FOR RELEASE SUNDAY, AUGUST 18

Two men have been added to the staff of the School of Journalism at Montana State University, Missoula. Erling S. Jorgensen has been named associate professor of journalism and acting director of the Radio-Television Studios, and Richard A. Garver has been appointed assistant professor of journalism, Dr. Nathan B. Blumberg, dean of the Journalism School, announced.

Jorgensen received his bachelor of arts degree in 1947 from the State University of Iowa, a master of arts degree in 1949 and a doctor of philosophy in 1955 from the University of Wisconsin. He has taught at the University of Wisconsin, the University of Nebraska, and at Michigan State University. He was a member of the Armed Forces Network in Berlin, Germany, at the end of World War II, and later worked for stations WSUI in Iowa City and KAYX in Waterloo, Iowa; WKAR-TV at East Lansing, Michigan and WHA-TV, Madison, Wis. He has had extensive experience producing, directing and performing in radio-TV programs connected with his teaching positions at the three universities.

Garver received his doctorate from the University of Wisconsin in August, after completing a graduate program in journalism, sociology, political science and statistics. He received his bachelor of arts degree in 1951 and master of arts degree in 1954 from the University of Indiana.

He has worked on the Madison (Ind.) Courier, the Wisconsin State Journal in Madison, Wis., and for the Editorial Services Division of the University of Wisconsin.
