UNIVERSITY OF MONTANA, MISSOULA, APRIL 21, 1910.

NO. 12.

PRODUCTION IS READY

FINAL REHEARSALS ARE PROVING THAT PLAY WAS WELL SELECTED.

FINAL NUMBER OF COURSE

Nothing Is Lacking to Make the Performance the Best of Its Kind—Will Start Promptly at 8:30.

Exciting and interesting in every detail, the University play, "Le Malade Imaginaire," is going to be one of the greatest artistic productions that the University has ever staged. The final rehearsals this week continue to prove that the play is the best one that could be selected and that the cast is fully equal to its task.

Wonderful Improvement.

Every night this week, Assembly Hall has been ringing with the excited notes of the actors, the pleasing tones of the beautiful opera or the clanging of the tambourines of the Spanish dancers. Each evening has marked a wonderful improvement in the general effect of the comedy and its ultimate success is assured.

Good Seat Sale.

The seat sale was started at nine o'clock Tuesday and from the start there has been a steady sale on the seats. The large proportion of the first floor was sold out in the first few hours and the sale in the gallery is now going fast. Without doubt the house will be full and there will be a good number to witness the great production.

Curtains Are Ready.

Since Tuesday workmen have been busy on the curtains. The brass rods are now in position and last night's performance was given with the final stage setting. It has required a great amount of work to fit up the stage, especially since everything had to be built, but finally the curtains and lights have been put in place. The shop men have been busy for several afternoons building the ornamental pillars and to complete the carpenter work on the stage. To those who have not seen it, the new stage in the auditorium will appear new and quite a change.

The cast itself has worked with the utmost diligence on its heavy drill this week. Every night the complete play has been rehearsed and there have been several special rehearsals on the side. In the role of Argon, the character played by Moliere himself, Richards is succeeding in an excellent manner. The character of the sick man is by no means easy and the excellent way in which it is being done is a credit to the actor. Miss Wright as "Toinette" is carrying her role in a most capable manner. She is the power behind the throne in all the situations and her presence adds to each scene. Possibly the most clever work as comedian is being done by Lamar Maclay in his character as the son of the old doctor. His character is good and adds much to the amusement in the second act.

Too much cannot be said concerning the excellent work of the other members of the cast who have been working fully as hard to make their character a success. Last night's performance went off without a breakdown and the

PROVO MEET DECLARED OFF

The Decision Was Made in Faculty Committee Meeting Last Evening—Class Meet Captains Are Elected.

The proposed track meet between the University of Montana and Brigham Young university of Provo, Utah, has been called off by the faculty of the local school, owing to an alleged discrepancy in the Utah school's eligibility rules.

The Brigham Young university officials wrote to Athletic Director Rhodes early in the season, offering Montana a date, and at that time they were given encouragement. Rumors reached Missoula a little later, however, to the effect that the Utah school played absolutely without regard to any rules or requirements. It was stated that there were men on the Provo team who had been representing the school for seven years and that there were no scholastic rules whatever in the philosophy of the Mormon institution.

The university faculty, accordingly, telegraphed to the Utah school, saying that unless it agreed to live up to the usual scholastic requirements the meet would be cancelled. Provo at once mailed a contract, which provided for the rules governing the Utah Intercollegiate association, which are practically the same as those in force in Montana.

The faculty athletic committee, however, decided last night to cancel the meet, owing to the fact that the Utah rules did not say anything regarding the standing of the men during the previous semester. This rule is a faculty rule at the university, but does not apply to the other colleges of the state.

The triangular meet will, therefore, be the only track contest which the local school will hold this spring.

—Missoulian.

Each night continues to find twenty or thirty men at work on the track diligently getting into shape for the coming meets.

All interest is now turned to the class meet, which is now scheduled for Saturday. The class trophy offered by Dr. Duniway has served as an additional incentive to get the men out to

DEBATERS ARE DEFEATED

WASHINGTON STATE COLLEGE WINS BY A SMALL MARGIN.

MONTANA FOUGHT HARD

The Debate Was the Best Ever Held With Our Western Friends—W. S. C. Showed Its Boys a Good Time.

At Pullman, Wash., on last Thursday evening, the debating team of the University of Montana again went down to defeat before the team representing Washington State College. The decision of the judges, two to one in favor of Washington, gave Montana the best and most spirited debate yet held between the two institutions. In spirited work, in defining the true question, in logical sequence, in every manner, the debate held last week was superior to those held in former years, and the team from Washington captured the honors only after their hardest fight.

