EXCEPTIONAL ART EXHIBIT BEING SHOWN IN MAIN HALL NEXT WEEK

Works of Foremost National Artists Featured in Collection Circulated by College Art Association.

Next week a collection of the work of the foremost artists of the United States will be on exhibit at the Art department in Main Hall. Between 2:30 and 5:00 o'clock in the afternoon and 7:30 and 9:30 in the evening the exhibit will be open to the public and talks will be given on the work, its technique, and its relative place in the artistic field, by authorities who will be announced later. Probable speakers are Captain Albert Treichler of Fort Missoula, President O. H. Clapp, Mrs. H. G. Merriam, and Prof. Clifford Riedell.

An admission charge of 15 cents will be made for this exhibit and the holder of 50 or more of times on one set. This charge is made to help pay the expense of bringing the collection here.

The collection comprises fifty-three watercolors and drawings and prints. Among the better known artists represented in this contemporary collection are Gifford Beal, William Chase, Eugene Higgins, Richard Hey and Ernest Lawson. The print up is notable for its inclusion of work of George Biddle, Childre, Rockwell Kent, Jerome Myers, Walter Pach and John Sloan.

This exhibition is one of a series circulated by the College Art Association among the colleges and universities of the country. Their purpose is to acquaint undergraduate students with original examples of the contemporary American art product. The students are invited to write critical essays of the exhibitions, and a jury will choose the best of these essays for publication in Parnassus, the official publication of the association. In addition, a selected print is offered as a prize to the student submitting the best essay from each college.

Before its display here, this exhibit was shown at Kansas State Agricultural college, Colorado State teachers college, Drake university and the University of Iowa.

University Granted Lower Power Rate

Large Wholesale Price Based on Demand Plus Amount Used.

A wholesale rate on electricity has been granted the University by the Montana Power company, according to G. Swearingen, University maintenance engineer, who estimates that 200 yearly will be saved by the change.

The rate is based upon the maximum demand plus the actual amount of electricity used. The rate is retroactive, taking effect January 1.

Miniature Volume

On Display in Reading Room at Library.

One of the smallest books in the world has recently been received by Gertrude Buckhouse and is now on display at the loan desk in the reading room.

The little volume is in red morocco and the cover is done in gold. It contains 140 pages besides the preface, dedication, and notes by the publisher, et al. It is two-thirds the size of a postage stamp and may be read without the aid of a glass. Four of Abraham Lincoln's addresses make up the contents of this little book called "Lincoln"—The Gettysburg Address, the Second Inaugural, A House Divided, Equality of a Republic.

This book is the product of the Training Division of the Kingsport Press at Kingsport, Tennessee. It is made entirely by the mountain people of Tennessee who designed the cover, treated the type and edited the miniature volume. Everything is done by real American boys and girls who never saw a press.

Faculty Volleyball Enthusiasts Practice

Special tilts between picked teams were on the program at the general practice session of faculty volleyball last night. The faculty group is being pruned into shape and divided into teams each Monday night in preparation for the tournament plays held with other groups, such as the preacher or the Filipino aggregation, every Wednesday evening. The contests are held in the Women's gymnasium, starting at 7:30 o'clock.

Ed Cardwell, who was in the South Hall infirmary last week with a case of pink eye, has been discharged.

The play may be either a one-act play or one act of a long play. The maximum playing time shall be 45 minutes. The play must be one requiring a single set. No two groups may present the same play. Original plays by high school students may be used.

Preliminary notification of intention to compete must be sent not later than March 1. The final date for submitting a definite entry is April 5.

Each contesting group will be responsible for transportation, lodging and board while in Missoula and for the production of the play. Royalty receipts for the play to be presented must be turned in to the tournament committee.

M. P. MOE, STATE HIGH SCHOOL SUPERVISOR, IN MISSOULA TODAY

Committee Will Check Up on Standings of Accredited High Schools in This Section.

