MONTANA KAIMIN

STATE UNIVERSITY OF MONTANA, MISSOULA, MONTANA

FRIDAY, APRIL 29, 1932

VOLUME XXXI. No. 52

MONTANA USINGS

MISERABLE weather, a not too great enthusiasm, a satisfactory but not entertaining high court all lent themselves to making what was in our opinion a rather disagreeable Aber Day. We thought once that the abolition of this day would be a misfortune. Now we're not so sure. Perhaps the abolition would be a wise thing. Professors complain, to their students at least, of the inconvenience of having the week broken up with the holiday; many students in nice weather never even see the campus; there are expenses attendant upon it that scarcely justify the good accomplished, they say; one of the most entertaining features of the day will be no more; and after all, there is little honor for Mr. Aber when students must be forced to do the work rather than perform it voluntarily.

THERE is scarcely an organization on the campus which does not have difficulty in keeping its treasury supplied with all the needed money. Innumerable methods are tried by these organizations and often found wanting. And again, methods are used which are scarcely up to the ideals and standards upon which the organization was founded; if the group happens to be a national, these means are probably disapproved by the national organization. And yet, year after year, these groups continue to spend a large proportion of their money in sending delegates to conventions which are probably delightful events for the delegate but of little value to the rest of the group. In at least seven out of ten cases the representative brings back nothing which will ever add to his fraternal brothers. Why, then, should all these people devote time and effort to filling the treasury for no good use? Especially, when there are so many needs for money. If, for instance, some of these honorary groups that spend one or two hundred dollars every year or every other year for convention delegates would use the money as a loan fund or gift scholarship for some deserving underclassman, they would probably help their organization much more, to say nothing of the good to the world in general.

VISITING professors we hear of often, but less frequently do we learn of visited professors. Yet such teachers would be one of the truly worthwhile things in a college. What most instructors give in lectures could be obtained from books. The latter method would require more work on the part of the student; it would take a longer time; but it could be accomplished. There is, however, something to be gained from personal contact and conversation with men and women of superior intelligence that cannot be gained from books. And most of them give us little of this "something" in their lectures. Still, the majority of them have too little time to have student visitors. Or, if they have the time they are afraid of being accused of submitting to handshaking. No wonder people query "Are teachers people?"

OUR intelligence is about to be tested, and despite the fact that our own examination may not prove to be such a recommendation for the school, we are still interested in the results. Such tests of course depend for their value somewhat on the attitude of those taking them. But there is no reason why students should not take them seriously and intelligently. If they do, the results will show interesting data on just how far the college of today is succeeding. For after all the purpose of universities should be to give their students a broad knowledge on which to base more knowledge, and the ability to use reason and logic. If the tests are like the samples which have been given out the last week, they will show both these things. Montana, we hope, will compare favorably with other universities, many of them larger and older.

Masquers Offer Showing Of "The Far-Off Hills" As Quarter's Major Play

Lennox Robinson's Play Will Be Given Amateur Premiere By Dramatic Group at Little Theater Tonight; Duncan, Browne And Patterson Are Cast in Leading Roles

Described by critics as being something altogether new, an Irish play written in an entirely humorous vein without a hint of factionalism, "The Far-Off Hills," by Lennox Robinson will be presented by the Montana Masquers tonight and tomorrow night in the Little Theater at 8:15 o'clock. The presentation constitutes something of a premiere for campus audiences, it being the first time the production has ever been attempted by an amateur company.

Anne Platt of the Department of Home Economics who saw the presentation in New York, as given by the Abbey Theater players (Dublin), says of the play: "I thoroughly enjoyed the play, and I think it one of the most delightful comedies I have ever seen. I anticipate comparing our campus production with the play as presented by the Abbey players in New York."

Synopsis

"The far off hills are green." So goes the old proverb. Ducky and Pet, daughters of blind Patrick Clancy, decide that it would be a far better life for them if they could marry their old dad off to Susie Tynan, a jolly spinster, who, they are sure, would make a much better task-mistress than their elder sister Marian, who has dominated the household for ten years.