A Pleasant Time.

The team, consisting of Robert C. Line and Dewitt C. Warren, left last Wednesday evening for Pullman, arriving at the western college town Thursday morning. On Friday evening both attended the annual Junior Prom, which is acknowledged the great social event of the school year at Pullman. In speaking of the trip, Captain Line said: "We both had the most pleasant time of our lives. Pullman has a reputation for its hospitality and it held up to it this year. From the moment we alighted from the train until we regretfully left the town behind on Sunday, we were royally entertained by our hosts. Yes, they won the debate, but it was only after a long, hard fight. We would have liked to have won it. It only shows more clearly what we must do next year in the way of debating."

Both Men Pleased.

"At Pullman they have a debating class of forty, four or five intercollegiate debates and probably a dozen tryout debates, while we held one this year. If we push the work, and maintain the good start we have this year

WILL DELIVER ADDRESSES

Dr. Carver of Harvard Will Deliver Commencement Address, President Fancher of Montana College, Baccalaureate Sermon.

It is definitely announced by the faculty committee on Commencement speakers that Dr. Thomas Nixon Carver will deliver the commencement address and President Fancher of the Montana College will give the baccalaureate sermon. The University is to be complimented in securing the services of two such distinguished men for Commencement week.

Dr. Carver has been since 1902 Professor of Economics at Harvard University. He is a western man, having graduated from the University of Southern California. He took his Ph. D. from Cornell, where he was a fellow in the Department of Political Economy and Finance. He began his active educational work at Oberlin College, where he was Professor of Economics. Later he accepted the position of Assistant Professor of Economics at Harvard and eight years ago he became the active head of the Department at that University.

As an economist, Dr. Carver ranks among the best. He has written several books, many of which are used as text books in the American colleges and universities. The class in Sociology under Dr. Underwood will remember last semester's text book in that class was written by Dr. Carver.

President Fancher of the Montana College has kindly consented to deliver the baccalaureate sermon. Professor Fancher is no stranger at the University. It may be remembered that he was one of the judges at the Washington State College—University debate, held in Missoula last year.

WITZMAN RESIGNS.

Mr. J. K. Witzman, director of the University Orchestra and Glee Club, resigned his position, the same being effective on April 15. Mr. Witzman has been actively connected with the musical organizations at the University for the past two months, and during that time did much toward organizing the clubs and starting them with their work. He left during the early part of the week for the east, where he has accepted another position.

LAURANT, THE MAGICIAN

WILL BE AT THE HARNOIS NEXT WEDNESDAY EVENING, THE 27TH.

LARGE HOUSE EXPECTED

The Program for Next Year Has Been Issued and Returns for Tickets Are Coming In.

On next Wednesday evening, the 27th, Laurant, the magician, will conclude the University Lecture Course series for this season. Laurant is one of the most pleasing entertainers now on the lecture circuit, and has a program full of interest and mystery. Such numbers are always popular and the one to be given next Wednesday evening should prove more so from the fact that Mr. Laurant is a performer of rare ability and of the best talent.

Last Number.

On last Thursday evening occurred the musicale given by Miss Sarah Walthea Brown and her quartet of boys, the entertainment being given as the eighth number on the course. The musicale was not up to the standard which the majority of the audience would have desired. The quartet of boys, although performing well, did not excel the Rooney Boys' Quartet, which appeared on the course last season. The program proved rather a disappointment. Miss Brown's work on the harp was of a very high order and was undoubtedly the best number of the program.

