MODEL UNITED NATIONS NETS MISSOULA STUDENT SCHOLARSHIP

MISSOULA--

Katie Ramsey, a senior at Sentinel High School in Missoula, earned a $350 scholarship for her performance during the 32nd-annual Montana Model United Nations held Nov. 25-26 on The University of Montana-Missoula campus. Ramsey was one of 20 students selected for the award during the event, which was attended by 350 students from 19 schools across the state.

During the Montana Model United Nations, students presented and debated resolutions they had researched about international topics -- everything from banning the production and storage of biological weapons to ending Thailand's sex trade. They also took part in an International Court of Justice, which weighs cases just as a court would, and took in presentations by community members, UM professors and international students attending UM.

Ramsey will receive the scholarship if she elects to attend UM. The countries her school was assigned to study for MMUN were Belgium, Chile, Estonia, Madagascar, Thailand and the United States.
