SENIOR BENCH

FROM a columnist—greetings! To the new ones, heigh-ho! We hope you enjoy everything as much as we have—"College Chums" when the Main Hall clock strikes eight, walking under the trees when the air's all gold from the sun through the leaves, the first French "on" through your nose and the first dunk in the pool. And to the old ones, heigh-de-ho! May your vacation have been a grand one, and we're glad you're back.

PERSONALLY, our financial status rather warped our summer antics, but we enjoyed our friends' peregrinations. One told us of seeing the lovely stained glass window in the Forest Lawn Memorial in California. When the memorial was designed, a woman in Italy, the last of a long line of glass work artists, was the only person in the world who could do the delicate work required in modeling the window. When, after several years, she had completed it, Mussolini refused to let it out of Italy until he was persuaded that Italian art needed the advertisement. After the laborious work of packing and shipping, and another year spent in putting the window in place, it finally stands complete. What if a small boy should throw a stone through it?

ANOTHER friend went to the talkies in Quebec City. Half the town is French, the other half English, so that it is necessary for an interpreter to walk up and down the aisles translating through a megaphone. The audience goes right on quivering emotionally in spite of having its ears howled into.

WE DID manage to take on a few contract lessons—it was becoming necessary, like knowing which fork to use—and we found out all about it. If you bid two no-trump your partner should take you out on a wailer roast, but if the opponents respond with four clubs it whiffs out your ace on the 20-yard line, so you dribble along for two innings with a certain amount of spades. Then on about the count of six you stun the opponents with a quick blow at the hearts, and either make a grand slam or go down five. It doesn't really matter because you were just hogging the bid anyhow.

WE READ a lot of books. The three we enjoyed most were Hans Fallada's "Little Man, What Now?", simply and beautifully done; James Gould Cozzens' "The Last Adam," promptly ruined by Will Rogers via the cinema, and "Bula Matari," the story of Stanley's conquests in Africa.

AND speaking of reading, Edward J. O'Brien of "Best Short Stories" remarks in the October issue of Vanity Fair that he would much rather read The Prairie Schooner of Lincoln, Nebraska, and The Frontier, of Missoula, Montana, than most magazines which you see on the news stands. We congratulate Editor H. G. Merriam and Associate Editors Brassill Fitzgerald and Grace Stone Coates on the tribute, which they most heartily deserve.

One Hundred Students Enroll for Forestry

There are 100 students enrolled in the School of Forestry this year. Twenty-seven of these students are from other states, five more than were here last year from other states.

There are six from California; two each from Minnesota, Wyoming, Washington, Iowa, Illinois and Massachusetts; one each from Georgia, Connecticut, Colorado, New York, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Ohio, Nebraska, and New Jersey.

Frontier and Midland Publication Will Be Off Press on October 20

Local Periodical Merges With Midland, Former Chicago Magazine; To Contain Many Interesting Articles

The November issue of the "Frontier and Midland" will be off the press the 20th of this month. The "Midland" was formerly published in Chicago, but was discontinued last year and this year is being merged with the "Frontier." Making up the fall issue will be the following stories: "The Mother," by Vardis Fisher who is on the faculty of the Department of English; "Sutor," by Albert Richard Wetjen of Portland, Ore.; "The Legend Crows," by Benjamin Apple of New York City; "Cycle," by Homer Deck of Hillsboro, Ore.; "Man of the Horse," by Eleanor Saltzman of Iowa City, Iowa; "Organ Blower," by Arthur Nethercott, professor of English at Northwestern University, and "Let a Circle Be Forged," by Raymond Ebnart of Butte, a graduate of the Department of English at the State University of Montana.

The poems include "Boomerang," by Mary J. Elmendorf of Seattle; "Land Lover," by Arthur T. Merrill from California; "The Boy," by Ashley Sampson of London; "Song of Indian Summer," by Don Stevens of the San Francisco Examiner, a former student in the School of Journalism here, and short poems by Jane Merrill, Spokane; G. Frank Goodpasture, South Bend, Wash.; Fred Baugher, Decatur, Ill.; Olaf Olsen, Gearhart, Ore.; Annice Calland, San Francisco, and Frances Huston, Portland, Ore.

