MIA Festival to Start Tomorrow

The fourth annual festival of the Montana Institute of the Arts will be on campus June 20-22. The MIA is a group of Montana citizens, about 1500, organized five years ago from among people who are interested in the arts generally. The institute is broken into eight sections, each dealing with one phase of the arts. These sections are crafts, drama, fine arts, history, photography, music, social science, and writing.

Registration for the institute will begin at 9:30 tomorrow morning in the Student Union. At four that afternoon the first session of the annual business meetings will open.

Free Plays Friday

A Friday night feature of the MIA will be the presentation of a program of plays in the Student Union auditorium at eight.

This program will include a five-act play, "Rumpelstilzchen," presented by a group of Missoula grade school children, under the direction of Gladys Trambley and Billie Durham, both of Missoula. Mrs. Marlin Maughan will be in charge of props, Mrs. Clarence Miles, makeup, and Mrs. Justin Gray will direct the musical numbers. The play follows the original folk story closely and will be presented in full costume. Almost forty grade school children will take part in the production.

The Helena branch of MIA will give a Shakespearean workshop. Violet Mires, Helena, will do excerpts from Shakespeare under the direction of Mrs. Ralph Henry, Helena.

Concluding the evening's program will be a Missoula Community Theater reading of "The Lady Will Jump," a one-act play by Brad Arrington, Missoula County high school drama instructor.

"The Lady Will Jump" took first place in a Columbia Broadcasting system world television contest in 1950. It will be read by Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Reznor, Mrs. William Dratz and Joe Brown, under the direction of Mrs. Maughan.

Following the drama festival, the MIA will present a square dancing program in the Gold room of the Student Union. This program,

"Folk Dancing, from the Revolutionary Period to the Present," will be presented by the Missoula Square dancers.

Saturday the MIA will feature a banquet at the Hotel Florence for MIA members and invited guests. A musical program directed by John Lester and Robert Athearn, both of Missoula, will be presented.

Only the drama festival, square dancing, campus exhibits, and the banquet are open to the public. The remaining activities are confined to MIA members.

Special Sectional Meetings

During the three days of the meeting MIA members will attend workshops, panel discussions and demonstrations conducted by people of the various members particular interest section.

Among these will be the crafts session, which will present a panel discussion of "Creative Design" led by Cyril Conrad, Montana State college instructor. The crafts people will also see workshops on ceramics, silversmithing, leathercraft, weaving, and photography. Besides the evening of plays the drama section will participate in panel discussions.

The fine arts section will see a movie entitled, "Alexander Calder: Sculpture and Constructions" and "Henri Matisse." Also Milton Trodick, Great Falls, will give a demonstration of portrait painting Saturday afternoon.

The history section will participate in a series of panel discussions and reports throughout the three-day meeting.

The photography section will show an exhibit of photographs and will also see slides and hear lectures on how to produce better pictures.

In addition to the drama festival and the square dancing festival there will be a series of exhibits located about the campus that will be open to the public. These exhibits are located as follows: crafts, Silver room, Student Union; fine arts, Fine Arts building; history, Copper room, Student Union; photography, Bitterroot room, Student Union.

ATKINSON GREETES STUDENTS

Greetings! We are happy to see so many of you here, not only from Montana but also from out of the state.

We are aware that the main business of Summer Session is study, intellectual enrichment, and inspiration. We hope, however, that you will find time to enjoy the glorious mountains, lakes, and streams of this area, including Glacier and Yellowstone parks. Contact Miss Van Duser or Mr. Wright at the Student Union for information regarding recreational opportunities—both on and off campus.

We are sure you will find an able faculty and fairly adequate laboratory facilities here, and hope you have found satisfactory housing.

A profitable and pleasant summer to you.

E. A. Atkinson, Director
Summer College

MSU Plays Host to Seventh Annual P-TA Workshop

The seventh annual P-TA workshop on the MSU campus will dominate summer session activities next Monday and Tuesday with an anticipated attendance of more than 150. The workshop is sponsored by the Montana Congress of P-TA and Montana State University.

The conference will open at 12:30 Monday afternoon for registration and will get underway, with Dr. James E. Short from the MSU School of Education presiding, at 1:30 in the Gold room of the Student Union. Dr. Dean Lobaugh, assistant superintendent of schools, Eugene, Ore., principal speaker, will address the group on the theme of the convention, "Home, the Guiding Influence for Life." He was a member of the visiting staff at MSU during the 1951 summer session.

