ALUMNI WILL SHARE KNOWLEDGE WITH STUDENTS AT LEADERSHIP LUNCHEON

MISSOULA--

University of Montana alumni will share the secrets of their professional success with current UM students at an upcoming series of campus luncheons.

Students are invited to attend the Ask-An-Alum Career Leadership Luncheon from noon to 1 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 5, in the University Center. The luncheon is free and space is limited to 50 participants. To RSVP, call 243-4795 by Sept. 4.

Each luncheon will feature an alumni panelist who will share his or her career and leadership experiences with students to illustrate importance of campus involvement. The goal of the luncheon series is to show students how skills gained from internships, volunteer work and employment can help prepare them for the working world.

The series continues with monthly luncheons in October and November 2001 and in February, March and April 2002. The October luncheon will focus on alumni and students of the School of Pharmacy and Allied Health Sciences, while November's luncheon features the School of Business Administration.

Alumni interested in participating in future luncheons may call Sarah Raymond at 243-6150 for more information.

The Ask-An-Alum Career Leadership Luncheon series, now in its third year, is sponsored by UM's Center for Leadership Development, the Office of Career Services, the Alumni Association and the Associated Students of The University of Montana.
