TICKETS FOR CO-ED FORMAL WILL GO ON SALE NEXT WEEK

Distinctive Decorations and Programs Planned for Women's Dance

Tickets for the Co-ed Formal, to be held Feb. 10, will go on sale next week, according to Florence Montgomery, chairman of the committee in charge. All women students at the University and all ex-students may attend the dance.

Tickets may be obtained now from Tannas, or purchased at a table in Main hall next week. All those who plan to attend the affair are urged by Miss Montgomery to buy their tickets early as only a limited number will be sold.

Decorations of the Elite hall, under the direction of Dorothy Elliott, will begin Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock. As many girls as possible are asked to come at this time, or in their spare hours any day, including Friday. It is expected that the work will not be completed until Friday afternoon, but due to the nature of the decorations a great deal of help will be needed early in the week. It is planned to keep the idea of the decorations secret as long as possible, but the scheme is unusually clever and the hall will be transformed into an entirely different scene than in any previous formal, Miss Elliott says.

The programs, designed and supervised by Gertrude Maloney, are in keeping with the decorations. They will be hand-painted, this work being done by members on this committee, several of whom are students in the art department.

This dance, one of the biggest of the year, is a tradition at Montana, being sponsored by AWS. The co-eds ask for their "dates," arrange the programs and perform all the courtesies of an escort. It is customary for a midnight lunch to be served at the various houses later.

Chaperones for the dance are Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Clapp, Dean Harriet Sedman, Dean and Mrs. R. H. Jesse, Dean and Mrs. J. E. Miller, Dean A. L. Stone, Mrs. Theodore Brantley, Mrs. F. K. Turner, Mrs. Mildred Stone and J. H. Toelle.

A ten-piece orchestra, Sheridan's, will furnish the music and Freddie Ironsides says it will be "plenty hot." One o'clock permission has been granted.

PSYCH MAJORS PRINT BOOK ON TENDENCIES

"Modern Tendencies in Psychology," a booklet of 35 pages which condenses the ideas and teachings of all the best known psychologists, has been published recently by four members of the class in "Problems in Psychology" during the autumn quarter. Two majors in the department, Ethel Hansen and Fred Ironsides, collaborated with Elsie Gusdanovich and Fred Nilman in collecting and editing the material. Prof. F. O. Smith, chairman of the Psychology department, directed the work.

Subject Treats Several Topics
The subject treats the following topics: Empirical Psychology, Functional versus Structural Point of View, Psychology and Behaviorism, Freudianism, Dynamic Psychology and the Gestalt Theory, all of which are carefully outlined.

Bibliography is Large
The bibliography is large, and contains the works of all the prominent thinkers and investigators on the subject.

According to the preface the book was undertaken in order that the study of these various tendencies and viewpoints will serve to give the student a broader viewpoint and a clearer insight into the basic concepts of psychology and will enable him better to pursue his present problem.

Students Make Survey of Problem
In this course the students are required to make a survey of some problem suggested by the study of psychology. The research is confined to a study of various authors, there being no laboratory work of an experimental nature. Some of the students do individual work, while others operate in a major problem.

The booklet was mimeographed by the clerical department and bound by the Missoula Publishing company. Twenty copies were made and distributed among members of the class and the Psychology department.

PHARMACEUTICAL TONG HONORS ITS REGENT

W. Bruce Phillip, grand regent of Kappa Psi, men's national honorary pharmaceutical fraternity, and legal counsel for the California Pharmaceutical association, was the guest of Gamma Eta chapter of Kappa Psi at a banquet held Wednesday evening in the Florence hotel.

More than 30 active members and alumni of the chapter were present at the banquet where Alex. F. Peterson as toastmaster; John Suchy, instructor in the Pharmacy school; D. C. Smith, representing local drugists; Professor F. C. Schenck and Dean J. E. Miller gave short talks.

Mr. Phillip, who is inspecting all chapters in the northern province of Kappa Psi, addressed the members of the Pharmacy school Wednesday afternoon in Old Science hall. His subject was, "The Advantages of a Small University Over a Large University." He stressed particularly the personal relationship between instructor and student, which is possible only in smaller institutions, and advised the students to postpone attendance at the larger schools, until they had undertaken graduate work. In commenting on the Pharmacy school here, he said that it compared very favorably with the larger schools of the east, especially in the dispensing department.