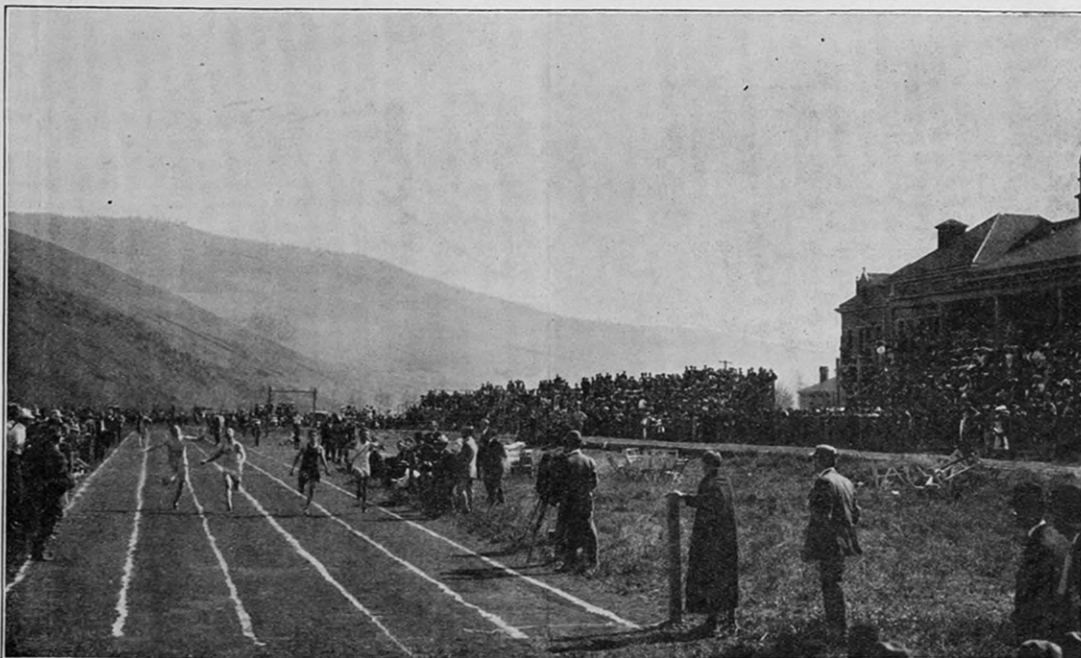

Laurant, the Magician.

The entertainment which will be given on next Wednesday evening, will conclude the University Lecture Course for the season of 1909-10. It will make nine numbers to be given by the committee this year, and those who have had the opportunity of hearing the various lectures and musicales have been unanimous in their praise for the selection made this year. The program for next year has already been issued and returns for tickets are already flowing in to the secretary of the lecture course committee. The lecture course is not only one of the pleasing activities of student life, but acts as an incentive to the people of Missoula for such lectures and is a prominent factor in maintaining the educational standard of the students.

ASSEMBLY YESTERDAY.

Yesterday morning regular Convocation was held in Assembly Hall. In the absence of President Duniway, Professor Aber presided. After the usual notices of activities were read, the meeting was turned over temporarily to the Associated Students, at which the question of postponing the Carnival and of voting on the constitutional amendments were discussed. A meeting of the Executive Committee of the A. S. U. M. has been called for the latter part of the week when the question of the date for holding the Carnival will be definitely settled. The voting on the amendments will not be held until some day next week.

Miss Smith then entertained the students by giving a couple of readings, taken from the Irish Dialogue readings. Professor Reynolds gave a short talk on interesting information regarding Moliere and the play that will be rendered tomorrow evening.

THE DEBATE.

The debate was lost. The sting of defeat does not seem so sharp when we are aware that the contest was a good one and the finish close. The Montana team presented their question in a clear, clean-cut manner, played hard on the rebuttal, and debated their best for Montana. Even if they were beaten, we believe that there is a certain glory in defeat, for the men have sacrificed many things for the privilege of representing the University and they have worked hard. By all means, the two men have earned their letter.

But as to the real outcome of the debate, we are satisfied for the new two-man debating scheme was being tried out. Both the men on their return from Pullman expressed their opinions on the innovation. It seems that with two men, a clear working basis of the question can be obtained. No longer is it necessary for the first speakers on both sides to be practically dummies, as far as real debating goes. In the two-man debate both colleagues must present arguments and also speak on the rebuttal. Thus the best debating abilities of all concerned are brought out. Another argument in favor of the new plan is that the audience become better acquainted with the men the second time they speak.

In the recent debate, the best debating was done in the rebuttals, and was by far the best appreciated by the audience. And by far the most important reason, for in this northwest where every college is the breadth of a state from its neighbor, the expenses are cut to a minimum. For our part, Montana is satisfied that the two-man debating scheme be made permanent.

No, partner, the Merimbiphone does not have its habitat in Africa, but possibly it may grow on trees down in California.

Troubles never come singly. The debating team and the lecture course came to grief all on the same night.

Who said Singing on the Steps? Hist! We should not speak disrespectfully of the dead.

Postscript to the University play: "And they were married and lived happily ever since."

Also the Sentinel is having some trouble, too.

