CHANCELLOR FAVORS GRADUATE MANAGER

ELLIOTT PROMISES SUPPORT FOR PROPOSED SYSTEM OF STUDENT CONTROL

PLAN WORKS ELSEWHERE

Committee Finds That All Northwest ern Schools But Montana Have Adopted It.

The question of a graduate manager system for the management of the A. S. U. M. affairs has received the hearty support of Dr. E. C. Elliott, chancellor of the University, according to the statement made by Payne Templeton, chairman of the committee appointed at the last meeting of the student body to investigate the conditions in the Northwest institutions concerning their method of handling student activities and to learn whether this method could be adapted to the present student business system of the A. S. U. M.

This committee, consisting of Payne Templeton, Edwin Stanley and Alva Baird, has investigated the business methods of handling student business in every other institution in the Northwest. All of them but Montana have adopted the graduate manager system or some similar arrangement.

Chancellor Elliott declared that he could see no reason why such a system should not be used at the University of Montana. The committee drew up a brief outlining the present system with its defects and pointing out the features of the proposed system for the use of the chancellor.

The graduate manager system of student affairs is simple in its plan. Rather than select each year a student manager who can devote only part of his time to the business of the A. S. U. M., a graduate or professional manager is selected who is paid a salary, to do this business required by the activities of the students. He is responsible to an executive committee or board of the students. The minimum salary would probably be $1,200.

COPY FOR BULLETIN GOES TO CHANCELLOR

Copy for the forthcoming bulletin and the advertising posters of the University summer school, were forwarded to Chancellor Elliott in Helena yesterday for his approval by Dr. J. P. Rowe of the geology department, director of the summer school. All University bulletins and publications of this kind are required to be submitted to the chancellor, who decides whether or not they shall be published, and if so, where and at what price.

CHARTER DAY BRINGS MANY VISITORS TO UNIVERSTIY

Yes, come right in, was the battle cry of peace at the University all last Friday afternoon. And they came in. Dozens and dozens of Missoula residents took advantage of the open house kept by the different departments of the University on the afternoon of Charter day to inspect the buildings and equipment.

In all departments students and instructors were on hand to explain the advantages and the needs of the school to the visitors. Refreshments were served in the parlors of Craig hall and at the domestic science cafeteria.

CO-EDS TRADE DANCES LIKE GREAT BIG MEN

GREAT DOIN'S FOR FRIDAY'S
LEAP YEAR PARTY
DOWNTOWN.

"Have you got a bid to the dance yet?"

"Well, I should say so! My girl asked me a week ago, and she said—"

"And who do you suppose asked me? I never though she even knew I existed—"

"And fellows, some one said the girls were going to make out the programs—"

"Have you got a dance for me?"

"How about the seventh?"

"Who are you going to take?"

"Just a minute—"

"Oh, I say, who will trade the third extra with me?"

And what is it all about? Why, The Dance, of course!

The Leap Year ball is at last a reality, and the plans for it are almost completed. It is to be held next Friday night in the Elks' hall, instead of the gym, as was reported. In one way it is to be a Red Letter occasion, for all the faculty are to be there—not only the bachelor members but the married men and their wives, too. And those who know, say that it will probably be the largest affair of the year.

The girls are finding out just what the boys have to do for each dance, and the boys are experiencing the feelings of the girls before a dance—minus the uncertainty of being invited

Campus Commissary Is Started by Sophs

Orr and Barnett Open Store in End of Y. M. C. A. Building.

"Orr & Barnett" is the sign that will appear over the new university store that is to occupy the west half of the Y. M. C. A. building on the campus. No longer will the students who long for candy and sweetmeats have to wait until classes are over before making their purchases, for they can slip into the kennel between classes and add to the firm's profits.

The store will be formally opened next Monday. Both members of the firm who are students have been planning for some time upon opening the store, but it was only last week that permission could be obtained from the Y. M. C. A. cabinet to rent the building. One clause in the rental contract keeps the boys from disposing of tobacco in any form on the campus. Only for this, they expected to do a good business with the fellows in dealing out the "pills."

