paper to reach this office from the whole of the Americas and Canada. It is very interesting and certainly unique." This is one note of many to reach Professor H. G. Merriam, the Frontier's editor, showing interest in what is being done with this magazine. To alumni who remember the magazine in its earliest days, this international recognition will be especially significant. In case alumni are interested in subscribing to the magazine, $1.50 may be sent to the Circulation Manager of The Frontier, State University, Missoula.

I really don't know if I should smoke...

...but my brothers and my sweetheart smoke, and it does give me a lot of pleasure.

Women began to smoke, so they tell me, just about the time they began to vote, but that's hardly a reason for women smoking. I guess I just like to smoke, that's all.

It so happens that I smoke CHESTERFIELD. They seem to be milder and they have a very pleasing taste.
