"M" MEN FAVOR SINKING FUND

Adopt Resolution Opposing Proposed Athletic Amendment Whereby Surplus Reverts to Central Board.

The "M" club went on record yesterday as being opposed to the proposed amendment to the constitution of the A. S. U. M. whereby the surplus left in the treasury of the athletic board at the end of each year reverts to the central board. A resolution to this effect was proposed and passed unanimously.

The club also decided to propose a sinking fund for athletics. By this the surplus each year would be made a part of the fund. It was also the proposal of the club to place control of this money in the hands of a graduate manager.

"At the present time," said Fred Daylis, president of the "M" club, "Montana has to go to other institutions for their big games as they cannot make a guarantee large enough to bring the teams here. This is because of the present budget plan in force here, whereby a certain amount of money is allotted each year to athletics by the central board."

"Other schools have a sinking fund, and there is no reason why Montana cannot have the same. A sinking fund would enable Montana to bring such teams as Oregon Agricultural College, the University of Washington, and even California, to Missoula."

"There is no incentive," continued Mr. Daylis, "for the graduate manager to save out of the budget allotted each year for athletics,—the system now used."

Professor W. E. Schreiber was present at the meeting and he endorsed the policy adopted by the club.

As to giving the band some suitable recognition for their services the club were in favor of it but they were against giving them sweaters.

Band to Give Concert Soon

The University Band plans to give another concert soon, according to Homer M. Parsons, leader. The date of this concert will be announced later.

The band is progressing very rapidly in its work. The new instruments which were ordered some time ago have arrived and are now in use. Some of the old instruments have been repaired. Plans are being made by the R. O. T. C. to issue uniforms to the band as soon as possible.

The band furnished music for the high school at the football game between The Lewis and Clark high school of Spokane and the Missoula high school, last Saturday.

Sigma Upsilon to Support Frontier

Homer M. Parsons of Missoula was elected president of Ye Mermaid Inn chapter of Sigma Upsilon, national literary fraternity, at a meeting held Sunday at the home of Richard Underwood.

Richard Underwood was elected secretary-treasurer and Lloyd Thompson, historian.

Resolutions were drawn up by the society pledging its active support to the "Frontier," the campus literary magazine.

Co-ed Prom to Take Form of Country Fair

The Co-ed prom this year is to be the best ever staged, according to an announcement made by members of the committee who are in charge of the affair. The prom this year will be held Friday night, November 5. All women students will be admitted free of charge providing they have paid their W. S. G. A. dues.

The usual custom at the prom every year has been for the girls to come dressed in fancy clothes and spend the entire evening dancing. Miss Dorothy Moore, who is in charge of the prom this year, has announced that this plan will not be followed this year.

Instead the prom will take the form of a country fair. Every woman's organization on the campus will be given a chance to have exhibitions, stunts, and in fact everything that would be in order at such an affair. This part of the program will be held on the upper floor of the gym and at the same time there will be dancing on the main floor.

"We want it to be the biggest and best prom that the girls have held here," said Lillian Christensen, who is on the committee in charge. "For that reason we are anxious that all new girls as well as the old students attend. We will promise them a good time."

Arrangements for Elections Friday

Arrangements are being made by the officers of the A. S. U. M. to hold the balloting on the amendments to the constitution next Friday. The balloting will be done the same as for regular student elections. The regular Australian ballot will be used.

The constitutional amendment which was proposed to govern the Athletic board will not be placed on the ballot. William Hosking, assistant State Auditor, is at the university at present working on a system of accounting for the A. S. U. M. and until the new system is installed action will not be taken on the proposed amendment.

Directory Will Come Out Soon

The material for a student directory will be posted in the vestibule of the south door of Main hall today according to Edwin Bailey.

He requested that all students look up their own names and hand in any corrections at the telephone booth as soon as possible.

The directory will contain the name, class, major, Missoula address, telephone number, and home address of each student.

Good Scores at R. O. T. C. Shoot

Interest in the practice shooting at the rifle range is increasing according to Sergeant William Truman of the R. O. T. C. About 21 students were out for the practice shoot last Saturday. Most of the men turned in good scores.