There will also be a new style essay, "Provincialism," by Carey McWilliams of Los Angeles; "Northern Nights With Wolves," an article by Dunc Storms of Wyoming, and "Partners," an anecdote of the West, by Frank Linderman of Flathead lake. Other sections will be the Historical section, "Family Letters of Fur Traders, 1829-1856," by Prof. Paul C. Phillips of the State University Department of History; the Book Reviews, and the Literary News.

Cadet Teachers Assigned Local Practice Work

Twenty-one Students Are Located In Grade and High Schools; University Gets Six

State University students enrolled in practice teaching classes began their work Friday and Monday both in the Missoula schools and the State University. Practice teaching is necessary in order that students may receive teachers' certificates.

Cadet teachers in the Missoula County high school are Evelyn Balgord, French; Vera Gilbert, history; Katherine Marion, history; Catherine Mead, English; Sadye Moore, English; Ruby Rogness, Latin; Juanita Ruegar, Latin, and Ellen Shields, mathematics.

Those assigned to city grade schools are Jane Adams, history; Lynda Jane Bruckhauser, history and English; Lola Dunlap, English; Betty Nofsinger, history; Virginia Rigney, art and English; Raymond Smalley, hygiene; Margaret Sullivan, arithmetic; Irma Tressman, French or English; and Dorothy Taylor, English.

Sacred Heart academy has been assigned three student teachers. They are Kathryn Bailey, public speaking; Jean Corry, home economics and English, and Josephine Wilkins, home economics.

Students composing the University student teaching staff consist of Grace Johnson, Spanish; Leonard Kuka, physical education; Sara Miles, physical education; Dorothy Miller, mathematics; Linwood Reynolds, physical education; Lucille Saner, Spanish, and Clarence Watson, botany.

STATE UNIVERSITY SPURS PLAN LUNCHEON IN BUTTE

State University Spurs are planning to have luncheon with the State College Spurs in Butte, Saturday, October 21. The luncheon will be held at the Finlen hotel.

All Spurs who wish to attend the luncheon are asked to notify Esther Strauss at the Delta Delta Delta house by Saturday, October 14.

Former students visiting at the School of Pharmacy during the past week were Howard Craig of Drummond, Jack Wheatly, salesman for the Eli Lilly company, and Earl Eck.

Montanans Will Debate Foreigners

Canadian University Students on U. S. Tour Scheduled Here in November

The National Federation of Canadian University Students is sending a debating team to tour the western region of the United States. This team will be here some time in November.

The Canadian team is composed of Arthur Daniel Bierwag, one of the leading students and a member of the debate team for four years at the University of Alberta and Eric Darrell Errey, a native of St. Lucia, British West Indies, now a student at the University of Saskatchewan.

A subject for the team will be chosen from the following: That this house deplores the rise of Fascism; That pacifism is an economically and spiritually impossible creed; That modern representative government has shown itself to be a failure; That this house deplores the spirit of economic nationalism; That a university education is the worst preparation for life.

Phi Delta Phi

Plans are nearing completion for Phi Delta Phi's homecoming dance. The dance will commence immediately following the parade and pep rally Friday night. There will be no programs, as the dance is informal, but it is not a mixer.

Tickets may be obtained from Miss Russell, the law librarian; the Student Store; Donovan & Hickey, and all law students.

Waters Continues Blister Rust Work

Attempt Being Made to Eradicate Bushes Serving As Hosts

For the last five years, Dr. C. W. Waters, associate professor in the Department of Botany, has been working during the summer months with the Blister Rust control whose office is in Spokane. The Blister Rust control is attempting to eradicate all the wild gooseberries and currants which harbor the white pine blister rust organism during a part of its life cycle.

Dr. Waters' work dealt with the habit and life cycle of the ribes and blister rust and particularly with the influence of certain types of logging on the inception and growth of the rust.

About 12,000 acres of cut-over land were examined in the St. Joe region in Idaho this year. Last year Dr. Waters worked in the Clearwater forest.

Lesell Is Elected President of Club

Eva Lesell, Belt, was elected president of the Spanish club at the meeting of that organization held last Thursday in the Law building. The other officers are vice-president—Lucille Saner, Butte, and secretary—Margery Minnehan, Missoula.

The Spanish club will be entirely under student management, there being no sponsor since Miss Eminger is not here this year. The Spanish club is open to all students taking Spanish 13b or above. The dues are 25 cents a quarter. The next meeting will be held October 18.