M. P. Moe, state high school supervisor, will be in Missoula today to confer with Prof. Freeman Daughters of the Education department and G. A. Ketchum, principal of the Missoula county high school, concerning the reports of the accredited high schools in Montana. These three men compose the local committee of the North Central association and check up the standings of high schools accredited by this body. Their work will also include schools accredited by the Northwest association.

Of the 183 accredited high schools in Montana only a comparative few are approved by these two organizations. The North Central association has approved 50 Montana high schools and the Northwest association has approved 35.

Certain high standards are set by both the associations and the schools must maintain these standards to be admitted. Both high schools and colleges are carried on the accredited list. Graduation from one of the high schools accredited by these bodies permits the student to register in any of the colleges also accredited by the associations without entrance examinations. The North Central association covers 20 states in the middle west and Rocky mountain region.

"U" Foresters Preparing For Annual Dance

Disciples of Bunyan Hurry Hither and Thither For Decorations.

With the advent of somewhat warmer weather, the gathering of boughs and trees as decorations for the Forestry Ball, Feb. 21, will get definitely under way this week-end. Two expeditions will be made on Saturday—one up Hayes creek and one up Pattee canyon—and two similar trips will be made Sunday.

Securing decorations for the Forestry Ball is no small job, according to the men in charge. Cedar boughs by the car-load will be needed to conceal the roof of the Men's gymnasium, where the dance is to be held, and over 400 trees will be needed around the walls, according to a conservative estimate. As there are no cedars up Pattee canyon, the double expeditions are needed. Half of the men will go to Hayes creek for the cedar boughs, and the others will go after trees in the canyon.

The men who have signed up for the Saturday expedition are William Ienthal, Robert Cooner, Wilbur Chapin, Stanford Larson, Archie Murchie, Cal Guntermann, Charles Gail, Jack Murchie, William Akins, Evan Haves, Edward Dobrinz, Joel Frykman, Kenneth Beechell and Raymond Calkins. Three have signed up to go Sunday: William Ienthal, Wilbur Chapin and John Kringlen. The men will leave from the Forestry building at 8 a. m. Free soup and coffee will be furnished, but the workers will have to supply whatever additional nourishment desired.

TWO ONE-ACTS BY W. D. STEELE HERE FEB. 6TH

"Ropes" and "The Terrible Woman" To Be Presented By Masquers.

Two one-act plays by Wilbur Daniel Steele, "Ropes," and "The Terrible Woman," will be presented in the Little Theatre Thursday evening, February 6. Mr. Steele, the author of the plays, was a special lecturer in the short story at the University summer session in 1927. He is one of the leading short story writers in the country and has also achieved some fame as a novelist.

Mr. Steele wrote his first plays for the Provincetown Players some years ago. Associated with the Players at that time were several writers who were later to become internationally known as playwrights. Among them were Eugene O'Neill, Susan Glaspell and George Cram Cook. Mr. Steele's contributions to the Provincetown Players repertory were four one-acts including "Ropes" and "The Terrible Woman."

"Ropes" is a rather heavy drama of life in a lighthouse on the New England coast. It is an intense analytical study of character and one of the most difficult plays the Masquers have attempted.

Balancing the tenseness of "Ropes" is "The Terrible Woman," a light, fast moving domestic comedy. The story involves the old triangle plot of a man, his wife and the other woman. Steele has treated this situation in a fresh and original manner and has turned out a highly amusing comedy.

Both plays are being directed and produced entirely by students.

TRACTOR SCHOOL OPENS MONDAY

Registration of Seventy-Five Is Expected This Year.

The second annual Tractor School will open on the campus next Monday and will last until Wednesday night. At least 75 people are expected to attend, although, because of the lack of pre-registration, no definite figure is available. Last year the attendance, including representatives from other parts of the state as well as local men, reached 50. The program for the school has not as yet been definitely decided upon.

In addition to the staff of the Forestry school and the field men from the Petrie Tractor and Equipment company, local Caterpillar agency, there will be three logging engineer instructors. H. L. Penn, George Plenty and W. M. Wagner, all factory experts, will assist in instruction to solve local problems and to lead in the discussion of better and cheaper means of tractor logging.

