DEBATERS PLAN MUCH ACTIVITY

TAU KAPPA ALPHA DISCUSSES TRIANGULAR LEAGUES WITH NEARBY SCHOOLS

SOPHS AND FROSH TO MEET ON PLATFORM

Co-eds May Compete With Girls from Other Universities.

Triangular debates with nearby universities, debates among the two lower classes and co-educational debating were discussed by the members of the Montana chapter of Tau Kappa Alpha, honorary fraternity of debate and oratory at their luncheon, last Saturday at the Florence hotel.

William Long, manager of debate and oratory, presented a tentative schedule which was given the hearty recommendation of the fraternity. As proposed the schedule includes two triangular debates, one with Oregon and Utah and the other with North and South Dakota. With this scheme four teams will be working on two questions thus saving an extra amount of work as would be the case in dual debates. Long says this system of triangular debate should be favorable to the other schools for they have already suggested a three cornered arrangement with Montana, and his idea is to make it a tradition.

A committee consisting of Joseph Kirkwood, professor of Botany, Alva Baird, '16, and Howard Johnson, '17, was appointed to submit questions to the several teams and to investigate and select questions offered to Montana.

As a means of stirring up interest in debate Manager Long proposed the idea of a Co-ed debate. The suggestion aroused some interesting discussion, but no definite action was taken, pending the probability of getting intercollegiate debates with nearby schools. A sophomore-freshman debate was also arranged as a class affair, the question and time to be decided later.

PIONEERS WILL FORM GEOGRAPHIC SOCIETY

EARLY SETTLERS WILL MEET AT UNIVERSITY, FRIDAY AFTERNOON.

The Montana Geographic Society whose purpose is to permanently name all points of interest in the state, will be organized at a meeting to be held in Convocation Hall, Friday, October 29, at 2 P. M.

Dr. J. P. Rowe is in charge of the preliminary work, assisted by Dean A. L. Stone and M. J. Elrod. It is very likely that the Colorado plan of organization will be carried out, and it is evident from the interest already shown in the movement that it will be a great success.

About 125 letters have been sent to the pioneers in the state, and a great many encouraging replies have been received. Governor Stewart will preside at the meeting, if the condition of his younger child, who has been seriously ill, will permit him to leave Helena.

DR. E. B. CRAIGHEAD

WITH COLLEGE HYMN STUDENTS CLOSE FAREWELL TO THEIR FORMER PRESIDENT, E. B. CRAIGHEAD

With tremendous applause, with tribute in song, with expressions of admiration and loyal respect, and finally with a loving cup as a token of lasting friendship—thus did Montana's university greet and bid farewell to her former president, Dr. Edwin B. Craighead, in a special convocation at noon today. Never in the history of the university was there such a demonstrative assembly, never such a dramatic incident as the farewell to the guiding power for the three years past, never such an ardent sympathy extended to extolled greatness.

In behalf of the student body, Payne Templeton, president of the A. S. U. M., told Dr. Craighead of the intense loyalty of the student, and presented the former president with a loving cup similar to one given him by the students on his last birthday, March 3.

BEAUTY TO HAVE ITS NICHE IN YEAR BOOK

An entirely new department in this year's annual will be a section of the book devoted to the goddess of beauty. Eight of the most beautiful girls in school will be honored with a full page photograph and at least two smaller snapshots of each girl selected will be included in the display.

The management will avoid anything which would tend to lower the dignity of the book and the new feature will give the publication an added value to students of the university.

Although times and relations have changed since March 3, last," said Templeton, "the same good cheer goes with this cup even though you are no longer our president. From this cup may you drink four beverages — sympathy, respect, affection, and good wishes for you in your new field on the North Dakota prairies."

In a stirring speech to the students and faculty, Dr. Craighead pleaded for the freedom of education. He told of the trials other universities have been through, both in the east and in the west, and he urged that Montana break the bonds of thralldom. "You can never expect to plough in new ground without hitting a stump," he remarked.

A university is a greater asset to a state than all the gold mines it might have, he continued, and to be influential it must not be connected with party interests.

"A university should be placed on a citadel high above the reach of demagogues. It should be an educational pharos, radiating with the white light of truth every hill and dale and mountain peak."

