WOMEN DEBATE NORMAL TEAM

University Girls Uphold
Negative of Child Labor Question

"Resolved, that the present child labor amendment as proposed and rejected by the several states, should be adopted," will be the subject under discussion between the University and the Dillon State Normal women's teams Thursday evening, February 4, in the Main hall auditorium, at 8 o'clock. As this is a dual debate, the affirmative team will remain here and the negative debaters will meet the Normal team in Dillon on the same night. Admission is free to everyone.

Clare Flynn, Pauline Astle and Elsie Blair have been selected by H. M. Keele, coach, to support the affirmative of the proposed amendment here; Dorothy Quigley, Marian Hall, Liz Maury and Olivia O'Leary will go to Dillon. Although the team membership is open to any University women, all the debaters named, with the exception of Olivia O'Leary, are freshmen.

Open Subject to Discussion
Speeches will follow the usual form of 10 minutes constructive talking and five minutes for rebuttal. The debate will be an open forum, non-decision contest. H. M. Keele, debate coach, has been meeting with the debaters regularly in their work preliminary to the debate. This program will go on the air in accordance with the previously announced plan of broadcasting all debates.

The recent freshman men's debate, between Montana State College and the University, was upon approximately the same question. The negative was upheld at that time by the University team, while the affirmative, as stated above, will be debated by the home team next Thursday.

SCABBARD AND BLADE HOLDS BUSINESS MEETING

Pledging was discussed during a meeting of Scabbard and Blade, national honorary military fraternity for men, held in the ROTC building Sunday at 3 o'clock. Although it was not definitely decided to take in any more men at the present time, there was some talk of initiating men now pledged to the fraternity. There are at present but two men eligible for the ceremony, Richard Davis and Maynard Torrence.

It was decided to keep in closer contact with the alumni of the organization by means of circular letters and through that medium to make the local chapter of the fraternity as strong as possible.
R. P. Rea, battalion commandant, is captain of the local company of the fraternity.

VIVIAN LEWIS WINS AWS SONG CONTEST

To Be Awarded With a Banner at Meeting of AWS Tradition
Committee

AWS song contest was won by Vivian Lewis, a freshman at North hall, majoring in the School of Music, according to an announcement made yesterday by the committee in charge. Miss Lewis will be presented with a banner, which was offered as an award for the winning song, at a Traditions committee meeting which will be held this evening at North hall, under the direction of Annabelle Desmond.

The contest was opened January 18, in an effort to revive an interest in singing at the University. The requirements of the contest were: That the song be short, comprising about two verses; that the words be original, and that the subject be the University of Montana. The music was to be either composed or selected.

Following are the words of the song written by Miss Lewis:
Montana! Here's to You!
There's a school in the heart of the golden west,

'Neath the blue Montana skies,
And of all good schools it's by far the best,

It is praised by men most wise,
It's the place to go if you want to grow

In spirit, soul and mind,
And from coast to coast, none can ever boast

Of another of its kind.

Montana! Here's to you!
We'll be ever loyal, true;
With the stars above shining o'er our heads,

Montana! Here's to you!

INCREASED POWER USED IN KUOM TEST

KUOM, on the first night of the international broadcast tests, created considerable disturbances in the receiving sets of Missoula radio fans. The increased power, used in an effort to span the Atlantic, literally deluged the local listeners with an over supply of volume.

Local atmospheric conditions were not favorable to long distance transmission, and it is not yet known what the final range which the station established, will be. According to the staff, definite information will not be at hand for at least two weeks.

Regular Power Better

Regular power was used in the Saturday night test with much better results. At this time, all of the stations in the northern part of the United States were on the air at the same time. It is the opinion of G. D. Shallenberger, director of the station, that there is little likelihood of KUOM's having reached Europe on that night, due to the fact that there are many powerful transmitting stations between Missoula and the Atlantic seaboard.

Three microphones were used in broadcasting the Chamber of Commerce banquet for the YWCA last night. This is the first time that the experiment has been tried, and its success will determine the broadcast policy to be adopted in the future.

JOURNALISTS PLAN HISTORY OF ALUMNI

Plans for writing a history of the Alumni of Sigma Delta Chi, men's national journalistic fraternity, will be discussed at a meeting of the organization Sunday afternoon, February 7, at the Journalism shack.

This will be the first step in gathering a history of former journalism students. The idea originated at the Press club banquet. Letters will be written to alumni of the groups as soon as possible.

TOWN CLUB PROGRAM BROADCAST BY KUOM

KUOM, University broadcasting station, aired the banquet program of the Missoula Chamber of Commerce last Monday night.