Women's All-Star Swimmers Chosen

Eveline Blumenthal, Jane Bateman, Anne Bateman, Esther Edwards, Dorothy Kiely, Violet Long, Helen Thompson and Mildred Woods have been chosen as the University women's all-star swimming team.

They were selected by Mrs. Harriet Wood, instructor in physical education, and the class captains, Eveline Blumenthal, '30, Margaret Jacobs, '32, and Helen Thompson, '33.

Law Students Hold Practice Session

Practice court was held in the Law School court room last evening. Robert Williams was attorney for the plaintiff and Carl McFarland acted for the defendant. The case was a damage suit and Journalism students were selected for the jury.

Ruth Partridge is confined in Saint Patrick's hospital with a cold.

A questionnaire is now being prepared under the supervision of D. Covell Skeels, chairman of the questionnaire committee, and will be presented soon to the student body. Information for this questionnaire is taken from the Colorado Alumnus for September and the Silver and Gold, university publication, for January 7.

Over the northwest entrance of the Colorado building, that leads to the Memorial vestibule, has been carved the word "Memoria," and over the southwest entrance, an entrance leading to a similar vestibule, has been carved the word, "Fides." These words may be translated "Memory of the University and Faith in its Future."

Four tablets each perpetuating the memory of the four U. of C. groups which participated in the World war, particularly the memory of the men of those groups who died, are to be put up in the Memorial vestibule. These include tablets to the memory of 23 University of Colorado alumnus, to the Utah detachment which trained at Colorado, to the Colorado detachment and to the Montana detachment.

The entire east half of the first floor of the central portion of the Memorial building will be used as a women's lounge room. On the other side of the wall will be a similar lounge room for men. Both rooms will have large fireplaces and both will open to the entrance hallways at the ends of the building.

The two main lounge rooms will be fitted with library furnishings and temporary shelves to hold 4,000 volumes which will be installed. The seating space will be adequate for about 200, and the additional space will be used only for education reserve books. Use of the building for library space is temporary. At the close of the summer, all the library furniture will be removed, and the rooms will be refurnished.

The second floor of the central portion of the Memorial building will be one large room suitable for many uses. All floors of the two wings of the building will be fitted for office use as will be the two tower rooms in the wings.

Several years ago plans were started for the construction of a building on the University of Colorado campus at Boulder which would stand as a memorial to those who died while under arms for their nation. Although gaining support at the time, the building has not yet been finished because of insufficient funds, but effort is being made to finish the building as soon as possible, according to the Colorado Alumnus.

However, in the Silver and Gold for January 7 is the announcement that the University Board of Regents voted $20,000 for work on the Student-union Memorial building last December. The money will be used to complete the two lounge rooms, the rest rooms for men and women and to furnish at least two of the offices in the building.

Chemistry Graduates Publish Articles

Letters received from graduates who received degrees in chemistry show that they have had several articles published recently in chemical journals. Among these are: W. W. Koch, '25, is working for his doctor's degree at the University of Illinois. His article, "Construction of Platinum-Wire Chain for the Fouk Chain Hydrometer," was published in the magazine, Industrial and Engineering Chemistry.

On the staff of Columbia University is Dr. Harold C. Urey, '17, whose article, "The Temperature Coefficient of Reactions in Solution," was published in the Journal of the American Chemical Society. After the war he acted as instructor on the Montana campus. He won a fellowship at the University of California where he received his Ph. D. degree after which he won a traveling fellowship which enable him to spend some time studying in Europe. Dr. Urey returned to become assistant professor of chemistry at Johns Hopkins university. Recently he was appointed associate professor of chemistry at Columbia university.

Miss Lucile Jameson, assistant registrar, is back in her office after having been confined to her home since Friday with illness.

"Co-ed."

ALL the advantages of leap year are brought to the co-eds one night a year on our campus. February 14 is the night designated for the co-ed to shine in the good year 1930. On this evening it is unbecoming for any young lady to be without a date and if such a thing should occur, the lady in question can toss her head back and let everyone understand that it is purely from choice.

