This is the first year that the committee has attempted the carnival feature. Heman Stark is in charge of the carnival. An admission of 25 cents will be charged to the dance. The lists of workers and their respective crews will be finished Monday. They will be ready for distribution either Monday or Tuesday.

MOSBY ADDRESSES JOURNALISM CLUB

E. G. Mosby, city editor of the Missoula Sentinel and graduate of the Montana School of Journalism, spoke on "Common Errors Met by Newspaper Editors" at a meeting of the press club, Wednesday night, April 7. He cited several cases of inaccuracy and cumbersome phrases used by AP and club reporters. "The reporters are careless," said Mr. Mosby, "and it is an impossibility for the city editor to catch every mistake."

Journalism students were asked to visit the Missoula Sentinel and observe the work of the editorial and mechanical departments.

In speaking of the present wave of crime news, Mr. Mosby said "regardless of the common belief, the newspapers are the cleanest and most censored publication today."

It was voted to hold a joint meeting of the Forestry club and Press club some time in the near future. Definite plans as to entertainment will be decided soon.

Final plans and date for "Dean Stone Night," the journalism school's most cherished tradition will be discussed at the next regular meeting of the Press club, sometime this month.

NEWMAN CLUB FORMAL TO BE HELD SATURDAY

Members of the Newman club and their guests will hold their first annual dinner-dance at the Florence hotel tomorrow evening at 7:30. The dance will be formal and several committees have been busy during the past week to insure its success.

Nan Walsh is general chairman of the dance. The chaperons are Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Clapp, Dr. and Mrs. Jennings, Mrs. Harriet Sedman and Father A. J. Harrington.

Young Attends Church Meeting.

Rev. William L. Young, inter-church university pastor, went to Anaconda Wednesday to attend a meeting of Presbyterian ministers which is being held there.

Rev. John R. Hahn of the University church, has been conducting Mr. Young's classes during his absence.

MASQUERS ELECT; PLAN NEW THEATER

Phil Ring, Missoula, was elected to head the Montana Masquers for the coming year at a meeting of the dramatic organization in the University auditorium Tuesday evening. A committee appointed to investigate the possibilities of a Little Theater on the campus for next year also reported that such a theater was assured.

The other officers for 1926-27 are: Vice-president, Nan Walsh, Missoula; secretary-treasurer, Hildegarde Weisberg, Missoula. The retiring officers are Bob Harper, president; Nelson Fritz and Clara Dell Shriver.

Little Theater Planned.

A Little Theater for the campus has been planned by the dramatic groups for some time, and a committee composed of Professor Glick, director of dramatics, and Phil Ring, Aubrey Houston and Nelson Fritz was selected three or four weeks ago to look into the possibilities of such a theater, and submit a report, with possible plans and suggestions. It is planned to make over a wing of Simpkins hall into an attractive little theater, where the Masquers can present their plays, possibly for runs of several nights, and make various dramatic experiments. The students are taking immediate steps toward the fulfillment of the plans.

Pharmacists to Take State Exams.

C. W. Abbott and Fred Woelner, Jr., '26, will take the state pharmacy board examination at Helena, April 14 and 15, according to Dean C. E. Mollett. This examination is necessary to obtain a license to practice pharmacy in Montana.

The state board meets twice a year. Alex Peterson of Peterson Drug company, Missoula, is a member of the board.

Rehearsals Start on Three One-Act Plays to Be Given May 7

Rehearsals of the three one-act plays to be given in the University auditorium May 7 began last evening. Try-outs were held Wednesday night, and casts will be announced Tuesday. Less than 30 students were at the try-outs Wednesday evening, the smallest number at any of the try-outs this year. More than 80 tried out for "Captain Applejack," 70 for the three one-acts of the fall quarter, 40 for "Icebound" and 60 for "The Learned Ladies." Of this number almost 90 have been members of the acting or producing staffs of the six plays so far given.

KUOM TONE QUALITY RECENTLY IMPROVED

Several changes in the filter system of the University radio station transmitter have resulted in a marked improvement in tone quality and strength, according to G. D. Shallenberger, director of the station.

A noticeable ripple in the station was caused by faulty filtration of the current which was delivered from the generators to the power input of the oscillator tube-plates.

An attempt will be made some time in the near future, to improve the tone to a greater extent. The small amplifier tubes, used in building up the voice volume delivered from the studio microphone, have been supplied in the past with alternating current, direct current will be substituted for this in an attempt to smooth out the current pulsations.

J. Giratana, station operator, has been engaged for the past week in remodeling some of the station amplifying equipment. A new amplifier, designed for use in announcing events on new Dornblaser field, will be constructed at the station sometime in the near future.