The store will be open at all times of the day and a select line of stationary, candies, gum, ice cream, cakes, cookies and all that go to make the campus store a success will be carried.

And It Was All Caused by the Fall of Jesse

Boom! The dormitory quivered under the impact of a heavy force. The girls at the breakfast tables in the dining room of Craig hall rose to their feet with visions of bombs dropping from speeding aeroplanes, alcohol lamps exploding in the upper floors of the hall and destruction wrought by German sympathizers. "What's that," Mrs. Wilson demanded. Would it be repeated? Breakfast food remained untouched, waiters stood with trays poised in the air, expecting a second explosion. But nothing happened.

Professor Jesse came hurriedly down the steps leading to the dining room two minutes behind the time set for closing the doors. On the knee of each trouser there was a spot of dust. Mrs. Wilson saw it, looked at him and in a clear voice heard all over the dining room said "Did you fall up those steps just now?" Professor Jesse only smiled a sheepish grin. The danger was over and breakfast proceeded with all fears allayed.

SCHEUCH TO LECTURE ON SPANIARD TONIGHT

PRESIDENT WILL TELL OF HAB-

SPANISH

SLIDES ILLUSTRATE TALK

Pictures Shown of Gothic Cathedrals and Roman and Moorish Ruins.

The most beautiful cathedrals in the world, built in Gothic style, and the massive, ruined structures of the Moors and Romans in Spain, will be shown by stereopticon slides in a lecture given this evening in University hall by Acting President F. C. Scheuch on Spanish life and customs.

The mass of the people in Spain rank lower in civilization than those of China and the primitive habits of their remote ancestors still persist. The accommodations in Spain are so poor that tourists spend little time there and therefore the life and customs of this country are little known.

Professor Scheuch spent 10 years in Spain studying and has a thorough knowledge of his subject.

Ticket number six of the lecture series will be accepted for admission. For those not holding season tickets the admission price is 25 cents. The lecture will begin at 8 o'clock.

Wilsonites Form Society and Telegraph President

President Wilson was officially notified last night that the University of Montana with a membership of 21 students is ready and willing to carry his candidacy to the voters of Montana.

The Wilson club of the University of Montana, which is the first of a number of such organizations to be started in the universities of the country, elected officers and perfected the organization at a meeting held in the physics room of University hall yesterday afternoon. The officers are as follows: President, William Long, Vice-president, Stuart McHaffie; Secretary, Ben Riordan; Treasurer, J. F. Patterson. The club voted to admit women students at the University to membership on the same footing as men and appointed a publicity committee of three to arrange for meetings and to conduct a membership campaign. The club purposes to challenge the Roosevelt supporters to a debate to be held downtown between teams from each club. At the close of the meeting the club voted to telegraph an account of the organization together with an expression of confidence, to President Woodrow Wilson.

Faculty permission has been obtained by the new fraternity, which is the fourth local secret society on the campus and the third to be organized since the first of the year. The members of the new organization are: Earl Fowler, Frank Cassidy, Thomas Hawkins, William Russell, Guy Hunt, Martin Carlson, Paul Smith and Leo Horst.

MORT DONOGHUE ELECTED EDITOR

Mortimer Donoghue was elected editor of the 1918 Sentinel at a meeting of the sophomore class held in the Mathematics room at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Donoghue polled 19 votes to 14 for Joe Townsend.

April 3rd was the date selected for the Buckley oratorical at a meeting of candidates this noon.

COLUMBIA CHALLENGED TO DEBATE BY MONTANA

Debate—Montana vs. Columbia—perhaps.

If the plans of Will Long, manager of debate at the University materializes, the "perhaps" will be omitted. A challenge from Long is now on the way to the Columbia debaters who will meet the representatives of Southern California at Los Angeles April 14. The California debate will be hinged on the "preparedness" question, and Montana proposes to argue either side with the Columbia debaters on their return journey. It is hoped that the debate can be scheduled for the 21st of April.

