Introduction

The purpose of this study was to provide the organizers of Evel Knievel Days with an understanding of their attendees and the total money spent in Butte during the event. The population of interest was attendees of Evel Knievel Days and the sample was random from that population. The survey locations were randomly picked and respondents were randomly approached. Of the attendees, 285 returned completed surveys.

Methods

Surveys were given to event goers by random selection so as to attempt to represent the whole population. The survey locations were randomly picked from the list of events offered each day of Evel Knievel Days. Volunteers were stationed at a randomized selection of events and intercepted people. The survey consisted of 31 questions (see Appendix A). People willing to fill out the survey were given a clipboard, pen, and a survey. Volunteers collected completed surveys.

Limitations

The small sample size (n=285) makes the results less reliable in generalizing to the entire population of Evel Knievel Days attendees.

Results

Of the 285 respondents, 221 were from Montana (78%), 56 were from out of state or country (see Tables 1 and 2), and eight people did not respond to this question. The mean age of respondents was 39.08 years. The mean group size was 4.92. Of those who responded to the survey, 109 reported that they spent a night or nights away from home. The mean of nights away from home was 4.52. The mean number of nights spent in Montana was 4.98, and 2.89 was the mean number of nights spent in Butte. Results of all other questions in this survey can be found in Appendix B.

Expenditures

Expenditure information was asked of all respondents. The survey asked that they report their best estimate of the total amount of money they and their family (if applicable) spent in Butte in the following categories: accommodations, food, transportation, retail/services, gratuity, entertainment/recreation, and licenses/entrance fees/admissions. The mean expenditure was figured according to the number of respondents who reported actually spending money in each individual category. The mean expenditure for each category can be found in Table 3 along with the number and percentage of people who reported that they spent money in that category. The mean expenditures are also shown considering the entire sample of 285. The total reported expenditure for respondents of this survey was $94,279.00.
