Professor Proctor will hold office hours in the Correspondence Study room in Main hall from 1:30 to 3:30 o'clock and will speak again informally in the auditorium at 3:30.

Consultation Hours Planned

The consultation hours are planned for all University students, particularly for seniors and students having questions about various vocations and possibilities. The informal discussion at 3:30 is planned so that students, as a group, can join with Professor Proctor in discussing questions of general interest.

Professor Proctor is head of the department of Teacher Training in the School of Education at Stanford university, and is an authority on educational and vocational guidance as well as upon educational administration. His books cover both fields. His speaking engagements in the northwest include the Vocational Congress at Bozeman, State Normal School, Cheney, Washington and the University of Oregon.

VOICE CLASS GIVES PLAY OVER RADIO

"Danger" a play by Richard Hughes written especially for the radio was broadcast as part of the program at the annual banquet of the Missoula chapter of commerce held at the Florence hotel last night.

Harry Hooser, Marion Hall, and Wilbur Jurden, members of the class in voice training under the direction of William Angus were heard in this play. "Danger" will be presented again the evening of Feb. 1 with two other one-act plays, "Riders to the Sea" and "The Dear Departed."

MASQUERS WILL GIVE TWO ONE-ACT PLAYS

"The Groove" by George Middleton and "Cabbages" by Edward Staadt has been chosen by William Angus, director of dramatics as the second of a series of one-act plays to be presented by the Masquers. A tentative date, Feb. 15, has been set for these plays.

"The Groove" deals with the sacrifice an older sister has to make to insure the happiness of a younger sister. Lillian Bell will take the part of the older sister and Ithen Traver that of the younger. "Cabbages" portrays the anxious efforts of a German family to break into society, when an oil well on the old farm begins to spout at the rate of a thousand dollars a minute. According to Mr. Angus the cast for this play has not as yet been definitely chosen.

George Middleton is well known as the writer of numerous successful one-act plays including "Embers" and "Madonna." In collaboration with Guy Bolton he has written several Broadway successes such as "Polly With a Past" and "Adam and Eve."

"Cabbages" by Edward Staadt is numbered among the Playshop Plays at Northwestern university. Mr. Staadt is at the present director of dramatics at the University of Minnesota.

Alice Johnson and Mildred Gullidge are to direct these plays under the supervision of Mr. Angus.

Crumbaker to Teach Survey of Economics

Prof. Calvin Crumbaker made the announcement today that the course in Survey of Economics which was scheduled for 9 o'clock in the spring quarter, has been changed to 8 o'clock.

In speaking of this course Professor Crumbaker said, "This is an ideal course for students who wish to take some economics but do not wish to major in the department, there are almost no technicalities such as are found in the regular course of economics 14." This course was originally intended for majors of other departments. However, it is open to anyone with sophomore standing who wishes to enroll. It will not be counted toward a major in economics but can be used as a prerequisite for Economics 14b. Mr. Crumbaker will have charge of the class.

Jewish Engineers Do Penance; Drag 30 lbs.

Three-hundred and thirty pounds of files from the morgue of the Journalism shack are being carried about the campus this week. Sounds like a lot of newspapers, doesn't it? Well it is, just ask one of the eleven pledges of Alpha Kappa Psi, men's national business administration fraternity, and he'll tell you so.

Each pledge of the fraternity who is to be initiated next Thursday was required to carry to each of his classes during the week a bound volume of Anaconda Standards, each volume weighing approximately thirty pounds. Not only this but each one of the "Jewish engineers" is required to carry a pencil behind his ear at all times during the week.

The committee in charge of the ball will spring a surprise on the attending Greeks, in the form of—Well Wait and See, but the surprise will make for added pep and joy.

Dean Gillespie states that all freshmen attending the dance are barred from wearing tuxedos. All Greek lettermen whose chapters are not represented on this campus are cordially invited to attend the dance.

Chaperones for the dance are President and Mrs. Charles H. Clapp, Dr. and Mrs. R. H. Jesse, Prof. and Mrs. J. E. Miller, and Mrs. Harriet Rankin Sedman.