Marian's life-long ambition has been to enter St. Vincent's convent on the hill, but before she will be able to realize her goal there are the sisters to rear and tutor and educate, the maid must be paid and an expensive operation is necessary to remove the cataract from Patrick's eye.

The girls' plans seem to be nearing consummation, and the marriage is arranged—Susie will take Patrick, cataract and all—when the girls suddenly realize that in close-up the hills aren't so green after all. But the plot is satisfactorily cleared through the medium of Pierce Hegarty, Susie's nephew.

Cast for Play

The complete cast is as follows: Patrick Clancy, David Duncan, Billings; Marian, Betty Browne, Havre; Ducky, Kathryn Smith, Bozeman; Pet, Virginia Cooney, Missoula; Dick Delaney, one of the cronies, Ted Cooney, Canyon Ferry; Oliver O'Shaughnessy, the other crony, Peter Meloy, Townsend; Susie Tynan, Phoebe Patterson, Missoula; Pierce Hegarty, Stanley Trachta, Pendroy; Ellen Nolan, the maid, Betty Kelleher, Butte, and Harold Mahoney, a suitor for Marian's hand, Grant Kelleher, Butte. The play is directed by William Angus.

The admission will be 50 cents for everyone regardless of whether the patrons are students or townpeople.

Earl Eck, who was graduated from the School of Pharmacy in 1930, visited on the campus last week. Eck was on his way to Ogden, Utah, where he will work in a drug store.

Forestry Seniors Leave Tomorrow On Annual Inspection Trip to Coast

Party Will Take Side-Trips to National Parks and Several Colleges And Will Observe Logging Operations in Large Camps

Everything is in readiness and the senior foresters are ready to start on the first lap of their annual spring trip tomorrow morning. Seventeen men are taking this final course in forestry and will have travelled 3,850 miles before they return to Missoula on May 21 to make final preparations for graduation. The complete itinerary is mapped out and many forest product companies and college groups are prepared to welcome them along the way.

On May 13 the party will arrive at San Francisco, the southern terminal of the trip, after having observed logging operations and experimental work in some of the largest lumber plants in the country and after having studied conditions in the Washington, Oregon and California timber regions. They will remain one day in San Francisco before beginning the homeward trip through Red Bluff, Cal.; Bend, Ore.; Walla Walla and Spokane, Wash.

Interesting side-trips will be taken frequently to give the foresters an opportunity to visit national parks and college campuses. The party will travel as one unit most of the time but will be separated three times, the loggers going one way while the grazers take another route in order to enable

Grizzly Battalion Works to Retain Blue-Star Rating

Gonser Returns Favorable Report Following Monday's Review Of R. O. T. C.

Prospects for retaining the blue star of excellence which the Department of Military Science has had since 1929 were brighter after Major A. J. Gonser, Fort Missoula, had finished the inspection of the State University battalion yesterday afternoon.

The inspection started Monday afternoon with the review of all basic students in military science. Wednesday and Thursday were spent in quizzing upper classmen upon the material they have covered in class work this year. Because of unsuitable weather during the early part of the spring quarter, students in basic military science did not receive as much training as in other years. This caused much concern in the department, because the chances of retaining the blue star were reduced considerably.

"The condition of the entire battalion is excellent," said Major Gonser yesterday afternoon after he had finished quizzing the students taking advanced military science.

Actual confirmation as to whether or not the school again will receive the star will depend upon the officers in charge of the Ninth corps area. This report will be given out later.

Nine Schools Enter Essay Competition

Only Graduating Seniors Are Allowed To Enter Contest

Nine Montana schools have entered manuscripts in the Interscholastic Essay contest this year. The essays are written on any subject the student may choose, and must not exceed 2,500 words in length. Only graduating seniors are eligible to participate. The winner will receive a gold medal, expenses to the Interscholastic Track Meet at the State University, and a scholarship to the State University.

Judges for this year's contest are Professors Lucia B. Mirrieles, Rufus A. Coleman and Brassill Fitzgerald, all of the Department of English. The winner will be decided upon April 30, but will not be announced until Inter-scholastic Track week. Crow Agency, the winning school last year, is not entered in this year's contest. The names of the schools entered this year are not yet available.