Tracer ammunition is used to aid in range finding. After this instruction the men practice shooting. Saturday the men shot five rounds apiece at 200 yards. Usually, 10 rounds are shot at this range. When the men become more proficient they will be tried out on the longer and shorter ranges, according to Sergeant Truman.

Francis Cooney and Omar W. White added spice to the shoot Saturday. They shot for a side bet of twenty-five cents. The competition was a tie up till the last shots when Omar shot a "five" and Cooney shot a "six o'clock four."

GRIZZLIES FACE HARD STRUGGLE

Reports Indicate Game With Whitman Saturday Will Be "Tough One"—Beat Them Last in 1916.

"Beat Whitman! It's up to you to win this game! Beat Whitman!" shouts the sign in the gymnasium locker room. The Montana Grizzlies and their student supporters intend that this slogan will become a fact when Whitman meets the Grizzlies on Dornblazer field Saturday.

The Whitman aggregation, boasts of one of the heaviest and fastest teams in the northwest and Walla Walla newspapers report that the Washington team hopes to repeat last year's triumph.

Whitman was defeated by Bagshaw's Sun-dodgers October 8 by one touchdown after a hard battle. Saturday, however, the Walla Walla Missionaries were fortunate to nose out the College of Idaho eleven, 17 to 13. Whitman lost their first game this year 6 to 13 to the Multnomah Club. In this contest the Whitman touchdown came after spectacular runs of more than 40 yards.

Five Montana players are on the injured list but some of them will be in the Grizzly lineup Saturday. They are "Jimmie" Lambert, Jim Dorsey, "Jelly" Elliot, Ray Murphy, and Ted Plummer.

Montana has a score to settle with the Walla Walla outfit. The last time the Grizzlies defeated the Missionaries was in 1916, when the score was counted 17 to 0. Last year Whitman won 13 to 7; in 1917 they trimmed the Grizzlies 14 to 3, while in 1919 the game ended in a 6 to 6 tie.

Coach Borleske's squad averages 183 pounds which means that the Grizzlies will face a team 20 pounds heavier to the man when they play the only home conference game here Saturday. There are eight old faces on the Whitman regular team.

SOPHOMORES HOSTS TO UNIVERSITY STUDENTS

The Sophomores will be hosts to the students of the University at a dance given in honor of the Freshmen on November 4, according to plans completed at the meeting of the Sophomore class Monday afternoon. Eugene McKinnon is in charge of the dance committee and he has engaged Sheridan's orchestra to furnish the music.

Other business at the meeting included the appointment of the following members of the Sophomore Executive committee by the class President, Roger Deeney: Annie M. McAuliffe, Helen Ramsey, and Francis Peterson. The class officers are ex-officio members of the committee. The Committee is empowered to act for the class in all matters and this eliminates the necessity of calling the whole class together to decide what business matters come up.

Arrangements for the collection of the class dues were also completed at this meeting. The dues are 50c and every Soph is expected to contribute. The simple dress program of the Juniors and Seniors was also discussed but the Sophomores decided to take no action until the other classes act.

Roger Deeney the class president also read a communication from Oakley Coffee manager of the A. S. U. M. regarding the special train to Bozeman to the meeting but no official action regarding this was taken by the class.

State University Capital Property To Be Checked Up

All of the capital property of the state university including land and improvements, buildings, furniture, books and apparatus will be appraised, listed in an inventory, and branded as state property between now and the first of the year, according to University officials.

The work is being done under the direction of the state auditor. Each department will be charged with all property not of a consumable nature which is used in the department. At any time that an instructor or professor leaves a department he must get a card from the head of the department clearing him from responsibility for state property. Likewise when the head of department leaves he must account for all property charged to him.

This is the first time that a complete inventory has ever been taken. According to the instructions from the state board of education the inventory will be made each year hereafter and additions, changes or losses of property will be verified.

Thomas Swearingen, maintenance engineer at the University, will supervise the inventory. He will appoint a few assistants. It is expected that it will require several months to have the lists complete.