DANCE AT LOYOLA FOLLOWS HI-JINX

Students Must Have ASUM Tickets for Mixer

Sheridan's Band Will Play for the Show and Dance; Six Full Acts and 19 Skits Planned for Feature Event

Promptly at 8 o'clock Saturday evening, the Wilma theater curtain will be raised and the 1928 Hi-Jinx show will be on. Those who are in charge of the production promise that it will excel all other efforts of former years.

Twenty-five Acts

The directors of the show are planning on having the acts run off with the speed of a professional road show. In planning the production six main acts have been specialized and these are to be enhanced by 18 three-quarter stage skits, that have, according to those who have seen them, taken on the appearance of being handled by professional talent.

At 5 o'clock yesterday evening the house was sold out, giving an indication of the popularity of the show. Special sections on the main floor numbering some 240 seats, which had been reserved for the co-eds were also sold out. Closely following the women's rush for choice seats came the fraternity men on the campus with lists of 40 members or more desiring block sections for their respective groups.

The committee in charge of the seat sales stated that the interest shown by the Missoula show fans was entirely unexpected. Telephone calls requesting reserved seats began coming in Tuesday before the sale started and continued until Thursday night when it was found that all seats were sold. Committee members expressed their gratification upon seeing that, although no previous announcement had been made to the effect that Hi-Jinx is traditionally a no-date affair, the men and women are buying seats in group lots.

Sheridan's Opens It

Sheridan's 10 piece band will stage a high class skit that will be presented as the curtain raiser for the main show. Following this opening number the female chorus consisting of prominent football and track stars will appear. This chorus will appear often throughout the entire show.

Spys to Get Theirs

The committee in charge, after giving the matter due consideration, has come to the conclusion that it would be very unfair not to give the co-eds, who made their unrevised copy the common talk of the campus, some punishment. With this in mind they have scheduled a special act in which they will be involved. Besides the special act several others have been entirely revised and the leading roles in many cases will be taken by the "Hot Air" press agents who will have lines that reveal choice scandal about themselves that was thought unfit for the original manuscript.

Dance Afterwards

Immediately following the show the annual Hi-Jinx dance will take place at the Loyola auditorium. Sheridan's band has been secured by the dance committee to furnish the music. All students who are planning to attend the dance must have their ASUM tickets with them to be presented at the door. Adequate transportation facilities both by street car and bus will be on hand to take the crowd from the dance back to the campus.

ROTC Students to See Special War Pictures

Sophomore students in military science will be shown a special set of motion pictures on the activities of the American dough boy in the World war, Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, in the Forestry library.

The pictures were sent here at the request of Major F. W. Milburn, head of the Military Science department, from the Ninth Corps Area headquarters at San Francisco. They are the official pictures by the army signal corps during the war.

Five reels of films will be shown, picturing the troops on their way to France, in France, at the front, going over the top, the army of occupation, and homeward bound.

JUNIORS TO WEAR TRI-COLORED COATS

Maroon blanket coats trimmed with silver and gold were chosen as class garb by members of the Junior class at a meeting in Main hall Wednesday afternoon. The numerals "29", will appear on the left pocket.

Class members who desire these coats should order them at the Sport Shop now, according to John Rankin, president of the class. Girls will be specially fitted for sleeve length.

The coats will cost $4.50. All orders will require a deposit of $2.50.

AUTHORS' "WHO'S WHO" LISTS DR. N. J. LENNES

Dr. N. J. Lennes, professor of Mathematics, has the distinction of being listed in "Who's Who Among North American Authors." The book deals solely with authors and writers. Mr. Lennes is nationally recognized in the field of mathematics, and is the author of several text books now in use in high schools and colleges.

MORONI OLSEN SAYS PLAY IS IMPORTANT

The play is more important than the actor, believes Moroni Olsen, who himself selects the dramas they produce. Sometimes he is two or three months deciding his repertoire for the season. Whatever he chooses must in his estimation, hold popular appeal plus literary value.

"I have found, he states, 'that the public appreciates plays which have literary worth. They are growing tired of the 'Abie's Irish Rose' sort of stuff. They want something with a philosophy perhaps, or at least with artistry in its lines."

