FOR RELEASE SUNDAY, AUGUST 25

Dr. Dee Calderwood Taylor, Dr. Raymond L. Gold, and Idris William Evans have been appointed to the staff of the Sociology, Anthropology, and Social Welfare Department at Montana State University, Missoula, Dr. W. Gordon Browder, chairman, announced today.

Dr. Taylor will be an assistant professor teaching lower and upper division courses in anthropology and assisting with lower division courses in sociology. Dr. Taylor was assistant director of the summer field school at the University of Utah from 1953-55, and instructor in anthropology from 1951-53. He received his B.A. and M.A. from the University of Utah, and Ph. D. from the University of Michigan where he held a post-doctoral fellowship from 1956-57.

Dr. Gold will be an assistant professor and will teach lower division sociology and anthropology courses, instruct some advanced courses, and carry on research. He has been research associate and then assistant professor in the Department of Sociology and Anthropology at the University of Alabama. He has also taught in the Department of Sociology at the University of Chicago. He was awarded his B.A., M.A., and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Chicago.

Evans will serve as an instructor. He has been an instructor in sociology at the University of Texas. He was an instructor in English for the California State Adult Education program previous to this time. He received his B.A. from East Texas State Teachers College, and M.A. from the University of Texas, and has done work toward a doctorate which he expects to receive in 1958.