Turney-High Plans Talk for Tuesday

Dr. Harry Turney-High, chairman of the Department of Economics and Sociology, has asked that his audience signify whether he continue with the series of lectures on anthropology or drop the subject and speak on the living tribes. Dr. Turney-High's lectures are conducted for the benefit of citizens of Missoula.

More than three hundred persons attended the lecture last Tuesday evening in Main hall. It was the third of the series on the subject of anthropology. The next lecture will be held Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in Main hall.

Mountaineers Plan Mission Range Trip

Weekly Volley Ball Game Will Be In Greenough Park

The Mountaineer scouting trip into the Missions, postponed from last Saturday until this Saturday, will start tomorrow morning at 3 o'clock. Those planning on going should call Prof. Edward Little.

Equipment necessary for the trip includes dark glasses, flashlights, skis with harness, ski blocks, strong ski pole and grease paint.

Saturday at 2 o'clock the weekly volleyball game will be held in Greenough park. Sunday morning the May Day sunrise breakfast will be held on Mount Sentinel. Those going will take their own food and a canteen of water. The party will leave the men's gymnasium at 5:30 o'clock. Harriet Linn will be the leader of this group.

President C. H. Clapp will address the monthly meeting Friday, May 6, on "The Making of Montana's Mountains."

Senior Group Will Discuss Class Work

Poor Attendance at First Meeting Necessitates Later Conference To Discuss Business

Because so few seniors have turned out for previous meetings of the class, another meeting has been called for Wednesday, May 4, at 5 o'clock in Main hall. Glenn Lockwood, president of the class, urges all members of the class to attend this meeting, as there is much important business to discuss.

One of the things to be decided is the gift to the State University which will be presented by the class of 1932. The program and stunts for Class Day is another topic of business. There are announcements to be made concerning the Baccalaureate service and the Commencement exercises. The Commencement program is under the supervision of E. A. Atkinson, assistant professor of psychology.

The following committees which have been appointed by the president of the class are urged to meet as soon as possible: Class day committee—Curtis Barnes, chairman; Martin Carstens, Ramona Noll and Bertha Cone. This committee will have charge of the play or stunt presented on Class Day, if it is decided to have one.

Class flag committee—Beth Manis, chairman; Rhea Dobner, Florentine Eno, Ella Pollinger and Catherine Cesar. This committee must report to Helen Gleason, head of the Department of Home Economics, as soon as possible to plan for the class flag.

Reception committee—Hazel Borders, chairman; Charles O'Neil, Edith Mae Baldwin and Eleanor Dyer. This committee receives at dinner, on Class Day, Saturday, June 4. Members of this committee should report to Mrs. Ray Bailey.

Publicity committee—Tom Mooney, chairman; Bill Rohlfis, Bill Dixon, Elbert Covington and Joe Simangan. The members of this committee are requested to report to Mrs. M. B. Swearingen as soon as possible. This committee also has charge of selling tickets for the dinner given on Class Day.

Plan Is Complete For Administering Tests Next Week

Names of Sophomores and Seniors Who Will Take Examination Are Bulletin

Final detailed plans have been made for the comprehensive examination to be held May 3 and 4, and classes will be excused on those two days. Notices giving the lists of students who are to take the examination have been issued by the Registrar's office.

Sophomores and seniors are to be at the men's gymnasium at 8:15 o'clock both mornings, so that the examinations may be finished by noon. All freshman classes will be held as usual as well other classes which have fewer than 25 per cent of their numbers absent because of the tests. Final notices have also gone out to the faculty in regard to making classroom changes, so that as few classes may be dismissed as possible.

Students are requested to bring lead pencils, preferably soft lead, and erasers. Pen and ink will not be used.

The general outline of the examination is as follows:

- May 3—Intelligence test, 30 minutes.
- General cultural test:
  - Part I. Foreign Literature, 60 minutes.
  - Part II. Fine Arts, 50 minutes.
  - Part III. History and Social studies, 70 minutes.
- May 4—General cultural test continued:
  - Part IV. General Science, 60 minutes.
  - English test, two hours.