The present cast of the Moroni Olsen players is practically the same as when they organized five years ago. It is by retaining the same members that he hopes to develop a superior company.

Their circuit covers Colorado, Wyoming, Montana, Idaho, Washington, Oregon and Utah, and this year they are entering California and Nevada.

In bringing "The Detour" by Owen Davis to Missoula at the Labert theater on Feb. 6, the company is fully within its ideal of presenting worth while plays in a worth while manner and local playgoers should not miss this opportunity of seeing this truthful, very human play of life on a Long Island farm.

AIR PUMP INSTALLED IN PHYSICS LABORATORY

An air pressure pump to be used by the class in glass blowing, has been installed in the physics laboratory, by Edward Little, assistant professor of Physics. The pump is driven by a water motor and will be a help to the glass blowers.

Hi-Jinx Tomorrow

HI-JINX will be given tomorrow night for the first time since 1924. The Deans' Council has reinstated this old tradition on probation. It is now up to the students themselves to determine whether or not Hi-Jinx remains a tradition or becomes a memory.

The committee in charge is responsible for the general character of the production. The members have expressed the belief that the conduct of the student body, tomorrow night, will be above condemnation. The managers have reserved the right to ring down the curtain at any time the audience becomes unruly or the players in the cast insert lines that are not in the manuscript. This would mean the end of the 1928 Hi-Jinx as well as those to follow.

Following the show the annual mixer will be held in the Loyola auditorium. Here again the success of Hi-Jinx depends upon the actions of the students.

The Deans' Council has played square in allowing the show to be staged. Let's play square with them and insure the production for next year.

"Bull"

THE only real all-American all-collegiate custom is the "bull" session. It has been said that if three American college men were cast alone on a desert isle their first act would be to organize a fraternity with Greek letters and elect its officers. Our guess is that they would have to interrupt the "bull" session at least three times before they got these tasks accomplished. A college man has yet to be too busy to cast the "bull".

When college women "session," they "cat"—no good in that. When men "bull," they discuss every question that happens to come into anyone's head. No man claims to be egotistical but every one entered in any session is sure to have at least one idea on any subject on earth. "Bull" sessions are rarely debates—no one ever gets time to say all he thinks about a subject. The subjects are never deliberately entered upon—it is amazing from what peculiar places they will spring.

What is the point of all this? Just this—a college man receives his formal education in the classroom; he picks up his informal education from the most peculiar places, and chief of these is the session he loves. Man is one of the most stubborn of animals, for he will never admit defeat or a changed opinion. Nevertheless, most men's opinions are based on the arguments they have heard in sessions. Though they do not admit it at the time, the participants in a session assimilate and re-vamp for their own use the ideas they have heard expressed in that session. A mind insists on growth of some sort. The channels into which it is thus guided are not bad.

Great stuff, these bull sessions. We're all for them. Drop in again some time. Silver and Gold.

Maybe 'Tis ??? May be Taint!

FROM THE DEPTHS
First brilliant student: "How did you duck through the grade point wave last quarter?"
Second h. s.: "Oh, nozze gude. I'm down to C-level again."

BREATHES THERE THE MAN WITH SOUL SO DEAD WHO NEVER TO HIMSELF HATH SAID, "I AM AN AVERAGE COLLEGE MAN."
It hasn't happened yet, to Woozle Bird's notice, but we are waiting with bated breath ("Baited with what?" you ask. Do be quiet!) for an announcement from some aspiring city editor or college group to the effect that the AVERAGE college man has been unearthed.

Can't you just see it? First a story in the school paper, and then the news would get around, as news will, and first thing y'know, you'd be reading in The Kaimin, the Denver Post, the New York Times and the Police Gazette all about the AVERAGE college man.

Mayor Walker would be late as usual to greet his arrival in New York City, where our hero would be handed the keys to the city and a 3 a. m. permission at the night clubs. After a short drive to Grant's tomb, the AVERAGE college man would be "besieged by reporters," and in short time we'd have the following notices: "For several years I was run-down and in poor health. My complexion and my grades were equally bad. But now that I have taken four cases of Sockem Malt products, my troubles have vanished."