FIRE GONG INSTALLED

An electric gong system has been ordered installed in Craig hall at once. Push buttons will be placed in prominent places on each floor, and in the basement and large fire gongs, connected with these buttons will be placed on each floor. Some system of fire drill will probably be started as soon as the bells are installed and working.

RELATIONS WITH BOZEMAN

The new eligibility rules for University athletes are printed in this issue of the Kaimin. They are the same as those offered to Bozeman for consideration when a request was made for a basketball contest last month. The rules were not considered stringent enough by the faculty committee of the Bozeman school. At that time many of us were not familiar with the rules ourselves and we felt we could not comment on the action of our former rivals.

Having read the rules we think we voice the sentiment of the students at the University when we say "we do not care to have any further relations of any sort with Bozeman." When we learned, last summer, that a contract for a football game was only a "scrap of paper" we withheld judgment; when we buried our pride and asked for a renewal of relations we felt that there might have been a misunderstanding in the town by the Gallatin.

Now we know better. Bozeman in her righteousness feels that the contact of her teams with ours would soil their clothes and corrupt their pure minds. Well and good, go your way brothers, and we shall go ours, but peace proposals will never flow eastward hereafter.

NISSEN ANNOUNCES ALL WRESTLING WEIGHTS

The weights for the wrestling tournament, which will be held about the middle of March, have been arranged by Coach Nissen. There will be eight divisions, according to the weight of the contestants.

The weights are as follows: 108 lbs., 115 lbs., 125 lbs., 135 lbs., 145 lbs., 158 lbs., 175 light heavy and heavy weight. Elimination contests will be held in a few weeks.

The BONEYARD

We wonder if Charles L. was one of the Valentines which found their way over to the dorm on the 14th.

Something New in Bozeman.

So says an ad in the Weekly Exponent. Town must be on the boom, hey Gossman?

The librarian was asked about a "Hit-or-Miss-Vocation. Why didn't she suggest the department of music.

"I broke into the newspaper game because I was. So said E. H. Cooney. We give the same excuse for this: Why is a Fourd like a bath tub? Because everybody needs one, but hates to be seen in it.

Our Own Craig Kennedy.

Why did the faculty pass the rules prohibiting robber dances? Perfectly obvious, Watson, my boy. They thought such dances would be too rough this year. It's leap year, you know."

Faculty Chestnuts.

No 1.

"As spring and warm weather are now coming on we will no longer discuss the negro question."—Prof Trexler.

"Do you give your yell leader an 'M'?" asked Chancellor Elliott at the get-together luncheon. "Powell certainly deserves one" he added. Did we hear a motion to that effect? We second it.

What Do Monuments Suggest?

And now we feel free to say the the Chancellor also proposed that a monument to Powell should be raised on the campus.

Not the least of the attractions at the mixer-feed was the troupe of soup-yodlers scattered about the dining room.

'Omer, the Campus Shed Builder. Wake! for Big Ben who stands upon the right, With jangling din doth tell that it is light, And barely time to make that early class Unless you mean to skip thy morning bite.

From all accounts the memory book fad was carried into the class rooms during the recent exams.

FRATERNITY MEMBERS

LEAD ON ROLL

Talk about your tradition smashers! When we read this head in our contemporary on the right and left, we thought that Powell, et al—no, Friday, we are not a law student—we thought Powell had gone and started a new dance. Instead we found it was the honor roll for good scholarship.

Our "Know Your University" Class. Who is the bill poster for convocation?

"Notice Juniors" advises our e. c., The Kaimin. Not while there are so many pretty freshman girls, Emmet.

Nominations in Order.