Students who are qualifying this quarter for teachers' certificates will be required to take the Professional Educational test some time after the comprehensive examination is over.

ABER DAY ELECTION DRAWS LIGHT VOTE FROM STUDENT BODY

Peter Meloy, Curtis Barnes Are Candidates for President of A. S. U. M.; Marjorie Mumm Is Not Opposed for Vice Presidency; General Election Will Be Next Thursday

Despite a lighter than usual vote in primaries, a lively interest was shown in the balloting for A. S. U. M. and class officers Aber Day, and many of the offices were closely contested. General elections will be held Thursday, May 5, it was announced by Bob Hendon, president of A. S. U. M., yesterday.

In every instance where a blank was provided to give voters an opportunity to nominate a student for an office for which there was only one petitioning candidate, names were written in, though in a number of cases less than the required ten votes were cast.

Peter Meloy, Townsend, and Curtis Barnes, Lewistown, will appear on the final ballot as rivals for the position of A. S. U. M. president. Though Barnes' name was not entered in the primaries he received 150 votes, thus making him eligible to run in the finals. Marjorie Mumm, Missoula, is still unopposed for the position of vice president of A. S. U. M. Catherine Coughlin, Butte, received four votes, and Grace Johnson, Harlowton, two, but according to the A. S. U. M. election rules, 10 or more votes must be cast for a candidate in order to be eligible to run.

Other A. S. U. M. Offices
Virginia Connolly, Billings, 153 votes, and Olive Midgett, Bridger, 168 votes, will be opponents for the position of A. S. U. M. secretary, defeating Sarah Lou Cooney, Helena, 138 votes, and Maxine Davis, Oilmont, 144 votes. Frank McCarthy, Anaconda, with 375 votes, and Jack White, Missoula, 123 votes, will vie for the position of business manager. Marion McCarthy, Wilkingsburg, Pa., 99 votes, was eliminated in the primaries.

Owen Loftsgaarden, Big Timber, and Oskar Limpus, Winifred, are unopposed for two-year positions on the board of directors of the Associated Students' store. Wesley Scott, Plains, will run against James Stonelle, Kalspell, for a one-year term on the board.

Class of 1933
Ted Cooney, Canyon Ferry, will run against Dale Hinman, Greybull, Wyo., for president. No primaries were held for this office as only two candidates were running. For vice president, Phyllis Lehmann, Cut Bank, is still unopposed. Three votes were cast for Catherine Coughlin, Butte, and two for Adelaide Stillings, Missoula. Kathleen Dunn, Deer Lodge, is also unopposed for the place of secretary. Not sufficient votes were cast for any one person to run against her in the finals.

Kathryn Coe, Dixon, and Fred Benson, American Falls, Ida., are contestants for the position of treasurer. No primaries were held for this office. For the position of Central Board delegate Michael Kennedy, Belt, received 70 votes and Leland Story, Winnett, 27 votes.

Gordon Rognlien, '30, is president of the Kalspell alumni association; William G. Kelly, '30, is vice president of the group and Maurice Driscoll, ex-'28, is secretary.

At noon, Dr. Clapp will be a guest at the Rotary club luncheon, where he will talk on "Rotary and World Problems." In the evening, he will address the alumni organization and discuss the plans for the Reunion which will be held June 4, 5 and 6.

Track Meet Entries Become More Numerous as Deadline Approaches

Fourteen Schools Are Now Entered; Chamber of Commerce Committee Begins Drive for Funds

Five entries were received yesterday for the Twenty-ninth Annual Interscholastic Track and Field Meet by Dr. J. P. Rowe. This is the largest number that has been received in one day as yet, although entries will be numerous tomorrow and Monday, with Tuesday as the closing day on which entries may be made. There are now 14 schools entered for this year's meet.

Schools entered are: Lincoln county Broadus, Ennis, Florence-Carleton, Sweet Grass county, Winnett, Culbertson, Sumatra, Hobson, Columbus, Stanford, Thompson Falls, Flathead county and Clyde Park. This is only three behind the number entered last year at this time, indicating that this year's attendance will be on a par with that of previous years.