Dr. H. E. Slaughter, head of the mathematics department of the University of Chicago, addressed the students on "The Democratizing of Education."

"The greatest danger," he stated, "in the growing democracy of education is the danger of mediocrity, and the content with an average education." It is not so important, he went on to say, to raise the whole people to a certain level as it is to make leaders who will rise above that level.

FREE LECTURE TONIGHT EXPOSITION DESCRIBED BY MR. MATHEWSON

A free illustrated lecture on the Panama exposition will be given this evening, at Convocation Hall, by E. P. Mathewson who has just recently returned from a visit to the exposition.

The slides to be used are made from pictures obtained by Mr. Mathewson himself, and a splendid opportunity is given everyone to get first hand impressions of the great fair.

Miss Nora Kapp went to her home in Livingston to spend the week-end.

MANY RESERVED SEATS FOR SYRACUSE GAME

Reserved seats for the Syracuse game on Thanksgiving day will be placed on the sidelines at each side of the gridiron. There will be 1024 of these seats, which will be folding chairs, and they will sell for $1.50 each. Manager Prescott will place these seats on sale at downtown stores within the next few weeks and reservations will be accepted by mail.

GAME ARRANGED FOR NEXT FRIDAY

MINERS WILL MEET THE GRIZZLIES ON MONTANA FIELD

THREE VARSITY STARS OUT OF CONTEST

Daems, Streit and Robertson Will Not Be in the Line-up—Good Game Is Expected.

In order to give the University students an additional chance to see the Grizzlies in action and to give the team another stiff workout before the game with Washington state, Jerry Nissen has arranged for a battle with the Montana School of Mines in Missoula next Friday. The Butte team, fearing the reputed strength of Montana's men has agreed to play only if the Grizzlies keep Daems, Streit and Robertson on the sidelines during the contest.

The Butte team has had an unusual season so far, their last game ending in a tie with the Montana State College. According to the reports which have come to Missoula from people who saw the game, the Miners were far superior to the Farmers in both spirit and skill. It was a break in luck, which attends every contest on the gridiron, which prevented the Butte team from rolling up a higher score.

There will be a return game played on the Butte grounds the week following the trip to Pullman.

FIRST NUMBER OF LECTURE COURSE OCCURS IN CONVOCATION HALL

Tickets for the opening number of the university lecture course, which will be held Thursday evening in convocation hall are on sale at the office in University hall, at the library and at five different stores in Missoula.

Thursday's night entertainment is a combined musical recital by Professor E. Orlo Bangs, assistant professor of voice, and readings by Miss Florence Gettys of the public speaking department. The business places handling the tickets, both student and regular, are: South Side Pharmacy, Price's, Bateman's Drug Store, the Nonpareil and the Chamber of Commerce. Regular tickets are $1.50 and student tickets are $1.00.

Presidents of each class in the university are selling tickets to their respective classes and a large attendance of students is expected. The aim of the course is to entertain as well as to instruct. Stereopticons will be used in five of the lectures, while four will be musical.

The committee in charge of the course desires to correct an error in the announcement of the course. Professor Burleigh's concert is scheduled for November 7 in the pamphlet announcing the course, the date should be December 7.

DEUS VOBISCUM

Standing before the students with no cloak of authority, with only the bond of respect and love to bind him to his former students, we bade him farewell this morning. There were many damp eyes in convocation hall as the words of College Chums told him what words, even in the mouth of Payne Templeton, could not tell. Oh, that his enemies could have seen and heard the unaffected farewell we offered him. We who knew him, who saw him day in and day out, don't care a continental for "the charges which were not considered." He has given us a "square deal." He has always been a gentleman and a fighter, may he ever continue to be the Dr. Craighead we have known and still know.

ELLIOT WILL SPEND DAY AT UNIVERSITY IN DEC.

Dr. Edward C. Elliott, recently elected chancellor of the higher educational institutions in Montana, will visit the university late in November, according to information received from Governor Stewart. The chancellor will spend a day at each of the schools, and will meet with the state board at the regular meeting in Helena, Monday, December 6. His message to Governor Stewart follows:

"Agreeable to your suggestion, I have arranged to spend the week prior to the December meeting of the board in Montana, in order to spend at least one day at each institution before the meeting. I have informed Superintendent Davee that as far as I am concerned the meeting may be held at the regular time, and that I shall be ready to advise with the board so far as I am able.