Immediately after the general meeting, Mr. Phillip addressed the members and pledges of Kappa Psi, on the problems and work of the various chapters which he has visited since leaving New York.

He left yesterday for Pullman, Wash., to inspect the chapter at Washington State college.

This year Kappa Psi will hold its national convention in conjunction with the American Pharmaceutical association at Portland, Maine, August 20. Last year the meeting was held at Portland, Ore.

Howard Craig and James O'Connor represented the local chapter last year.

MANAGERS OF VARSITY VODVIL MAKE PLANS

Tryouts Will Begin at 9 O'clock Saturday, February 11, at Liberty Theater

Managers of the various sorority and fraternity acts met with General Manager Frank Chichester and his assistants, Doug Burns and Dean Gillespie, yesterday at 4 p. m. to discuss the show in respect to casts of the various acts.

Tryouts for Varsity Vodvil will be held Saturday, Feb. 11, at the Liberty theater. They will commence at 9 a. m. and run until all have been completed. Time of tryouts will be drawn by lot.

So far three sororities and one fraternity have failed to turn in synopses of their acts. Chichester requests that they do this immediately if they wish to compete in the tryouts.

Varsity Vodvil will be held Saturday night, Feb. 25, at the Wilma theater. Two performances will be staged. Tickets will sell for 75 cents and $1, and will go on sale three days before the show.

Judging from the synopses turned in Chichester said, "the show gives promise of being more original, and if the acts are carried out with the usual talent displayed, the 1928 Varsity Vodvil will be the best ever presented."

The awards have been ordered and as soon as they come, one will be on display at the Student's store and the other in the Missoula Mercantile window. The prizes are given for the best men's act and the best women's act.

FORESTERS TO MAKE FIELD TRIP

Students of Forestry Will Go To Seeley Lake for Tree Study

Forestry students, working in co-operation with the Forestry Service in making research studies on the growth of trees on land that has been lumbered, will make a ten day trip to the Seeley lake area to study tree conditions. The men will leave Missoula on the morning of May 12, and will return May 20.

About 30 students will make the trip. This work is a part of the regular course in Silviculture, Forest Management and Forest Mensuration. Professors Dorr Skeels, and Fay Clark will be in charge of the group. The Forestry Service has been invited to send a man if they desire.

The men will stay at the Boy Scout camp on Seeley lake, and in return for the use of the cabins, will make improvements on the grounds and cabins. The camp site is considered to be one of the most beautiful spots in the state, and as the forestry students have done some work in that section of Montana, the trips are very popular with the men, who enjoy themselves by fishing, swimming and boating.

Up to within the past three years, the forestry students had a camp on Flathead lake, but because of the long distance from Missoula, and the special work Professor Skeels has in mind, it was decided to study the Seeley lake area. This old timber area was sold by the Forestry Service to the Anaconda Copper Mining company 21 years ago, and as re-plantation of trees has been going on since that time, conditions for the research will be excellent.

The students will study the factors of light, moisture, shade, temperature, soil conditions that brought about conditions found there at the present time. The same working plans that the Experiment Station of the Forestry Service are following will be used by the students so that the results can be correlated with the data obtained by the Forestry Service.

According to Professor Skeels, "The great problem in forestry is to secure new growth coming up after the mature timber has been removed. Very little in study has been done in Montana and it is felt that the commencement of attack on this problem will be of immediate value and, possibly, not only valuable to the United States Forestry Service and the lumber industry, but to the students themselves."

MORONI OLSEN TO APPEAR IN "THE DETOUR"

PLAY TO BE PRESENTED AT LIBERTY FEB. 6

A Modern Drama Revealing American Country Life Written by Owen Davis, Noted Playwright.

"The Detour" to be presented by the Moroni Olsen players Monday evening at the Liberty theater, is in its modest way an achievement.

For more than a quarter of a century Owen Davis has cracked and thundered on our stage. He began, literally, with the old type of Bowery melodrama. He changed his manners a little when he moved to Broadway. Never his method and his spirit. Today he writes a play of American country life in every word and gesture of which there is visible an earnest ambition after sobriety, veracity, artistic rectitude.