LEVERE VISITS MONTANA

Committee Accepts Two May Fete Skits; To Combine Pieces

"May Day in an English Village" by Margaret Sparr and "An Old English Tournament" by Maureen Desmond and Ann Ross were the two manuscripts accepted for May Fete by a committee composed of Gladys Price, Mrs. R. L. Housman, Mary Laux, Carl Glick and Professor Sidney H. Cox.

"The similarity and desire to combine the themes of the two manuscripts prompted the committee to make a joint award," said Miss Price, manager of May Fete, after the decision was reached Tuesday.

Chairmen were appointed, who will select their committees at a meeting early next week. They are: Business manager, Marcia Patterson; field manager, Annabelle Desmond; costumes, Mary Kirkwood; programs, Eloise Walker; music, Jean Cowan; tickets, Tanans. The dances will be under the supervision of Mary Laux of the Physical Education department.

ART LEAGUE BALL WILL BE FORMAL FOR WOMEN ONLY

Members of the various committees for the Art League ball, which will be held in the Men's gymnasium Saturday, April 17, met in the Fine Arts studio Tuesday evening. It was decided to make the dance formal for women and informal for men.

The annual affair, postponed from last quarter, has always been a gala occasion. The crowning of the Queen is the main event of the evening, and several unique acts serve to add to the general enjoyment. Votes for the queen went on sale in Main hall again Wednesday, and interest in the race has been revived. The candidates now ahead are Maud Baxter and Dorothy Dixon. Purchasers of tickets to the dance may cast five votes toward their favorite candidate, and additional votes may be purchased for 5 cents each.

Refreshments will be served during the evening.

WEBB-DUNHAM MARRIAGE TAKES PLACE MONDAY; TO LEAVE FOR CHICAGO

Joyce Webb of Geraldine and Joseph Dunham, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Dunham of Missoula, were married at the family residence at 9 o'clock Monday evening. The wedding ceremony was performed by Dr. David E. Jackson of the Presbyterian church.

Mrs. Dunham was a freshman in the school of music at the University and was a pledge of Kappa Kappa Gamma. Mr. Dunham received his Bachelor of Arts degree in English at the end of the winter quarter, and is a member of the Sigma Nu fraternity. He also instructed a class in music at the University during the past year.

Mr. and Mrs. Dunham will leave today for Geraldine, for a visit at the home of the bride's parents before going on to Chicago, where both plan to continue with their musical education.

Magdalene Larsen, Former Montanan, to Enter Sorbonne

Word of distinction won at the University of Paris by Magdalene Larsen, former University French major, has been received by Mrs. Louise Arnoldson, assistant professor of foreign language. Her letter, translated from the French, follows:

"Paris, March 7th.

"My very dear Mrs. Arnoldson: I am, at this moment, the happiest person in the world. I have just passed the examination at the Sorbonne (University of Paris) for the winter quarter, and I received the diploma for the course in Civilization with honorable mention. In order to be eligible for the diploma, it was necessary to pass written tests, a long composition and specific question on each subject; finally there were oral tests. Out of 200 persons who took the written tests, there were but 50 who passed. Seven tried out of our little group (studying under the auspices of the University of Delaware), but only two succeeded, myself and my chum. Now I lack only one-third of one credit to be graduated from the University of Montana. So this semester I am not taking so many courses as last; thus I have a little more time to visit the museums and everything that is interesting in Paris.

"Recently I saw, at the National library, an exposition of the Middle Ages. It was very interesting. There were especially old manuscripts, even the Oath of Strassbourg (the oldest known document in the French language—824). Last Sunday I went to Saint Denis; it is the oldest Gothic church that I have seen, and I believe, the oldest Gothic edifice anywhere in France. Many of the stained glass windows have been destroyed, but those back of the choir date from the time of the Abbe Suger (11th century). The tombs of almost all the kings of France are at Saint Denis. That of Henry II and Catherine de Medici is the most interesting. The queen had it constructed during her life so the statues on it represent the king dead and the queen living.

"I have also seen the old chateaux of Vincennes, which dates from feudal times. The moat still remains and the thick walls and huge towers. In the inner court there is a building which dates from the time of Cardinal Mazarin, which is today a museum of the World War. At the Theatre

SOUTH HALL RESIDENTS PLAN BASEBALL LEAGUE; PROPOSE TENNIS TOURNAMENT

At a meeting of the South hall club, Tuesday night, the members decided to have a baseball league and possibly a tennis tournament as forms of recreation for the Spring quarter. At least three baseball and 10 tennis teams will take part, according to the South hall proctors. A committee consisting of Bill Kriscovic, T. Davis and Lester Jones, will arrange the plans.

During the meeting the Spring quarter dance of the club was discussed and the date has been set as April 24. All arrangements will be handled by the permanent social committee.

Brannons to Attend Pan-Hellenic Dance; Will Chaperon Party

Chancellor Melvin A. Brannon of the Greater University of Montana, accompanied by Mrs. Brannon, who arrived in Missoula Thursday morning are to be guests of Pan-Hellenic at formal inter-fraternity dance tonight.