First General Session

The first general session will also include invocation, by Rev. Bruce K. Wood, director of the MSU school of religion; music by the Missoula grade school advanced band under the direction of Emerson Miller; and a socio-drama conducted by Dr. Gladys Holmes, director of the MSU Mental Hygiene clinic. Prof. Bert Hansen from the English department, and

Mrs. A. L. Armstrong, chairman of recreation, Missoula P-TA.

The second general session, at 7:30 p.m. Monday evening in the Gold room, will be presided over by Prof. John A. Harris, from the MSU department of social work. A panel, "The Home—In a Free World" will be the main business of this meeting. Dr. Short will be the chairman of the panel which will also include Dr. Lobaugh, Mrs. Lilian Peterson, rural school supervisor, State Department of Public Instruction, Dr. Floyd Marchus, MSU visiting professor, and two others whose names have not been released as yet.

Following the panel there will be group discussion and questions from the floor. Mr. Linus J. Carle-

Homecoming . . .

Every year during fall quarter a day is set aside for the "homecoming" of former students and graduates of Montana State University.

This day is quite an affair, with a football game, a speech by the governor—even the crowning of a queen, and the alums come from everywhere to visit their Alma Mater and renew old college acquaintances.

However there is another "homecoming" every year that is seldom thought of as such, but which sees many more former students and alums returning to the campus for a much longer stay.

This "homecoming" is summer session.

Past summer enrollment figures show that from 75 to 80 per cent of the total enrollment is made up of people who have previously attended the University. That means 750 to 800 students out of an average enrollment of 1,000, and that's a big homecoming.

To these old friends the Sun says welcome home. And to the new students we extend cordial greetings, and a sincere desire that their stay at the University will be a pleasant one.—N.W.

Dignitaries . . .

The names of several famous men and women will appear on the various programs of events scheduled for this summer.

Among these will be the Pulitzer Prize winner Van Wyck Brooks, who has been called one of the major literary figures of our lifetime, and Ray Eliot, football coach at the University of Illinois, whose teams have won two Rose Bowl crowns in recent years.

These men, and the others with them who will instruct and demonstrate before groups here at the University this summer are the best in their chosen fields. It is a rare opportunity for us to be able to meet with these men and discuss the finer points of the professions in which they have proved their merit.—N.W.

Home Economics, Red Cross to Give Sick Care Course

The Home Economics department, in cooperation with the Red Cross, will sponsor a six-week course in the "Home Care of the Sick" this summer, according to Helen Gleason, Home Economics chairman.

Miss Gleason said that the courses will be conducted by two outstanding Red Cross nurses, Miss Butzerin, who is assistant director of nursing services of the Red Cross, and Miss Kiedroski, district Red Cross nurse for this area.

A Leadership Training Course for teachers, prospective teachers, and trained nurses will also be featured by the Home Economics department this summer, and is designed to "reach as many interested people as possible so that they will be able to teach proper Red Cross techniques," according to Miss Gleason.

A Red Cross certificate will be given and leaders trained will instruct seniors in the high school adult education groups in the community where they teach, Miss Gleason said.

Van Wyck Brooks To Top List In Writers Conference

Highlighting a staff of eight lecturers and panelists for the fourth annual writers' conference on the MSU campus this summer will be Van Wyck Brooks, Pulitzer Prize with additional sponsorship by the Montana Institute of the Arts.

All regular summer session students are welcome to attend the conference at no additional charge, according to Henry V. Larom, director of the conference.

Mr. Brooks won the Pulitzer Prize, the National Book award, and the Limited Editions club gold medal for his book The Flowering of New England. His New England, Indian Summer and The World of Washington Irving were Book-of-the-Month club selections, and his latest volume, The Confident Years, was called by the New York Herald Tribune "the most impressive work undertaken and carried through by any single scholar of our time."

Making up the rest of the staff for the conference will be David Davidson, Leslie A. Fiedler, Peggy Simpson Curry, Dorothy M. Johnson, Dale White, Norman A. Fox, and Henry V. Larom.

The purpose of the 10-day conference is to provide stimulating insights by nationally known authors into the present trends in American writing, plus considerable practical, constructive discussion of writers' problems in many fields.