These are a few of the changes brought about in the established order by Co-ed Formal. It is the one night in the year when men are ashamed of being dateless. The less fortunate men on the campus sneak off to an early show so that they will miss the fond farewells of their associates.

Don't think for an instant that co-ed doesn't bring problems for the women to solve. Of course she is going, everyone does but this is the question. Should she pay back an obligation by returning a date or should she assert the masculine prerogative and ask the person whom she would like to date?

Programs present another field of unsolved mysteries for the girl who is anxious to show her date a good time. Getting the dances, avoiding conflicts, remembering to take a copy of the program to the dance, etc.

The courtesies that the male expects of his escort convinces us that he does know the accepted thing if, as an escort, he leaves us in doubt.

Co-eds, take heed, February 14 is your night, you can't lose; if you date it's because you want to, and if you don't it's from choice!

Communication

Editor, The Kaimin:

In regard to Varsity Vodvil:

Will you please make an attempt to get Mr. Elmer Hugo, manager of the show, to inform us as to what sort of a rumpus we poor bars are going to have to take in order to procure our usual top-gallery tickets?

We would be pleased, indeed, to know whether or not we must stand in line for four hours, as was the case last year, and at Hi-Jinx this year, to get a couple of seats in Nigger Heaven or if we may be granted the same privileges as those august personages, who are members of Greek Letter organizations.

Will the usual custom be followed? That is, will some energetic gentleman (?) carry around a little notebook and reserve blocks of seats for the Elite fratres of the campus, leaving to the non-frat student his customary one-chance-in-a-hundred of getting the seats next to the projection booth?

It is certain that if the bar gets an even break Mr. Hugo will be in hot water for years to come with the Greeks. Of course the bars would appreciate a golden opportunity of that kind but—Ho-hum. Who gives a damn what the bars think?
 A NON-GREEK.

PHI BETA KAPPA

Petition for a Phi Beta Kappa chapter on the University of California campus at Los Angeles has been granted. Never before in the history of the fraternity has a university been granted two chapters, and as the University of California at Los Angeles is held to just as much a part of the University of California as the branch at Berkeley it was decided that it would be impossible to grant U. C. L. A. a chapter. After much debate in the national councils of the fraternity the petition of U. C. L. A. was finally accepted.—California Daily Bruin.

BRUIN-TROJAN

Visions of the first overflow crowd in Los Angeles basketball history are almost certain to become realities as the demand for tickets to the Bruin-Trojan basketball struggle Saturday night steadily increases with over half the Shrine Auditorium already sold out.

As a ticket shortage looms at U. C. L. A., resulting from the sale of more than 1000 students' tickets yesterday, the Shrine auditorium will have only handbox accommodations for the immense crowd that will see the opening of the 1930 "civil war" series on the basketball court.—Daily Bruin.

NOTICE.

An open house for University students is being given tonight at 616 Eddy avenue by the University Christian Union. There will be games and a taffy pull, the "doings" to start at 8 o'clock.

Is It A Game?

There is a tap-tap at the class-room door. The instructor opens the door, peers out, and admits two students, one on each end of a long wire tape. Without a word, they go to opposite ends of the room and stretch the wire taut between them, one end against each wall. "Twenty and two," says one. "Okkeh," remarks the other, and he jots something down in a little black book. They change to the other walls and repeat the performance. Then they leave the class, the instructor gazing mystifiedly after them.

No; not a couple of escaped lunatics. Just two of the crew of students making a survey of the University departments. A questionnaire has recently been received by the business office from the University of Idaho, asking information regarding the floor space devoted to the different departments at Montana. And the students were put to work.

Some of the buildings on the campus have already been charted out, and the crew does not have to bother with them. Most departments, however, have never been surveyed. "It's a nice job," the workers say, "but some of those teachers—well, they're not exactly hospitable. They seem to think we're playing a joke on them!"

NOTICE

Many seniors have not yet handed in their student activity lists. Address them to Elsie Helcken and drop in the campus mail or leave at the "Shack." She says that this chance is absolutely your last.