Yesterday the chancellor attended to routine matters of the University and conferred with President Clapp. Thursday noon he was Dr. Clapp's guest at the Chamber of Commerce monthly luncheon. He spoke in the afternoon at a faculty meeting in Main hall and broadcast a talk on last night's program over KUOM, speaking on the "Relation of Health to Education."

As guests of Pan-Hellenic he and Mrs. Brannon will chaperon the annual inter-fraternity formal tonight. They plan to return to Helena Saturday morning.

FORESTERS VOTE TO DONATE SUM TO SOLDIER FUND

Forty dollars has been added to the Memorial Row fund which will be used to provide bronze plates for the students of Montana who lost their lives in the World War. The Forestry club, at its regular meeting Wednesday night in the Forest school library, voted unanimously to lay aside the money to furnish the plate for men who had been majors in forestry.

The plates, 12 by 14 inches, will be set in concrete bases at the foot of the Montana pines in Memorial Row, the dedication to be made Memorial Day.

Memorial Row is being extended another block on Van Buren street, and replanting and replacing of trees is being carried on rapidly.

BIOLOGICAL SOCIETY NOMINATES OFFICERS

Nomination of officers for next year was the order of business at a meeting of Phi Sigma in Natural Science hall Tuesday evening. The election will be held in the same building next Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock, at which time there will also be an election of new members.

A committee consisting of L. A. Merryfield, L. Jourdonais and Zoe Dawes was appointed to prepare a program for the annual convention at Philadelphia. Miss Dawes presented a paper on "Immunity in Animals" and Mr. Jourdonais gave a reading on "Bacteriological Diagnosis." Refreshments were served after the meeting.

Eighteen active members were present, and Dr. Young of the Biology department represented the faculty members.

FORESTERS TO OBSERVE AMERICAN FOREST WEEK

Members of the Forestry school faculty will be actively engaged in observance of American Forest Week this year. Dean T. C. Spaulding will give from 12 to 15 talks in the surrounding district. "The Forest Resources of Montana and Their Relation to the Mining Industry" will be the subject of an address he will make before the Butte Rotary club April 22.

Professor Fay Clark, in cooperation with the United States Indian service, will address meetings in Lake and Sanders counties, and Professor I. W. Cook will assist in the week's activities in Ravalli county.

DECISION HANDED DOWN BY CONFERENCE OF OFFICIALS

QUADRONS ADOPT SWEATERS.

White, straight sweaters were decided upon by Senior women at Quadrans meeting, held Tuesday at the Kappa Delta house. This is the first time Senior women have adopted a distinctive type of wearing apparel.

Lucille Matthews, Dora Hancock and Mary Kirkwood were appointed as a committee by Winifred Brennan, president of Quadrans, to make final arrangements for the sweaters.

UNIVERSITY DELEGATE TO PROBE TITLE CASE

Marcia Patterson, who was chosen senior delegate to the AWS conference at Los Angeles, will also present to University of California, southern branch, officers Montana's stand in the controversy over the Grizzly title, according to Oscar Dahlberg, president of ASUM.

Miss Patterson will interview the student president of the southern California school in an effort to reach a settlement out of court. The word "Grizzlies" has been used on this campus since 1897, giving the University a clear title to the name.

Correspondence to No Avail.

The only result of correspondence carried on between the two schools has been a suggestion offered by the Southern Branch to designate University teams as "Montana Grizzlies" and branch athletics as "California Grizzlies." The proposition did not meet with the approval of the Central Board.

M'KELLAR TO TEACH; CO-EDS ORGANIZATION

Classes in the organization and control of girl groups and clubs such as the Camp Fire girls and Girl Reserves will be conducted by Miss Janet McKellar, a representative of the Camp Fire Girls' organization, from April 13 to 17, inclusive, at the University.

The course, which is particularly designed for students planning to teach, will be offered under the direction of the Department of Education. Miss McKellar will plan the course so that it will be of practical value to anyone who may have occasion to organize and take charge of any group of girls in or out of school.

Department of Education in Charge.

W. E. Maddock, chairman of the board of recommendations, when interviewed on the value of such a course to those planning to teach, said:

"Practically two-thirds of the calls for teachers that come to the board of recommendations indicate the desirability for teachers who are able to assist with various types of extra class room activities. Much of this work consists of organizing clubs of various sorts and training of the type that is given by the representative of the Camp Fire Girls, Miss McKellar, who is to be here next week, will give young teachers an idea of the technique of organization and management of clubs, of various kinds. That is the ideals, the activities and like can be adopted for use in most any kind of club work. Young women who are equipped to conduct this extra class room activity are given preference usually by those who are seeking teachers, by reason of this preparation along these lines."