Arrangements for Train to Bozeman

Final arrangements have been made for a special train to carry university students and local people to Bozeman November 11 for the University-Aggie game. A table will be placed in Main hall to give students an opportunity to sign up for the trip. Lists will also be made up by the sororities and fraternities. Unless a sufficient number designate their intention of taking advantage of the fare reduction the special can not be obtained.

Under present plans the train will leave here at 6:30 in the morning and reach Bozeman about noon. It will return at any time which those who make the trip specify.

From the present outlook it seems that the University band will make the trip with the team, according to A. S. U. M. officials.

All Ex-Service Men to Meet

A meeting of all ex-service men whether vocational students or not is to take place next Friday at 4:05 in the main hall, the object of the meeting will be to decide upon an Armistice day program and a military ball.

De loss Smith, Dean of the music department, with Rev. Jesse Lacklen, pastor of the Methodist church, are working on a program for the ceremony in general, nothing definite will be known for a week according to Professor Smith.

All Houses to Have Proctors

Few proctors responded to the call issued by Lillian Christensen, president of W. S. G. A., to bring reports from their respective homes yesterday. She deems it important that every house where University girls are living choose a proctor immediately who must, hereafter, leave the reports at the desk in the woman's rest room before four o'clock on Tuesdays at which time the women's board meets.

"I want to see all the girls cooperating to make this new proctor system successful by being prompt in attending to this matter," said Miss Christensen.

Mrs. T. Thompson of Twin Bridges has been at Craig hall with her daughter Lenore for a couple of days.

EFFICIENCY TEST GIVEN TO WOMEN

University women who have applied for work as stenographers are being tested by the school of business administration for their efficiency. Eight have passed with a grade of A. Others are being tested today.

"After these tests are given, I can send a competent stenographer to any business man who needs one to do a few hours' work a day and I know she will do satisfactory work," stated Mrs. Harriet R. Sedman, dean of women, who is in charge of women's employment.

The names of the women are filed in Mrs. Sedman's office according to their grade and previous experience. A note is made as to the kind of work she has done before.

CAST THAT VOTE!

The election which has to do with the accepting or rejecting the proposed amendments of the A. S. U. M. constitution will be held Friday of this week the balloting to take place in the Administration building.

Whether or not each student casts his vote depends entirely upon that student's interest in the well being of the State University of Montana.

It is quite probable that the amendments in their entirety are not generally understood by the student body. That is of minor importance because many of them are mere technicalities at best. There are however certain cisions to be made that affect the institution in a way that is not to be denied. Watch out for these, they have been discussed before and every one is, or should be familiar with them.

Every member of the associated students of this institution, and that means every student, is duty bound to cast a vote. Meet that obligation.

A STEP FORWARD.

Mrs. Harriet R. Sedman, dean of women, working in conjunction with the Womens Self Government Association deserves the commendation of the students for the common sense system of government which has been included in the new rules regarding the conduct of the University women.

It will be remembered that under the old code certain conditions which had to do with the entertainment of gentlemen friends implied that our women students were not capable of taking care of themselves and was, we think, directly opposed to the consideration that the daughters of Montana, blest with the dignity and judgment which good rearing instills, should receive.

These new rules assume that the attitude of the university environment is healthy and clean and do not lead an outsider to believe that the morals of the University women are such as to require regulations to govern their individual social conduct.

Mrs. Warren McNinch of Great Falls spent Wednesday and Thursday with her daughter Opal at Craig hall.

Invitations have been issued to a Halloween party to be given at Craig hall Saturday night the 29 of October. The party is to be given by the girls that live in the hall for the girls who take their meals there.

The Cosmos, student newspaper of Coe college in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, recently celebrated its thirty-first anniversary. Its first edition appeared October 15, 1890 in magazine form and its publication was supervised by the Honorable James A. Good, former congressman from Iowa and at present a lawyer in Chicago. The second edition did not appear for nearly a year and it was edited by Miss Elizabeth R. Cock, the first Iowa woman to edit a college paper. In 1912 the Cosmos became a regularly published newspaper and for the past nine years has been fostered by students and teachers of journalism classes. The faculty and student council plan to elect a supervisory board from the student body and the faculty to take charge of the publication this year.