Irving E. Vining, President of the Oregon State Chamber of Commerce, was the principal speaker of the evening. Mr. Vining has spent 15 years in research work for firms of New York City and during the World War, travelled over the Northwest speaking on commerce, and devoting his time to general business advancements.

Music for the banquet was furnished by the Missoula High School orchestra. Vocal solos and quartet numbers were given by other musicians.

RIEDEL TO ADDRESS ART LEAGUE TONIGHT

C. H. Riedell, head of the Art department, will talk on the development and purpose of his color theory, at the meeting of the Art League in Main hall tonight.

Mr. Riedell has spent six years in perfecting his theory of color combinations and design. A hundred and eighty-eight charts of color combines were worked out in the development of his idea, and have been placed on the walls of the studio. These charts have squares of color in which every possible group of pigments used in painting, is placed on every possible type of background.

Students of the University have been invited to attend the lecture. Dancing will follow the meeting.

Pulitzer Prize Play to Be Given Here by Montana Masquers

Montana Masquers will present the first Pulitzer prize play ever given in Missoula when they open with "Ice-bound" at the Liberty theater February 17. It is not often that amateur production rights to a New York success are obtainable a few years after its initial appearance and the Masquers feel that they have been fortunate in acquiring the rights to a play of such merit as Owen Davis' drama.

The Pulitzer prize for plays is one of a series of awards for the best product from different lines of literary and scientific endeavor and is made annually. It is accepted nationally as the final acknowledgment of the "finest representation of the educational value and power of the stage in raising the standards of good morals, good taste and good manners." The committee that decides who is to receive the thousand dollar prize is chosen from the foremost dramatists and critics of the United States.

Any play which has been produced successfully in New York may be considered in making the final choice. This gives the judges a large choice and extreme latitude of subjects in making their decisions and also assures theater-goers that a Pulitzer prize play will contain the best drama of the time. "Anna Christie," "Hell Bent for Heaven" and "They Knew What They Wanted" are some of the plays that have won the prize.

MOLLETT ADVISES AN AMERICAN EDUCATION

"Americans should be educated in America," was the advice given Anna Baty, secretary to Dean Scott of the Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical college, by Dean C. E. Mollett of the Pharmacy school in answer to a letter of inquiry regarding her two brothers.

According to the dean Miss Baty's brothers received their high school education in Canada and she is anxious to know whether they should continue their education there or in the United States, and what school in the country would best prepare a young man for life.

Dean Mollett advised her to send them to a state institution—either the University of Montana or the University of Washington.

FORESTERS BEGIN SHOOT WITH RESERVE OFFICERS; POST FIRST ROUND SCORE

With an average of 329.2 points per man made in the first round of the match, the Forestry school rifle club hopes to defeat the ROTC marksmen in the contest between the two teams which ends this week. The score made by the Forestry school team is already posted on the ROTC armory bulletin board.

The individual scores made by the members of the Foresters out of a possible 400, were as follows: Beall, 368; Caswell, 353; Laury, 346; Evans, 330; Land, 327; Kaser, 320; Ebert, 322; Golden, 315; Kerr, 303; Moffet, 302. Total 3,292.

FOSSIL COLLECTORS WRITE TO BRADLEY

Geology Department to Get Worth
While Specimens for Museum

Dr. J. H. Bradley, Jr., of the State University Geological department, through a friendship formed while collecting fossils in Quebec, has been put in touch with western fossil collectors by B. F. Howell, a professor in the department of geology at Princeton.

Professor Howell has received considerable publicity through the Associated Press for the discovery of a fish scale in the Cambrian rocks of Vermont which put the direct evidence of a higher type of back boned animal several million years further into the past than has heretofore been believed. As a result of the discovery, Professor Howell received many letters from western fossil collectors.

Grizzly Bandsters Give Initial Concert

Grizzly bandsters made their initial appearance before Missoulians Sunday in the first of a series of concerts to be given at the high school auditorium. The audience was not large, but responded well to the talent exhibited by Director Hoelscher's musicians.

The program included martial music, popular favorites and classical numbers, giving a wide range of variety to the listeners. "Maritana," a fantasia by Wallace, met with an exceptionally warm applause by the audience. It brought out some of the finer qualities characteristic of that type of music, which feature the instruments both ensemble and in individual groups. The technique was far above ordinary. Special emphasis given to pianoforte passages.

During intermission, Mrs. Walter McLeod sang three vocal numbers, "I Know of Two Bright Eyes," "Come to the Fair" and "Bitterness of Love." All of the selections were well received.

Director Hoelscher has developed a well balanced instrumentation, the reed section adding greatly to the overtones which are characteristic of finer shades of expression in music. There should be no doubt as to his ability as a band director.