Mr. Maddock expressed a desire of being very glad to discuss the details of the course with all those interested.

There will be no charge for the instruction but those who finish the course may secure a manual handbook and certificate for $1.50. The classes will be held at 4:30 each afternoon, in the Natural Science auditorium and the floor work will be handled in the Home Economics laboratory. The Dean of Women will be very glad to register all girls wishing to enroll in the course.

Chancellor Brannon and President Clapp Discuss Problem with Prof. Cox

Sidney H. Cox, acting head of the English department, will be retained on the University faculty providing he fulfills two requirements, according to a decision reached by Chancellor Melvin A. Brannon and President C. H. Clapp in conference this morning.

These conditions are: (1) That he must make some statement of pacification to the public; and (2) he must in the future use intelligent caution along with daring in order to respect the attitude of the public and to prevent any future feeling of offense on their part.

The chancellor and president held a preliminary conference with Professor Cox concerning the last issue of the Frontier in the office of President Clapp last night.

New Angle Complicates

A new angle was recently found to complicate the situation: the fact that the literary magazine, published by the class in creative writing at the State University, does not belong to the University and the publishers, as such, are not responsible to University authorities. It is not copyrighted in the name of the school, and bears no relationship to the institution other than the fact that the editor is a student and the supervisor a faculty member.

"The affair has its serious side," Chancellor Brannon said yesterday, "and I believe it should be given a full, fair and complete hearing before any decisions are made. It is a difficult one in administration and judgment on it should not be made hurriedly."

DEAN SMITH JUDGES AT MUSICAL CONTEST

Dean DeLoss Smith of the University school of music is now in Kalispell, being one of the judges of the State Interscholastic music meet, which is now in progress. Mr. Smith is the only Montana musician chosen to judge the meet. He also was one of the judges of the eastern district music contest, which was held at Billings a short time ago.

Miss Bernice Berry is also in Kalispell this week with one of her pupils, Dorothy Dixon, who is the Missoula entrant in the piano contest. Last Monday evening Miss Berry's secondary pupils gave a recital, the participants ranging from beginners to advanced students.

Both Miss Berry and Mr. Smith will return to Missoula Sunday or Monday.

EDITH DAWES WILL HEAD YWCA FOR ENSUING YEAR

Edith Dawes of Hamilton was elected president of the YWCA for the ensuing year at a general election held yesterday on the campus. Other officers named are as follows: Vice-president, Mary Kimball; secretary, Roxie Copenhagen; treasurer, Kathleen Hainline, and undergraduate representative, Elizabeth McCoy.

The other officers comprising the YWCA cabinet are appointive and the newly elected officers will name women to fill these positions some time soon.

JOURNALISTIC FRAT TO PUBLISH HISTORY

A History of Sigma Delta Chi in pamphlet form, edited by Ben Quenel, is being published by the local chapter, and the members hope to have the pamphlet off the press at the time of the Interscholastic track-meet. The New Northwest is doing the printing.

Sigma Delta Chi has graduates in Austria, Germany, China, Hawaii and Canada, and over half the states in the United States have graduates, in a territory from Cambridge, Mass., to Universal City, Cal.

Reed Harman, former student, has returned from Salt Lake City and entered the university after a year's absence.

The Truth Will Out

A FEW days ago H. L. Mencken, sensational editor of the American Mercury, dug down in his bag of editorial tricks and drew out a startling article for the digestion of his reading public. A New York writer let his pen flow freely and the result was a vivid portrayal of certain obscene practices in small western towns. The piece was offensive to a number of high minded, clean thinking individuals—a few of whom happened to be members of a watch and ward society, and the magazine was refused admission to the mails. The author was accused of manifestly attempting to corrupt the morals of youth because he had the audacity to lapse into the realistic. He told the truth about something that reeked when it was put to the light of analytical observation. Americans have a peculiar aversion for reading distasteful truths. There followed a threat of persecution. Mr. Mencken and his attorney were marched to police court in the very shadow of Boston Common, where a hearing was held and the editor subsequently released.

Today Chancellor Brannon and President Clapp reviewed the case of the Frontier, literary magazine, which has come under a storm of indignant protest for an article appearing in the February issue of the publication. Volumes of administrative advice had been received from interested individuals, civic clubs, political contemporaries and numerous organizations which hastened to the defense of a shaky morality. Respectable newspapers, with their noses set for sensationalism, barked forth from their editorial pulpits with unmistakable vigor. High minded citizenry had been outraged. Through an unfortunate choice of words an offensive phrase slipped into print.

Without reviewing the Frontier case or expressing an opinion either as to the obscenity of matter used or the justice of the verdict rendered, it is a victory notable in itself that the findings of the University investigators showed a courageous disregard for the baying of the hounds.