Last year the Order of the Billiard Ball was conferred upon Merrit Owsley, fifteen, for his heroic work in stealing third with the bases full in the game with W. S. C. last spring. "Punk" was tired of brushing the dust off the decoration in his homestead on the hillside at Hamer, Idaho and sent it to us the other day, C. O. D., of course. Too keep the ball a rolling we'll confer the order for this week on one of the pros.—we're afraid to mention his name,—who told his class in all seriousness the other day that "most people are normal."

RADICAL AND PROGRESSIVE ARE NEW BOOKS AT LIBRARY

Radical and progressive is the thought contained in the latest collection of books purchased by the University library, which arrived yesterday. Many of the most prominent socialistic and economic writers of the country are found among the authors represented in the collection which also includes works on literature, advertising, textiles, the war and current fiction.

The poems of Rupert Brooke, the young English war poet who died in the French hospital ship Scyros in April of last year after being wounded at the Dardanelles, are among the collection. In reviewing this volume in a recent number of the New Republic, Francis Hackett, one of the editors, says "In the present volume there is included a sympathetic and subtle estimate by George Woodberry, and a capable biographic note by Miss Margaret Laington. There is also a romantic portrait. But neither these last, with their unconscious emphasis on pathos nor the final poems should take one completely away from the treasures of Rupert Brooke's becoming. For he lives by these and by these too he is entitled to live."

Scott Nearing, whose trouble at the University of Pennsylvania has attracted nation-wide interest is the author of "Income," a plea for a just economic system in which the world's work shall reap full fruit of their labor. Dr. Nearing proposes to consolidate the incomes of all landlords, capitalists, and laborers into one property income in place of a service income. The new addition also contains a review of the Nearing case by Lightner Witmer, Professor of Psychology at the University of Pennsylvania. The book is a resume of the causes leading up to the discharge of Professor Nearing.

Anthology is represented in the collection by two volumes which are attracting considerable attention in the world of literature. These are "The Cry of Justice" by Upton Sinclair and an anthology of American magazine verse for the year 1915 by Braithwaite. The first of these contains the writings of philosophers, poets, novelists, social reformers and others who have voiced the struggle against social injustice through various languages for the last five thousand years.

Recent fiction to be found in the new shipment includes, "The Freeland," by Galsworthy, "The Turmoil" by Booth Tarkington, "The Harbor" by Ernest Poole, and "A Far Country" by Churchill.

Interesting books dealing with the great war are found in the collection. The most striking of these is "I Accuse" by a German writer who severely criticizes Germany. The dedication quotes "a pitiable wretch is he who knows the truth and yet can silent be." The author charges that the plans and the preparation for the present war have been made by Germany and Austria, and he says the object is to establish a hegemony on the continent and the acquisition of England's position of power in the world. The book has created much thought among the political thinkers of American. Another volume dealing with the war is Emile Verhaeren's passionate cry of hate, "Belgium's Agony."

BIGGEST HIT OF YEAR IS LUMBERJACKS' BALL

"You're pinched."

Six sheriffs, clad in the official garb of the law from Montana to the tropics, thus accosted the men dancers at the "lumberjack" hop in the gymnasium Friday night, pushed their victims before a stern judge at the end of the dance hall, and forced payment of a 50c fine at the point of a gun. Their's not to reason why, there's but to pay or die.

The forestry dance, given by the Forest school in honor of the short course men, was the big hit of the year, and goes on record as the most novel of all dances ever held in the University. For weeks the foresters planned the dance from the typical woods decorations of trees and "Watch-out-for-Fire" signs to the "lumberjack" feed in the Forestry building. The success of the evening is attested by 140 couples, who danced for the first time under sylvan branches as did their forebears of old.

Cowboy boots and open woolen shirts, Stetson hats and river packs, all the rough-and-ready wearing appurals of the "lumberjack" were to be seen on the floor.

The two most popular resorts for the non-dancers were the bar in full swing inside the gymnasium, at which cider and grape juice were served under more pretentious labels, and the immense log fire near the main entrance.