It has been urged that the materials of the action are old. It is true. But the drama need not give us new situations so much as new relations, insight, angles of vision, approaches to a spiritual exhausting of old and important situations.

Daughter Lacks Talent

We have seen the hard, land-hungry peasant before. We have seen his unhappy and oppressed wife before. And we have seen that wife embody her stifled yearnings in her daughter and rebel for the first time in her married life when the man wants also to crush the expansive forces in the daughter's life. What we have, however, not seen before is this—the daughter has no talent at all. She has simply followed her mother's lead. She has more of her father in her than of her mother.

When the crash comes and she discovers that her painting is no better than a school girl's she knows at once, despite her outraged surface vanity, that the pull of fundamental instincts has been strongest in her, that she, despite the example of her mother's fate, desires to marry the rude neighbor and fulfill the eternal destiny of her sex. What, furthermore, we have not seen in our native plays, is one of those impassioned outbursts which express old sorrows and long endurance and shift the center of life. And such an outburst on the part of the farmer's wife ends Mr. Davis's second act.

Characters Melt and Flow

Mr. Davis lets his characters melt and flow from the firm contours he had given them. The farmer of the first two acts is a strong man, a mean man, an avenging man. He has not wavered in his course during twenty years. In the last act he suddenly becomes a sentimentalist who has been quietly dreaming of his honeymoon in the fields. His wife would have failed. But her resignation would have been desperate, not rosy. What happens continues veraciously to a satisfactory and convincing end wherein all the people in the play reach the attainment of their respective desires except the mother, who receives instead of the real thing something that in her stoical and visionary mind appeals as a new goal towards which to shape her destiny.

FORESTRY BALL TICKETS SELLING

Only 400 on Sale, According to Lou Vierhus; Boughs Being Gathered

"Have you bought your tickets for the Forester's ball? If not you had better hurry for they are being taken rapidly. As there will be only 400 tickets sold, those last minute purchasers will be unable to enter the Forester's Paradise." So says Lou Vierhus, chairman of this year's Forestry ball.

The tree and bough committee under the direction of Don Nelson will leave the Forestry building at 8:30 Saturday morning for Pattee canyon to secure Douglas fir trees. Last Saturday the members journeyed to Hay's creek, to get cedar boughs. "This will probably be the last trip for trees and boughs, as the desired amount has almost been obtained," said Don Nelson.

The programs for the dance will be in the form of novelties. The committee in charge of the programs promise something different this year, but refuses to disclose the secret.

Invitations have been mailed to Chancellor Melvin A. Brannon, and to the heads of the lumber industry and forestry service of Montana.

One hundred and eighteen students have placed their orders for the bi-lingual Bibles that are being sold by the Student Fellowship organization, according to W. L. Young, head of the department of religion. These Bibles not only carry the English version but a translation into a foreign language in a parallel column.

"Students who are interested in securing a Bible of this type should place their orders before Monday evening, as the order will have to be made Tuesday," said Mr. Young.

A description of the growth of the school since its origin up to the present time as well as an outline of the various courses offered is contained in the article.

Specialization

TO THE student just entering college there is the constantly recurring problem—"Shall I specialize in one line, or shall I spread out a little and try to get a liberal arts education?" Unquestionably this student has to deal with a very serious problem. Through his entire high school course he has heard the constant cry of "we are living in an age of specialization" until it has become the major premise in his search for learning.

From an economic standpoint, to the student who realizes within himself that when he receives his diploma he must go out and make a living, there is a decided urge to specialize, to concentrate on just one thing. What will happen to any student who spends four or five years in a concentrated effort to master a highly specialized course?

If the students would only grasp the fundamental rule, that they are in college not to grasp in its entirety the whole universe of learning, they would not continually be stunned by the seeming fatuity. Get a few of the threads and the weaving of those threads into a whole cloth will come soon enough. Learn a little of the philosophy of life and do not spend too much time in specialization. Over-specialization is the curse of the modern educational tendencies, and we as students have brought it upon ourselves.

REVIEWS

Programs of the type offered last night by the Montana Masquers and the class in dramatic presentation deserve the praise and attention of the entire student body. All of the participants in the three plays showed the result of their own interest in the work, coupled with the able directing of the student coaches.

