

University of Montana

ScholarWorks at University of Montana

---

University of Montana Course Syllabi, 2021-2025

---

Fall 9-1-2022

MUSI 395.24: Applied Study III - Voice

David T. Cody

University of Montana, Missoula, david.cody@umontana.edu

Follow this and additional works at: <https://scholarworks.umt.edu/syllabi2021-2025>

Let us know how access to this document benefits you.

---

Recommended Citation

Cody, David T., "MUSI 395.24: Applied Study III - Voice" (2022). University of Montana Course Syllabi, 2021-2025. 395.

<https://scholarworks.umt.edu/syllabi2021-2025/395>

This Syllabus is brought to you for free and open access by ScholarWorks at University of Montana. It has been accepted for inclusion in University of Montana Course Syllabi, 2021-2025 by an authorized administrator of ScholarWorks at University of Montana. For more information, please contact scholarworks@mso.umt.edu.

---

MUSI 195-495, 551

Applied/Performance Studies: Voice

---

Instructor: David Cody
E-Mail: david.cody@umontana.edu
Phone: (406) 544-2297
Office: Music 106
Office Hours: Tuesday & Thursday 9-10am

---

Course Syllabus

UM student Meghan Stroup performing in the concert room of the Corbelli Palace in Vienna, Austria (2019).

Overview

Students receive weekly one-on-one voice lessons culminating in a juried performance for the voice faculty at the end of the semester. Students develop vocal technique, musicianship, and artistry in the classical vocal tradition. My approach to voice lessons focuses on technique. Musicianship and artistry/interpretation are equally important, and will be developed as well, often integrated with aspects of technique.

Goals/Learning Outcomes

In addition to developing technique and artistry, my primary goals are to build upon each student's strengths and individuality. It is important for a young singer to be exposed to the different musical styles used in opera, art song, and musical theatre and to be aware of the expectations involved with them. Regardless of the repertoire you will sing, all of my students learn a technique that is based on healthy, efficient singing and beauty of tone.

Your main goal, simply put, should be to improve at a steady rate. Certain aspects of singing take longer to assimilate than others. Therefore, you should approach your lessons and practice sessions with a blend of diligence and patience. This is only the first step in a four-year process. However, you should finish the semester a better singer than you were at the beginning. You should notice definite improvements in all aspects of vocal technique (posture and breathing, range, beauty of tone, flexibility of style, control of registration and dynamics, and freedom from tension) as well as artistry (character and communication, confidence, emotive ability). You should also be able to monitor your progress by the feedback you receive at auditions, master classes, and juries.

Making music is one of life's greatest joys. Making music will not only give personal satisfaction, it will unleash your creativity, enhance your collaborative and communicative skills, and improve readiness for a variety of careers.

Requirements - What I require from you is:

- A strong desire to learn and improve.
- A willingness to try new things.
- An attitude that promotes learning and communication.
- Prompt attendance at each lesson.
- To prepare repertoire for Juries per the requirement
- To arrange a piano accompanist for lessons and jury.

Like any discipline, singing requires hard work and time. I still believe in the old adage: You get out of it what you put into it. I expect you to practice outside of lessons a minimum of one hour a day, and demonstrate your progress at each lesson. I will assist you by giving you specific tasks and goals for your practice sessions.

Evaluation

You will be evaluated on your:

- Attendance and preparation to all scheduled lessons.
- Steady improvement throughout the semester
- Performance at the Voice Jury.

My Commitment

Materials

You will need to keep your repertoire, syllabus, vocal warm-ups, and other materials in a 3-ring binder, which you will bring to each lesson. Also bring a pencil and water, and something with which to record your lessons. Most students use an app on their smartphones.

Supplemental Activities

---

Sound Recordings and Videos

I encourage you to listen to recordings and videos of your repertoire, but be careful that it isn't your only method of learning your music and lyrics.

Audition Video

You are required to make a mock audition video by the end of the semester. I suggest reserving Studio I in the Mansfield Library. This will enhance your auditioning skills and as well as your use of video and audio technology.

---

Singing with an accompaniment

Due to COVID-19 restrictions, I am limiting the occupancy of my studio to 2 persons until the university reviews its policies on September 20th. I will be using recorded accompaniments and playing the piano for your lessons. If and when certain restrictions are lifted, you will need to secure a pianist, who will accompany for your some of your lessons and your voice jury. There are student piano majors who are required to accompany one student per semester, free of charge. Otherwise, there are accompanists who charge a fee.

Studio Policies

---

Missed Lessons

Please notify me in advance if you have to miss a lesson due to illness or other unforeseen circumstances, and we can schedule a make-up lesson. There may be a couple of dates when I am out of town on recruiting trips. Lessons missed due to my absences will be made up.

---

Lessons & Coachings with Other Teachers

It is my job to train you in all aspects of technique and artistry in an environment that is safe, supportive, and comfortable. Singing can be a highly emotional art form, and singers are expected to move audiences with their performances. It takes courage, confidence, and trust to learn how to bear one's soul in live performance. Therefore, I want you to know that I am in your corner. I want you to regard me as a supporter, a mentor, and one who has your best interests at heart. I will be demanding and task oriented but I also try to adapt my delivery to each student's individuality and goals.

I am a firm believer in a student working with one voice teacher at a time. Regular lessons on vocal technique from two different teachers in one semester can lead to contradictory advice and confusion, and it is not something I condone in my studio. Coaching on style and interpretation is another matter, and students will receive feedback from other instructors and vocal coaches. This is fine, and common practice.

Repertoire

Repertoire is assigned for the following reasons.

- To develop the technique of singing
- To build the student's knowledge of different genres and song styles
- To discover and develop the student's individuality, talents and strengths
- To challenge the student but also allow for a successful performance by the end of the semester.

Students in Applied Studies: Voice will work predominantly on classical vocal repertoire. I may choose to also assign repertoire from musical theatre to broaden vocal ability and knowledge of repertoire and styles.

Jury/Repertoire Requirements

Freshmen (MUSI 195): a minimum of 3 memorized complete songs: at least one in a language other than English.

Sophomores (MUSI 295): a minimum of 5 memorized complete songs

Juniors (MUSI 395): a minimum of 5 memorized complete songs

Seniors (MUSI 495): a minimum of 6 memorized complete songs

Note: I take great care in choosing repertoire for my students. If you have a specific song or aria you want to bring into your lesson, it needs to be done in collaboration with me. At the beginning of each semester, we will discuss your goals, and repertoire will be chosen to help us meet them. In other words, the songs you sing in lessons and in the practice room need to satisfy the above bullet points.

Practice Rooms

Practice rooms are located on the bottom floor of the Music Building. They are accessible with a door code, which you can get from the Music Office. Some of the practice rooms are still under construction, but most are available for use.