"I flunked in Public Speaking three times, and thought that my career as a politician would be ruined. A friend recommended Rotted Old cigarettes, and I heartily endorse their use by the college man. After smoking a truck-load, I finally received a D in Public Speaking."

"When I visited President Coolidge at the White House and had lunch with him, I was greatly impressed by his sincerity," John Smith, the AVERAGE COLLEGE MAN told reporters today. "He means everything he says, and he doesn't talk much." He also informed reporters that he had received a wire from Alma Mater college stating that he, the AVERAGE College Man, had flunked out."

HOMESICK CO-EDS

In a few years

On the campus

You meet so

Many types of girl.

There's the co-ed

Who's a good sport

And gets by large.

Then, there's her double

Who just doesn't rate

The dates and we say

It's because she hasn't

Got "IT."

But there is one type

Who gets me down

More than any other.

—When the week-end

Drugs around and

There isn't a date in sight

She packs her bag.

And Tuesday's Kaimin

says:—

..... of Podunk, spent

The week-end visiting

With her parents.

Blah!

TO AN UNKNOWN GIRL

Last night I dreamed.

Of peaks, silver in the moonlight.

Of life and love.

And in my dreams I was returning.

Like the homing dove.

Last night I dreamed—

But in the dull, dead morning.

Forlorn and blue,

I thought to cease my futile dreaming,

Then I saw you!

Again I dreamed,

As I watched the glory of your eyes.

Your soft silk hair—

And heard the silver cadence of your voice

How could I dare?

I thought I could to my philosophy

hold true

Last night I dreamed, today I dream of you!

NOT ANOTHER ONE OF THOSE WILD FAIRY TALES

Two-score co-eds descended the trolley steps in front of the First National, and jumped from leaping Lenas that were parked near the Wilma. You guessed it, it was Hi-Jinx night. Two-score co-eds presented two-score tickets, and trotted gaily in.

They comprised the strongest female tong on the campus, and as they crushed through the main entry, fluttered protectively around their most precious pledge, a recent acquisition, who was more beautiful than she was good. More popular than any freshman has a right to be, the fraternity boys gave her a big rush, so the strongest female tong, not to be outdone, hung the iron and paint, and acclaimed the freshman's honor with kisses from all the actives and a tins.

Any girl worth their while, should be worth a big razz, in their opinion, and the actives were anxious that their little Eva should not take the foolishness of Hi-Jinx too severely. After all, a heavy razz would reflect honor and glory upon the chapter that had pledged such a jewel.

REVIEWS

"The Sins of the Fathers."

By Felix Hollaender.

$2.50.

Payson and Clark, Ltd.

Calculated for American consumption, the German novel, "Der Eid des Stefan Muller," has been rechristened by the translator "The Sins of the Fathers"—as fitting a title, perhaps, as "Hester Steps Out" for Hawthorne's "The Scarlet Letter," were it translated into French.

To one who has seen the German film "Variety," directed by Maurice Dillout and produced by U. P. A., "The Sins of the Fathers" is a familiar theme. It is possible, one concludes, that "Variety's" popularity in this country is accountable for the appearance of Hollaender's novel in English, which is not an unfavorable conclusion to draw.

Depending upon mechanical and heavy allegories, the book wades into an almost incomprehensible state of intricacy in its last chapters, which is typical of German art, and which is confusing to the American; its weak qualities, however, end with this result. Love, marriage, adultery and its faults are the problems with which the book concerns itself; such issues could not fail to attract a public on this side of the Atlantic, and it is surprising, too, to learn that the novel's diction is clear and lyric, achieving a beauty, often, which would annoy the superior American novelists. To follow the book's own phrase—in passages "it is so beautiful that one ceases to think, and begins to dream."

Looking Back

ONE YEAR AGO

Montana Kaimin has acquired two new news services. The Intercollegiate Press is a recent addition to college news services and its purpose is to give a summary of the happenings of all the colleges and universities in the United States. The other news service is the Pacific Coast Conference Press association. Only members of the Pacific Coast conference are allowed membership in this service.