Pres. C. H. Clapp returned to his duties Monday following a slight illness which kept him from his office the latter half of the past week.

Registration For Quarter Totals 1,365

Late Enrollments Add 144 More To Student Figures; Slight Decrease Noted

Despite the fact that registration figures at the State University swelled considerably during the past week, the totals, complete to last Saturday, revealed a decline of 19 as compared to last year's figures. At the present time the total enrollment is 1,365 in contrast with the 1,384 students who had registered during the corresponding 1932 period.

The first week of late registration brought an addition of 144 students to the former enrollment figures of 1,221. Last year, however, 185 students registered late during the first week of the autumn quarter.

Seven hundred and eighty-five men and 580 women comprise this year's total in contrast with the 803 men and 581 women enrolled a year ago. Although there is a decrease in the number of former students registering, an encouraging increase of new students has been noted. There are 518 new and 847 former students enrolled as compared to 465 new and 919 former students last year.

University officials believe that additional late registration will be heavy enough to make this year's total at least equal to the figures for the autumn quarter of 1932.

Bravo, McKay Elected to Council By Independents

Boileau Explains the Organization Activity of Club to Members At Meeting Monday

The opening address of the mass meeting of the Independents was given by Harvey Thirloway, A. S. U. M. president yesterday afternoon in the Little Theatre at 5 o'clock.

George Boileau, senior delegate to the council, explained the organization of the Barbs and the 50 cent activity fee. The 50 cents is used to finance dances during the quarter. The activity ticket permits the holder and guest entrance to the group's affairs. There are two dances and one other entertainment given each quarter.

Freshmen delegates selected to the council are Lena Bravod and Maurice McKay. Allen Conrad will take the place of Malcolm Stotts, junior delegate, whose resignation was accepted.

Concession Bids Requested by Club

Requests for concession locations for the carnival to be held some time in the future will be submitted at the first meeting of the President's club to be held tomorrow at 5 o'clock in Room 107 of Main hall.

The president of every organization on the campus is expected to attend this meeting and anyone absent without sufficient reason will be fined.

Impromptu Rally Fools Radio Fans as Whittinghill Stars

School Spirit can conquer anything, even an unprepared program!

The time was set; the speech organized and written; the speakers informed of their parts; the first radio broadcast of the year was about to go on the air, informing every listener that the Grizzlies were going to play the Washington Cougars next Saturday. But wait—where were the speakers? Where was the speech? In fact, where was the whole carefully-planned program? It seemed to have vanished in thin air. The yell king, Noral Whittinghill, didn't seem to be worried a bit. He wandered aimlessly about the room telling everyone that all he had to do was to show his sincere enthusiasm and everything would be all right.

The time of the rally came swiftly, so swiftly that the announcer's voice boomed over the radio before the yell section was seated. Then started the most enthusiastic, convincing program of school spirit that has ever been heard in Missoula. "Up With Montana, Boys" stirred radio listeners in their

A. W. S. Issues Edict Regarding Mid-week Dates

Grade Slumps Among Last Year's Freshman Women Cause Revival of Rule

Serious slumps in the grades of freshman women during the 1932-33 term were echoed in Main hall yesterday afternoon when Associated Women Students re-established the "No Mid-Week Dating" rule which was discarded last year. Better scholarship on the part of the present crop of freshman women, it is hoped, will be the immediate result of the ruling.

The same penalty for non-compliance that was used prior to last year was also re-established when freshman women were notified by Virginia Rigney, A. W. S. president, that violators would lose their week-end privileges.

A short pep talk was given to the A. W. S. members by Lina Greene, president of Mortar Board, senior women's honorary. It was decided that Co-ed Prom, a tradition which has existed on this campus, would be discontinued this year.

Co-ed Prom formerly consisted of skits presented by the sororities and the Independents and a costume ball for women only. Last year the dance was discontinued but the groups competed for honors with their skits.

Journalists Meet Tomorrow Evening

Professors and Former Students To Welcome New Students

All students entered in any of the journalism courses are invited to attend the opening meeting of Press club tomorrow at 7:30 o'clock. Entertainment for the evening will consist of addresses by students and professors in the School of Journalism, skits and songs. Cider and doughnuts will be served by a committee headed by Emily Mills.

Another feature of the meeting will be an election of officers to represent each class in their contributions to The Splinter, a publication distributed at Press club meetings for students in the School of Journalism. New students, especially, are to be welcomed at Wednesday's meeting.