Registrants may submit without additional fee one manuscript—a short story, an article, or two chapters and an outline of a novel, or a group of poems totalling about 2000 words. Fees for criticism by staff members of additional material can be arranged by correspondence. All manuscripts must be received by July 15.

winner, biographer, historian, and one of America's foremost literary critics.

The conference, which runs from July 30 through Aug. 8, is a part of the Roundup of Regional Arts, a project co-sponsored by MSU and the Rockefeller foundation,

Hamilton Calls For Actors

Tryouts for the summer production in the university theater will be held in Simpkins Little theater from 3 to 5, and from 7:30 to 9 p.m. next Monday and Tuesday, according to Stanley K. Hamilton, director.

Persons trying out will be asked to read from three shows that are being considered for the production: The Hasty Heart, Light Up the Sky, and Ladies in Retirement. One of these shows will be selected according to abilities of those trying out and how well suited they may be to a particular show.

The show will be under the direction of Asst. Prof. Stanley Hamilton, who has just come to MSU to take the place of LeRoy Hinze, former university theater director now on leave.

Production dates are not set as yet, but the show probably will be presented toward the end of July, the exact dates being announced sometime next week.

Everyone is welcome to try out, including members of the community as well as students enrolled in the University. More information can be obtained by calling the University theater, Hamilton said.

Chorus Schedule Change May Add Needed Members

A change in the Mixed Chorus schedule that is planned to go into effect Tuesday will make it possible for more people who have not been able to take chorus formerly to sign up for the class now, according to Stephen Niblack, instructor.

Mr. Niblack said that the new hours will be Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday at 11, and Tuesday night from 7 to 9 in the Main Hall auditorium.

The chorus needs all voices, but is especially short of sopranos. Those who enroll in the evening class only can get one-half credit. Students attending morning and evening classes will get one credit.

Mr. Niblack said that only 13 members have shown up so far of the 25 or 30 who are needed. Anyone can attend, regardless of musical experience.

The group will give a short concert during the sixth week of school.

Union Party Is Saturday

A Student Union "get acquainted" open house is scheduled for Saturday night. This will begin at 8:30 and last until midnight. The entire Union will be open to students at that time. The evening will offer dancing, ping-pong, bridge, shuffle board, and other games.

According to Ed Wright, summer recreation director, the primary purpose of this open house is to let the summer session students get acquainted with each other. Wright said that soft drinks will be sold in the game room.

Wednesday, June 25, the Union will have another bridge lesson. These bridge lessons are open to anyone and are under the direction of Mrs. Elsie Flaherty.

No Set Program Of Convocations

There will be no regularly scheduled convocations this quarter, according to E. A. Atkinson, director of the summer session; however, "We will have at least three convocations during the summer with outstanding personalities in attendance," Mr. Atkinson said.

"We are not in favor of having convocations unless we are positive we can provide an outstanding program; therefore, what convocations we do present will be the finest programs possible," he said.

Programs and dates will be announced later in the quarter.

University Host To P-TA Workshop

ton, acting dean of the School of Education at MSU, will give the summarization.

Third General Session

The third general session will take place in the Gold room Tuesday morning at 9:30 under the direction of Mr. Linus J. Carleton. The principal address will be given by Dr. Lobaugh on the topic, "Not By Bread Alone." The group will then break up into discussion sections.

The fourth general session will meet under the direction of Mr. Marchus in the Gold room at 1:30 Tuesday. This session will be devoted mainly to reporting of the discussion groups followed by an evaluation and summarization by Dr. Lobaugh.

A banquet Tuesday evening will end the two-day P-TA leadership conference. Toastmaster for this occasion will be S. J. Knudsen.

All sessions will be open to the public, according to Mrs. Thomas Micka, chairman of workshop programs, and she urges all parents and others interested to attend and participate.

Workshops, Seminars Top Summer Session Schedule

With registration completed and classes already underway, the 1952 Montana State University summer session has started its extensive program of special workshops and seminars.

The summer session will offer a full quarter of regular University work, professional courses of both 6 and 10 weeks for educators, and conferences and institutes on problems of education, business, high school journalism, music teaching, creative writing, and several others.

Many outstanding personalities will supplement the regular University faculty in lecture courses and demonstrations and will work in conjunction with the various workshops.