A striking feature of the dance was the program arrangement on wooden paddles. The numbers and the order of the dances were burned into the wood, making the paddles lasting souvenirs of the first forestry hop.

Bean salad, sandwiches and coffee made up the menu of the feed in the class rooms of the forestry building. The "lumberjack" effect was carried out even to the tinware on which the evening refreshments were served.

BONNER WRITES ON SURVEY FOR TECHNICAL MAGAZINE

"New Topographic Survey Methods for Rapid Work," by James H. Bonner, professor of forest engineering in the forest school at the University and Frank E. Bonner, chief of geography in District No. 1 of the United States Forest Service, is one of the leading articles in the current number of Engineering News.

The article describes in detail the radical changes which have been made in the time-honored methods of taking topography of timber lands through the experiments of the local office of the Forest Service. Both the clinometer, the instrument by which the angle of the slope is obtained, and the measuring tape have been improved.

Topographic surveys are figured on a basis on horizontal distances and as the old clinometer gave only the vertical angle, the correction for the true measurement had to be laboriously reduced from tables. The new clinometer gives the correction directly.

Instead of the old 2-chain tape, the Forest Service has introduced one 2½ chains in length. The extra half chain is a "trailer" and by means of it the correction obtained from the clinometer can be added onto the angular distance by merely extending the tape the distance required.

The new method has been given a severe try-out in the forests of Idaho and the results are spoken of as "truly marvelous." It has lessened the cost of the surveys, increased their speed and made them more accurate. Speaking editorially, the Engineering News highly commends the method outlined by the Bonners, saying that it is a "radical improvement in the field work of topographic surveying" and is "much more accurate than when hitherto done for this purpose."

George Wash's Hair but Gets No Gym Credit

He ducked his head under the running water, pulled off his collar and opened the first button in his shirt. "There! Now for that credit in gym," he said. Opening the door of the directors' office he sidled up to the desk and as he flipped one end of his tie over the other in the finishing flourish of a four-in-hand tie, he said, "Did you get me, Musty?" "No, were you out?" the director asked. "Till I'm all in," the stude replied. "All right, here's your ticket" Mr. Mustaine said, as he reached the athlete the strip of pasteboard. The junior took it, turned the knob in the door and started to go. As he pulled the door toward him his glance fell upon the calendar, tacked on the back of the door. The double red numeral stared at him. He hesitated, stammered and tossed the ticket back on the director's desk. "Lord, this is Washington's birthday," he said.

CO-EDS TRADE DANCES (Continued From Page One.)

at 7:30 the evening of the dance. "I hope," Mrs. Wilson was heard to remark, "That the boys will now realize just what it would mean to be asked at the very last moment. And I sincerely trust it will be such a lesson that they will never be guilty of asking a girl to go any place at the very last moment again."

MUSICAL NUMBERS COMING ON LOCAL LYCEUM COURSE

Today we are trying to keep ideals in art, literature and music though they are used for the support of ideals in many places that we are trying to overcome. The Missoula Lyceum committee has secured the best for its attractions this year obtainable from the Lyceum companies and deserves the support of the lovers of music for the two coming attractions. The next attraction is the Metropolitan Grand Quartet on Monday, February 28. This is one of the best male quartets on the Lyceum platform. The Schumann quintet comes on March 18. Nothing can better show their value than to state that in every place they have given a concert they have had a demand for a return engagement, and were applauded everywhere as the best on the Chatauqua platform throughout their engagement last season. —(Adv.)

BASKETBALL SEASON OVER

Washington State college defeated the Grizzlies 41 to 24 on the Washington State floor at Pullman last Thursday night. The game was hard fought, but close guarding and accurate basket shooting enabled Pullman to win.

During the first few minutes of play the Bruins led 10 to 0, but Washington rallied and the half ended 31 to 11 in favor of Pullman. The Grizzlies came back in the second half with fight and pep but were unable to overcome the big lead of their opponents, Washington winning 41 to 24.

Idaho Wins.