Miss Hasseltine Byrd, sociology instructor, will speak at a meeting of the Epworth league in the Methodist church next Sunday evening at 7:15. "Search for Reality" will be the subject of her talk.

The meeting of Delta Psi Kappa, national honorary women's physical education fraternity, scheduled for Wednesday evening, has been postponed until Wednesday, February 5.

The Student Fellowship group will hold its regular meeting next Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. at 616 Eddy avenue. The feature of the evening will be a talk by Miss Hasseltine Byrd of the sociology department on "The Search for Reality."

It is too early to start thinking about golf.

We don't like this soft snow very well. It is too sentimental.

A woman once told Whistler that as she was driving into London late one evening "the landscape looked like a series of Whistler paintings." "Ah," said Whistler, "nature is improving."

French books teach everything except how to talk to a Frenchman; mining books tell everything except where to find ore; books on evolution refuse to establish precedent for either the hen or the egg. Thus do they all avoid the Issue.

Therefore we were happy to find in a book on "How to Ski," a chapter on "How to Fall."

In the middle of a long, steep hill; in the midst of Newton's Law, we forgot what we read, and just spread-eagled.

What to Tell the Absence Committee This small column strives to give helpful hints for needy undergraduates. Do you feel guilty under the piercing eye of the committee assembled? Does the thought of cuts keep you restless and make you sleepless after ten in the morning?

The Parent Alibi. Twice a year you may announce that your folks went through the city and you (1) had to meet them at the train, (2) had to show them the union stockyards, or (3) had to see them off at the train.

The Grandmother Alibi. Each student may attend the funeral of one grandmother per year. Alternate with fraternity brothers, friends, sorority sisters, friends, uncles and aunts. (A conservation policy must be established or you will run out of relatives during your first two years and will have none in reserve for possible probation periods.)

The Goat Alibi. This is very complicated, but sure fire. Buy a car. Park it near a fireplug and sleep in it at night. A policeman will discover you after you have slept through several classes. You will be put in goal. Call the Officers of the University and have them get you out. Refuse to leave cut unless they promise to excuse cuts. You would be surprised how well it works.

The Crutch Method. Limp into committee meeting on sticks. Announce that your leg is broken and that you have no telephone. Pull hammer from pocket; striking leg sharply, to show that there is no feeling. Announce that worry over cuts keeps leg from knitting. Plead that a kind word will do wonders. If a glimmer of humanity shows on faces of committee, throw crutches through window; shout "Hallelujah! Healed." Spectacular finish to act will surely swing things your way. Duck things and retreat.

But to be frank; if we know something good to tell the Absence Committee, in meeting assembled, we would tell them ourselves.

So did "Doc's" shor, William Angus, dramatics. Mr. Angus found Beckwith ue earth not exactly easy sledding, he had company in his tasks in ren B. D. Speer, registrar, was also d to resort to the tools of the on-gang and did a hole in the le of the street to get the water to again. The extent of the freeze- reached even into the fields of ics and journalism, with both. G. D. Shallenberger and Prof. rt Housman reporting trouble. aternities have also felt the ef- s of the cold. The Sigma Nus, been frozen up for so long that 've become used to it. Members Sigma Phi Epsilon, across the et, have been helping out the un- nate Sigma Nus by giving them ss to the Sig Ep showers and hot- tank. Sigma Alpha Epsilon has been in arctic hibernation for a time. Carl Walker dug a hole week in the S. A. E. lawn to try each the frozen pipes. After he through, he discovered the hole in the wrong place, and had to do it over again.

MACHINERY AT GUGGENHEIM HALL

Machinery exhibits representing an estimated expenditure of more than $200,000 are now being installed in the recently constructed Guggenheim hall, aeronautics school at the University of Washington. These include various types of airplanes, motors and parts given by the government and several airplane manufacturing companies.