"In 'The Dear Departed' William Orton as Henry Slater, the cowed and submissive husband of the domineering Amelia, was very good. Frances Elze played the part of Amelia with a thoroughly enjoyable zest. Dorothy Norton as the very lachrymose Mrs. Jordan was equally effective, while Henry P. Brown seemed to carry an air of pensive suspicion that added a great deal to the enjoyment of the audience. Dean Gillespie in the role of Abel Merryweather, the dear departed father, proved to be a very spry corpse.

Of the three plays, "Riders to the Sea" was probably the more effective as far as the audience was concerned. Taking into consideration that it is without question a very difficult play to produce, the students appearing in this cast succeeded in producing Sygne's play in all its stark realism. Irene Murphy as Maurya was exceptionally good and was adequately supported by Lydia Maury, Marian Hobbs and Harold Gunn in the roles of Nora, Cathleen and Bartley.

"Danger" was probably more effective heard over the radio, as it was written with such a presentation in mind. Heard from the stage, it seemingly lost a great deal of its intensity.

Calamity Jane
By Duncan Aikman
$3.00
Henry Holt & Company

Montana readers will be instinctively drawn to the perusal of this volume. The woman whose life story forms the larger part of the book, was intimately associated with the early life of this state but Mr. Aikman does not hold Montana responsible for the peculiar characteristics of the melodramatic traits of Martha Jane Canary—rather he declares that the freedom of the settlement period of Montana merely afforded Calamity Jane an opportunity to exercise with comparative unrestraint those traits which made her "the pioneer grandmother of all the flappers." "Tough" she was—"hard boiled" in modern parlance—without doubt. She displayed an utter disregard for conventionality. She was herself—a self that was the result of heredity and early environment, intensified in its revelation by the conditions prevailing in her later surroundings.

The author tells interestingly of the untrammeled life of this remarkable woman. He emphasizes in high lights her coarseness. It is unwise, perhaps, to indulge in sentimentality in the discussion of Calamity Jane, but there was a womanly side to her nature and she did many things that endeared her to the men whom she nursed through dangerous crises and to whom she ministered in other womanly ways. Mr. Aikman does not say much about this phase of her life, but Montana's early residents remember Martha Jane Canary not only for her wildness but also for her tenderness. But in this book she is presented in stereotype form and the book will prove interesting to Montana readers particularly.

Other "Lady Wildcats" are included in Mr. Aikman's narrative. Belle Starr, Pearl Hart, Cattle Kate, Bridget Grant, Lola Montez and Madame Moustache—but they, with all their wildness, are second-raters when compared with Calamity Jane.

Ed Nash, '29, has withdrawn from school on account of illness.

Mrs. F. K. Turner has been confined to the Corbin hall infirmary with an attack of influenza.

Masquers to Give Three Short Plays Here February 18

"The Man Without a Head" by Lloyd Thanhauser and Thomas F. Foster, "The Groove" by George Middleton and an anonymous play, "Married Happiness," are the three one-act plays William Angus, director of dramatics, has chosen to be presented at the Little theater by the Masquers, Feb. 15.

"Cabages" Postponed
"Cabages" by Edward Staadt, originally chosen for this date has been postponed for the time being, and "Married Happiness" will be presented instead. This play deals with the first serious rift in the married career of a young couple, who cannot decide whether a green dress is yellow or a yellow dress is green. The scene of "The Man Without a Head" is laid in a French chateau and portrays the trouble two young Americans have with an old demented Frenchman. The cast for these two plays has not been chosen.

The sacrifices of an older sister for the happiness of a younger sister is the theme of "The Groove." Lillian Bell will take the part of the older sister and Rhea Traver has been cast in the role of the younger.

Youth's Illusions Saved by Co-Ed

The moon mourned moodily behind the massive mountain, and the sparkling stars scintillated scathingly on the couple who stood on the snowy steps of the sorority house. That is item one; item two is the fact that the year was this of 1928. The characters are two, a young male and female, homo sapiens.

As the curtain jerked upward, as even the best regulated curtains will, a touching domestic scene was being enacted. The young man was evidently in a state of some perturbation, for his comrade-in-arms (very much so) had just bestowed upon his chaste, painted and scented by Richard Hudnut. The moon teetered on its wires, as he turned away shyly.