"What few misgivings I had with regard to the situation in Montana have been removed by the very many letters I have had from my friends in the state. I am certain of some very warm support in carrying on the task that I have undertaken."

To the people from the eastern part of the state and Butte, in fact the students from almost every part of Montana are going through the novel experience of seeing acorns on a tree for the first time. Each year the freshmen of the university go through this same pleasant feeling and each year there is the same surprise.

SOPHOMORE'S DANCE PROVES DELIGHTFUL

IN DECORATED "GYM" FROSH AND SOPHS MINGLE

"This is such a pretty dance!" "I have had the best time!" "The class of '18 surely are alive." "And the music seems to be better than ever!"

These are a few of the exclamations which could be heard at the dance given by the sophomore class for the freshmen last Friday evening. The university gymnasium was decorated throughout in red and white, the colors of the class of 1918. At one end of the hall, a large, white '18 on a background of red greeted the guests. At the other end, punch was served from a table decorated in the same color scheme. Twenty numbers were danced, four of which were extras, together with a "Frosh" extra.

The annual dance for the freshmen, with the sophomore class as hosts, is one of the pretty customs at the University of Montana. This year the sophomore girls wore white middies, with red ties and red ribbon in their hair, while the freshmen girls wore green ties and green ribbon.

To the officers of the sophomore class, together with the committee who took charge of the dance is due the credit for the success of the affair. The officers are Maurice Dietrich, president; Marguerite McGreevy, vice-president; Mack Gault, treasurer and Virginia Nuckolls, secretary. The committee in charge of the dance was Beth Barrows, Conrad Orr, Phil Daniels, Lucille Paul, Brice Toole and Doris Prescott.

Professor and Mrs. Paul C. Phillips chaperoned the young people.

DAKOTA STUDENT PAPER EXPLAINS NEW SYSTEM

A new educational government has been established in North Dakota, according to the Student, the publication of the state university there, which writes that Dr. E. B. Craighead, former president of the University, has in charge the proposed survey of the North Dakota educational system. With Dr. Craighead on the survey will be Dr. D. T. Dawman and Dr. S. C. Capman, both of the United States Bureau of Education. The article follows:

"Since the close of the last university year a new form of government has been established over the various educational institutions of the state. On July 1 the board of university trustees which has been the governing body of the university for the past thirty years ceased to exist, by legislative act, and a new body called the board of regents took their place. This new board consists of five members, appointed by the governor of the state. These men hold their office for six years and have the direction and supervision of the educational institutions of the state under their control. One of the things which they are required to do is to make a survey of these schools, and later to select an educational commissioner, who is to be the advisor of the board.

"The board of regents has held four meetings, and has started upon its work carefully and intelligently. The last meeting was held on October 13. President McVey was present at that meeting to present some matters relating to the university affairs and particularly to discuss with the board the co-ordination of the accounting system."

TOMORROW EVENING LIQUOR PROBLEM WILL BE SETTLED.

"Prohibition offers the best solution of the liquor problem in Montana," is the question which will be argued in the Freshman debating class tomorrow evening at 7:30 in room 12 of the Library building. PROPOSED AMENDMENT

The total amount of money received from student incidental fees shall be apportioned among the various student activities by a commission consisting of one faculty member and two student members. This commission shall be appointed by the executive board of the A. S. U. M. before the beginning of the second semester of each school year.

This commission shall sit at regular intervals, to be determined by the student chairman of the commission and at these sessions, the time and place of which shall be announced in the Kaimin and posted on the bulletin board at least (2) two weeks previous to the time of meeting, the different organizations and activities shall present their claims and produce evidence to substantiate them.

In considering the claims the commission shall base their decision upon resulting common good to the entire student body.

They shall recommend no amount only a specified percentage for each activity. The report of this committee must be made to the executive committee before the first day of May of each year and this report shall govern the division of the student fund for the following year unless all or any part of it is set aside by a (3/4) three fourths vote of the entire student body.