New Entries

Winnett has entered a declaimer and an athlete, as has Culbertson. Sumatra has a declaimer and Stanford has one athlete. Columbus will send two athletes and Thompson Falls, seven. Clyde Park's delegation will consist of six athletes and a declaimer. Hobson will send six athletes and a debate team. Twenty athletes, the largest number from one school to date, have been entered by Flathead county high school at Kalspell. This school is also entering a declaimer. The Chamber of Commerce committee drive for financial support of the meet will begin Monday when letters will be sent out to nearly seven hundred Missoula business men. The financial cost of the meet is $5,000, the majority of which must come from Missoula people. Last year a deficit of $700 was incurred and unless the undertaking is successful this year, the meet will have to be abandoned.

Many Visitors

It is estimated that the contestants, chaperons, principals, coaches and visitors who attend the meet total 2,000. At least $25,000 is spent in Missoula during the week by these out-of-town guests.

W. C. Lubrecht, Roger Fleming and Alec Peterson are the Chamber of Commerce committee members in charge of the drive.

Owen Barnes, Anaconda, is spending the week-end with his parents.

THE UDDLE

Aber Day is over.

But spring quarter runs its warm-blooded pleasant way just the same.

Now it's Track Meet that we look forward to, children, and hope that it may be as enjoyable as others in the faintly dimming past have been.

—And that the high school girls this year are as good looking (and naive) as others before them (have been).

They will be, Unk hastens to prophesy.

GRATITUDE

Unheralded, unsuspectingly, fortunately there came

A teacher of students Keen, sincere, whose very name We honor at Montana, boastfully, honestly,

With an undergraduate's unsuspecting love, And make clean the campus once a year.

Thanking God above For such a wholesome tradition, And such a man as Daddy Aber, Who through great appreciation Taught us to appreciate more A campus clean, The verdant sheen of lawn and tree: A thrilling spot for you and me To matriculate For four short years!

A smudge face, a sweaty brow, a muscle ache, A blister won on that day is, Unknowingly, A tribute to the man who taught us That a campus clean is fine: A pleasure classes to attend, A place to bring a loved friend And boast of Grizzly might—

Strong-hearted, undying Grizzly-fight; Of battles fought And victories won, Attainments lost, unpleasant days (Which are seldom), And thrilling days of love, and fun.

Yes, Daddy Aber, we thank you, sincerely, For the idea you taught us, through your diligence, For the thrill you brought us Through our intelligence In following up your ideas And fathoming A tradition

That makes of Montana, at any rate, A more thrilling place to matriculate! And for that tradition—Aber Day: A glorious day of work and play, We thank you, Daddy Aber, Ostentatiously.

And, since thanking seems to be in line, let Unk give his appreciation of the sensitive contributor who sent us this:

I think that I shall never lay low The lovely mark of "A";

An "A" that never gets disease From keeping company with "E's."

An "A" that shouts that I am wise And so, it pays to advertise.

An "A" that irons out all my ills And gladdens Pa, who pays the bills.

I, fool, will get my "E" today For only grinds can make an "A."

Your little Niece, Pruney the Steward.

And, children, speaking of making "A's" brings thoughts to Unk of making other things. For instance—

A picnic victim, weary, forlorn, Came dragging into North Hall dorm

A maiden fair Whose reddish hair Was straggled.

Both seemed at first To have quenched a thirst

Or come from some distant shore. I guess travellers they were

For above my snore I heard a lad, crossing the floor, Say, "Jamaica!"

Press Club Hears Hampton K. Snell

Prof. Hampton K. Snell of the Department of Economics related his experiences as a journalist to members of Press club at its regular meeting Wednesday evening.

In the Comedy Sensation
"THE UNEXPECTED FATHER"

One of the most subtle suggestions handed to the administration of the State University was delivered Aber Day in the proclamation issued by the members of high court. But why should they be blamed entirely for doing away with our traditions when so little has been done by us to preserve them? During the past school year we have seen the traditions of our campus given a healthy slap in the face, but being inanimate, they have been unable to strike back. It is up to us to do that. In the years which have preceded us, hundreds of students have submitted to and the majority have approved of these traditions.