Wisconsin Society Honors E. E. Bennett

Prof. E. E. Bennett of the Department of History has received a membership in the State Historical Society of Wisconsin. Mr. Bennett did his graduate work at Wisconsin where he received a Draper fellowship in western history during 1924-25. While there Mr. Bennett wrote the Tennessee Papers which made up a fourth of the book "Tennessee and Kings Mountain Papers" which was published in 1929.

With the life membership in the society, Mr. Bennett receives many historical publications which will be available in the Library to anyone who is interested.

Snake Dance and Parade Will Feature Pep Rally For Grizzly-Cougar Game

Starting at 8 o'clock Friday Evening, Students Will March Through City to Ball Park Where Traditional Bonfire and Celebration Will Be Held and Coaches and Players Introduced

Starting from Main hall at 8 o'clock Friday evening and adding to its numbers at every residence hall and fraternity house enroute, the annual student parade, chanting Montana yells, will wind down University avenue to Gerald avenue, turn there and proceed to Sixth street.

At this point the parade will turn west for one block and then snake dance down Higgins avenue, across the bridge to the city ball park where the pep rally is to be held. This was announced Monday by Lina Greene, chairman of the Traditions committee.

"Friday's parade in addition to furnishing pep for the Montana-Washington State college game on Saturday, will also serve as a test for the organization of the student parade in Butte on October 21," Miss Greene said.

The arrangement of the parade with the positions of the various groups in the line will be announced in Friday's Kaimin. This same organization will be followed in Butte. All students desiring to be in the singing or cheering sections are requested to meet on the field behind Craig hall at 4:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

At the ball park the entire student body will gather around a huge bonfire and the team and coaches will be introduced by Noral Whittinghill, Yell King.

Friday's Kaimin will also carry the announcement of the four new yell dukes and duchesses. These co-leading with the yell king, will lead the students in Montana yells and songs. Newly elected Bear Paws and Spurs, officiating for the first time, will keep the spirit of the rally from waning.

Following the example set last year, the freshmen, under the direction of Jesse Lacklin, temporary class president, will collect and assemble the material for the bonfire.

The rally will end at approximately 9:15 o'clock and arrangements are being made to have the students return to the campus to attend the Phi Delta Phi Homecoming dance in the men's gymnasium.

Buzzer System

A buzzer system, which will eliminate waiting for an interview with Dean Sedman, has been installed between Hazel Mumm's desk and Dean Sedman's office.

Co-eds who wish to see Dean Sedman will see Miss Mumm, who will ring the dean's office. If she is not busy, they will be admitted immediately. Appointments with Mrs. Sedman will be made with her secretary.

Dean Sedman's office hours are from 9:30 until 12 o'clock and from 1:30 until 3 o'clock. Girls are requested to make appointments so they will not have to wait.

Dean H. R. Sedman outlines plans for regulation of all social events.

A committee representing each of the Greek organizations met with Dean Harriet R. Sedman in Main hall Friday evening to discuss new rules which will govern all future social events at fraternity and sorority houses. Spokesmen from the various chapter houses expressed the belief that abuse of privileges formerly granted would be lessened and that parties and dances would subsequently improve.

Some of the regulations to which each group must comply are:

1. The social chairman of an organization must apply personally to the dean of women for dates for social functions.

2. A card must be filled out and filed with the secretary to the dean of women for each date listed.
3. The names of the chaperons who have accepted invitations must be filed with the dean's secretary at least two days previous to the party. There must be two couples for smaller functions and four couples for the larger functions. There must be one married couple from the faculty for the smaller functions and two married couples from the faculty for the larger functions.

4. A written report of the party must be filed with the dean's secretary within one week following each function.

There will be fewer group activities during the fall quarter this year due to the fact that a greater number of all-school functions are listed on the social calendar.

Tony D'Orazi, '32, exhibited paintings at the World's Fair. Some of the pictures were reproduced in the World's Fair Weekly and in the Chicago Times.

Complete plans for the proposed construction project will be announced by Pres. C. H. Clapp after a meeting with the Public Works board.

A. S. U. M. Building Funds Requested

Application for a $300,000 loan for construction of a Student Union building on the State University campus was filed with the State Public Works Advisory board last week by the State Board of Education.

Complete plans for the proposed construction project will be announced by Pres. C. H. Clapp after a meeting with the Public Works board.