If any activity uses a greater amount of money than is allotted for that year, the deficit shall remain unpaid until that activity receives its allotment the following year; and the debt and interest shall be paid from that allotment.

MINSTRELS PLANNED AT PEPPERY MEETING

JUNIORS WILL PRESENT SHOW TO HELP FINANCE THE ANNUAL

The pepper which left the football field a short while ago seems to be wandering at large through University Hall. The Juniors held a class meeting last Friday to discuss the publication of the Sentinel and some of this "pep" slipped in the door and almost caused a riot before it could be ejected.

What occasioned the explosion is unknown for when the smoke of battle cleared the original bone of contention was buried under a mass of amendments, points of order, questions of debate and all the parliamentary law which Robert's Rules of Order has between its cover.

The members of the class, who took part in the battle, displayed oratorical gifts that would have made shades of Cicero, Demosthenes, Daniel Webster and our own varsity debaters envious.

However, when President Arthur Drew began to act like a freshman, who has a date with a girl whose name he can't remember, and shows signs of heart failure, reinforcements entered the battle, this enraged Mr. Drew to such an extent that he chewed a corner off the mathematics room window sill. This drastic action stopped the debate and everybody sociably asked what the war was all about.

The meeting settled down to real business and discussed a plan for putting on a minstrel show. The idea was adopted and the necessary arrangements for the production were turned over to the financial committee. Nothing definite as to the make-up of the show can be had at present, but it is certain that from the display of real spirit manifested in the meeting that if work will make a good show the juniors will have a show worth going miles to see. A motion was then entertained and passed that every Junior sign a Sentinel note in order to insure a reserve fund in case a deficit occurs. The president then appointed Mae Pope, Helen Buckley, Patricia O'Flynn, Virginia Dixon, and Evelyn Thomas as a committee to conduct a candy sale to be held in the near future.

UNIVERSITY Y. M. NOW IN MOUNTAIN DISTRICT

PUEHLER ANNOUNCES DELEGATES WILL ATTEND COLORADO CONFERENCE.

That the Y. M. C. A. in the University is enjoying the most prosperous year it has ever known, is the opinion expressed by Charles Puehler, secretary of the state Y. M. C. A., who visited on the campus yesterday. With Secretary Puehler was G. S. Bilheimer, field secretary for the mountain states, who announces that hereafter the University of Montana will send her delegates to the summer Y. M. C. A. conference at Estes Park, Col., and not Columbia Beach, Ore., as in previous years.

Missoula will have plans for an association building within a year, according to Mr. Puehler. Conditions here will soon be ripe to begin the long promised campaign for a city Y. M. C. A. The student secretary to visit here this year will be H. L. Heinzman instead of the Gail Seaman, who is known to most of the student association members.

The first public meeting of the University Y. M. C. A. will be held in Convocation hall, Thursday night, November 11, when Rev. H. S. Gately of the Episcopal church will speak. Music will be furnished for the meeting by the University orchestra.

CONSTITUTION ADOPTED BY BARRISTERS FRIDAY

The adoption of a constitution by the students of the law school, when they met last Thursday, completes the plan of organization which they have had in progress since the beginning of school. This action is taken to systematize the efforts of the students in building up the school. Other matters of business were the levying of dues to support the new organization and the appointment of R. D. Jenkins, Richard Howell, and Miss Frances Garrigus as a permanent committee to look after the continuation of law luncheons.

OREGON SAVES SPORT BUT ADOPTS CHANGES

The suspension of basketball for the present as an intercollegiate sport, the discontinuance of the pre-season training camp, the limiting of time for practice periods of varsity teams and the forbidding of official representatives of the university to scout for athletics were some of the measures the university faculty adopted after three hours' debating over the investigation committee's official report which has just been made public by the University of Oregon.

The term scouting was revised as follows: "Scouting is hereby defined as the offering of any inducement to the prospective students with the view of their becoming candidates for positions on any varsity team."

FROSH WILL RECIPROCATE WITH DANCE TO SOPHOMORES

At a meeting held in Convocation Hall Thursday afternoon, the freshmen class decided by a unanimous vote to give a return dance to the Sophomore class in appreciation of the latter's dance last Friday at which the frosh were special guests.