Harold "Gus" Reely has been appointed manager of Varsity Football which will be held March 9.

SIX YEARS AGO

The election of a Yell King will be held next Wednesday. The only petition for the office received so far is that of William Hughes who is holding the office temporarily.

Plans are complete for the Forestry ball. This year the dance will be held in Union hall as the gymnasium is not large enough to accommodate the crowd. The Forestry Kaimin will be published April 1, according to plans made at a forestry meeting last night.

"Silver Tip" and "The Grizzly" are two of the names suggested for the new comic magazine which is to be published at the University soon. A year's subscription will be given for the best name submitted.

Sigma Nu fraternity won the first hockey game on the city rink Sunday.

About seventy-five couples attended the Inter-fraternity formal given at the Union hall, Friday evening.

TWELVE YEARS AGO

Two new Greek letter fraternities have organized on the University campus. One is Delta Rho and the other is Alpha Delta Alpha.

Thirty-six freshmen were pledged by four fraternities and three sororities. The number is lower this year due to low scholarship, primarily.

Paris Fashion Monitor Explains Perfume Use

BY YORA

"Um-m-m, that's bad," muttered Lucien Lelong as he reached to recover the handkerchief I had dropped. It was my second interview at the Paris establishment of the well-known dressmaker and perfumer. Every time I entered the artistic ground floor saloon devoted to the display of perfumes and beauty preparations a dozen questions pertinent to their use demanded an immediate answer.

But here I had clumsily dropped my handkerchief and . . . What had M. Lelong said? I looked at the offending handkerchief. It was a respectable white linen square bordered in blue (a purchase made last spring with my text book relate at the university cooperative store.)

"What's bad about it?" I questioned.

"It's perfumed," replied the famous monitor of Paris fashion.

"Of course, and with Lelong 'B.' I rejoined proudly.

"A total waste," asserted M. Lelong. "Don't you know there are reasons why you should never perfume your handkerchief."

He must have noticed my amazement; for he continued without waiting for a reply.

"First of all a perfume never exhales its proper odor until twenty-four hours after it has been sprayed. By that time your handkerchief has been discarded, and the true essence of the perfume lost. Furthermore, the laundry soap used to wash your handkerchief kills the delicate scent of the perfume, and it is restored to your bureau drawer, clean but unperfumed."

I thought of the sentiment attached by my mother's generation to a partly "hankie" of lace and its accompanying odor of violet . . . a sentiment now banished by this practical, modern perfume philosopher. My father still kept such an intimate memento, now frail with age, tucked away in his black ebony curio chest.

"But where does perfume belong if not on a handkerchief?" I questioned.

"You will find that most women use it in sports, a dab just before going out for the evening, a drop on their hair, a touch behind the ears . . . but that only proves that they are amateurs and have not learned how to apply it," explained M. Lelong.

"Instead, lingerie should be generously sprayed with the perfume. The odor of a good essence will last for several days and improve by its contact with fine silk. Never apply it to any frock except one made of woolen material. In that case use a generous quantity of the fragrance."

"And what about furs? Should they be perfumed?" I inquired, eager for more secrets hitherto reserved for the fashionable Parisienne.

"Yes, certainly," answered M. Lelong. "The nature of fur helps to strengthen and improve a fine perfume. The fragrance, in return, removes the unpleasant animal odor of the pelt."

Louella Burkett had Marguerite Wentz as dinner guest at Corbin hall Wednesday.

Fraternities at the University of Southern California have been instructed by the administration, to have housemothers.

Other Campuses

Lawrence, Kan.—(IP)—A vertical type radio aerial, involving a new principle, has been invented by Dinsmore Alter, professor in the department of astronomy at the University of Kansas, and is now being manufactured in the professor's private workshop.

The new aerial consists of six insulated-wires and a seventh wire enclosed within a small cable which serves as a central receiving member. The seven wires are strung vertically and parallel on wooden separators and the complete unit may be attached to a board protruding from the eyes of a house, or to a pole. The standard aerial of this kind is 30 feet long, although it may be made of greater length.

