HONOR SOCIETY AT UM INITIATES LOCAL FRESHMEN STUDENTS

MISSOULA —

The University of Montana—Missoula Chapter of Alpha Lambda Delta, a national honor society for freshmen, recently initiated 36 students from Montana and around the nation who maintained an exceptional grade-point average during their first semester at UM.

Among those initiated are elementary education major David James "D.J." Colter of Hvsham, son of Bill and Cyndy Colter; radio/television major Ryan Josserand of Colstrip, son of Joe and Grace Josserand; and Kelsi Karlin of Big Timber, a health and human performance/pre-physical therapy major whose parents are Rolland and Lianna Karlin.

Also initiated were business major Nancy Marie Nelson of Scobey, daughter of Marvin Nelson and Cecilia Raaum; general studies major Elizabeth Parry of Forsyth, daughter of Ellis and Deb Parry; business major Whitney Reynolds of Harlowton, daughter of Mardi and Gary Reynolds; and pre-physical therapy major Jennifer Kay Stott of Shepherd, daughter of Thomas and Colleen Stott.