That Perennial Knock

Autumn is here as evidenced by gayly colored leaves and shrubbery, crisp frosty evenings — and hordes and hordes of controversial articles on education and the educational system.

In the October issue of the American Mercury, E. F. Orr makes quite an attack upon present day education. He opens his article by conceding that although "human beings are not blockheads and consequently uneducable," they are certainly "the victims of a false system of education." Traditional and personal prejudices are, to him, two very strong forces operating to make true education difficult. To Mr. Orr, a Phi Beta Kappa Key means nothing more than an extreme conformity with textbook and pedagogic authority.

The characteristics of true education we are told consist of (1) the power to discriminate among relative values, (2) a profound appreciation of and reverence for superior values, and (3) a fervent spirit of sincere and honest doubt. Mr. Orr seems to think that colleges and universities can play no part in the acquisition of such an objective, but he offers no alternative.

"It is absolutely necessary," he says, "that we revise our entire educational philosophy and then redefine our first principles and relearn our lessons on the basis of that new philosophy." We realize that our educational set-up does have its faults, that there are many changes that might be made to good advantage, but these shortcomings are not so glaring as the author of this article might have us believe.

It sounds all right — this laying aside of the old and adoption of the new. But where, when and how shall we start? We can all knock many things about us, but unless we have some real solution to offer for the problem, we are getting nowhere fast.

Omnibus Enroute--

The State University is making one of its most outstanding efforts to meet the student half way when it offers on its schedule this fall, four of the so-called omnibus courses. For many years students have called and cried for courses that were comprehensive, that left the scholar with a definite foundation upon which to build his knowledge. These courses are attempting precisely that thing.

Called introductions, they propose to outline for the student in as complete and definite form as possible, the entire field of the subject. The outstanding factors in the origin and development of plant and animal life will be presented in the Introduction to Biological Sciences; the course dealing with physical sciences will organize for the student the subjects of chemistry, physics, astronomy, geology and mathematics as they are related to one another; that dealing with the social sciences outlines the political, social and economic development of Europe from the 16th century to the present time. The Introduction to the Humanities, an entirely new field in the State University, will acquaint the student with an understanding and appreciation of art, music and literature through the centuries from the Greeks to Americans.

If the individual has initiative he will use the course as a guide to the development of his knowledge and study of that particular subject. If he is one of our many efficient mimics, who is taking the course for credit, he will be pleased to find that his reiterations are carefully planned and follow logically. Every student should find compensation in the work spent on one of these courses.

Sunshine of Tomorrow

More than ever before we hear comment about the great sacrifice many students are making this year in order to attend college. Which brings to light the question: Is college worth while? Some students feel that the effort they are making to go to college might be directed in other channels, to better advantage. Ask any college graduate who has experienced financial difficulty in obtaining his degree if he feels that his efforts were wasted. His answer will, in most cases, be "No."

Today there is competition in every field of endeavor and the college graduate is better qualified to meet such situations, and the college man finds his associations with others who hold college degrees much more pleasurable to him. Should your college education never prove of any material value to you, which is quite unlikely, the personal enjoyment you receive from it in after years will more than repay you for the sacrifices you are making now. As Myrtle Reed wrote in "The Master's Violin," "you have only one day at a time to live. Get all the content you can out of it, and let the rest wait, like the bud, till the sun of tomorrow shows you the rose." Remember this motto in getting your college education; the sun of tomorrow will prove the reward for the sacrifices you are making now.

Montana has done its part toward world peace — the Grizzly battle song, "Up With Montana," has been turned into a fox trot.

Cougars Hit Grizzly Team In Big Test

Montana Eleven Drills in Offense And Pass Defense to Meet W. S. C. Attack

Out for blood after being defeated 33-0 by the University of Southern California last Saturday, the Cougars of Washington State college will encounter the State University Grizzlies next week on Dornblaser field. Although beaten by the Trojans, W. S. C. is still a dangerous contender for coast laurels, having one of the strongest squads ever assembled at that school.

Coach B. F. Oakes has been drilling the players to run hard for the 60 minutes of the game, and the Grizzlies will be in condition to fight the full time. Spirit and enthusiasm is running high in the Montana camp and the men are pointing to the Cougar test.

The team is working hard to polish up its weak points in the few days left before the contest, practicing with the Cub squad. The freshmen are using Cougar plays to give the varsity practice against that style of play.