A Case of Separating the Bitter From the Sweet

WHAT greater god was there in all this world of realistic deities than beauty?

Aristotle halted in the midst of profound philosophic reflections to pronounce beauty "the gift of God." Theophrastus, perhaps a bit facetiously, called it "an ivory mischief" and Carneades, fitting subtlety to the obvious importance of the word, termed it "a sovereignty which stands in no need of guards."

How true the observation that time lends itself but vaguely to posterity. Years leap by as a jagged flash of lightning, leaving in their wake the smoldering ashes of prophetic wisdom.

Only a few hundred years ago nations trembled and fell when beauty lifted her hand to toy with the creations of man. Aristotle, Theophrastus and Carneades paid literary tribute to her regal charms. Trojan and Greek warred over Helen of Troy, Caesar trembled before the drooping eyes of Cleopatra and Louis XVI laid France at the feet of Marie Antoinette.

That was yesterday and beauty was a god.

But alas, as love and kisses have given way to marriage bureaus and hygiene, beauty has abdicated in favor of cosmetics and tobacco.

Young women of today, physicians testify, are in grave danger of succumbing to the "nicotine complexion." Feminine pulchritude is kneeling at the shrine of a poisonous weed and rosy cheeks, red lips and ivory white hands are turning the sickly pallor of the cigarette addict. A droop or a wink of the eye, they point out, is no more a symbol of coquetry, but rather the sign of a system saturated with nicotine.

Yes, beauty is a fallen dynasty. And is it because womankind, in the ecstasy of liberty, is failing to separate the bitters from the sweets?

gleaming floor, rugs—everything immaculate. Chrystal Herne's two costumes are distinguished and beautiful, while those of the other women are appropriate and attractive. The drama thus finely set is written with earnestness, terseness, and convincing truth. Craig's wife is a minor and more credible Hedda Gabler. Her husband is put somewhat into the position of Nora, and has to fight for his independence from his tyrannous wife, as she had to for hers from her husband.

"Scarcely has the first act started, when a housekeeper reads from a newspaper to a maid an account of the finding of a Mr. and Mrs. Passmore dead in their home with a revolver near them. Then for an act all reference to this seems to be dropped, and the interest centers around the revolt against Mrs. Craig of Craig's fine, resolute aunt, Miss Austen. She tells Craig that his wife is driving away all his friends, and that she herself can no longer endure living with Mrs. Craig.

"In Act II, the wife is visited by two detectives, who tell her they are looking for a man who was seen leaving the Passmore house on the night of the killing. When they have gone, Craig returns, and tells her he was the man, and that he had been playing cards with Passmore, but left before Mrs. Passmore returned. He says he will tell all he knows to the police. Mrs. Craig's fear of a scandal makes her hysterical, and she lets Craig see that rather than have herself involved in notoriety, she is willing to put him in grave peril. He remembers that his aunt told him that to save himself, he must assert himself. He smashes a favorite statuette of his wife's and as she has forbidden his smoking in the house, begins scattering cigarette ashes over the gleaming floor. At the opening of Act III, Craig is discovered having sat up all night in a large chair. The servants, unable longer to endure Mrs. Craig, are leaving, so are the aunt and her niece from whom Mrs. Craig has deliberately concealed a long distance phone call concerning the girl's dying mother."

The closing action brings out the conflict between Craig's wife, the house, the people and Craig himself. He at last realizes who his wife is and what she has done to affect his life and the lives of those about her.

"What is Craig to do with his termagant wife, who clears his house like a pestilence? Her fate is the logical outcome of her abnormal acts. This latest drama by George Kelly strikes the truest note we have had in an American play since Owen Davis' "Icebound" and it shows that a play may at the same time be thoroughbred and clean, yet intensely interesting. Chrystal Herne as the wife, despite her great beauty and distinction, manages to give an intensely vital performance of this mean, cruel woman. All the cast are excellent, particularly Charles Trowbridge in the difficult role of the husband, Anne Sutherland as the plucky aunt, and Mrs. Shelley Hall as a pathetic little widow."

Craig's wife is one of those terrible women who is home crazy without being crazy about her home. The fact of the matter is that she is really house crazy. As Craig, the dominated husband, says, it has never been a home for him.

This attempt is very different from the "Torchbearers" and "The Show-off." George Kelly achieves recognition in a new type of the drama. It is a character drama, the character in which is universally recognized by an audience and individually shuddered at. As a matter of fact, Mrs. Craig at heart is really a "nice" person with an intense yet common perversion towards keeping her "house in order" and almost disordering the minds of those about her. We suppose this would be called "high comedy" in so far as the situation is true to the commonplace and to the experience of most individuals.