Have you been out to see the track team lately?

Who saw the president this time?

Oh, you ways and means.

MICHIGAN RANKS HIGH IN ORATORY AND DEBATE.

The State oratorical contest will be held the last Friday in March at Albion. The University of Michigan will be represented by M. M. Thomas, who won the peace oratorical contest at the University just before the holidays. His subject was "Arbitration." Other colleges to send representatives will be Hillsdale, Olivet, Albion, and Ypsilanti. The state contest will be followed some time in May by an interstate contest. Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin and Michigan will participate.

During the past year Michigan teams in oratory and debating have taken part in thirty contests, twenty of which were preliminary, five final, and five intercollegiate. A total of 130 men have taken part in these contests. For local contests alone, the services of eighty judges were required.

Of the intercollegiate contests Michigan has won one from Northwestern and lost one to Chicago. In oratory Michigan has won one and lost two. January 21, Michigan met Chicago at Chicago and Northwestern at Ann Arbor in debate on the question, "Resolved, That the experience of the United States shows that a protective tariff should continue to be the national policy." The verdict of the judges was against Michigan at Chicago by two to one, and in favor of Michigan at Ann Arbor by the same vote.

GIRLS NOT SUFFRAGETTES.

Girls in the University of Michigan do not propose to become affiliated with any suffragette movement as was indicated recently by the few who attended the lectures given by Mrs. Grenfell of Colorado and a Miss McGow, who spoke on a Sunday afternoon.

The Woman's League of the University of Arizona recently gave a vaudeville stunt that was said to be one of the most successful theatrical presentations ever given there.

The faculty of the University of Illinois has decided upon a ten-minute intermission between classes.

The Prep Department of the University of Idaho recently gave its annual dance, called "The Prep Squall."

The Law Department of the Willamette University will meet the University of Oregon Law School in a debate on the National Incorporation question.

Fraternities of the University of Nebraska have introduced the honor system into that institution. Under the terms of the code of honor, any fraud or false report which contemplates fraud is a dishonorable act. The code further provides that it is not a mean or dishonorable act for one student to inform against another who has been guilty of an infringement of the code.—Student Record.

A Pan-Hellenic Association was organized last week at the University of Oregon with the Gamma Phi Beta, Chi Omega and Kappa Alpha Theta, as members.

"WHAT ONE WILL SEE"

"Will you please run that last speech over again, Mr. Hero?" "No, that won't do. Try and get some meaning in those words. Say it this way. See? Now, then—Yes, that's better. Now, there's your cue. Just a moment; try and walk more dignified—a little slower—there, now you have it! Yes, the orchestra will be seated there on the left. Hey, there, doctor, you are slow. Here's your cue." This is only one minute of a couple of hours that go on every evening in Convocation Hall. It isn't the debating team nor an oration, nor the drama class reading a play; it is simply the cast for the big play rehearsing. The Mr. General Superintendent Chief High Mogul of the play is about the busiest man on the campus these days. He runs about attending to details, now seeing about the curtain, now about the costumes, now about rehearsing this evening, and then he stops a moment to get his breath. "Hey! Oh, Leech! Say, what about the seat sale; how are the tickets going? Yes, Line, I'll see about the curtains. They should be up by tonight. Now, tell all the boys in the play that I'll meet them at 7 o'clock. Yes, regular rehearsal at 8." So it goes. Everyone on the play is as busy as—well, just to say they are on the play is enough. Every evening, rain or shine, for the past three weeks, Assembly Hall has been ringing with the noise and clatter of rehearsals. Everybody on the second floor over there at the Main Hall "know the play by heart," and they haven't seen a rehearsal.

Last Saturday the gardener was happy. All day long he wore a happy smile and his voice was heard now and then cheerily greeting the students as they chanced to pass him. He walked up and down and backwards and forwards, whistling merrily to the accompaniment of the lawn mower! He was truly happy, for it was the first cut of the year, and the shrill whirl of the blades as they cut the tender shoots seemed to assure the listeners that another harbinger of spring had arrived. But as we turned and gazed about the campus it reminded us of the days when we were kids and played those kid games we used to. Here and there were little sticks standing straight up from the grass. "What are those for?" we heard an innocent Freshman exclaim. "What, don't you know what them things are," replied the gardener. "Why, there's where our annual crop of dandelions are coming up. We've got the best crop planted in this campus that I've seen in a long time. You just wait a couple of weeks."