COLD PREVENTS AUTHOR FROM VISITING MONTANA; MONEY TO BE REFUNDED

Word received from Sherwood Anderson's advance agents dispels all hope of the author speaking in Missoula this winter, according to Sidney H. Cox, acting head of the English department. Mr. Anderson has cancelled all engagements and has returned to San Francisco, making no statement other than the fact that he is suffering with a severe cold.

All students and townspeople who hold tickets for the lecture can secure a refund by arranging with the person from whom the ticket was purchased.

MEN'S RIFLE TEAM SHOOT'S WITH IOWA

A score of 3,208 points out of a possible 4,000 was the record made by the Men's Rifle team last week in its match with Iowa State college, Ames, Iowa. This includes 40 shots by each member of the team, ten shots prone, ten sitting, ten kneeling and ten standing.

Edwin Koch was the high scorer for the local team, making 355 points out of a possible 400. The next four scores in order were: Alling, 337; Rennold, 337; Werner, 331; Turek, 328.

The report of this shoot was sent to Iowa State college last Friday, and the report of their team's record is probably on the way here now. Until this is received the winner of the match cannot be announced.

Co-Ed Hoop Teams Start Basketball Tournament Today

Women's interorganization basketball tournament begins this afternoon with a game between Kappa Delta and Kappa Kappa Gamma at 5. Alpha Phi and Alpha Chi Omega play at 7:30 this evening. Tomorrow Kappa Alpha Theta and Sigma Kappa play at 5 instead of at 8:30, as originally scheduled.

Most of the teams have been picked but a few are still undecided. Kathleen Hainline, as captain for Phi Beta, has four players who have played class or organization basketball before: Helen Hammerstrom, forward; Virginia Griffith, forward, and Helen Rothwell and Dora Huffman, guards.

Alpha Xi Delta has six old players back: Stella Skulason and Alice Van Pelt as forwards; Ludie Rector and Elsie Brown as guards; Elizabeth Custer, center, and Caroline Wickes, running center. Margaret Sterling, Kappa captain, has five old players with herself: E. Peterson, center; M. J. Dixon, forward, and A. Stephenson and G. Lemire, guards. Shaw, Skylestad, Stipek and Sanders will play their first college game this evening for the Kappas.

Alpha Chi Omega has no old players but boasts a number of high school stars. Sigma Kappa captain, Thelma Bourret, has four former players besides herself: Nevi Thompson, running center; H. Groff and Bourret, forwards; H. Zeh and E. Bassingwaite, guards. Dora Hauck, Kappa Delta captain, is the only player back in the lineup for that team. M. Woolfolk, captain for Kappa Alpha Theta, and Annabelle Desmond, have played college basketball before.

Miss Mary Laux, assisted by the coaching class, will officiate at the games.

At the end of the season, AWS is to award silver cups to the girls who have made the most points in all the matches they engage in.

WASHINGTON INSTRUCTOR DESIRES MORE OF KUOM

"I will continue to dial in on KUOM and expect the same high class programs as has been the case in the past," writes J. H. Hamack, an instructor in the University of Washington, in a letter recently received by this station. Mr. Hamack writes that he has been listening in on and appreciating programs sent out from KUOM station for the past year.

WALLACE BRENNAN TO TALK TO PRESS CLUB ON TRAVELS ABROAD

Members of the Press club will have a regular meeting tomorrow night in the Journalism shack at 7:30 o'clock. Wallace Brennan, a graduate of the school, will speak to the club on his "Travels in the Orient." Mr. Brennan has just returned from an extended trip to China and Japan. He took many pictures while over there and will distribute them among the crowd during his lecture.

Tax Referendum Measure Continues Levy for Montana Schools

Committee Passes Resolution Giving Five of the Eight and One-Half Mill Levy to University

"That the five mill school tax levy referendum measure to be voted on by the electors in November also continues the mill and a half levy for the support of the University of Montana" is the interpretation placed on the bill by the Montana Education Association. This resolution was passed by a committee of the Executive council of the association for public information at the meeting in Helena last week. Chancellor M. A. Brannon was on the committee.

The bill will make a general levy of eight and one-half mills of which five mills will go to schools, two mills to the state government and one and one-half mills will be undistributed. The five mill levy bill does not provide a mandatory clause for the appropriation of the undistributed mill and one-half levy for the use of the University. It is assumed, however, that the legislature will be willing to set aside this amount for the use of the four state institutions of learning if the five mill school levy passes at the general election in 1926.