Madison, Wis.—(IP)—Entranced, without doubt, by the stories of student record flying lessons, Winston Kratz, '28, of the University of Wisconsin is thinking better of his recent solo flight.

Kratz had been taught to fly in a few hours by the Madison Airport. Enthused by his success, Kratz returned to the port the other day, and without seeking permission started out with one of the planes, and was successful in making a clean landing on the ice of Lake Mendota. Taking his fraternity brother, Fred M. Furbank, '31, into the cockpit with him, he started out again, but about 50 feet up the plane ducked, and tumbled to the ice. Furbank is still in the hospital, and Kratz is thinking over his escapade.

The 1928 Kynewsbook, annual at the University of Denver, may be done away with for this year. The authorities state that the students lack interest in the year book and so far have not signed for enough copies.

Students at Oklahoma staged a revolution a few weeks ago. The strike was called for the matter of regulating dates. The students demanded that they have dates every evening and all day Sunday and that Friday and Saturday night dances last until midnight.

Beware, Eds

"Dirty Sockettes" Reveals Your Red Past

Prowlers are inhuman creatures—eavesdroppers are worse.

A muffled whispering came through the locked doors of a certain room in a certain building on the campus, a man came along and stopped to listen to the noise. It was evident that behind the doors some "dirt" had been collected and was now being assorted. They were not men's voices—therefore it was not a Hi-Jinx session. The person stopped looking through the keyhole and then, there was a silence from within for he had stepped on a squeaky board. As he sneaked away the muttering started again. Every now and then the voices would cease and the people in the room would listen for further sounds of the eavesdropper.

This was a very serious occasion because the 1928 Edition of "Dirty Sockettes" was being prepared for publication to be sold Jan. 28 at the Wilma theater.

It will soon be off the press—"Eds" beware—whether you have prowled or not you will be featured—Bring your dimes to Hi-Jinx and find out what the co-eds think of you! Co-eds—bring your money and get the real low-down on the boy friend!

Madison, Wis.—(IP)—The men's student government body at the University of Wisconsin, dead for over two years in reality was formally buried this month when the body declared itself dissolved.

The second annual "step-week" will be held at Jamestown college this year. The purpose of "step-week" is to give the men a chance to refrain from asking the girls for dates and to give the co-eds a chance to make a few dates.

CUBS TRIM POLY 40 TO 29; WILL PLAY AGAIN TONIGHT

Frosh Second String Played
Most of Game; Rohlfis
High Point Man

Playing before a handful of students and townspeople, the Cub basketball team trimmed the Billings Polytechnic squad 40 to 29 in their game last night. Coach Adams used his second string most of the game. The first quarter ended with the frosh on the big end of a 29 to 9 score. The Cubs will meet the Poly again tonight in the University gym.

Rohlfis High Scorer

Billy Rohlfis was high score man for the evening chalking up 11 points in the 15 minutes that he played. Lockwood showed up well at center, using his height to a good advantage in taking the ball off of the backboard for another try at the hoop.

The Poly quint started out slow the first half and seemed to be dead on their feet. Wild passes and fumbles were numerous and cost the Billings boys more than one basket. During the last half, they rallied and led by Heffern and Young came within six points of tying the score at 33 all.

The score:

Oberlin, Ohio. (IP)—Sport roadsters as a substitute for Phi Beta Kappa keys as scholarship awards were suggested by Professor John Wolfenden, of Oxford, England, for five months a professor of chemistry here. He declared that not enough incentive is given to students in this country to strive for scholastic honors.

Catcher-Boxer

Jack Smith, catcher with the New York American League baseball team, who is training for heavyweight boxing bouts. Smith is under the management of Eddie Hally, scout of the Chicago Cubs.

SPORT SPURTS

University of Oregon now holds a trackmeet similar to the Montana Intercollegiate. All the Oregon high schools, numbering more than 250, are invited but the number of athletes, competing, is considerably smaller than here. The affair is a relay carnival with special track and field events as the same plan as the University of Washington relay carnival.