"I don't know... really... I promised Mother... Dorothy Ann, do you still respect me since you've kissed me? I'm so ashamed... I don't think it was RIGHT of you."

"That's all right, honey," the girl replied.
CRASH! A series of resounding thuds echoed in the house behind them. The boy snuggled closer—if possible—into Dorothy Ann's arms.

"What was that?" His voice betrayed his fear.
"Just the house-mother ambling downstairs," the girl answered calmly. "I've gotta go inside. But listen." (Remember it was Leap Year.) "I want you to get this foolishness about it being wrong for me to kiss you, out of your head... I like you a lot, and I wouldn't want you to do anything wrong or anything you didn't want to. I like you a lot, and... (it's still Leap Year) I want you... and someday, real soon... don't laugh, I'm very serious about it... I want you... I want you so... to go to the Co-ed Formal with me!"

Concerning That Psychological Appeal

The ASUM store has "it," sheltered in cases and displayed on its counters. "It" is the appeal (students in Business Psychology please note) which puts over the stuff every time.

Consider the lowly candy bar. The sisters of this greater cheese factory may choose "Meow" or the bar rated as the "Latest Copy of Oh Henry," but which isn't guaranteed to help anyone pass a short story course. The more sentimental pick "Milky Way," and those for whom adventure and romance carry lure, "Hollywood Stars." Being as how we're West-erners, and on account that we should keep to tradition, "Rough Riders" and "Rodeo" bars are present. "Baby Ruth" and "Knockout" are rated as the names having the greatest appeal for men, and "Hello Sandy" should shake the sheekles out of the meanest tightwad.

It is to be expected that correspondence courses will be inaugurated if the list of University inmates at the hall infirmaries, hospitals, and dog-pounds is increased.

And, though your generous contour fair upsets
In ways
My childish concept of you're sylvan feats (For instance, how you even hastened beats
My quick imagination) what a force, Nigh irresistible you must have been.
Of course
You lived before the days of silhouettes

And now you tip the beam at half a ton.
Your whirl

Think long and earnestly before you try
To rise again; You'll never be more spry.
It's plain to see your hunting days are done,

Newmans Drop Game to Presbyterian Men

Breaking their losing streak, by a 35 to 27 win over the Newman club, in the University gymnasium yesterday, the Presbyterian five pulled themselves up to fifth place in the Inter-church basketball league. Williams was the outstanding scorer, garnering 14 points for the Presbyterians.

The Methodist-Disciple game was called off when neither team could gather up enough men to start. Saturday at 2 o'clock the Disciples will meet the Congregationals and the Methodists will play the Episcopals.

Kirkwood to Talk to Professors on Science Instruction

Dr. J. E. Kirkwood, head of the Botany department, will speak at a meeting of the local chapter of American Association of University Professors, to be held this evening in the University church.
"Science Instruction in North-western Schools" will be his topic. The talk will be based upon a survey made by Dr. Kirkwood, over a period of several years, under the auspices of the Inland Empire Science Teachers association.
The purpose of this organization is to improve science teaching throughout all the schools, and to secure continuity of science instruction from the grades to college. Dr. Kirkwood will give the results of his survey of the study of the sciences and their presentation in high schools.
At present there are various committees, appointed throughout the Northwest, to formulate improved courses of study throughout the high schools. Each committee has the study of one science for investigation. Montana, Washington, Oregon and Idaho are the states in which surveys are being conducted.

$400 Goes to ASUM as Result of Hi-Jinx

Approximately $400 will go into the ASUM fund as a result of presenting Hi-Jinx, according to Carl Blair, assistant auditor of student organizations. A total of $1,102.55 was taken in, out of which $20.80 will be sent to the collector of internal revenue as part of theater tax. This tax should not have been collected, according to C. A. Rasmussen, collector of internal revenue for the state of Montana, but since it has been charged it will have to be sent in.
Expenses for presenting Hi-Jinx include theater, orchestra, ushers, ticket sellers, programs, manuscripts, publicity, the rental of the Liberty theater for rehearsals, dance hall, music and banquet.
Although the capacity of the Wilma theater is 1,381 seats, there were some extra seats added and the total number sold was 1,590.