Continues Levy
Clause three of the resolution says in part: "This referendum measure will make possible continuation of the present one and one-half mill levy for the support of the University institutions at Missoula, Butte, Bozeman and Dillon when it expires under the present law on December 31, 1930. Failure to pass this referendum will leave the university institutions completely stranded . . ."

Initiative Measure 18, passed in 1919, now gives the University a return on assessed valuation of Montana property of $650,000. This is a drop of about $215,000 from the base of returns figured in 1919. With the expiration of this measure in 1930, unless adequate income is assured in the meantime, University finances will again be decreased to the almost impossible state that they were in prior to 1919. This, however, is thought improbable, judging from past events. The University has always been given the support of the people in the elections and there is no reason why they should not continue to give it.

Under the provisions of the five mill school levy all school districts will be taxed five mills for the public school system. Under the present laws there is an indefinite quota which may be assessed each school district. There are about half the districts of the state levying over twenty mills and the remainder are levying under five mills. This bill will not be an extra tax burden but an equalization of the burden and will afford all school children more equal opportunity.

SENTINEL COUPONS ARE DUE SATURDAY

Bob Warden, editor of the 1926 Sentinel, requests all students to turn in their fall quarter Sentinel coupons at the business office by Saturday. If the coupon is lost, a duplicate may be obtained by applying at the business office. Students not having a fall quarter coupon on file will be obliged to pay $1.00 before a Sentinel will be issued to them.

Proofs of the senior pictures have been returned and the senior section is now complete. The text of the book will be finished by Friday, including the advertising, and the complete dummy will go to press before February 15. The annual is expected to be ready for delivery by May 1. Contracts for the printing of the Montana State College annual, and the Sentinel, which will go to press at the same time, are held by the Tribune Printing and Supply company of Great Falls.

The first two sections will be stippled. This new feature includes the introductory and scenic sections which appear on the first 16 pages. The scenic section comprises eight pages and will be done in four colors. Only half of the organizations so far have paid for their pages.

KUOM TO BROADCAST UNIVERSITY DEBATE

This in the Name of Glory

REGENTS of the University of Wisconsin recently refused a substantial donation from the Rockefeller foundation on the grounds that "accepting money would subject the university to potential control by outside influence." Though Judge Evan A. Evans of the United States Court of Appeals characterizes the refusal as "both uncalled for and insulting" the secretary of the board insists that the decision will maintain "the glory of self-determination."

Coming as it does on top of numerous budget cuts and University probes the word must make anyone familiar with the educational situation at Missoula pause long enough to remark "what price glory?" If there happened to be a Rockefeller in Montana it is doubtful whether University officials would feel the urge of self-determination strong enough to split hairs over an ethical principle—in view of the fact that the seat of control could hardly be transferred with less unfortunate results. Which all goes to show that even in a consideration as vital as ethics, necessity is frequently the mother of invention.

Along with the phenomenal growth in athletics which has been spreading so flagrantly through American colleges and universities comes a realization that the breach between instructor and coach is widening. The eternal struggle is no longer confined to occasional questions of eligibility and grades but resolves itself into a discussion of the fundamental importance of athletics as a link in the process of education.

Professor Kennedy, chairman of the Board of Athletic Control at Princeton, recently said that if college teachers could inspire their students to appreciate the profound value of a collegiate training there would be no claim for over-emphasis of athletics.

Perhaps the professor has stumbled upon a possible cure for the situation, but he only prescribes one tonic where several might bring better results. Going further into the question the college coach himself might be of considerable assistance by making a conscientious effort to appreciate the professor's point of view. For instance, it is the exception rather than the rule, for an athletic instructor to understand that giving a C or a D to a student who deserves an F is a bit of a blow to professional pride. Furthermore, the college professor is thought an oddish sort of a chap if he takes no interest in football or basketball, but the coach who knows little or nothing of history or literature arouses neither surprise nor criticism.

Anyone who doubts that education is failing to keep abreast of the times needs only peruse the bulletin of courses offered by Boston University to get the proper perspective on twentieth century modernity. There the latest addition to the College for Women is a course in matrimony—described as far in advance of anything that has been attempted in this field before.

REVIEWS of Books and Plays

"One Increasing Purpose."
By A. S. M. Hutchinson.
Little, Brown & Company, Boston.

A. S. M. Hutchinson, the English soldier realist, has written a new novel, "One Increasing Purpose," which is deeper than "If Winter Comes" or "This Freedom," and which in many respects surpasses either of them.