A William Penn pageant was presented by the students of Penn college in Oskaloosa, Iowa, as a part of the recent nineteenth annual celebration. The freshmen were in charge of the scene showing the influence which led Penn to become a Quaker; the sophomores acted the scene showing the gay court life for which Penn was groomed by his ambitious father; the juniors' scene represented Penn meeting the Dutch and Swedish settlers just after his landing in America; and the fourth scene, acted by the seniors, showed Penn making his treaty with the Indians.

Foundations for five of the new buildings provided for Montana State college through the bond issue for the state institutions will be completed this fall. The first floor slab of concrete for the new biology building will also be laid this fall. Water struck in excavating for every building has necessitated much extra work.

Columbia university plans to have three stadiums on its new 26-acre athletic field. The football amphitheater will have a seating capacity of 56,000, the track stadium 10,000 and the baseball stands 7,000.

The State University of Iowa held its second annual "Hello day" this month. The Y. W. and Y. M. C. A. provided all students and faculty members in the morning with cards on which their names were written and during the day it was the duty of everyone to say, "Hello," as often as possible and get acquainted with as many as possible.

Voting almost unanimously in favor of student action in support of world disarmament, 1,200 students of Pennsylvania State college in mass meeting have started a movement which is expected to include every college and university in the United States. It is planned to send a few selected delegates from each school to demand definite action from the conference in Washington. Pennsylvania State college students have raised about $2,000 for European student relief.

The new gymnasium at Montana State college is being built where the old track was as a consequence there may be no Bobcat track team this year, according to Coach D. V. (Tubby) Graves. The gymnasium will be ready to use at the beginning of the winter quarter, 1922-23, it is expected.

The seventh national convention of Sigma Delta Chi, men's national honorary journalistic fraternity, is to be held at Iowa State college in Ames November 10, 11 and 12. About 100 delegates from the 40 chapters are expected. At the same time the alumni of the fraternity will meet at Ames, a plan being tried for the first time.

The State University of Iowa football victory of 14 to 2 over the University of Illinois was witnessed by a crowd of 15,000 homecomers, the largest number of people that ever gathered on Iowa field. Features of the Homecoming were: a boulevard ball on the new asphalt pavement in front of the men's gymnasium; a fireworks display; a pageant showing the university's past, present and future; and the 50-cent hot lunch served on the campus to the visitors by church women. Eight temporary kitchens and a coffee booth were

Commissions to All Austrians Upon Enlistment

Life in the Austrian army is one big snap, according to word received from Radcliffe Beckwith, Rhodes Scholar who is now attending Oxford University in England.

During the summer months Beckwith spent his time touring southern Europe and visited many of the big cities as well as their universities. According to his letter there are more officers in the Austrian army than there are privates. Every man who joins the army gets a commission, the officials being afraid of a revolt if the man is not made an officer.

He stated that he left Budapest only the night before the big revolt was started in which hundreds of citizens were killed. "Revolts and riots," he stated in the letter, "are the best thing that the European people stage."

More than 4,425 students have already enrolled at the State University of Iowa this fall. Last year's total was 4,275. A heavy fine assessed against late registrants caused more students to return before the first registration day than ever before. The methods used to handle crowds in the street railway stations in Brussels were adapted by the university for registering students this fall. Semi-military supervision was also used to prevent confusion during enrollment. The new registration plan was suggested by C. F. Ward of the university faculty who had seen the Brussels railway station methods in use.

The first brick in the new metallurgical building at the Montana State School of Mines was laid by President George Craven Friday morning, October 21. Officials hope to have the building ready for occupying by the beginning of the second semester in January. Erection started in 1919 but was halted for lack of funds. Passage of the bond issue measure last fall made possible the resumption of work this fall. The building will cost about $250,000.

Classes in economics, psychology, trade union history and related subjects are being taught at the labor college held in Central Labor Union hall in Springfield, Massachusetts. War Veteran Gets Peace-Time Shock

"Oh Gosh! It's a girl!" groaned Norman Means, University student and World war veteran, as he handed a letter to two of his friends in the postoffice Saturday. Then he sank weakly to the window sill and shook his head. Means was married last year on his return from France, wounded and shell shocked, to Miss Ruth E. Houk of Indiana, Pa.