As is always the case on every campus, there is a small group of dissenters who find fault with everything that is done, and it is these students who are the most conscientious objectors to the continuance of harmless practices which have been so long a part of student life at this institution. And isn't it because they can attract attention to themselves in no other way that they have assumed this attitude? Much good can be done by such a group which has some tangible foundation upon which to base its belief, but more often lacking a proper foundation, a greater amount of harm is done. "Idle minds create idle thoughts" and it is usually the students having an excess of spare time who become the leaders of such groups. Their only interest in campus affairs is in finding fault with them. Instead of trying to co-operate and help revive our supposedly dying school spirit, they are content to sit back and criticize.

Is it any wonder that our traditions have died out? For the perpetuation of any idea or custom, it is necessary for those concerned to interest themselves slightly, at least. We have only ourselves to blame for our lost traditions.

"Students who get on probation should be flunked out—then we wouldn't be bothered with them and rules wouldn't be necessary." This is the way in which the communicant who answered the editorial written on probation summed up his answer. This places in the same class all students on probation and disregards entirely the circumstances surrounding each case. No two students have exactly the same environment even if they are living in the same surroundings. Consequently, no two students received "yellow slips" for identically the same reasons.

The communicant goes on to state that "those on probation are usually of an inferior mental capacity." Saying that probationers are usually of an inferior mental type is again putting all of them into one class regardless of circumstances. We are of the opinion that if the communicant had looked into the matter of the freshmen probationers he would find that too often the student had never been away from home before and the result was what might be expected. They are unused to a large school and confused by suddenly being forced to attend classes in which only the instructor talked. Constant worrying along such lines inevitably brings the feared delinquent slips. These facts do not apply only to freshmen—every student is subject to them.

A third charge states that "most dormitory upperclassmen on probation are women who have transferred from other schools and who have never made enough grade points to keep even with the board." We wish to state our knowledge of a case along these lines which came to our attention some time ago. A student transferred here from another school. It happened to be a small college—a student body of approximately two hundred students. To be suddenly transported into the midst of a State University with a population of almost fourteen hundred was enough to bewilder anyone let alone a student who didn't know a soul with the exception of his own room-mate. Forced to take numerous notes where before he had had to take very few resulted in the student's being unable to adjust himself to the new life for almost a full quarter. The student received two delinquent slips that quarter. Since then he has become adjusted, his grades are above average and he is throwing himself into the school life and getting something out of it. Do we prove our point? This is only one case of several hundred that are probably occurring with each influx of new students.

It is unfortunate that rules, being compulsory measures, do not always bring results and sometimes tend to aggravate the situation they are meant to improve. The final test lies with the probationer himself. If he wants to graduate and has good stuff in him he will make the grade, regardless of "yellow slips," probation record or rules.

Tomorrow morning the members of the senior class of the School of Forestry, accompanied by three faculty members and one Journalism student, will leave for the coast on the annual spring field trip.

It will be the third annual expedition of this kind. It has grown from a week's trip in the Flathead-Glacier park country to a tour which, before its conclusion, will cover nearly four thousand miles. Practical application of modern, efficient methods in both fields of forestry—logging engineering and range management—is the greatest benefit of the trip. Students may see in the field, the application of the theories and principles about which they have studied for four years.

The experiment of the annual trip—although it hardly can be called such any more—has proven itself. Dean Spaulding and his associates, believing such an innovation to be many times more valuable than the last few classroom days of the spring quarter, began modestly the first year. Little more than a week was spent in the park district. Last year the trip was much more comprehensive, taking in Idaho, Washington, Oregon and northern California. For the next three weeks the men will take approximately the same trip as last year, and in addition will go farther into California, one section of the party going as far as San Francisco.

The policy of the field trip in all branches of study is fast proving itself. For the School of Forestry's effort in pioneering this field, its leaders are to be congratulated. It is but another argument for the caliber of our School of Forestry, another of many points which makes it one of the country's best.