It is a very sincere study of a profound question: what is this life—what is the underlying motive of it all? Simon Paris, one of three brothers, served through the worst of the World War and came out of it untouched. The more he thought about it the more he wondered why he was spared injury or death. Was he unlike other men? What was the reason? Simon seemed to communicate with his mother, who had passed away several years before, and she told him he had escaped death for some future service. He pondered over the question and grew restless and dissatisfied. The girl he loved told him he was saved for some purpose of God—whose vague presence he fears at times.

The two brothers, Andrew and Charles and their wives, unhappy most of the time, verging on the brink of breaking up their homes, are also a source of wonder to Simon. Economic conditions between the workers and owners, or Redskins and Palefaces as he calls them, come in for their share of discussion also.

When he discovers K. O. H. or Kingdom of Heaven, a little expression used in the happiest family he has ever known, Simon feels that he has discovered a bit of the thing he has been searching for. More and more of this K. O. H. is revealed to him as he goes on and finally God's purpose—that Christ is in every man and woman—is fully revealed and he acquires the look, as his friends say, of a man in perfect tune.

Hutchinson has gone deeply into underlying emotions in this novel and has done a splendid piece of character work. It is a book which must cause a great deal of real and worthwhile thinking.

Other Campuses

New Indoor Sport

Ping-pong—not a letter sport, but a nice indoor form of amusement—is one of the most popular games being played on the Washington State College campus this year. Ping-pong is more commonly known as indoor tennis. The table is in constant demand and 150 balls, three nets and three sets of paddles have been worn out since school opened in September. The celluloid balls are imported from England.

"Cow, Sow and Hen Special," a demonstration train, was sent out recently by the Agricultural Extension Service of the University of California. Many of the elite of the cattle world occupied the spacious quarters of the special. Others of the animal "four hundred" included representatives of the finest in the hog and chicken tribes. The train was sent out to encourage diversification in farming, particularly dairying, poultry raising and swine raising.

Public Utility Course

The University of Colorado is the first institution of higher education in the nation to install a complete course in the economics of the public utility industry. The course will be inaugurated immediately through correspondence study. To insure practical instruction, 24 Denver and other Colorado public utility executives have been placed on the university faculty. The study of public utility problems will not be confined to college students, but public officials, members of chambers of commerce and similar organizations and business men who are interested in the social and political aspects of the industry are expected to avail themselves of the course.

"Let women smoke, if they can do it gracefully," is the opinion advanced by University of Iowa students when interviewed in regard to the right and wrong of co-ed smoking. According to many of the men students interviewed on the subject, objection to smoking is provincial, "small town stuff."

Who-o-a!

Waco, Texas.—When Baylor university passed the commandment: "There shall be no nocturnal automobile joy-riding," gloom gathered over the campus.

But not for long. The authorities had neglected to ban other means of locomotion. Within a week there were dozens of horse-drawn vehicles carrying co-eds and their escorts along the highways and byways.

The new system, it is pointed out, has its advantages. There is not as much danger of wreck. Flat tires (speaking of the buggies, not dates) are an unknown quantity. And if old Dobbin is gentle and knows the route, the driver can forget about the reins and devote all of his attention to friend co-ed, without parking.

"University Weekly News," a bulletin published weekly by the University Extension Division of the University of South Carolina, has recently published statistics showing the increase and decrease of net debts incurred in the various states. The table, compiled from "Financial Statistics of States," ranks the states of the nation according to the per cent increase and decrease in net debt.

The greatest increase occurred in New Jersey—from a total of $116,000 in 1915 to $33,277,000 in 1924, or 27,725 per cent. Oregon was next with a gain of 16,930 per cent, and Pennsylvania third with 15,326 per cent.

Montana ranks in 23rd place with a total of $1,271,890 in 1915 to $4,391,000 in 1924, an increase of 245 per cent.

Net debt, as used in these statistics, means funded and floating debt less sinking fund assets.

W.S.C. Condemns Lizzies

"Leaping Lenzas" are condemned! The Washington State College campus has become so cluttered up with cheap automobiles of the $25 and $50 sort that the discipline committee, composed of students and members of the faculty, decided to get rid of the "Limpin' Lizzies" by drafting a rule against the parking on the college grounds of cars considered dangerous, and bearing signs and decorations of a discreditable nature. In addition, the discipline committee contemplates the compulsory registration of all student drivers and their machines.

Montana Fight

January 18, 1917

The Oklahoma Rangers and the Montana Grizzlies were battling on the old gymnasium floor.

A dazzling pass and a ready defense marked the invader's play.

Big Bentz was missing . . . and missed . . . from the Maroon lineup.

Four quick Ranger baskets had opened the fray.
Fighting viciously, the Grizzly had tied the count before the first half ended.

Once more, the Oklahoma collegians had swung into the lead.