Coach Oakes is developing a strong aerial attack and a powerful offense which he hopes will be used to an advantage against W. S. C. The men are also drilling in pass defense to stave off one of the Cougars' biggest threats.

Intramural Touch Football Schedule Gets Under Way

Phi Sigs and S. A. E.'s Triumph In First Contests Between Fraternity Groups

Making its debut as an innovation to the minor sports calendar, intramural touch football opened last night with Phi Sigma Kappa defeating Sigma Nu, 13-0, and Sigma Alpha Epsilon topping Delta Sigma Lambda by the same margin. Bob White, Don Holloway and Marion McCarty officiated at the games.

The Phi Sig team held back a Sigma Nu threat while Pat and Wilfred Gits scored touchdowns to clinch the game. Scott Stratton booted the try for the extra point.

S. A. E.'s lighter, faster team stopped the D. S. L. nine, 13-0, McEachern throwing passes to Lambert and Smith for touchdowns. Raff dropped the extra point.

Games for the rest of the week until Thursday are: Today—S. P. E. vs. Sigma Chi; Phi Delta vs. Independents; Wednesday—A. T. O. vs. Sigma Nu; Phi Sig vs. D. S. L.; S. A. E. vs. S. P. E.; Thursday—Phi Delta vs. A. T. O.; Sigma Nu vs. D. S. L.

Mountaineers Visit Como Lake Region

The Mountaineers made a trip Sunday, October 8, to Como lake and Como peaks. The trip was made by automobile to Como lake and from there the party hiked up Little Rock Creek canyon to Como peaks. About twenty-six people made the trip. H. K. Snell, assistant professor in the Department of Economics, led the party.

Next Sunday, October 15, the Mountaineers will make a trip to Sawtooth peak near Stevensville. E. M. Little, associate professor in the Department of Physics, will lead the party. Anyone interested in making the trip is welcome.

Montana Grizzlies Who Will Stop Cougar Attack

William Hawke, playing his third year at guard, who will see much action against the Cougars.

George Kuka, veteran tackle, who will get the call in Saturday's game.

Sporty Vents

Interest and enthusiasm is running high among Grizzly fans as the Montana team drills for the coming contest with the Cougars of Washington State. Although W.S.C. has a strong team, the hope is that the Grizzlies will put up a good fight against the invaders.

Coach Oakes is developing a strong attack which he hopes will puzzle the Cougar team. Having practiced an aerial attack as well as a pass defense, Montana will be well able to take care of that part of the game.

The Grizzlies will have a strong assortment of ends, with Naseby Rhinehart and Al Heller leading the field. Other ends are Lou Hartzell, Rod McCall and Leon Lockridge.

George Kuka, Leonard Kuka and Ken Carpenter are the experienced tackles, being backed up by Previs, Newgard and Jackson. Bill Hawke and Monte Reynolds are the third-year men at guard, but are being pushed by two sophomores, Hubert Zenne and Johnny Sullivan. Another addition is Lelf Anderson, who recently joined the squad.

The center assignment will go to George Sayatovich, Al Dahlberg or Charlie Wilcox, leaving the pivot position a well-fortified spot.

Ball-carrying, signal-calling and kicking assignments will go to such backfield men as Cal Emery, Bob Stansberry, Bill Hileman, Henry Blastic, Leland Storey, Edison Kent, Benny Bergeson, Jim Roberts, Roger Grattan, Willie Wagner and Cale Crowley.

The Cougars boast a big team starting such men as George Theodoratus, 243-pound tackle; Hank Bendele, veteran fullback; Ollie Arbelbide, fleet halfback and safety man; Chuck Lawitter, capable end, and Frank Ingram, whom Coach Hollingberry thinks is as good a pivot man as can be seen on the Pacific coast.

Washington State, rated as one of the strongest teams on the coast, lost to the Trojans of U. S. C. last week by a 33-0 score. Although the outcome had been undecided, the top-heavy score was a surprise in some circles, leaving the dopesters worried about the strength of the two teams.

One of the biggest upsets of early season took place last week when the California Golden Bears squeezed out a victory over a highly-rated St. Mary's team, 14-13.

Stanford beat Santa Clara, 7-0; Gonzaga and Oregon State tied, 0-0, and Idaho whitewashed Whitman, 66-0, in the other games of the week.

