GLI IN THE NEWS

UM News Service

"I'm still in some serious shock and disbelief that my project was selected," Barron said. "Usually these awards go to businesspeople and entrepreneurs who seek to make some profit while they work to benefit the communities they serve. My solution makes no profit, and everything will be owned CSKT at the end. But somehow we convinced businesspeople that a free service for Native people is worth their money"...

We're inspired by the legacy of former U.S. Senator and Ambassador Max Baucus to break down barriers so that students can see, serve, and lead in Montana and throughout the world. We do this through three areas of focus: public service, climate, and U.S./China relations.

Applications for our Summer 2024 paid internship programs are open! Deadline to apply is December 8, 2023.

If you're an undergraduate or graduate student in Montana, we invite you to check out our opportunities for students. No matter where you live, we invite you to get involved: attend an event, make a contribution, or collaborate to help us support the next generation of leaders.

Professional Development

Application Deadline Dec. 8

BAUCUS LEADERS DC: intern in Congressional offices and committees in Washington, D.C. to experience politics and the legislative process first-hand

BAUCUS CLIMATE SCHOLARS: work at the forefront of climate and environment issues.

BAUCUS LEADERS MONTANA: intern with with Montana-based governmental and nonprofit offices for project-based learning experiences.

FRANKE GLOBAL LEADERSHIP INITIATIVE

Join together with students from diverse majors to address complex global challenges around issues such as public health, sustainability and inequality. The Franke Global Leadership Initiative is a four-year, 12-credit certificate program that gives you access to world-class leaders and provides opportunities to tackle real-world problems locally and around the globe.

The global leadership certificate can be added to any University of Montana major and includes interdisciplinary group work, small seminar classes from a wide variety of faculty across campus, and specialized leadership training. Our program also features a unique "Beyond the Classroom" experiential learning component, for which students may earn scholarship funding of up to $5,000 to study abroad, complete international and domestic internships, or undertake service-learning or research projects.