Again, the Copper, Silver and Gold had evened the score.

And now, 20 seconds of battle remained.

A foul on Oklahoma.
Sanderson, standing still and straight, in the midst of the crowd that had grown so silent.

The revolving ball . . . the thud against the backboard . . . the swinging net.

EVOLUTION

Call for Mister Darwin

Out on the tip of a branch, who's shadow lay across the imaginary line that man was to call the Equator, sat a monkey. Below, the Loami river swished lazily along between banks of endless verdure. Shriill sounds, that were mirth, shook the matted hair of the creature in the tree top. He was laughing at those who could only crawl on the earth's damp bosom.

Above, an eagle swung in an eddy of wind and did not laugh. He was hungry.

Man-like beings, gorged with food, lay about the crackling fire that threw bold shadows on the cave's bare walls. Occasionally, one would scratch at loin or head. One began to laugh, gutturally. A tamed monkey was trying to solve the mysteries of bow and arrow.

In the corner of the cave a spider wove a web for the next day's capture.

Wise representatives of the nations of the world sat in serious conclave in the city of Versailles. They were seeking redress for the wounds that had been suffered in the World war. A dog fight in the street below drew them all to the windows. And, they laughed, as the two beasts tried to tear the throat of each other.

On the ceiling, a fly investigated the pattern of neutral tinted paper.

Evolution . . . it's a great word.

After the dance
... a pipe
and P. A.

WHEN you've kicked off the pumps and tossed the collar on the table, while the music is still singing in your brain and memories of one dancing deb in particular crowd your thoughts, fill your pipe with Prince Albert and light up. Make it a night of nights.

P. A. is so genuinely friendly. It hits your smoke-spot in deep center right off the bat. Doesn't bite your tongue or parch your throat, because the Prince Albert process said "nix on the rough stuff" at the very beginning. Just cool contentment in every perfect puff.

Don't put off till tomorrow what you can smoke today. Get a tidy red tin of P. A. now. Snap back the hinged lid and release that wonderful fragrance. Tamp a load into the bowl of your jimmy-pipe and light up. Now you've got it . . . that taste. Say—isn't that the goods now?

PRINCE ALBERT
—no other tobacco is like it!

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and punch removed by the Prince Albert process.

and since he is overcrowded with work in the east he has referred all this correspondence to Dr. Bradley.

Some Collections Valuable.

After looking over the correspondence on hand Dr. Bradley said: "Some of these collections seem to be valuable and it is to be hoped that they will find their way into the University museum." In connection with Professor Howell's discovery of fossil remains of ancient sea life it is of interest to note that a State Geological expedition composed of Dr. Clapp and Dr. Bradley which went into the mountains of the continental divide north of Ovando last summer brought back several specimens of fossil worm burrows from the Proterozoic formations of that area. Dr. Bradley said concerning the Proterozoic area: "Rocks of this age are the oldest which have yielded any undisputed and direct evidence of living creatures. They have yielded very few specimens of any description up to date and all the Pre-Cambrian fossils that have been unearthed would hardly fill a bushel basket."

The specimens collected by the State Geological expedition are among the best material ever discovered in these ancient formations.

OH SPLASH

'Twas Midnight on the Bleachers

Thin rivulets of dirty water coursed down the wrinkled brow of Mount Sentinel. The bleacher's long expanse held two shivering humans.

"Dearest, I'll love you, always," he whispered gently and she nestled closer within the protective warmth of his arms.

A train whistled calm defiance from the mouth of Hellgate. The fog laden air bit harshly.

"It's so quiet and so peaceful when you hold me tight," she murmured.

"The dampness of moisture covered seats forced them to shift awkwardly.

"Honey . . . Sweetheart," and their lips met again.

"The clock in the tower of Main hall sent them hurrying down the slippery sidewalk. Wet snow clung at silk-clad ankles.

Parting promises.

"Out petting again," queried the sisters as she tried to slip up the house stairs.

"Another heavy date," suggested a brother wiping powder from his shoulder.

And, the dirty water still coursed down the wrinkled brow of Mount Sentinel.

Thaddeus Lowary visited friends in Polson over the week-end.

WHOA!

He Who Would Mug in Peace, Let Him Give Heed

Paul Revere had a horse. That was why he wasn't night watchman at the University of Montana. And, anyway, when Paul had completed his little song and dance he could retire for the remainder of the evening.

It's a lot different out here in the west. Five times during the course of the daylight saving hours the guardian gallops around the campus nooks warning the sun dodgers that the deans may be coming.