The Bobcats dropped another game Saturday, this time losing to Utah State, 6-40. It seems that Montana State has a team that is too light and inexperienced for the rest of the Rocky Mountain conference this year.

A survey by the New York Herald-Tribune showed that the New York Giants, winners of the 1933 World Series, had eight college graduates on their team, as compared to four for the Washington Senators, who came out second best in the series.

The Giants having trimmed the Senators, the conclusion would be that they outsmarted them. What price college education!

Four Teams Picked In Frosh Football

Cubs Have Game With Bobkittens At Bozeman November 4

Four teams, the pick of the freshman football squad, have been selected to scrimmage Washington State plays against the varsity this week.

The first part of the week will be given over to familiarizing the varsity with the Cougar formations, and the field. Last few days the frosh will run the plays in regular game style.

The Cubs have only one game on their schedule as yet, the opponent being their traditional foe, the Bobkittens of Montana State. This game will be played November 4 at Bozeman.

Candidates for the Frosh club and their positions are: Ends—Stripp, Van Deuser, Brandenburg, Menge, Kreuger, Hamilton, English and Johnson; tackles—Conners, Schultz, Leiphelmer, Rader, Terrill, Martin, Scott and Johnson; guards—Oss, Downey, Rockwood, Cram, Wheat, Klemig, English and Baker; centers—Hueser, Graff, Bowler and Hillman; quarterbacks—Marianna, Ryder, Alexander and Hall; halfbacks—Whittinghill, Olson, O'Braun, Taylor, Berg, White, Neff and Haskell; fullbacks—Fritzen, Bonawitz, Pickett and Doyle.

Twenty-one Men Draw Equipment For Track Drill

Football Practice Claims Majority Of Veterans; More Expected Later In Season

Twenty-one prospects for next spring's track team began fall workouts last week under the direction of Coach Harry Adams. More men are expected to draw equipment this week, among whom are several former scholastic stars.

Ten prospects for the varsity were numbered among those out in sweat suits. They include Ben Taylor, Wes Turner, Lew Steensland, Lloyd Bernhard, Harold Stearns, Ray Smalley, Bill Vickerman, Tom Wigal, Mel Maury and Jack Price. Newcomers are Gits, Rutherford, P. Brown, Mulroney, D. Williams, Vadheim, Blair, Vesey, Thane, Lewis and Krivell.

Serious training is expected to begin this week in order that Coach Adams may get an idea of the material due to turn out in the spring. Approximately fifty men who were either members of last year's varsity or freshman squads are registered in school this fall and some others are due to report for spring quarter.

An exceptionally large number of the track team members this year are out for football accounting in part for the small turnout for fall track. Nearly all those out for training at present are distance men performers in other events not being required to engage in the fall workouts.

Forestry Grads Aid Government During Summer

Students Are Stationed in Western Forests to Carry On Survey Work

Last spring's graduates of the School of Forestry, working for the government, were stationed in many western forests.

William Davis was doing type mapping work in Yellowstone National park. Davis and Alfred Spaulding have since been assigned to timber survey work at Priest River. Millard Evenson was foreman of an emergency conservation work crew at Canyon in Yellowstone park. Stanford Larson, '32, was also a foreman at Canyon.

Fred Benson and Frank Curtiss were on grazing reconnaissance in Gallatin National forest at Bozeman. Jack Hinman, who is now in school, was also on the same crew. Joel Frykman, Joe Woolfolk, graduate assistant in the School of Forestry last year, and Joe Hessel were members of a party headed by Professor Fay Clark of the School of Forestry which was making a field type map of Glacier National park. Bob Matsen was with the Bureau of Public Roads at the same place.

Larry Neff was doing type mapping work in the St. Joe National forest and later was with the U. S. Forest Service at Coeur d'Alene, Idaho. Walter Pool was alternate ranger at the Monture ranger station on the Blackfoot and was transferred to Superior about the first of September. Dick Whitaker worked for the U. S. Forest Service at Nordman, Idaho. Jack White was with the U. S. Forest Service in Lolo National forest. He has now gone to the Yale School of Forestry to work for his master's degree.