Regional Arts Roundup

The Northern Rocky Mountain Roundup of Regional Arts, one of the major phases of the summer session, will feature such notable craftsmen, artists, and writers as Van Wyck Brooks, Peggy Simpson Curry, David Davidson, Norman Fox, Peppino Mangravite, and Leslie Fiedler.

An important phase of the "Roundup," the "Writers' Conference," will feature outstanding professional writers as the nucleus of a faculty of Montana professionals. The session, from July 30 to Aug. 8, will involve a series of lectures and workshops and will be open to all registered summer school students.

One of the notables is Henry V. Larom, a Montana State University graduate, who is this year's director of the "Roundup." Mr. Larom is the author of five novels, including the "Pinto Colt," which won a Boys' Club of America award in 1949. Mr. Larom spent 12 years as a radio script writer and copywriter in New York City.

Business Workshops

The workshops in Business Education will be jointly offered by the Schools of Business Administration and Education. They will feature demonstrations in business machines, lectures, and instruction on the newer methods of teaching shorthand, typewriting and transcription. Dr. John L. Rowe, of Columbia university, is one of the outstanding specialists to lecture for one week on these subjects.

Louise Bernard, director of the School of Distributive Education of the College of William and Mary, will lecture one week during the workshop on "coordinating cooperative vocational classes." Dr. E. Dana Gibson, a specialist in visual aids from San Diego State college, will present a visual aids program on distributive education. Other guest lecturers will be Philip S. Pepe, a specialist and consultant on office typing for the Remington Rand company; Laura Nicholson, supervisor of distributive and business education of the State Department of Public Instruction; and Dr. C. T. Yerian, of Oregon State college, who will lecture for one week on the "improvement of instruction in basic business."

High School Journalists

The "Publications Pow Wow," to be held from July 27 to Aug. 2, will offer morning laboratory sessions to high school journalists who will return to the staffs of their high school publications next fall. The "Pow Wow" will be a division of the Montana High School Music and Journalism camp, which will include a high school music camp and a unit course in music education.

Conservation Education

The Conservation Education workshop, from July 28 to Aug. 22, will enable classroom teachers to study the present practices in the field of conservation education. The staff of the workshop will include Dean Ross Williams, of the University's forestry school; Dr. J. W. Severy, head of the University Biological Sciences division; Prof. Harold Tascher of the Social Work department; and James W. Gebhart, a national authority on conservation education.

Two one-week workshops for case workers are planned for the weeks of July 7-11 and July 21-25. Miss Nan Shoemaker, assistant professor of social work, will direct the activities of the workshop, which will involve studies in the methods and principles of case work and their relation to the administration of public social services.

Other Highlights

Other highlights of the summer session include a "Film Preview Service," which will show specific films at the request of any one attending the summer session and will demonstrate special types of visual aids on request. Miss Kathryn Lyon will instruct a class in weaving. This course is under the sponsorship of the Home Economics department. Mrs. John Lester will provide evening instruction in Spanish-American dancing.

The summer session Travel Bureau is designed to aid individuals and groups to plan summer travel. Other recreation facilities open to all summer session students are the Student union, and the University residence halls, which will be the scene of many social events during the quarter.

SPRING QUARTER GRADES TO BE AVAILABLE JUNE 23

"Students attending the summer session or those who live in Missoula may pick up their spring quarter grades starting Monday, June 23," according to Registrar Leo Smith.

Dr. J. E. Orr New Dean Of Pharmacy

Dr. Jack E. Orr, widely known pharmaceutical educator, will become dean of the University School of Pharmacy July 1, President Carl McFarland announced today.

A member of the Ohio State university faculty and a veteran, Dr. Orr was called to the University of Utah in 1947 when Utah organized its College of Pharmacy. At Utah he served as professor, general education counselor, and professional counselor for the College of Pharmacy.

Dr. Orr is a member of the American Pharmaceutical association, the American Chemical Society, and the American Institute for the History of Pharmacy.

Dr. and Mrs. Orr and their daughter, Judith Elaine, expect to arrive in Missoula in the latter part of June.

As dean of the School of Pharmacy he will assume duties which have been handled by Dr. John F. Suchy as acting dean since the resignation last year of Dr. Curtis H. Waldon.