Aeronautics students will be employed for the next few weeks in assembling the three typical types of plane, land, sea and amphibian, in the exhibit room. Twelve different kinds of aircraft motors, including one huge dirigible engine, are also to be included in the exhibit. Wind tunnels are to be installed in five specially constructed rooms in the basement.—Washington Daily.

and greatly annoyed to find the other day that the gas pipe to his house had frozen up. Another victim of this form of disaster is Prof. W. P. Clark of the foreign language department, who has been without heat in his home since the Evans avenue gas line froze at his house. Catastrophes in the plumbing line were numerous during the coldest days of the past few weeks, but the worst effects have been felt since the temperature has risen. The rising temperature, it is said, had caused the frost to sink deeper into the ground, and this has been the source of the wide-spread water troubles.

Branson, instructor in paleontology at the State College of Washington.

"Three types of prehistoric elephants roamed over eastern Washington in a bygone age: the mastodon, the mammoth and the elephant," continues Mr. Branson. "Well-preserved bones and tusks are a frequent find. The swamps that spread over this territory would crust over in summer, and the huge animals would break through and so be entrapped."

Grizzlies to Meet Vandals and Cougars Tomorrow and Monday Away From Home

Ten Men Make Trip; Stewart Believes Games Will Be Tough Ones Due to Uncertainty of Comparative Scores.

Ten Montana basketball players, Coach J. W. Stewart and Manager Bill Crawford boarded the west bound Milwaukee at noon today for Moscow, Idaho, where they will play a return game with the Idaho Vandals tomorrow night. Monday night the Grizzlies will meet Washington State at Pullman.

The outcome of these games can not be predicted. The Vandals and the Cougars are exceptionally strong this season. Although Montana forced both teams to take the short end of the score on the local floor, Coach Stewart anticipates two hard-fought games.

Last Saturday the Vandals routed the Cougars in the last few minutes of play. It is the same old story—comparative scores do not determine the outcome of a basketball game and the Montana men will have to keep up the fast pace if they chalk up two wins on this trip.

Coach Stewart has eased up on the strenuous workouts the last few days, spending a great deal of the time on fundamentals and defense. A light practice was held last night without any scrimmage session. With the two-day lay off, the Grizzlies should be in top form tomorrow night.

The two games with the Northern division teams are of importance to Montana. A win over either of these teams will show the sport critics that Montana has a team capable of competing for honors in the Northern division.

In the game tomorrow night, Montana will have to watch Stewart and McMillan closely for these sharpshooters nearly upset things for Montana in the last tilt. So far Montana has been playing a great game of ball and two more victories against these strong conference teams would give critics something to think about. If the Grizzlies play their best brand of ball they should stand a very good chance of keeping their record clear tonight, although it will not take much of a slump to spoil it.

The game with W. S. C. Monday night will bear watching by the Montana fan. The Cougars at present are left in undisputed possession of the Northern division leadership. However, if the Grizzlies get one of those hot spells such as in the previous W. S. C. game, the Cougars might as well toss in the sponge.

The Cougar team this year is built around the lanky Enslow. This tall boy has a habit of dropping a lot of balls through the net and will have to be watched at all stages of the game. Then, too, the Cougars have two fast forwards in Holsten and Carlton who will have to be watched when the going is tough. McLarney and Van Tuyle have been getting the first call in most of the games this season and these two men will probably be selected at the guard positions against Montana. Coach Friel also has an abundance of material sitting on the bench this season and if things don't look right, the Cougar mentor doesn't neglect to do some fast shifting in the lineup as was demonstrated in the game here.

Coach Stewart will undoubtedly start the lineup used in the last few games consisting of Chinske and Rohlfis, forwards; Rule at center; and Kilroy and Rankin at the guard positions. The Montana mentor may give his reserves a chance to get into one of the frays but more than likely the starting five will see the most action.

The ten men making the trip are Jack Doherty, guard; Harp Kilroy, guard and center; Glen Lockwood, guard; Johnny Lewis, forward; Eddie Chinske, forward; Ted Rule, center; Billy Rohlfis, forward; Don Stocking, center; Clifton Rohlfis, guard; and Captain Carl Rankin, guard.

Flying Basketeers Leave for Kalispell

Montana's collegians of the air, the Flying Basketeers, are leaving at 8 o'clock this afternoon for a two-game series with Whitefish high school. Bob Johnson's cabin plane will take them there in not much more than an hour.