Standings in the northern division of the Pacific Coast conference at present leave the Grizzlies in the 1000 column, with none lost. Washington, Oregon and O.A.C. have each won two, Montana has won one and Idaho has dropped three, while W.B.C. has lost all of its four contests.

Big Jim Pinkerton, elongated center of the O.A.C. squad for the last two seasons, has not enrolled in school there for this semester. The percentage system of the Beavers will have a lower rate of interest without this big boy.

Washington State college's tourney, which corresponds to the "M" club tournament here, takes the form of a smoker. It was held this week at the Pullman school, with 16 members of the boxing class furnishing the amusement.

Freshmen! Where's that class spirit we heard so much about last quarter? Some of it might be shown at the games tonight and tomorrow. It was certainly lacking as far as attendance was concerned last night.

FACULTY ACTIVITY TICKET

Faculty representation to student activities has come to the attention of the Athletic Board. Undoubtedly better campus spirit would result from an increased interest of faculty members in student activities. A mistaken difficulty seems to be prevalent in that the faculty are required to pay regular admission. Instead, the faculty members are entitled to purchase the $5 quarterly activity ticket, thus entitling them to all benefits there accruing, or faculty members may purchase the $2.50 athletic ticket allowing admission to varsity games. Athletic tickets may be purchased at the ASUM offices by the faculty for the remaining basketball games at the regular price of $2.50.

Missoula Gives Good Support to Grizzly Basketball Contests

That Missoula townspeople are supporting the University basketball team this year may be drawn from the fact that there were 500 paid admissions at the University-State College game Monday night. This number consisted, however, of men, women and children, so that total admissions were $521.25. According to information from the office of the auditor and student organizations, $350 was budgeted for the Grizzly-Robert game, which shows that the team is getting better support than was expected at the beginning of the year. Expenses were $130.92.

Approximately 1,550 people, including students, attended the game, and this is the largest crowd that has ever attended a basketball game on the University campus.

SIoux INDIAN CHIEF SAILS FOR EUROPE

Dr. Charles Alexander Eastman, Sioux Indian chieftain and the world's greatest authority on Indian law and history, sailed Jan. 21 for England, where he will spend two months lecturing to school children on the problem of the relationship of the Indian and the white man.

Dr. Eastman's avowed aim is to further the cause of world peace by giving a portrayal of the aims, ideals, and philosophy of the Indian prior to his contact with the white man. In this way he hopes to pave the way for better understanding between England and America.

As an illustration of his point he will discuss the admirable relationship between the Jesuit missionaries and the Indians, which resulted from an effort on the part of both races to understand each other.

Dr. Eastman was born in Redwood Falls, Minn., and was the son of Many Lightnings, a Santee Sioux. He graduated from Dartmouth college in 1887, and obtained an M. D. degree at Boston university three years later. His knowledge of medicine enabled him to fill successfully the position of government physician at Pine Ridge Academy and later at Crows Creek, S. D. For years he represented this tribe as attorney at Washington, and served as United States Indian inspector under President Coolidge.

GRIZZLIES TACKLE VANDALS IN SECOND CONFERENCE FRAY

Ten Men Accompany Coach Stewart on Western Invasion

Coach Jim Stewart, Manager Wallace Blue and ten members of the Varsity squad left yesterday morning for games with Idaho and W. S. C., tonight and tomorrow. Although the Idaho team has lost all three of its conference games, any team which beats it on its own floor has to be 20 or 25 points better than the Vandals. The gymnasium is a small, pill-box affair, with the spectators seated close to the bounds all around.

Grizzlies Handicapped by Injuries

Montana, with all the members of the team in shape, could be figured to cop the battle, even with the home floor jinx against them, but Kain, Chinske, Rankin and Lewis are all somewhat under the weather. Kain has not completely recovered from the illness that bothered him during the Aggie game, while Chinske's eye is bloodshot and swollen from the blow it received. Lewis's hand is still in a bandage, and Rankin has been bothered with a pain in his side.