But it was only Sunday afternoon that over there by the Main Hall one could see a small yellow blur amidst the bright green; that is, until a figure stole over and cautiously pulled the little yellow spot, and it developed into the first dandelion of the year. That afternoon it adorned the lapel of the discoverer's coat, and he seemed to say, as he walked about, that the war had again started on the innocent yellow flowers. Every day we see more sticks about as an often repeated examination of the grass brings forth evidence of those dandelions. Yes, those dandelions!

"Good morning, Mr. Speer, is the president in?" "Oh, when will he be back?" "Could I see him for a few minutes then on Thursday?" These are oft repeated remarks one may hear these days over at the registrar's office. A Kaimin reporter, hot on the trail of a "leader," rushed over to Main Hall to interview the president, to find that he was out of town. Yes, it is those inspection trips. Another of the surest signs of spring are the inspection trips that come during the last two months of the school year. Over there in the library we pick up the file of the state papers, and a leading head line catches our eye. "President Duniway Inspects High School. Finds It in Satisfactory Condition." There is the explanation. Only yesterday morning the manager of the show rushed over to the office. "May I see the president?" "No, he has gone to Phillipsburg; won't be back until tomorrow." "Why, I thought he was in Hamilton." "No, he finished there on Monday." And so it goes. Surely, spring is here with dandelions and inspection trips!

excellence of the final production is assured. The last rehearsal was with the orchestra and as the program is to be given on Friday evening, tonight's rehearsal is to be a full dress rehearsal and behind closed doors.

Everything Ready.

Not a thing is lacking to make the performance the best of its kind. Every detail which was planned to make the play conform to the original performance has been carried out. The pages are in their positions at the first of each act. The ballet makes a very fitting close for the second and the intermission between the first and second acts will undoubtedly be of great interest on account of the refreshments to be served by the French maids.

The performance is to begin promptly at 8:30, carriages may be ordered for 10:45 p. m.

we ought to be able to carry off the honors next year."

Mr. Warren returned Sunday morning, as his Sentinel work could not be delayed. Speaking to a reporter, he said of his trip: "Yes, we had the time of our life. They've got a fine bunch down there, and certainly know how to give their visitors a good time. The Junior Prom, which we attended on Friday evening, was undoubtedly the great social event of the year. The arrangements, and other matters in connection with it, are very similar to ours here."

ANNUAL MEETING CALLED

The Executive Committee of the Alumni Association Will Nominate Officers.

The annual meeting of the executive committee of the Alumni Association, held each spring to nominate officers for the ensuing year, is called for next week. In addition to the nomination of candidates for the respective offices, plans for the annual alumni banquet, to be held during commencement week, will be discussed and committees appointed to take charge of the affair.

It is likely that an amendment to the constitution of the association concerning the payment of dues will be proposed for the association to vote on. The plan followed by alumni association of many colleges and universities of having a life membership fee, payable in annual installments, or in one payment, is the plan which has been most discussed. Such a method is said to be highly desirable for an organization whose members are as widely scattered as those of the alumni association. The amount of the life membership fee has not been widely discussed, but the sum of ten dollars has been suggested by several officers of the present executive committee, this amount to be paid annually for ten years, or in one payment. This sum, it is thought, will yield as large an income for the Association as the present plan of annual dues of one dollar.

the Missoula High School, and will be succeeded the following year by Margaret Ronan, '02.

Edna Pratt, '09, has recently moved to Tacoma, Wash., where her address is 1310 S. Yakima street.

The secretary of the Alumni Association, in order to complete an up-to-date list of the alumni, wishes the addresses of the following: Mrs. Ella R. Glenn, '98, Estelle Bovee, '01, Sidney M. Walker, '00.

Many of the students will be glad to hear that Lucy Whitaker, ex-'11, will arrive in Missoula next Saturday from California, where she has spent the past two months in quest of health.

News has reached the university that Josiah J. Moore, '07, who is now attending Rush Medical College in Chicago, and wife (nee Florence Johnson, '06), will arrive in Missoula in a few days to spend the summer. "Si" will assist Dr. H. T. Ricketts in his work on spotted fever and expects to spend the entire summer in the Bitter Root.

A discussion as to the amateur standing of Bailey Gish, the star point winner for the University of Washington, has been started by the University of Oregon. It will be remembered that Gish represented the Missoula High School in the interscholastic meet two years ago.