Whitefish is considered one of the strongest teams in the northwest part of the state. Each man on the team is over six feet tall. They have already beaten North Central high school at Spokane this year. Last season North Central's was the champion high school team of the whole state of Washington.

The Presbyterian Collegians play in the Inter-Church league and also as an independent league team down town. Those making the trip are: E. Carey, Percy, Stillings, Clack, Webster, K. Ekegren and Dixon, manager.

Jerry Dahl and Wright Gates were luncheon guests at the Sigma Alpha Epsilon house Thursday.

STATE QUINTS TO HAVE BIG MONTH

February Will See End of Most Court Struggles.

February is the big month for basketball teams of the country and Montana teams will play their share, both traveling and at home. February is the month of most district tournaments in the interscholastic division while the first or second week in March is the time for the play-off of state championships. In colleges the championships of conferences are determined the first of March before the track and baseball season takes the spotlight of sport to the big outdoors.

The Grizzlies have 12 games remaining on their schedule. The only tentative ones that might be played would be with either the Huskies or one of the Oregon schools. The remaining games of the Montana University schedule are: February 1, Idaho at Moscow; February 3, Washington State at Pullman; February 7 and 8, Whitman at Missoula; February 10, Montana State at Missoula; February 14 and 15, Gonzaga at Missoula; February 21 and 22, Whitman at Walla Walla; February 24 and 25, Gonzaga at Spokane; March 1, Montana Mines at Butte.

Bobcat Schedule.

Montana State's Bobcats have 11 games left on the schedule which are: January 31 and February 1, Utah State at Bozeman; February 7 and 8, Brigham Young at Bozeman; February 10, University of Montana at Missoula; February 14, Montana Mines at Butte; February 15, Mount St. Charles at Helena; February 21 and 22, Utah University at Salt Lake City; February 24 and 25, Utah State at Logan.

Mt. St. Charles Announces Games. Mount St. Charles has completed its 1930 basketball schedule. Coach Wilbur S. Eaton announced this week, and the games will be: February 3 and 5, Whitman at Helena; February 7, Montana Mines at Helena; February 12 and 13, Gonzaga at Helena; February 15, Montana State at Helena; February 24, Montana Mines at Butte.

The heavy schedules indicate that Montana schools will be on their toes in the next few weeks, fighting among themselves and seeking victories in other lands. Montana State has practically clinched the Treasure State championship as they have won their first game with the Grizzlies. The crown will be theirs undisputed if they defeat the University at Missoula.

Sport Spurts

The Grizzlies left this noon to meet two strong teams of the Northern Division of the Pacific Coast conference.

Coach Stewart considers both the Idaho fray, Saturday night, and the W. S. C. game, Monday evening, the most important on the schedule.

Montana's win over the Vandals 20-24 and W. S. C. 54-24 has caused a great deal of comment in papers on the coast. The general consensus is that Montana should be in the conference rating this season.

It is for this reason that Montana must make a good showing at Moscow and Pullman. Then there will be no doubt in the minds of the sport followers that Montana is qualified to give any of the Northern division teams a run in the percentage column.

The team will stay in Spokane tonight and go by bus to Moscow for the game with the Idaho Vandals.

The defeat of the University of Washington by O. A. C. 19 to 17 Tuesday night sent the Huskies down to a second place tie with the Idaho Vandals and O. A. C.

Washington State is leading the division. None of the teams in the conference have survived a clean slate in this season's play.

Matlock and Little have joined the basketball squad of the School of Mines. Both these men are veteran material and should strengthen Coach McAlliff's team.

Negotiations are still under way for a Montana-School of Mines game. The only possible date that the Grizzlies could give the Miners would be about March 1. If this game goes through, the Montana team will end the season at Butte instead of Spokane.

Next week the Grizzlies will put in the hardest week on the schedule. Friday and Saturday there will be a series with the strong Whitman team.

On the following Monday, giving the Grizzlies a one day rest, the Bobcats will invade the local arena.

Bobby Morris, who is no stranger to Montana crowds, will work these
