STUDENT TEAM TO DEBATE CAP-AND-TRADE POLICY

MISSOULA –

The University of Montana Debate Team will discuss potential effects of the United States adopting a cap-and-trade policy from noon to 1 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 2, in the University Center Atrium.

The debate will focus on an energy bill currently in Congress that would cap carbon emissions and allow trading of carbon permits by manufacturers. The bill is part of President Barack Obama's plan to address global climate change.

The UM Debate Team is a University-sanctioned organization composed of students from a variety of campus programs. The team presents a public debate each semester to showcase its activity and discuss relevant political and social issues.