In the closing scene the reviewer wonders whether the house has not created and assimilated Craig's wife rather than Craig's wife creating the house—perhaps, after all, that is the "wonder" the play writer wants to leave in the mind of his audience. George Kelly has written an unusual play, although he has achieved this again by presenting a universal problem of the commonplace to his audience as in "The Torchbearers" and in "The Show-off"—in "The Show-off" particularly.

Montana Fight

November 10, 1917.

Out on the torn gridiron Big Bentz had just finished wiping the sweat from his eyes and a smudge of white from his face—a moment before that white smudge had barred the way to Grizzly victory.

The bell in the tower of old Main hall began to throb. Minute after minute its pean broke against Mount Sentinel and echoed across Missoula. Three hours later it started to falter—then suddenly it burst into the same exultant voice that had first proclaimed more glory for the Copper, Silver and Gold.

Up in the little room under the clock lay a dozen exhausted freshmen and to the end of the swaying rope clung two professors. They were R. H. Jesse and W. N. Jones.

"Daddy" William A. Aber, who founded Aber Day at University of Montana was graduated from the State Normal school at Oswego, New York, in 1872. After receiving a degree from Yale in 1878 he pursued post graduate studies at John Hopkins, Cornell and Chicago Universities. He held positions at the Normal schools of Oswego and Onondago, New York, after which he was an instructor at Male high school, Louisville, Ky., and at Atlanta University, Atlanta, Ga. Prior to coming to Montana he held a professorship of Latin and Greek at the University of Utah. "Daddy" Aber was a member of the original Montana faculty. At the University he taught English and Latin until his death in 1918.

At the first house meeting of the quarter it was decided that the class of '29 should give a gift to North hall. A committee was appointed to select the gift, which will be presented later in the quarter.

REVIEWS of Books and Plays

Readers of the review column will be interested in the following excerpt from a dramatic review of "Craig's Wife," by Roland Holt of the Henry Holt Publishing company. Mr. Holt writes reviews of plays and players in New York.

"Craig's Wife," by George Kelly, would not have discredited Ibsen. It is a great advance from his slapstick "Torchbearers," his clever one-act vaudeville sketch, "The Flattering Word" (once given by the Guild), and his admirable character study, "The Show-off." It is given a well-nigh perfect production by the tasteful and generous producer of his last-named play and also this season of "Enchanted April," Rosalie Stewart. Sheldon K. Vile (a Guild graduate) provides the single scene—an ample, luxurious living room with stairs,

"When a Man Bites a Dog ---That's News!"

Horace Greeley, the great American publisher, who advised young men to go west and grow up with the country, once refused a story for his newspaper about a dog biting a man.

"There is no news," he said, "in a dog biting a man, but when a man bites a dog, that's news."

The commonplace is not news; it is merely a reiteration of an old, established fact. But there is news—living news—in a busy, thriving store like this, which is gripping to those who pride themselves upon being well posted at all times.

There is news that reflects the opportunities and the economics of the family purse; that informs each member of the things that are new; that are stylish, that are interesting, that should be possessed.

One seldom enters our Store without being impressed with the new things that before had not come to his attention.

This plan has been tried in many of the larger universities in the country and the result of the experiment will be watched with interest by football experts of the Northwest.

Magdalene Larsen Wins French Honors

Francis, I have seen "The Nephew of Mr. Pairier," "Mozart," a new play by Sacha Guitry, "The Valkyres," at the opera, and "Cyrano de Bergerac" at the Theatre of the Port Saint-Martin." The advanced class in French is at present studying "Cyrano de Bergerac."

Miss Larsen is studying in Paris under the auspices of the University of Delaware, who sends a select group of Senior students majoring in French, abroad every year as a better laboratory field for the study of French. The trip, which includes side trips as well as studying, is personally conducted at minimum cost, and several students from other places are privileged to go. Magdalene Larsen was the only girl west of the Mississippi to successfully compete by giving proof of exceptional ability in French and a wide scope of collateral reading. She attended the University here last year, and sailed for Paris in July, in time to take summer courses at the Sorbonne in which she passed highest in every subject. This year she is taking the regular studies. "This university can be proud of Magdalene's record," said Mrs. Arnoldson, "for it is a distinction even for a native student to receive honorable mention from the Sorbonne."

BETTER WEATHER PERMITS TRACKSTERS TO SHOW FORM

Interclass Meet Next Week Will Be Test of Squad to Show Ability

Montana's 1926 track prospects while not the best, due to inclement weather, a soft track and a small squad, took on a more brilliant hue this week with the majority of the cinder artists rapidly getting into condition. State records, while not in serious danger, were made to feel uneasy as Coach Stewart put his team through its hardest week's practice.

Interclass Meet Next Week

With the interclass meet only one week away and with the quadrangular meet at Spokane following it the next week-end, Stewart has been making the most of the meager hours of sunshine. While still weak in the hurdles, weights and jumps, Montana is given a good chance to cop the opening event. The high wind has swept most of the top cinder coating from the track and this is being replaced.