In order to be sure that everyone received ample notice the Board of Education over at the seat of all judgment in Helena ordained that there should be 24 places on the campus that should be specially visited. To this end they established two dozen station boxes for the wearer of the key. These contrivances were gathered after an extensive search of all American territory east of the Hudson river. They are so constructed that the night watchman has to do all of his sleeping during the daytime.

On the side, he's a deputy sheriff with full power to confiscate all bottles that come within his ken.

However, a word to the keen-witted is sufficient—he lurches between one and two every morning.

GRIZZLY TEAM HUMBLER WSC

Close Guarding by Montana Aids in Winning First Conference Game

Converting a free throw, four minutes after the opening of the Montana-W.S.C. basketball game, Captain Ted Ilman started the scoring which led to the Grizzlies' first conference victory of the season. The triumph Friday night, a decisive 23-13 win, also broke the jinx the Cougars have held over Montana's quints for two years.

Air-tight guarding, done mostly by Sterling and Baney, though the remainder of the team guarded closely, kept W.S.C. from scoring from the field during the first half, the Cougar tossers being held to three free throws. W.S.C. only registered four field goals during the entire game.

Ilman Leads Attack
Captain Ilman, forward, led the Grizzly attack with three field goals and three points from the foul line. Ilman had a big night, starting in both offensive and defensive play. Sam Kain, starting his first conference game at center, was second high point man. Sterling and Baney played magnificent guarding games and Overturn, while not counting from the floor, performed remarkably well.

After Ilman made his first gift toss, Kain flipped in a short over-hand shot and Ilman followed with a field goal. Sterling then made good on a free throw and Ilman tossed in another foul. Koenig, of W.S.C., scored from the foul line and the score 10 minutes after the game started stood 7-1 for Montana. The Grizzlies never lost this advantage, increasing their lead at different times to 10 points. Baney shot a beautiful field goal from mid-floor and Kain snapped one off the rebound, while Brumblay ended the first half scoring by converting two fouls out of a possible four. Score half time, Montana 11, W.S.C. 3.

Baney Opens Half
Baney started the second half with a gift toss. Averill, playing the Cougar corner game, caught the guards asleep, tossing in the first W.S.C. tally from the field. Henry shot a foul. Ilman boosted Montana's total a point when he tallied from the foul line. Baney and Kain then missed gift tosses and Ilman scored again from the floor. Kain got a short basket and Koenig scored from the sidelines. Averill was ejected from the game on personals. Morgan made a free throw. Ilman scored another short basket. Henry and Koenig shot long baskets for W.S.C. Coach Stewart then rushed in Coyle and Kelly and both responded with

Foresters and Pharmacists Annex Opening Hoop Tilts

Hilarious songs of victory rang through the halls and corridors of the Schools of Pharmacy and Forestry last night at the conclusion of the basketball games, from which teams representing these schools emerged triumphant. The Pillrollers beat the Journalists 22-17 and the Foresters beat the Business Ads, 33-24.

Playing the first games of the intramural tournament, held under the direction of Harry Adams, director of intramural athletics, both battles were poorly attended. When Jimmie Powell, referee, started the Scribe-Pillroller struggle, scarcely 75 students were gathered to cheer their squads. Thursday night at 7 o'clock the second brace of games will be played.

Lawyers Upset Dope
The legal mind of the Law school is held responsible for the defeat of the Scribe team, winners of last year's tournament. Under a ruling made by Adams three Journalism players were barred. This action was taken after a formal suggestion had been made by the Law school that members of teams should be majors in the schools they represent.

Led by Mowett, who made 17 of his team's 22 points, the Baby Bootleggers won a rough struggle from the Scribes. Wovett counted frequently with marathon heaves besides converting seven free throws. Miller led the Journalist scoring attack, field goals. The game ended with both teams taking numerous shots.

Foresters Win
Smothering the Business Ads with a deluge of baskets early in the game the Foresters had little trouble winning 33-24. Clack and Sullivan, midjet forwards of the Frosh team, led the feeble attack of the losers and after Sullivan left the game, late in the first half, with a twisted ankle, the burden of the assault rested upon Clack's shoulders, who was aided by Drew, center and forward.

Big, rough and tough, the boys from the mountains presented a stalwart team of basket tossers. Brenner, Camel, Davis, Adams and Wendt annexed enough baskets to win handily for the Foresters. Brenner and Clack were high point men of the game, each scoring ten.

Stewart Calls Men Interested in Track; Candidates Respond

Coach Stewart's track call was answered yesterday afternoon by 25 candidates who listened to the preliminary instructions given by the coach. Stewart said several other men, who were unable to attend the meeting, had already turned in their names and the squad will probably total 35 before the end of the week. Light workouts will be held daily until March 1, when Stewart will devote his entire time to the squad. After March 1 the trackmen will be taken outdoors, weather permitting, and the training will become more intensified.