Perfume Atomizers Have Distinct Use, Says Style Monitor

Perfume atomizers are more than useful ornaments for a boudoir, according to Lucien Lelong, French style leader, who is at present designing a special atomizer.
"The atomizer has a great effect on perfume. Some atomizers are too fragile, others are too large. The minute a perfume comes in contact with air it begins to lose strength and change odor. The larger the atomizer the greater the amount of air it will pump into the perfume.

The question is asked, "Why use an atomizer at all?" There are many reasons, according to M. Lelong. First the atomizer is necessary as a means of spraying the perfume. A fine spray will never spot but the same perfume when applied with the top of a bottle or finger, may leave streaks and rings on silk.
M. Lelong cautions every woman to use an atomizer to be pleasantly scented. Nothing reveals a woman's taste in dress more than the way she wears her perfume, he says.

Re-discovers His Favorite Tobacco

Charleston, W. Va.,
March 4, 1927

Larus & Bro. Co.,
Richmond, Va.
Gentlemen:
Recently I stopped in a little village that consisted of about nine houses and a small hotel, which I entered.
A little old man wearing a skull cap was seated in a rocking chair smoking an enormous pipe. I had come to buy a can of Edgeworth, but when I caught a whiff of the tobacco he was smoking I changed my mind. The aroma of that tobacco was so delightful that I made up my mind right then and there that I wanted some of the same brand, regardless of the cost.
I began with: "I beg your pardon, sir, but I came in to buy a can of tobacco, and I would like the same brand you are smoking if you don't mind telling me." He looked at me for a moment, grasped his pipe with one hand and said: "I'm smoking Edgeworth. Would you like some?"
Of course I did, and I secured a supply from the old fellow. The joke, of course, was on me, but I went on my way rejoicing.
Yours very truly,
Dr. John R. Koch

Marvel of National Defense

From this 2½-acre deck, Uncle Sam's battle planes can now leap into action—sure of a landing place on their return, though a thousand miles from shore.
This marvel of national defense was accomplished—and duplicated
—when the airplane carrier, U.S.S.
Saratoga, and her sister ship, U.S.S.
Lexington, were completely electrified.
In each, four General Electric turbine-generators deliver, combined, 180,000 horsepower to the propellers—enough to drive the ship at 33 knots (39 miles an hour) —enough to furnish light and power for a city of half a million people.

The design and construction of the electric equipment for the U. S. S.
Saratoga and the U. S. S. Lexington, to which college-trained men contributed in great measure, exemplify the part General Electric plays in promoting the welfare of the nation.

GRIZZLIES LEAVE ON LAST WESTERN TRIP OF SEASON

Will Play Powerful Huskies and Both Oregon Squads; Team in Fair Condition

Montana's Grizzlies left yesterday afternoon on their last trip of the season. Three games will be played, against the three strongest teams in the conference. The league leading University of Washington quint, with four straight victories, will be met on Saturday night in the new $1,000,000 athletic pavilion. Sunday the team moves into Oregon, and will meet the Oregon Aggies Monday evening. Tuesday night they will take on the University of Oregon and then leave for home. The remaining games of the season will be played here, against Washington, the two Oregon schools and Idaho.

Squad in Good Condition

The squad is in fairly good shape, with Overturn and Rankin furnishing the main causes for worry. The sharpshooting forward suffered a bad fall in practice early this week and has been hobbling around since then. His hip and leg are badly bruised, slowing him down considerably. Rankin's side is still a threat to the sophomore guard, chronic appendicitis threatening often to put him out of competition. Chinke, Kain and Lewis are both in somewhat better shape than when they took the last trip. The Washington Huskies appear to be the toughest team the Grizzlies will face this year. Two of their games have been captured on foreign floors, from the two Oregon schools. Any team which meets them on their own court is at a disadvantage, because they are apt to get lost on the huge court, with the baskets suspended far out in the room. Monty Snider, diminutive forward who was a wild last year, has been pretty well covered so far this season. Belsted and Dalquist doing the heavy scoring.

Burr, D. A. C. Threat

At O. A. C., Big Bill Burr is still the leading threat, but Mathews and Aase are veterans who are dangerous at all times. Oregon, the third foe on the trip, is also well stocked with veterans.