Daily rolling and wetting is getting the track in condition and it should be in splendid shape for the state interscholastic even though it is very soft at present.

Nearly all of the veterans are doing creditable work and some of last year's frosh team are pushing the varsity members for places on the squad. A half mile relay team composed of Captain Milton Ritter, Sweet, Coyle and Blumenthal did the distance in 1:31 which nearly equals the state record and closely approached the conference title mark. Gillette has been clocked in several half mile races and is running the half mile in almost record time.

Sweet and Coyle Look Good

Sweet and Coyle have both run the 100 in a trifle over 10 seconds and Coyle and Miller have bettered 11 feet in the pole vault. Blumenthal, Ritter, and Stark have stepped several fast quarters while Adams, from last year's frosh team, has done the distance in 53 flat. Bessey and Pearce are tossing the javelin in mid-season form, Bessey making one heave of more than 175 feet.

"Lanky" Spaulding nearly equaled his high hurdle mark set last year when he topped the sticks in 16.2, within one-tenth of a second of the state record held by him. Blumenthal and Tysel have run the 880 in good time, and Martin and Williams are within five seconds of the two-mile record. The weights are being taken care of by Moe and Whitcomb, while Bruce McKinnon, Miller and Sweet are doing nice broad jumping. Stewart has not called his high jumpers to the pit and has held no tryouts in the low hurdles.

SCORP ANDERSON HAS CHARGE OF FRESHMAN TEAM

More than 18 frosh have reported for baseball practice under the leadership of Scorp Anderson, Varsity shortstop.

Their first regular practice was held Wednesday afternoon, and consisted of playing catch and pepper. This afternoon they are to start batting practice and get down to regular work. If the frosh show any promise and get together enough to form a fair club, they will get to practice against the Varsity in future games.

There are a number of men out for the catcher's job, including Caraway, Fowell, Fogarty and Stewart. Two men are working for mound positions, Himsel and Bodenburk. Fristovick is out for first; Callaway, shortstop; and W. Kelly, fielder. Other men out for the team are: Thompson, Brown and Peterson.

FORESTERS RECEIVE VALUABLE SPECIMEN

Probably the finest moosehead in the world outside of the magnificent specimen in the Smithsonian institute at Washington has been presented to the Forestry school and Forestry club by George A. Merck of the Merck Chemical company of New York. The head which has a spread of 58 inches, a 12-inch blade and measures 26 inches from brow to tip of nose, was received Wednesday afternoon.

The Forestry club will place the specimen over the fireplace in the Forestry library. It is one of a series of donations which will transpire the Forestry club rooms into a big hunt room in which will be placed the choicest specimens of the rapidly disappearing big game of America.

The head was secured through the relationship of Mr. Merck with Dr. C. A. Schenck, a special lecturer in the school during the winter quarter and who is now on a tour of Europe with a party of American foresters.

POISON

Calabar Bean Tempts Frosh to Risk Death

On the banks of the river Calabar, emptying into the Gulf of New Guinea, grows a fruitful vine yielding a large, dark bean, known as the Calabar or ordeal bean. The natives inhabiting this region, superstitious and savage, cultivate and preserve this shrub, to insure a smooth and straight path to justice. The chief characteristic of this gentle plant is its poisonous potentialities. Less than half a bean will produce death!

The natives, in their fair justice, forcibly administer a bean to the culprit caught in the meshes of the law. If, by chance, he repulses it he is judged innocent; if he absorbs it and it has a purging effect without killing him, he is guilty and is sold into slavery; but, if it kills him, as is usually the case, he died in consequence of his act. How smoothly runs the machinery of justice.

A contrite and unprepared freshman in the pharmacy class noticed the pretty bean the dean was lecturing on. What white, toothsome meat, thought he. Thereupon he consumed it in one bite. The doctors said it was flu. He didn't die; but he—almost did. The next day he came prepared.

HELEN TERRY ADDRESSES INTERNATIONAL MEMBERS

Miss Helen Terry of the Foreign Language department addressed the International club at its first meeting of the Spring quarter last Friday evening at the home of William L. Young, club advisor. Her subject was "American Cosmopolitan Clubs." Miss Terry is a member of the Cosmopolitan club of the University of Ohio.

During the business meeting of the club, Alexander Stepanoff was elected president for the third consecutive time. Fernan Letellier of Belgium was elected vice-president, and Robert Mario, Philippine Islands, was elected secretary-treasurer.

Refreshments were served after the meeting.

Miss Catherine Allen, national secretary of the YWCA, is a guest of North hall during her stay in Missoula.

Elmer Meyer of Anacosta spent several days last week in Missoula as the guest of Walter Danielson and Myles Thomas. Meyer graduated from Annapolis in 1922.