A committee consisting of Hall, Brown, and Organ was appointed to complete the arrangements for the dance the date of which was set for Friday, November 13th. Friday the 13 is a double "Jinx" date but then who ever heard of having hard luck at a dance.

Observation of the Innocent Bystander

It's rather amusing at times to hear some big fellow with a full-back build, who never did more than deliver an occasional rap at somebody to assist in the nurturing of spirit around here, jump onto the efforts of some one else. As a concrete example, there is just such a man in the University who took offence at the remarks which appeared in this column in the last issue of the paper. He said that The Bystander was attempting to queer the team. Yet this same husky never swelled the ranks of the squad on the field. What he said did not cut into The Bystander at all, in fact it rather tickled him.

But lest someone else should feel the same as the one who played to a small group of students in jumping on The Bystander, let it be said, here, that the author of this column wrote what he did and is writing, and will keep writing, until the editor asks for his resignation, just what he thinks will help the team the most.

There is more good stuff on the football field for a crashing, fast team than there has been for years. There is a coach with more zip and pepper than Montana has had the fortune to have for a good while. But at the same time there is spirit missing in the squad that would do a whole lot to build a wonderful aggregation.

The fault for this lies with the old men, for the incoming students are bound to emulate those who have been here before. Perhaps they object to the sudden restraint, which follows a few years of no training and no discipline. But the men should remember that they are working under a leader who has just as much power as any war general and who is working for the good of the school and the team just as much as any field marshal ever struggled for the glory of his country.

You cannot develop a team without a binding spirit and the man who criticizes another's plan for pushing on such a spirit should first be certain that he is working on a plan that is better than the one he is condemning.

MAN'S VANITY RESPONSIBLE FOR FILLED BACK SEATS

In how many classes do you enjoy the privilege of a back seat? Why do the students, whether they know their lessons or not, tend to seat themselves in the rear of the class room?

Professor Smith, head of the psychology department, has made some interesting observation upon this subject, in answer to an inquiry. It is a well known fact that this tendency prevails among young men to a greater extent than women. Professor Smith in explaining this says that it is because women enjoy talking so much they are oblivious of their surroundings.

"Most students and especially the young men are self-conscious and desire to be as inconspicuous as possible so that when they recite they will be seen and not heard. They want no observing eyes behind them. Another reason why both young men and women desire these seats is because it is an inborn trait to desire to look in from the outside.

"Others, who do not know their lessons, and do not wish to be called upon think that thus they will escape the too discerning attention of the teacher.

"A few brazen students, who above all things want attention, seek the back seats. When their voices boom forth, the people in front turn around to hear or see, and thus their wishes are granted. This is flattery to them!

"Men are prone to congregate in the back more than women, because it is thought that they possess the club instinct to a great degree, and desire to be together, away from the crowd. Almost all people avoid

STUDENT ACTS AS EXPERT IN IMPORTANT LAWSUIT

As a result of soil analyses made by Archie Hoel, chemistry student at the university, a $50,000 lawsuit was decided in the Missoula county court last week. The grounds for suit were that land had been purchased represented to be worth $100,000 and it later proved to be worth only about half that amount.

Sixty-four experiments were made by Hoel in the analyses of eight specimens obtained from different parts of the property. The experiments were made in a limited amount of time and Hoel worked almost constantly night and day completing the work in less than a week. The analyses together with Hoel's affidavit, and the affidavit of Dr. Jesse, head of the chemistry department as to the correctness of them was the most important evidence upon which the judgment was based. In speaking of the work Dr. Jesse said it was a hard piece of exacting work, and Hoel deserves much credit for the way in which he handled it.

The decision of the court in this case was an extremely important one, because the introduction of soil analyses in suits where land has been misrepresented is a new method, and as it proved to be effective it will probably be the way of deciding similar cases in the future.

crowds, if the conditions are favorable.

"Back seats are not only desired in class rooms, but in churches and almost all public gatherings. In getting away from the crowd, and trying to be inconspicuous the most external seats are secured, and this may explain why the front seats in class rooms and churches are almost always empty."