Cub Basketball Team Swamps Alumni Squad

Harry Adams' Cub team defeated the Missoula high school alumni 65 to 25 in a practice game last night in the University gym.

The teams played three 20-minute periods. Practically all of the Cubs got into the fray.

Ray Lyons, freshman center who has been kept out of previous games because of a sprained ankle, was high scorer with 28 points, followed closely by John Lewis with 22 points.

Individual scores for the first 40 minutes of play were:

Freshmen—Lyons, 28; Lewis, 22; Rathert, 8; Thraikill, 5, and Cooper, 2.

Missoula Alumni—Wendt, 12; Hugues, 12, and Olson, 1. In the second game of the evening the Huber Midgets defeated the Loyola Alumni 32 to 14. Shorty Huber with nine points and Cal Pearce with eight points starred for the Midgets. Harry Dodson scored 12 of the 14 points made by the Alumni team.

BASKETBALL EXPENSES

Expenses incurred by the basketball team on their trips to Moscow and Pullman to play Idaho and W. S. last week totaled $466.80. Of this amount $301.95 was used for railroad and bus fares, including pullman, and $164.85 for hotel bills, meals and miscellaneous medical supplies. The party included 12 men and the trip took four days.

CUBS DEFEAT LOYOLA HOOPSTERS, 29 TO 14

Playing their second game with the Loyola high school team, the Cubs easily repeated their first win, taking the Parish team down the line for a 29 to 14 victory, Tuesday night. The game was fast in spots but for the most part provided few thrills for the spectators. Coach Adams used his first team until the final minutes of play when a whole new string was sent in.

Rohlfis High Scorer

Billy Rohlfis went on his usual scoring spree for the Cubs. Eight field goals and four free throws brought his total for the evening up to 20 points which was two-thirds of the total Frosh score. Lockwood, lanky Cub center, accounted for three markers from the field but the rest of the team was decidedly off form and could not find the hoop at all.

Loyola kept in the running until late in the second quarter when Rohlfis and Lockwood began sinking shots from all angles. The half ended 16 to 8 for the frosh. Marcure, Loyola forward was the only Parish to score from the field in the last half.

The summary:

Cubs (29)	FG	FT	PF	Pts
Cooper, lf	1	0	2	2
Rohlfis, rf	8	4	1	20
Lockwood, c	3	0	3	6
Thraikill, lg	0	0	2	0

Marcure, rf	2	2	0	6
Bickel, c	1	3	2	5

Substitutes—Lewis for Cooper; Linke for Rohlfis; Carey for Thraikill; Bell for Lockwood; Davis for Rathert; Referee—Elliott (Montana); timer—Tysel (Montana). Missed free throws—Lavoie, Marcure, Van Dorn, 3; Lockwood, Thraikill.

Mike Thomas Tells of Fee Distribution

By MIKE THOMAS

(Editor's Note: This is a continuation of last week's article dealing with the share of student fees appropriated to athletics, and will go a little more into detail by taking the full quarter alone and show how small the appropriation is in comparison to the activity undertaken.)

Approximately 1400 students enrolled last fall and each paid a $5 student activity fee. One-half of this, or $2.50, entitled the student to a ticket to Varsity football games and half-price to freshman football games. This $2.50 from each student is all that the athletic board received to carry forward a nationally recognized athletic program. Two first-class varsity football games and two freshman games were on the program. The amount of student fees allotted the Athletic board did not suffice to pay the equipment bill alone.

Equipment Deteriorates

It must be remembered that football equipment deteriorates rapidly. Equipment must be provided for 40 varsity men and nearly 60 freshmen. The freshmen get the old varsity suits and it is necessary that the varsity men have new equipment. It is also necessary that the Athletic board pay $400 for a freshman coach, the cost of labor on the football field, ticket selling and taking, advertising, medical accessories, stand liable for football injuries, and other miscellaneous items which arise constantly.

Non-students pay from $1.50 to $2.50 per game, but their support is so meagre that the guarantee required to pay teams to come here is not even met. Home games are a losing proposition. The only means by which the Athletic board is enabled to come out clear at all is because advantageous games are secured away from home.

