UM NAMES NEW DIRECTOR OF FACILITY SERVICES

MISSOULA --

The University of Montana has chosen Hugh A. Jesse as its new director of facility services, UM Vice President for Fiscal Affairs Glen Williams announced today.

Jesse, 39, replaces J.A. "Ted" Parker, who retired last August as UM's director of facilities.

Jesse was selected by a UM search committee from among four finalists and will probably assume his new duties by April 20, Williams said. He will be in charge of custodial services, the maintenance program, planning construction, and plant operations, Williams added.

A native of Mobile, Ala., Jesse has been the assistant director of physical facilities at the University of Missouri-Rolla since 1977. Before that, he was a project engineer with K-S-H Inc. of St. Louis, Mo.; a manufacturing engineer with the Rawlings Sporting Goods Co. of Licking, Mo.; and a petroleum products analyst for the U.S. Army.

Jesse earned bachelor's and master's degrees in engineering management at the University of Missouri-Rolla.
