Multimedia Sports Announcing & Writing

Course Outline:
Multi-media Sports Announcing & Writing will provide hands-on opportunities for students to perform in the roles of play-by-play announcer, color commentator, and game-story writer/producer. Each student will work seven games during the semester, rotating through the jobs gaining experience in each role. Students will work in teams of three and provide feedback and critiques for their teammates.

Learning Outcomes:
--The successful JRNL 342 student will learn about organization and preparation for live sports broadcasts. They will learn proper research techniques to be ready for a game broadcast. They will also learn to write game preview and summary stories for the web.
--The successful student will also gain valuable experience by announcing live sports events and improving their ability to communicate accurate information and a coherent storyline for listeners/viewers.

Job assignments:
Each student will perform in each of these three jobs during their seven game schedules. The play-by-play announcer will be the main voice and provide a running account of the game action. The color commentator will add additional information and insight into players, coaches, game action and relevant storylines. The writer/producer will submit game preview and summary stories and also assist with logistics (media passes/arrangements) and technical set-up and provide statistical support.

Equipment:
JRNL 342 students will record their radio broadcasts on a Marantz audio recorder. Students will be using a Xenyx Mixer with two microphones (headsets) as well as a third microphone for ambient crowd noise. Students will be required to post these audio files on Soundcloud for class access, peer review and class time playback. There will also be television assignments that will use that audio equipment along with a Atomos recorder to capture the video and audio of the project.
By the Numbers:
Journalists often need to present basic numeric information to put a story in context. In sports reporting and broadcasting we are drowning in numbers and statistics, you will be required to give context and significance to these numbers during your broadcast. You can present this as a play-by-play announcer or color commentator or game story writer. This will be required in each game broadcast you produce for the class.

Diversity in programs:
The well-rounded journalist knows how to tell stories from varied perspectives. The School of Journalism has undertaken an initiative to create opportunities for students to tell stories of more varied and diverse groups of people. Diversity means not only racial diversity, but ethnic, socio-economic, gender and age diversity. As a team, we will work to ensure appropriate representation in all of our radio & television projects.

Attendance Policy:
Attendance is mandatory. There will be assigned off-days for preparation. Any other absences must receive prior approval. More than one unexcused absence will result in a grade reduction. This includes full class meetings as well as game day assignments.

Same Work for Multiple Classes in J-School
You may not submit for this course any assignment that has previously or will be concurrently submitted for another class unless you receive prior approval from the professor for this course. To do so without permission will result in an “F” for the assignment and could result in an “F” for the course.

After Hours Access:
For after hours access to Don Anderson Hall, complete and submit this form online: http://jour.umt.edu/after-hours/. Complete only one request form per semester, be sure to list all courses you are taking. Codes will remain active until the last day of the semester.

Academic Honesty
All students must practice academic honesty. Academic misconduct is subject to an academic penalty by the course instructor and/or a disciplinary sanction by the University. All students need to be familiar with the Student Conduct Code. The Code is available for review online at http://www.umt.edu/SA/VPSA/index.cfm/page/1321.

Accommodations for Students with Disabilities