Montana's Hopes Dwindle As Lockwood and Burke Are Declared Ineligible

Fourteen Contestants and Manager Leave This Afternoon for Spokane; Stewart Predicts Third Place for Grizzlies In Annual Triangular Meet

Glenn Lockwood, holder of the state intercollegiate javelin record, and Bill Burke, pole-vaulting ace, were declared ineligible yesterday for the triangular meet at Spokane tomorrow afternoon. Possibly as the result of this announcement, Coach J. W. Stewart garbed Montana's chances in the meet with Idaho and Washington State in a pall of black and blue.

"We'll probably get 10 or 12 points," he said dolefully. "Washington State should win the meet with about fifty or more points, Idaho will get second and that will leave us the vacant position."

Personnel of Team

Stewart announced that 14 men and a manager would go to Spokane, leaving this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The team will return Sunday. The men making the trip, and their events: Hills and Robertson, sprints; Caven, hurdles; Cox, Reynolds and Murray, shot; Covington, J. White, quarter-mile; Flint, broadjump; Robertson, high jump; Hawke and Reynolds, javelin; Cox, Peterson, Murray, discus; Watson, mile; Steensland, two mile; R. White, half-mile; Neff, manager, will accompany the squad.

It is possible that Bob White may run the quarter-mile as well as the half and Clarence Watson be placed in the two-mile run in an effort to gain points, Stewart hinted.

This two-race arrangement would make it tough for both Montana men. Watson would meet Thomas of Idaho and Wills, a 4:20 miler, at his best and then another Cougar, Crosetti, a fast two-miler. White would face Jossis, the Vandal who nosed out Covington here last year in the quarter, and Captain Angus Clark of W.S.C. in the half-mile. Porter Lainhart will be out for a first place in the broad jump with Al Flint probably the strongest opposition for the Cougar.

Opposition Heavy

Karl Schladerman will also have a couple of his first-place contenders. Theodoratus, 19 years old, husky and athletic, threw the shot 50 feet 4 1/2 inches last year. Swift is a 9.5 seconds sprinter. Homer Hein consistently threw the javelin more than 200 feet last year. Jo-Jo Martin is reported to have done 25 feet in the broad jump.

Washington State is conceded to be more powerful than the Vandals. Despite the fact that the Vandals lost Bill McCoy, point-getting ace, this quarter, railbirds rate them about as strong as they were last year.

The Spokane Chamber of Commerce, which is sponsoring the meet, will pay most of the expenses of the schools. For this reason the schools have been

Diversified Program Is Planned for Club

At a Music club meeting to be held Tuesday night in Dean DeLoss Smith's studio in Main hall, the brass quartette recently organized by Roy L. Freeburg, director of the band, will offer several numbers.

Ida Cosner, formerly a student in the School of Music, will address the meeting on the subject of "Music of the Sixteenth and Seventeenth Centuries." The quartette will play "Luther's Hymn," which represents graphically, according to Mr. Freeburg, the choral type of singing of the same period.

Mr. Freeburg's class in sight singing also will offer numbers by John Dowland and Thomas Ford, two composers of the Sixteenth and Seventeenth centuries.

Betty Brady left today for Butte where she will spend the week-end.

Foresters' Frolic

Annual Spring Picnic of Club Has Large Attendance, Music and Variety of Contests

The forester's annual spring picnic was a huge success. It still is, in fact. The picnic was held last Sunday afternoon but whenever the Foresters get together they still discuss it. One point on which they agree is that there was a large crowd. And it was every man for himself.

Busses, cars, horses and the good old "shanks mare" transported the picnickers to the scene of festivities where races, horseshoe pitching, log-rolling and baseball games amused them until the tug-of-war between the engineers and grazers pulled their heart strings. The result of the latter contest is still being disputed, and officials are considering turning it into a debate. The "skim milkers" pulled the "sheepherders" across the line, but the losers cried, "Foul!"

Fay Clark, hard-hearted forestry prof, sang sentimental songs to the group, while accompanying himself on the guitar, or something, at the campfire. The crowd gathered around the massive blazing pyre, and the spirit of Paul Bunyan was awakened as each forester vied with the other in trying to outdo Ananias.