185 In Halls This Summer

Two residence halls will be open all during the summer session, and another may be opened later to accommodate visitors coming to the campus for the special events on the summer calendar.

There are 80 men staying in North hall, a drop of 30 per cent from last year. New hall is housing 105 women. Residents of these two halls eat in the dining room at North hall.

The Montana Institute of the Arts festival will bring about 500 visitors to Missoula, and about 50 of these will be housed in Corbin hall, according to director Kendrick Clark. Montana Music week, Publications Pow Wow, and the High School Music Camp will bring more applicants for temporary housing in the residence halls.

Work preparing the halls for next fall is going on all summer, with the repair of frost-damaged slate roofs being the major task.

POTTERY CLASS IS FREE

Students interested in learning pottery will have a free chance to try their hand at it next Wednesday evening in the weekly pottery class being instructed by Mary Larom, visiting instructor in crafts.

The class, which starts at 7:30, is located behind the stage in the Student Union auditorium.

Rowe Opens Six-Week BE Series

The first workshop of the summer session opened Monday when Dr. John L. Rowe, associate professor of education at the Teacher's College of Columbia university, delivered the first of a series of lectures to the members of the first Business Education workshop.

Dr. Rowe will devote this week to the "newer methods of teaching shorthand, typewriting, and transcription." Next week, Louise Bernard, director of the School of Distributive Education at the College of William and Mary, and Dr. E. Dana Gibson, a specialist in visual aids from San Diego State college, will present lectures and demonstrations pertaining to distributive education and cooperative vocational classes.

Dr. Rowe, the author of several books concerning world economic geography and typewriting, has lectured before educational organizations in the United States and Canada for the past several years. He has had nine articles published in business and education publications and also has written several books.

Dr. Rowe received his Bachelor of Education degree from the Wisconsin State Teacher's college in 1935, his Master of Arts degree from Iowa State university in 1939, and his Doctor of Education degree from the Teacher's college of Columbia university. His major fields included commerce, business education, and teacher education.

The Business Education workshops, under the direction of Mrs. Brenda F. Wilson, will continue until July 25. In addition to the lectures and demonstrations by Dr. Rowe, Miss Bernard, and Dr. Gibson, Philip S. Pepe, a specialist and consultant on office typing from the Remington Rand company and co-author of "Typing Simplified," will give demonstrations on a new method of teaching typewriting. He will also instruct a beginning class in typing with electric machines.

Dr. C. T. Herian, of Oregon State college, will lecture an accredited class on methods of teaching basic business subjects during the week starting July 14.

The week of July 21, the last week of the six-week session, Neal Rasmussen, representative of the Southwestern Publishing company, will present lectures on teaching aids in the teaching of bookkeeping.

Individual courses which comprise the various workshops include advanced typing on electric machines, shorthand for teachers, problems in the teaching of book-

Eliot, Baker, Logan to Instruct At Summer Coaching School

Three of the nation's top coaches will place special emphasis on high school coaching problems in the 1952 sessions of the Summer Coaching school, to be held at the University from July 21 to 25.

Ray Eliot of the University of Illinois will direct instruction and demonstrations in all phases of football coaching. Eliot has been one of the top ranking coaches in his field in the 10 years he has been at Illinois, and has taken two winning football teams to the Rose Bowl.

Cecil Baker of Utah State college, who will handle the basketball coaching instruction, is an outstanding coach who was voted the best coach in the Skyline conference by member coaches last year.

ference by member coaches last year.

Roland "Kickapoo" Logan, assisted by Naseby Rhinehart of the University, will direct the training program. Logan, who has trained such athletes as Jimmy Foxx, Glenn Cunningham, and Lefty Grove is the only trainer to condition two Sullivan Award winners.

The daily sessions of the coaching school will include lectures and demonstrations of coaching techniques and the development of offensive and defensive strategy, with ample time for questions and discussions of special problems.

Some special features of the 1952 program include movies of the 1952 Rose Bowl and other top college football games, and movies of the outstanding basketball games of 1952 as well as instruction in handling all types of athletic injuries.

Coach George Dahlberg says that he expects at least 100 persons to attend the coaching school. He says "We are getting the best coaches in the nation, and should be one of the top coaching schools."

Pow Wow, Music Camp Registration Nears 100 Mark

Advance registration for the Montana high school music and journalism camps at MSU has already hit the 95 mark, and many more applications are expected, according to the music and journalism schools.