There must be further sources of income, for at the present rate the margin secured through the fall quarter does not nearly suffice to make up the deficit of the winter and spring quarters, as the next article will illustrate.

International Club to Hold Religious Program Next Week

Members of the International club will appear in their annual church program at the First Methodist Episcopal church Sunday evening, Feb. 12. The International club orchestra will furnish the music for the program.

According to Alexander Stepanoff, president of the club, it is the policy of the organization to give two programs of this type a year. One is for the benefit of the people downtown, the other for University students. The latter, called International Night, will be presented at the Main hall auditorium early in April.

"In the past," said Mr. Stepanoff, "our audiences have expressed a keen appreciation of our programs. We will try to do equally well this year."

Roy Fitzgibbon, '31, will spend the week-end at his home in Helena.

Chad Shaffer won first place in the first of a series of three ads that will constitute part of the advertising for the University summer session. Fifty dollars is offered by the Northern Pacific Railway company for the best series of three ads. This contest, open to all students, is part of the co-operative program between the Northern Pacific and the State University in regard to the summer session. The following ad was the prize winner:

As the final awards of the prize will be made upon the basis of the averages scored in the three separate contests, any of the 22 contestants can still win first prize.

Law School Seniors to Appear in Series of Practice Trials

Seniors in the Law school will get a taste of real court procedure next week, when they begin a series of practice trials. Every senior will have an opportunity to defend or plead a civil suit. John Bonner, plaintiff's counsel, and Myles Thomas, lawyer for the defense, will be the first of the students to appear in the trials. Students of the School of Journalism will probably serve as jurors for the first trial. Members of other schools in the University will be requested to serve in other suits. Professor W. L. Pope, instructor of the senior law class, will act as judge at the trials.

Practice trials form part of the curriculum of senior law students, who are thus enabled to gain actual practice in court procedure. All the cases will be civil suits.

Following are the students who will take part in the trials: Henry Bailey, J. E. Bates, John Bonner, Charles Burroughs, Frank Chiches-ter, J. M. Cogen, Vincent Crimmons, William Fell, George Higgins, Henry Huilner, Henry McClernan, Marshall Murray, Chester Onstad, E. W. Pool, Fritz Sterling, Myles Thomas, Norval Ulvestad, and Richard Wellcome.

Miss Leona Baumgartner, an instructor in the Biology department, is a patient in St. Patrick's hospital, with an attack of influenza.

SPORT SPURTS

Apparently out of the race at Tiffin, Ohio, for the center job on the Heidelberg basketball team a week ago after his big brother, Charley, had starred against Capital, Harold Prugh is back in the fight as a result of the triumph over Hiram here last week. Harold, a sophomore, broke into the line-up against Hiram after Charley, a senior, was ousted on personals in the first half. He then proceeded to get more points than any athlete on either team. Consequently Coach Herman Sawyer doesn't know which is his regular center.

When the University of Wichita basketball team went to play Hays State Teachers' college last Saturday, they took to the air instead of undergoing a tiresome four-day round trip. Although the two schools are less than 200 miles apart, railroad connections between them are poor, and two days is required to go by rail from one to the other. Consequently a squadron of five aeroplanes was assembled to transport the cagers, making the trip in about four hours.

Coach Lambert's Purdue university basketball team is the sole unbeaten aggregation in the Big Ten to date. The Purdue players have won all three conference games played. Northwestern and Wisconsin stand tied for second place in the conference with three victories and one defeat each to their credit.

WHISTLES

Will Warn Trespassers On Campus

A new kind of whistle will be heard on the campus beginning next Monday, and woe to those who disregard its meaning! For the Tanans, sophomore women's honorary organization, have noticed the many short cuts that have appeared on the campus, made by students who are in too much of a hurry to use the sidewalks. The short-cut from the north door of the Main hall basement to the sidewalk in front of the hall is an especially bad one, and the whistles will be used to call the attention to those who use it in the future. They will be requested to use the sidewalks.

These whistles were used by last year's group of Tanans, and the members this year will use the same kind, with the intention of enforcing its meaning.

Members of the organization believe that these cuts on the campus have been used by the newer students who have not been told that campus-cutting is against campus rules. They ask that every student co-operate in abandoning the old short cuts and so improve the appearance of the campus.