GIRLS ENTERTAIN MANY AT ANNUAL DORM FORMAL

FOUR HUNDRED ATTEND RECEPTION HELD IN CRAIG HALL PARLORS

The "Dormitory Formal," given last Saturday night in the Craig hall parlors, was an entirely successful affair and about four hundred persons enjoyed the evening. The girls living at the hall and Mrs. L. E. Wilson, the matron, entertained all university students and all faculty members at an informal reception. The rooms were beautifully decorated in autumn leaves and mountain ash and several cozy corners were attractively arranged.

During the early evening refreshments were served and the people enjoyed themselves visiting and getting acquainted. A short program was given: Piano solo, Miss Charlotte Bockes; vocal solo, Miss Edna Leopold; reading, Miss Lucille Elliot, instructor of reading at the Roosevelt school; vocal solo, Miss Katherine Sutherland. The evening ended in an extremely informal dance.

CHINESE RELIGION WITHOUT GOD NOR PRAYER EXPLAINED

"Confucius, the great founder of the region without an individual God, and chief promoter of the ancestral worship which has bound up the progress of modern China, has a wider influence than any other teacher who ever lived and dominates one third of the human race," thus did Harold Urey, '18, epitomize Confucianism Saturday night in the second lecture in the Authentic society series of lectures on the religions of the world. The next lecture will be "Brahminism and Hinduism," by George H. Abbott, November 6.

"Confucianism has no god, no prayer, no after life in its teachings, and is purely a system of ethics," said Urey. "Character building is the purpose of the teachings, and correct morals, between the extremes of altruism and egoism, make the highest good."

Mr. Urey pointed out to an interested audience the five moral constants of the religion which are in order, the duty of subject to ruler, of son to father, of younger brother to elder, of wife to husband and lastly of friend to friend. In covering the immense field offered by the great religion of the Far East the speaker traced the history of ancient China, the contemporary events at the time of Confucius, 552 B. C. to 479 B. C., and also the modern development of the religion.

Ancestral worship and filial piety has until recently discouraged education in China, according to Mr. Urey. Nowhere else in the world can there be found such monuments to the dead and respect for things that are dead, rather than the vital movements of the day. Many quotations were used by the speaker to illustrate the teachings of Confucius, which in Chinese signifies "Great Master."

Pin Seller Is Goat for Theta Girls

He was just an ordinary fraternity jeweler, the kind that travels over the country each year to tempt loose change from the pockets of frat men everywhere. But he committed an error that spoiled all chances for sales at the Theta house when he left his grips on the porch.

This jeweler went to the Theta house in company with one of the men from a local fraternity chapter. He was young and good looking—most of his type are—and the girls assumed right away that he was a pledge from a frat house. From the time that the girls jumped to this assumption until he left the Theta abode, he imagined that Matteawan had jumped across the country.

No sooner had the agent taken off his hat than the girls started to "kid" him and put him up to fool stunts, such as they would anyone about to be initiated into the supposed mysteries of a Greek organization. He was squatted in front of the fireplace and his handsome face was more or less artistically decorated with smut and smudges; he was jeered at and jibed at; he was made most utterly miserable by the girls.

When it was all over, he signed his name in the guest book with the little sentiment, "I wonder who the goat was today," following his signature. Then he gathered his grips on the porch and left. Not until then did the fraternity man, who had escorted the jeweler to the house and who had been enjoying all the fun, tell the girls what the man's object in visiting the house had been.

COMMUNITY EXPERT TALKS

Attractive advertising as the big selling factor of the newspaper was the central theme of a talk made by George B. Irving, the community doctor from Chicago, before the journalism school last Thursday evening. Mr. Irving dwelt at length upon the relation of good advertising to the news columns and offered the encouragement of a business man to the journalistic aspirants in what he termed the "most serviceable of all professions."

"Advertisements are read more than editorials," said Mr. Irving. "More brain work is required to produce good ads than the best of news stories, and higher salaries are demanded by the expert ad writers than the best reporters."

Trade journalism is more potent in the business world than is the daily news sheet, according to the community doctor, and such popular magazines as the Saturday Evening Post are merely narcotics and superficial reading.