Vandals Coached by Dick Fox

The Idaho squad is coached this year by Dick Fox, one of the Fox brothers who made the Vandals a super-team five or six years ago. He is somewhat more fortunate than Montana in the matter of veterans in his team, having several of last year's men back. Montana has less veterans than any team in the conference, with joint captains, and only regulars having previous college basketball experience.

Darwin Burgher, center of giant dimensions, was a star at his position last year. Harold Stowell and Frank McMillan, forwards, are the only sophomores on the team. They played for Fox when he coached Pocentello high school, and he liked their style enough to take them to Idaho with him.

George Green and Glenn Jacoby, who have performed before Montana fans, are the veterans looking after the back court. The two substitutes forwards are also veterans, having played with the Vandals for two seasons.

The same lineup will be used tomorrow that started against the Aggies, if Rankin's side and Lewis's hand permit. Chinske and Overturf will be at forward, Kain at center, while Hule, Wendt, Brown and the two Millers will be furnishing reserve strength.

Providence, R. I. (IP)—Because it believes that the Women's college of the Brown University should "not suffer in any way from connection by name with the very university of which it is an integral part," the Brown Daily Herald is advocating that the name of the women's institution be changed to "Pembroke College in Brown University." The present name, according to the Herald, leads the public to believe that Brown is a co-educational institution, which it is not.

Cambridge, Mass. (IP)—Harvard is planning to use motion pictures in its classrooms as a means of visual education.

Mike Thomas Tells of Fee Distribution

By MIKE THOMAS

Ed. Note—This is a third of a series of articles to appear in The Kaimin dealing with the expenditure of student funds.

In last week's article, an attempt was made to explain the apportionment of $2.50 of the $5 ASUM fee which each student pays. The ASUM fee is authorized by the State Board of Education at the request of the students. If at any time the students wish for good and proper reasons to increase this fee to correspond with the activity fee in most of the schools of the Coast conference no doubt the State Board of Education would allow it. I will now tell how the remaining $2.50 which goes for athletics is expended.

$2.50 Goes for Sports

The four major sports in which the University participates are supported by 50 per cent of the ASUM fee, $2.50 from each student. Football, basketball, track, and baseball depend entirely for their support on income derived from the student fees, gate receipts here in Missoula, and guarantees on games away from home.

The student fees collected during the fall quarter are for football. The students are entitled to attend all Varsity home games and the Aggie game in Butte. The cost for a person who is not a student to attend these games amounts to about $7.00; whereas, a student gets to see them for $2.50.

Fee Money Insufficient for Needs

The money from fees is not enough to pay for the equipment, so we see that our entire athletic schedule is dependent upon income from the other two sources, above named. Football is the only sport which makes money, basketball just about pays for itself, and the other two sports lose money. Most of the money to carry on the entire year's program must be made during football season. Our local gate receipts do not help as most of the home games result in financial losses, therefore it is necessary to get good games away from home which will pay us a good guarantee.

As you know, we are members of the Pacific Coast conference, the fastest conference in the country, as is proven by its teams which compete with teams of other conferences, and its rules demand that a certain schedule be adhered to. Thus far we have been able to comply with these rules.

It has often been said, "Where does the money go?" Next week's article will attempt to detail the income and expense and explain the purposes of the expenditures.

Palo Alto, Cal. (IP)—Dr. Otto H. Peltzer, holder of the world's record of 1.51 3-5 in the half-mile run, recently took a turn around the cinder track here. Dr. Peltzer, who is a teacher of history and geography at Wickersdorf junior college, Germany, is touring the United States as a student of economic conditions. He will represent Germany in the Olympic events next summer.

Seattle, Wash. (IP)—Four hundred and ninety-nine students were flunked out of the University of Washington at the end of the fall quarter. This is the largest number ever kicked out of the institution and comprised approximately six and one half per cent of the total enrollment.

"Galoshes" must be worn by the basketball team at Ohio Wesleyan university. Besides protecting the players from cold they are used under the theory that after wearing the heavy overshoes the change to light basketball shoes enhances the footwork of the team.

The question for debate at the first meeting of the debate society at McGill university was "Resolved, that among social institutions nothing stands higher in usefulness than the art of drinking tea."