The third annual high school Publications Pow Wow, which is co-sponsored by the Montana Interscholastic Editorial association and the School of Journalism, will take place on the campus from July 27 through Aug. 2.

The Pow Wow consists of high school seniors who will be responsible for their next school year's newspapers and yearbooks. Their program, which is divided into three sections, offers study of the printed high school newspaper, the mimeographed high school newspaper, and of high school yearbooks.

So far, 38 of about 100 expected students have sent in their applications, according to Pow Wow Director E. B. Dugan, professor of journalism. Of the 38, 6 are from out of state, he said.

The high school Music Camp will also get underway July 27, but will continue through Aug. 9, according to the camp's director, Prof. Stanley M. Teel of the music school.

Up to now, 57 students have made application, with the band and chorus filling up nicely, Teel said, and the registration is expected to exceed 100.

The Music Camp will feature study in band, chorus, orchestra, and piano ensemble, with elective work offered in dance band, modeling, radio techniques, conducting and arranging, and speech.

keeping, salesmanship, principles of insurance, and several others.

Courses included in the regular ten-weeks' course are marketing, elementary accounting, cost accounting, American industries, and corporation finance.

MSU Playschool Enrollment Down

Enrollment is down in the summer session playschool this year, and head teacher Sylvia Stanley says that there is room for twice as many children as there are now attending the school.

The playschool, for children from 3 to 5 years old, is staffed by two regular teachers, Mrs. Stanley and Frances Pattison, and their assistants. It is open from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, and features a balanced program that alternates active and quiet periods for the children, and hot meals at noon.

Special features planned for the children this summer include music hours, nature study walks, and tours of the buildings now under construction on the campus.

STUDENT UNION CAFETERIA ANNOUNCES SUMMER HOURS

The Student Union cafeteria will be open from 7:20 a.m. to 7 p.m. on weekdays and from 7:20 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturdays throughout the summer session, according to Jack Cuthbert, cafeteria manager.

The meal hours for the cafeteria are as follows: Breakfast, 7:20 to 10:30; Lunch, 11:30 to 1; and Dinner, 5:30 to 6:30. The fountain will be closed from 11 to 11:30 in the mornings and from 5 until 5:30 in the afternoons to prepare for the meal hours.

The bookstore will be open continuously from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. on weekdays and from 8:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturdays, Cuthbert said.

Summer School Program Offered Frosh Students

The University School of Education and Missoula County high school will jointly sponsor a summer school for Missoula high school freshmen that is designed to "provide an opportunity for a limited number of these students to enjoy the privileges and pleasure of a 5-week program of directed study and recreation on the University campus," according to Director Charles R. Mattill.

The main program will consist of classes from 8 to 12 in the morning Monday through Friday, and will start June 23. The first class will be typing, followed by a social science course based on Conservation, and with music, art, drama, and journalism interspersed. The last hour in the morning will be devoted to recreation, folk dancing, games, and swimming.

Recreation Plans Will Fit Wants

"We are trying to set up a recreation program that the summer session students want. We are not going to shove a program down students' throats that they don't want," Ed Wright, summer session recreation director, said.

To facilitate this idea the Student Union, under the direction of Cyrile Van Duser, has prepared a questionnaire that both Wright and Miss Van Duser have asked students to fill out and hand in to the recreation office on the second floor of the Student Union.

This questionnaire should be signed by the student, giving in addition his Missoula address. The recreation questionnaire will ask the student what type of recreation he likes, what trips he would prefer to take and where, in addition to other information.

MISS CAMPBELL SETS SS LIBRARY HOURS

The library will be open from 8 to 12 and from 1 to 5 o'clock during the day, and from 7 to 10 o'clock in the evening on Monday through Thursday during the summer session, according to Librarian Kathleen Campbell.

Miss Campbell said that the library will be open for the regular hours during the day on Friday, but that it will be closed Friday night. It will be open Saturday in the morning only.

STUDENTS TO MEET STARS

Summer session students will have an opportunity to meet two movie stars at 8 o'clock Tuesday night when Movie Time, USA, presents two of six screen personalities now on tour of Montana, according to Cyrile Van Duser, SU manager. Names of the two persons have not been announced, but plans for the coffee hour are being completed.