Means, who is studying forestry, will journey east to see his daughter in November, returning with his family later in the month. They will make their home in Missoula.

"It might at least have been twins or maybe triplets," stated Means, sorrowfully. At any rate he recuperated sufficiently, according to fellow students, to give around some excellent cigars.

Rudolph O. Hoffman Graduate of University of Ghent; Served U. S. in War; Is Making New Texts

Rudolph O. Hoffman, assistant professor of Modern Languages, has had an interesting career in the field of educational endeavor. He was born in the historical Belgian town of Ghent, the son of a professor in the university there, where he grew to manhood and prepared for the teaching of Modern languages. During the war he was in the services of his native country until 1915, when he came to the United States and offered his aid to them upon their entrance into the struggle. Since that time he has chosen the United States as an adopted country and has been made a full fledged citizen. It would be hard to find a more enthusiastic and loyal supporter.

Mr. Hoffman went successively through the Ecole Moyenne de l'Etat (State primary and secondary school), the Athenee royal (State secondary school and college), and the University de l'Etat (State University), all at Ghent. He took the degree of H. C. (Humanities Completes), the equivalent of our B. A. in 1907. In 1910 he received the degree of Ph. C. (Candidat en Philosophie at lettres), the equivalent of our M. A., in the State University of Ghent. He was fully prepared to teach English, Netherlands and German, which languages he speaks with perfect ease. When the war broke out, Mr. Hoffman, being a member of the Belgian Garde Civique, a semi military organization, was called out for duty.

In October, when the invasion of Belgium was almost complete the Belgian government disbanded all the guard units at Bruges. From there he went to Glasgow, Scotland where he was employed as interpreter by the Corporation of Glasgow Office for Belgian Refugees. In 1915 he came to the United States and was appointed an instructor in French at Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill. In 1916 he taught the same subject in the Kansas State University, at Lawrence. Here he registered for the draft without claiming any exemption and was placed in the limited service class. From 1917 to 1920 he was head of the Modern Languages department of the Grand Rapids Junior College in Michigan, a young municipal institution. Before coming to Montana, he taught for a year and a half in the University of Wisconsin, taking a new M. A. degree, this time in Romance languages. He is now working on the first of a series of French college texts of a type quite out of the ordinary.

Professor Hoffman is an admirer and sincere enthusiast of the United States. On August 29 he was officially made a citizen. When asked what he thought of Montana, he replied, "Western Montana is probably the pearl, the gem of this great Northwest. Never did my eyes behold more beautiful scenery. Let us by all means save the majestic grandeur of the Montana landscape."

Summary of a survey of women's work in journalism made recently by the department of agricultural journalism of Iowa State college shows that 39 managing editors in typical offices of varying sizes employ 217 women and 1097 men. Each office employs at least one woman and the largest number of women working in any one office is 39. The average number in an office is five and six tenths and approximately one woman is employed to every five men. One office reported that its staff consisted of five women and 10 men, the largest proportion of women mentioned. Queries were sent to 100 managing editors and 39 answered.

Dissenters Quit Hot Meeting of Vocational Men

After a sharp exchange of remarks which at times became heated, a large majority of the vocational students voted for the second time in favor of joining the Disabled American Veterans of the World War, while about half a dozen dissenting members of the All-American Club bolted their meeting Friday evening in the Forestry building.

Although the question of joining the national veterans' order had been settled at a meeting of the vocational men on the preceding Friday, when by a unanimous vote a motion to ask for a charter was carried, a call for a meeting to reconsider was issued by George Weideman, temporary chairman. Mr. Weideman called the second meeting at the request of a number of men who were unable to attend the one held a week before. The motion to reconsider was the cue for an uproar, during which charges of the disseminating of insidious propaganda was hurled at one or two of those who wished to revive the All-American Club.

When the vote was arrived at, and the result ascertained, the chairman withdrew, and, although he was the object of several pointed statements, he was followed by six men from the meeting.

A committee of four men was appointed to draw up the application for the charter, and a meeting has been called for 5 o'clock in the journalism building for the purpose of completing the temporary organization of the local chapter of that national organization.