Former Students Married Saturday

Home of Bride's Parents Is Scene Of Impressive Ceremony

Of interest to their many University friends is the marriage of Margaret Alice Price of Missoula to Herbert Abel of Billings. Dr. J. N. MacLean of Helena, assisted by Dr. David E. Jackson, pastor of the church, performed the impressive ceremony which took place Saturday at high noon at the First Presbyterian church of Missoula. Gladys Price, sister of the bride was maid of honor and Force Baney of Great Falls attended as groomsmen. Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents for the many guests. During the afternoon and evening open house, honoring Mr. and Mrs. Abel was held at the Price home. After a wedding trip to the eastern part of the state, Mr. and Mrs. Abel will make their home at Billings where Mr. Abel is employed by the General Motors Acceptance corporation. Mrs. Abel is a graduate of the University where she majored in music and French. For a year after her graduation she taught music and French in the Big Sandy high school. Mr. Abel received his degree in business administration at the University in 1928. Mrs. Abel is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority and Mr. Abel of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

One Man's Opinion

Dear Editor:

"Beefing," that fine old Montana tradition, has come to a sorry state. I have been prompted to write you about this before, but only today did I get the final call. I notice that even the leaders of our student body are now telling their troubles to bartenders and street-corner loafers, instead of writing to the pages of the Kaimin and stirring up some good, healthy campus unrest.

Do you realize that this very minute there is probably some freshman sitting in his room in South hall, seething in righteous rage because Lewandowski won't give him a football to send to little Reuben, his brother? And then again, there is little Molly over in North who wonders why the Administration saw fit to number the courses in the curriculum instead of appropriately naming them "The Little Home-lovers' Special" or "Fun for Idle Hands—Monday and Friday—8 A. M.—Mr. Sparks—U. Oval."

Why Editor, dear, if you had some column that these worthies could address with some hope of getting an answer, we might have a little fun, and we could certainly hash out a few problems that always face the undergraduate world. So put up a box in the entrance of the Student Store and call for a few remarks. Put some mug in charge of the column and let's go!

So what? Having written the above letter to the editor, he has done what I suggested in the last line and here am I with a column. If you don't write something, I'll pretend that you did, and you'll have to read it. (I know you'll read it. All the books at the Student Store are so sort of high-priced, and you have to read something). That's a good idea for a beef, right there. Write and ask if the Profs rewrite their texts each year, and if they get a rake-off. I promise to have an answer ready, in case.

Physiology Class Views Collection

A set of stereoscopic views of human anatomy were recently presented to the class in physiology. The collection was originally in the possession of Norman Barden of the University of Cincinnati Medical school.

The views were presented to the State University by H. A. Davee, superintendent of schools at Plains and former state superintendent of public instruction.

The collection includes views of the thorax, the pelvis, the lower limbs, the central nervous system and the abdomen.

Foresters Hold Annual Fall Hike In Pattee Canyon

Sixty Couples Enjoy Outdoor Sports, Singing and Story Telling During the Evening

The School of Forestry held its annual fall hike Sunday evening in Pattee Canyon, where the school forest is located. It has formerly been held in Marshall gulch but as no other Forestry club occasion takes place at the school forest, it was decided to hold the hike there in the future.

About sixty couples left the Forestry building at 6:30 o'clock. Following custom, tree-climbing, sawing and chopping contests were held. The winners were: tree climbing, 30 foot tree—Earl Welton, Townsend, 59 seconds; sawing, 16-inch log—Forrest Bauer, Polson, and Jack Buckhous, St. Ignace, 31 seconds; chopping, 16-inch log—Howard Keimig, Torrington, Wyo., 11 minutes, 16 seconds.

Singing and story telling were enjoyed later around the campfire where a picnic lunch was served.

The committee in charge of the hike consisted of Edwin Rauna, Eveleth, Minn.; John Fager, and Joe Wagner, Missoula.

Chaperons were Prof. and Mrs. L. W. Cook of the School of Forestry, and Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Severy and Dr. and Mrs. C. L. Hitchcock of the Department of Botany.

HOBLITT GOES TO CHICAGO

Tell me something..

what makes a cigarette taste better

WHAT makes anything taste better? It's what is in it that makes a thing taste better.

CHESTERFIELDS taste better because we buy ripe tobaccos. These ripe tobaccos are aged two and a half years—thirty months. During this time the tobaccos improve—just like wine improves by ageing.

CHESTERFIELDS taste better because they have the right kind of home-grown tobaccos and Turkish Tobaccos "welded together."

We hope this answers your question.