The University of Idaho defeated the Montana Grizzlies at Moscow last Friday night 22 to 18 in a hard fought and close game. The inability of the Bruins to score despite many chances caused them to lose the game. Dietrich was the star of the game, throwing three field goals.

Gonzaga Defeated.

The Grizzlies closed their basketball season last Saturday night with a victory over Gonzaga university in Spokane. The game was featured by close guarding by both teams, the final score being 17 to 13 in favor of the Bruins.

The first half was fast and the scoring was slow. Both teams failed to throw many fouls though many were called on each team. The half ended with the score 11 to 11.

The Grizzlies forged to a lead in the beginning of the second half which Gonzaga was unable to overcome, the game ending 17 to 13 in favor of the Bruins.

DOPE

The basketball season is over.

It was not a bad season as the record will show. The Varsity won 7 out of 10 games. Two of the games lost were when the team was without the services of "Red" Cummins. Again we state it was a good season.

The enrollment is limited

GONZAGA GAME TROUBLE EXPLAINED BY NISSEN

Montana Players Were Not Hissed
When They Left Floor.

With the return of the Grizzlies, the report of the first game with Gonzaga, which had caused much worry and talk among University students, was cleared up. Coach Jerry Nissen explained the situation saying that there was the best of feeling between the University and Gonzaga and that the report that Montana was hissed off the floor was untrue. The game, Nissen said, was awarded to Montana by Referee Hilderbrand after he had consulted the official scorers and found the score read 22 to 21 in favor of Montana.

The Spokane Chronicle, the evening after the game, contained the following explanation:

Rule Is Very Plain.

Rule 4 of Section 9 in the basketball rule book gives the game to the Montana team. The rule is as follows:

"The scorers shall record the goals made and the fouls committed, shall distinguish in their records between personal and technical fouls and shall notify the referee immediately when the fourth personal foul has been called on any player. Their record shall constitute the official score of the game.

"They shall compare their scores after each goal and any discrepancy shall be at once referred to the referee. If they fail to notify the referee at once the latter shall decide in favor of the smaller score unless he has knowledge that permits him to decide without reference to the scorers."

Says Score Official.

"The fact that two scorekeepers had the score 22 to 21 in favor of Montana at the close of the game, makes that score official according to the rule book," said Referee Hilderbrand today. "I knew nothing of the fact that a point was in question until after the contest ended and then it was too late to rectify the mistake. The rule book says the official scorers' score shall be official. The scorers failed to notify me of any discrepancy, as none showed on their books. The claim for the extra point was made after the game and according to the rules could not be allowed."

CHARTER DAY BRINGS MANY VISITORS TO VARSITY

Stone made the presentation speech. Chancellor Elliott in a short speech filled with feeling told his audience of a dream in which he pictured the dreamer seeing far into the future as the founder of the University had done and concluded by quoting the first verse of William Ernest Henley's "Invictus" as follows:

Out of the depths that cover me
Black as the pit from pole to pole
I thank whatever Gods may be
For my unconquerable soul.
Vocal selections by Edna Leopold and Clarence Ward completed the program.

ANACONDA DEFEATED

BASEBALL SCHEDULE WILL BE BIGGEST IN MONTANA'S HISTORY

The University of Montana will have the largest baseball schedule in its history this season. The only thing needed is the approval of the executive committee. The Bruins will invade the Northwest to play six of the games and six will be played at home.

Coach Nissen while on the basketball trip saw the managers of the different schools in the Northwest and arranged for the games. Definite dates will be announced as soon as the executive committees of the different schools pass on them.

The team will leave the last week in March on its conquest of the Northwest. Gonzaga will be played April 24, Washington the 25 and 26, Idaho the 28 and the last game will be played at Pullman, Saturday, April 29.

The University of Idaho will come to Missoula for two games the dates to be announced later. Gonzaga and Washington State will also come to Missoula for a series of two games.

Manager Collins is trying to arrange a series of practice games with Butte of the Northwest league.