SPORTY-VENTS

The "benefit" card that was to be held at the fort tomorrow night has been postponed. It will be held a week from tomorrow night. Following is the telegram received giving reasons for the postponement:

Butte, Montana, April 8, 1926.

To Holly Wilkinson, Missoula, Montana.

Owing to split lip received in Kelly go, which was reopened training for about Saturday night, request postponement from April 10 to April 17. Impossible for me to box Saturday night.

LES KENNEDY.

This week of extra time will give the collegian boxers a better chance in the card, because some of them were called upon so suddenly that they have not had time to whip into shape.

Montana State's track squad has the following men back from last year's crew: Captain Hodgson, half miler; Cottam, hurdler; Bunney, sprinter; Thompson and Yandell, quarter milers; Bade, miler; Hubbard, Weydemeyer and Cannon, pole vaulters; Yedlicka, weight man; Livers and Hams, sprinters. The State College also expects to sieve a few good men from the yearling class.

Three days of fair weather this week have brought out a splendid development in the diamond artists. Infield practices have become more snappy, chuckers are beginning to feel like opening up and the old chatter is also flowing more freely.

Doc Schreiber, baseball coach, is stressing the importance of favoring the man on. He is having the boys center every effort on getting runners around the paths, even though, at times, it may mean spoiling a chance to boost individual batting averages.

Major Milburn, Montana's new football and baseball mentor, being an army man, will most likely have little difficulty in getting good discipline into his squad next fall. But there is a big job that he will have to do, one that may not be easy to master, and that is to muzzle all outside influences.

Whether Charles Hoff, world's champion pole vaulter, will appear at the Relay Carnival at Seattle, May 1, remains an open question. No answer to a telegram inviting him to visit Seattle has been received.

With the exception of last week, track weather at W.S.C. has been so good that the squad is farther advanced for the first part of April than it has been for many years. This early season work has given Doc Bohler an opportunity to give his men a good deal of extra preliminary work, and, although the prospects were not bright at first, W.S.C. promises to have a well balanced aggregation which will give any team a hard run for honors.

Don't tell a baseball or track man not to lose his temper-ature, because none of them has been hot enough to get excited as yet.

ALLEN ADDRESSES UNIVERSITY WOMEN

Miss Katherine Allen of the personal bureau of the national YWCA organization, spoke to the women of the University Wednesday afternoon on the subject of "The YWCA as a Vocation."

Miss Allen emphasized the fact that young women who have just been graduated from a University can step immediately into any one of the several phases of YWCA work. In pointing out these opportunities of obtaining positions, Miss Allen sketched the general work of the organization at home and abroad, in cities, towns, rural districts and on college and University campuses, as well as of the various branches of work with the YWCA carries on and of its training schools, where women and girls are trained for executive and secretarial positions.

Miss Allen is traveling over the country recruiting girls for YWCA secretaries and Girl Reserve leaders.

PHARMACISTS PLAN FOR ANNUAL SPRING PICNIC

At a meeting of the Pharmacy club Thursday morning, Edwin Whitworth was named chairman of a committee to plan the time and place for the club's annual spring picnic, on or about May 1.

The club has practically abandoned the idea of having a dancing party in favor of a bigger picnic. Last spring the outing was held up the Rattlesnake, but the committee plans to choose another place this year. It will make all arrangements for transportation and food and will prepare a program to include games, hikes and entertaining talks.

TWO-ACT COMEDY TO BE PRESENTED BY SPANISH CLUB

"Zaragueta" by Tanya and Baus, a two-act comedy, will be presented to the public by students of the Spanish department the first part of June, under the auspices of the Spanish club. A slight admission charge will be made to further the organization of the club.

"Zaragueta" is given in the fourth Spanish courses at the University and is well known to Spanish students. "It is a very popular comedy, modern in spirit, American in idea, and especially adapted for college purposes," observed Elsie Eminger, president of Spanish club. "Even those who have only elementary knowledge of Spanish, or none at all, would enjoy the play because there is so much panto-

A PERSONAL LETTER TO EVERY UNIVERSITY STUDENT

And—it's about a photoplay which is coming to Missoula next Sunday—"The Dark Angel," with Ronald Colman, the most magnetic lover on the screen, and Vilma Banky, the bewitching Beauty from Budapest.

Here is a photoplay adapted from a world famous stage success and as a photoplay it has been classed along with the finest ever produced.

We feel that it is one picture in 500 which you will have the opportunity of seeing and should see.

It is a well known fact that the Wilma has its pick and choice of the entire photoplay field—and in putting our personal endorsement upon "The Dark Angel," we do so with but one thought in mind. That is this—Big pictures should be encouraged by all who appreciate the bigger and better brand of photoplays and "The Dark Angel" is one of the outstanding photoplays of the year.

Sincerely,

THE WILMA.
Per W. A. Simons.