In due time all the food was consumed and darkness making the more strenuous sports impossible, the party returned. This time everyone rode.

Esther Lentz, Missoula, received 63 votes, and Bill Hawke, Butte, 45 votes, eliminating Olga Wik, Kalispell, 39 votes, and Margaret Sullivan, Hardin, 10 votes, for secretary. ## Co-eds Plan To Entertain At Play Day

W. A. A. Sponsors Sports Tourney For High School Girls Next Week

The Women's Athletic association of the State University is sponsoring the third annual Play Day for high school girls to be held here May 7.

"Play Days are becoming very popular all over the country and we believe that this is a good substitute for the state track meet which the boys have," said Mrs. Harriet Wood, chairman of the Women's Department of Physical Education, yesterday.

The Program
The Play Day as planned will include registration, arrangement of group meet teams, games and participation in basketball, baseball, tennis and horseshoe pitching, during the morning.

At noon a free luncheon will be served by the members of the Women's Athletic association to the visiting guests. Each school has been requested to prepare a 10-minute stunt. These stunts will be presented immediately after lunch.

A half-hour period of relaxation and dancing will follow the stunts, after which the girls will compete in tennis, horseshoe pitching, track and volley ball. The swimming pool will be open for water events between 4 and 5 o'clock. Announcement of the winners will be made at 5 o'clock.

Winners of team competition will gain five points according to the scoring system to be employed. Individual sports will be awarded one point. Track scores are to be figured according to the point system, the group making the greatest number of points in track receiving 10 points, the next nine and so on.

Those Invited

Invitations to attend the Play Day have been sent to the following teachers and principals: Rosamond Peterson, girls basketball coach at Florence-Carlton; Catherine Ulmer, girls basketball coach at Corvallis; Elinor Edwards, girls basketball coach at Stevensville; Maud Carland, instructor of physical education at Missoula county high school; O. C. Ormsby, principal of the Hamilton high school; Helen Solberg, girls basketball coach at Darby; Marjorie Richardson, instructor of physical education at Deer Lodge; M. L. Roark, principal of Phillipsburg high school; girls basketball coaches from Victor, Alberton and St. Ignace; and the Principal of the Sacred Heart academy of Missoula, the principal of the Drummond high school, the principal of the high school at Roman, the principal of the St. Regis high school and J. E. Williams, the principal of the Polson high school.

Dude Rancher Makes Appeal To Hawaiians to Desert Their Own Walkiki

Montanans spend their winters riding the surf in sunny Hawaii and Montana is attracting natives of Honolulu to spend their vacations here where "vacations are different."

J. E. Bower, owner of the Seven-Up ranch at Lincoln, Mont., apparently believes that "it pays to advertise." Appearing in a recent issue of the Honolulu Star-Bulletin was the two-column advertisement, calling Honolulu vacationists to Montana to shake off that "shut-in-feeling" in the broad open spaces of the Blackfoot valley.

Nat McKown, now of Honolulu and a cousin of Bower, is telling other Honolulu residents of the vacation lure in the wilderness country of the Lewis and Clark, the Missoula and the Flathead national forests. McKown is a graduate of the State University School of Journalism.

High School Debate Preliminaries Begin

Polson Defeats Kalispell; Hobson Wins Decision Over Conrad

Preliminary debates are being held in the four sections of Montana to determine what schools shall be eligible to enter the final debate contest here during Interscholastic Track Meet week.

Polson defeated Kalispell in the western section and will argue against a Butte team here May 10 to determine who shall enter the final contest. Whitehall, state champion in 1931, will not compete in this year's finals.

The winner of the Bozeman-Laurel debate will represent the southern section. Conrad suffered defeat at the hands of Hobson, who will defend the northern section. Richey, the winner in the eastern section in 1931, has a strong team this year, and is expected to make a good showing in the preliminary contest. The question for this year's debate is: Resolved, that the several states should enact legislation providing for compulsory unemployment insurance. All of the schools debate on the same question.