"The medals and banners of conquest are not exempt from the pawnbroker's ticket."—Chinese proverb, 696 B. C.
Fog painted grim faces on the buildings that lined Higgins avenue. Down the man-made canyon drifted the rumble of approaching wheels.

Out of the gray wet blanket appeared two noses that became stumbling skins, partially filled with horse-flesh. Like the dinosaurs of old their spinal columns and hip bones formed grotesque serrated edges of living organism.

Behind them trailed a wagon that appeared to have crossed the plains in the early days of the west. The hubs sang plaintive melodies of the youth that had gone forever. A heap of ashes, lifeless cans, torn paper and cloth shifted uneasily inside the wagon body.

It was the garbage man. Hunch shouldered, lazy armed, the driver sat in careless indifference to the other half of the world. A torn, twisted, gray cap rode astride uncouth locks. A blue sweater protected his body and it was . . .

SPORTY-VENTS

Coach Stewart's Grizzlies came through last Friday night for their first conference hoop victory. Montana should win her remaining home games without trouble. O.A.C. and Washington are likely to prove most dangerous to the Copper, Silver and Gold.

"Chief" Ilman added nine more points Friday to his scoring total. Ilman ranks with the highest scorers in the conference.

Montana got an additional point in the Cougar tilt when Ilman tossed in a foul called after W.S.C. had taken time out four times.

The W.S.C. long shot attack did not materialize, Henry and Koenig heaving the two marathon tosses for the Cougars. Most of the W.S.C. shots were wild, the Cougars tossing in the manner Montana did against Oregon.

With a week of practice and experimenting with the new lineup, Coach Stewart's Grizzlies will be in the pink for the Gonzaga Bulldogs when they battle here Saturday night.

"For personal reasons" Paul Lynch has resigned the football captaincy of the Bulldogs for 1926. He says that he had tendered his resignation to Coach Smith and the athletic board a month or more ago, but that it had never been accepted. Lynch had been dismissed from the Bulldog gridiron eleven just before their last game for breaking training.

Many a proud father sends his boy to school for education and gets nothing in return for his money except a star pigskin. But who wouldn't want to be the father of a young man wearing an "M"?

"Grange passes Missoula up. All efforts to have famous carrot top stay over are futile." Oh well, we were all in bed when he breezed through this a. m.

Because of a terrific snowstorm and "slaughtering cold" weather in California the School of Correspondence will not be able to arrive in time to compete in the inter-college series, which started last night.

Evidently the Pillrollers had too much "dope" on the ball for the Newsies last evening.

Inter-fraternity bowling has assumed league form, and a schedule is being formulated. The Sigma Chis, A.T.O.s and A.D.A.s are the only houses without teams in the field, but they will probably be represented soon. This coming Friday the Phi Sigs compete with the Sig Eps and the Phi Deltas meet the Templars. Saturday the schedule runs: Phi Sigs vs. Sigma Nus; Phi Deltas vs. Sig Eps; Templars vs. Sig Alphas. Changes in the schedule may be arranged among the tongue houses, but all games must be played by Sunday night of the week-end.

The Arts and Science team is represented by so many different schools that we've been wondering where they'd hang the inter-college banner, should they win it. Possibly the top of the spire on Main hall would serve the purpose.

The Oregon Emerald had the following to say about Montana after the return of the Webfooters from their successful road trip: "Montana is hopelessly out of the running, having dropped six straight conference tilts. The Grizzlies are the enigma of the league, as they have fine material—seven lettermen—and were figured to bowl over several contenders. Now they will be lucky to win a single game." Well, the Grizzlies have won that single game, but that ain't half of it.

LOYOLA ALUMS BOW TO FRESHMAN SQUAD

Fast Yearling Team Defeats Former Loyola Men in Curtain Raiser

Playing a strong defensive game, the Cubs won from the Loyola Alumni team 20 to 7 in the preliminary to the W.S.C.-Grizzly game Friday night. The Loyola graduates were hopelessly outclassed from the start. Their teamwork and passing was not good enough to enable them to sift through the Cubs' tight defense, and they were forced to content themselves with occasional long shots.

Stocking Shines
Only two frosh regulars scored baskets. Stocking again scintillated, tallying five field goals and one free toss, while Clack counted two field baskets and three from the gift line. Huber sunk a long shot in the closing minutes of play shortly after he had taken Sullivan's place at forward. The entire second string was sent in, after the game was tucked away, and displayed fair form.
